But Dan Bolduc moved ahead of the Bears with their fifth consecutive victory and the second Robinsonite shutout in that string.

Dubuisson, who turned aside 32 shots, was particularly outstanding midway through the first period when the Bears had a one-man advantage for 1:16 minutes and early in the third period when Hershey had back-to-back power-play opportunities.

In other games, Nova Scotia Voyageurs defeated New Haven Nighthawks 5-2, Providence Reds downed Baltimore Clippers 7-3 and Rochester Americans beat Springfield Indians 6-4.

In two games Saturday night, Hershey edged Baltimore 4-3 and Nova Scotia downed Springfield 3-1.

At Richmond, defenseman Pete Scamurra scored the winning goal at the 6:10 mark of the opening period when he beat goalie Gerry Scanlon with a drive from just inside the blue line.

Richmond got its other goals from Andre Hinse, Dave Kelly and Larry Wright.

Richard Lemieux scored two goals to down the Clippers 3-2.

The game was tied three times before Lewis collected a pass from Rene-mate Greg Fox at the blue line, wheeled around player-coach Kent Douglas and backed a five-foot shot past goaltender Dave Hainsworth.

The Americans exploded for five goals in the first period including two 12 seconds apart by Dave Hynes to defeat the visiting Indians.

Dave power-play goals and Ken Hamelin added two goals as Nova Scotia overpowered the visiting Nighthawks.

Mike Polich, Ron Andruff and Pierre Maude scored one goal each for Nova Scotia, who outshot the Nighthawks 34-20.

Bill Lochead scored two goals and Brian McCutcheon rounded out the New Haven scoring.

The Voyageurs were behind 3-2 after the first period but came back with three unanswered goals in the second period.

Ron Andruff scored the overtime winner mid-way through the second period after he took a pass from Don Hawes and fired from the side of the net.

At Providence, Dale Lewis scored a first for a short handed shot at 12:04 of the third period and the Reds went

Gerow Gives Comets 4-4 Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rick Gerow's goal at 8:38 of the third period gave Napanee Comets a 4-4 tie with Aurora Tanners in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Sunday.

The two clubs played a scoreless 10-minute overtime period.

In the only other weekend game, Barrie Flyers edged Cambridge Hornets 4-3 Saturday.

Gerow's tying goal was his second score of Sunday's contest. Charlie Chivers and Brian Coughlin added the other Napanee goals.

Bob Taylor, Bob Rivard, Paul Grilli and George Duval scored for the Tanners who were assisted by Ron Ellis.

Napanee jumped into a 3-0 first-period lead but the visitors came back with three unanswered goals to tie the contest going into the final 20 minutes of play.

League play resumes tonight with Whitby at Lindsay.

Bob Baird's goal in sudden death overtime gave Barrie the victory.

Baird also got two assists. Tony Arcadi added a pair of goals for the Flyers and Steve Sly, Kerry O'Donahue and Gary Lepa had one each.

Richard Gee scored two Thunder Bay Arrows added a pair of goals for the Flyers and Steve Sly, Kerry O'Donahue and Gary Lepa had one each.

Four Straight Wins For Moscow Selects

WINNIPEG (CP) — Moscow Selects chalked up their fourth straight victory of their Canadian tour Sunday night by stopping a 3-1 decision over a junior all-star team of Manitoba, Ontario and several Western Canadian Hockey League players.

The Juniors' hope the Soviets limited to a 1-0 first-period lead, but the Selects widened the gap to 4-1 in the second frame.

Vladimir Popov led the winners with three goals, one on a power play and another when his team was shorthanded. Vladislav Popov got two for the Soviets' and singles were added by Sergei Kotov and Zinetula Bilyaletdinov.

The only Canadian goal was scored by Darryl Furser of Kamloops Chiefs early in the third period.

The win left the Selects undefeated so far on their Canadian tour, which will include a game against various National Hockey League teams.

Bears Frustrated by Goalie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goalie Michel Dubuisson recorded the longest American Hockey League winning streak of the season Sunday night.

Richmond Robins, behind Dubuisson's brilliant shut-out goaltending, blanked Hershey 4-0 to sweep an eight-game winning streak which had pulled the Bears into a first-place tie with Richmond in the Southern Division standings.

But Dan Bolduc moved ahead of the Bears with their fifth consecutive victory and the second Robinsonite shutout in that string.

WINS OPENING RACE

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Henri Duvillard of France took advantage of Rick Kashiwa's only mistake of the day Sunday to win pro skiing's opening race. Kashiwa, 26, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Duvillard met head-to-head in the final run of the $14,000 giant slalom, but Kashiwa caught a rock with his ski as he neared the first of 56 gates and fell. In the 1,900-foot run, Duvillard ran behind Kashiwa in the first run, which Kashiwa won by just one-half second. But he beat Kashiwa by 2.5 seconds in the second run.

WINS $125,000

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jane Blalock, 31, sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a three-way sudden death playoff Sunday to win the $125,000 first prize in the $350,000 Triple Crown women's golf tournament at Mission Hills Country Club. Miss Blalock had finished the regulation 36 holes with a two-under-par 142 and a tie with Amanda Carner and Judy Rankin. Mrs. Carner, the first-round leader with a two-under par 70 over the 6,513-yard course, and Mrs. Rankin each won $4,750. JoAnn Washam took third place and $3,600 with a 143 total.

Shaver and Ostapchuk Falls Are Cushioned

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Ron Shaver and Kathy Ostapchuk both had problems with their freeskating programs Saturday night but none of their competitors could wrest the judges' title away from them on the final day of the Central Canada Figure Skating Championships.

Shaver of Cambridge and Ostapchuk of Mississauga, Ont., both had enough cushion going into the five-minute freeskating programs to afford a fall—as long as one of their competitors did not sweep the top votes from all five judges.

As it turned out, despite their falls, both Shaver and Ostapchuk turned in routines that impressed the judges enough to score them top marks.

Shaver won the men's singles title with 182.80 points and the maximum five ordinals. Kevin Hicks of Windsor was second and Leo Armstrong of Chatham, third.

Ostapchuk finished atop the women's section with 94.86 points, and six ordinals with Julie Bowerman of Woodstock second and Shelly Simonton of Chatham third.

There was no competition in the senior pairs or dance events.

Roy Priestnall of Cambridge and Carolyn Slocum of Windsor won the junior singles gold medals. The novice single titles went to Patrice Black of London and Kevin Parker of Campbellville, Ont.

Janice Rikkaby and Michael De La Pennelere, both of Preston, Ont., won the junior dance event while Lynn Regis and Mark Ingram of Preston captured the junior pairs.

Heather Trainer and Murray Carer of Winnipeg won the novice dance while Jenis Frazee and Paul Mills gave the Preston Figure Skating Club yet another gold medal in the novice pairs. The four top finishers in each of the events is eligible to compete in the Canadian championships next month in London.

English Soccer Crush Is On

LONDON (Reuter) — England's soccer season has reached the halfway point with all signs pointing to a photo-finish next April.

Queen's Park Rangers lead Liverpool, Manchester United and reigning champion Derby County only on goal average after Saturday's games.

Two points behind the leaders are Leeds United and West Ham United. Each has played one game less than the top teams.

Leeds and West Ham missed a chance to close in on the leaders when the Rangers and Derby tied 1-1.

Leeds lost 2-1 at Ipswich and West Ham lost 3-0 at Burnley, a team near the bottom of the First Division standings.

Queen's Park striker Phil Neat, 17, came on as a substitute and headed his team into the lead against Derby. But Bruce Black, a Scottish national, scored for Derby five minutes from the end.

Manchester United and Liverpool scored four goals each in identical every-other-home.

Stuart Pearson scored twice as Manchester United won 4-1 over Sheffield United, a loser 17 times in 22 matches.

Liverpool won 4-0 over Tottenham on goals by Kevin Keegan, Steve Heighway, Defender Phil Neal and Jimmy Case.

Ali Stoke, veteran English national Peter Storey of Arsenal was ordered off near the end for fighting.

Arsenal skipper Alan Ball and Stoke's John Mahoney started the fracas and Storey joined in.

Veteran player-manager Johnny Giles of visiting West Bromwich was ordered off during a Second Division game won 3-1 by Luton.

Sunderland remained atop the Second Division by beating Orient 3-0, while second-place Bolton, which trails by two points, edged Fulham 3-1.

Scarborough was the only giant-killer to survive the second round of FA Cup play, beating Preston of the Third Division 2-1.

Hibernian moved into a first-place tie in Scotland's tight Premier Division race. Hibernian edged Motherwell 1-0 while Celtic lost 3-0 by Aberdeen.

Warriors Rebound To Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Golden State guard Phil Smith scored 28 points Sunday night but it was the rebounding of centre George Johnson that keyed the Warriors' 109-104 Kansas City Kings 116-108 in a National Basketball Association game.

Johnson pulled down 19 rebounds in the last quarter as the Warriors pulled away from the Kings, breaking away from a one-point lead with six minutes to play and scoring eight successive points to secure the victory.

In Sunday's other games, Boston Celtics defeated New Orleans Jazz 103-85, Los Angeles Lakers defeated Detroit Pistons 130-105, Phoenix Suns defeated Portland Trail Blazers 126-96 and Seattle SuperSonics downed Philadelphia 76ers 114-105.

In Saturday's games, New York Knicks downed Washington Bullets 126-107, Atlanta Hawks stopped Kansas City 115-101, Cleveland Cavaliers dropped New Orleans 112-98, Boston topped Houston Rockets 127-124, Buffalo Braves edged Chicago Bulls 103-101, Phoenix dropped Los Angeles 118-108 and Portland trimmed Detroit 101-95.

In Sunday's only American Basketball Association contest, New York Nets defeated Indiana Pacers, 98-91.

In Saturday's games, San Antonio Spurs whipped Kentucky Colonels 13-108 and Indiana defeated the Spirits of St. Louis 132-121.

"Boston started playing a possessive defence in the third quarter, and this became their offence," New Orleans coach Bill van Breda Kolff moaned. "They took control of the game at that point."

Charlie Scott, with 35 points, 19 coming in the second half—as Boston romped to its sixth successive victory and the Jazz, which fell 6-16 at the half, lost its sixth in a row.

A 21-point production by guard Fred Brown led Seattle over Philadelphia. The 76ers' lost guard Doug Collins, who scored 21 points, midway through the fourth quarter with a sprained ankle.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 27 points and grabbed a career high 24 rebounds to lead Los Angeles past Detroit. Gail Goodrich and Lucius Allen added 25 and 23 points, respectively, for the Lakers.

Rookie Alvan Adams led Phoenix to victory over Portland with 30 points while Portland's Lloyd Neal took game scoring honors with 34.

Senate Moves to Block U.S. Intervention in Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is manoeuvring to end United States intervention in Angola with some members voicing fears that the newly independent African nation might become another Vietnam.

The Senate foreign relations subcommittee on foreign assistance may vote today on a resolution by Senator Dick Clark (Dem. Iowa) that would cut off U.S. funds for military or paramilitary operations in Angola.

Senator Alan Cranston (Dem. Calif.) said on Monday he will ask the Senate, after it holds a correct revision Wednesday, to bar use of any funds in the $112.2-billion defence-appropriation bill for anything except intelligence-gathering in Angola.

The two moves resulted from published reports that the CIA has committed up to $50 million for the military support of two factions fighting Soviet-backed forces in Angola.

"It is shades of Vietnam all over again," Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) said in Senate debate Monday, one Wednesday's secret Senate session will be held to consider the compromise defence-appropriation bill which includes an undisclosed amount of money for the CIA. The move to hold a closed-door session blocks many amendments to the bill until senators determine whether funds in the bill can be used in Angola.

The appropriations bill was passed by the House of Representatives last Friday.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) of the Senate appropriations committee said he could get it open session say whether any money in the bill might be used for military aid in Angola.

The defence bill normally contains funds in undisclosed accounts for the activities of the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

Tunney said he and other co-sponsors of the Angola aid-ban amendment suspect that $35 million in the bill is intended for use in Angola, although McClellan told the Senate there is no money in the bill specifically for Angola.

Tunney said that unless other senators are given the facts in secret session they might be voting for funds that would be used for purposes they oppose.

Church said that, despite the civil war in Angola, the determination for independence is so strong that "whichever side wins it will be Angolan, not Russian or American."

"We don't belong in Angola."

Jobless Premiums Jump 71 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Maximum unemployment insurance premiums deducted from employes' paycheques will climb to $4.20 weekly from the present $2.49 Jan. 1, Manpower Minister Robert Andras indicated Monday.

Mr. Andras said in an interview premium rate for workers likely will be $1.68 a week for each $100 of insurable earnings. Insurable earnings in 1976 will be $265 weekly.

In 1975, the premium rate is $200 weekly.

For employers, the maximum premium payment will be about $4.62 weekly, up from the $2.49 in 1975. The premium rate for employers is rising to $2.31 a week from the present $1.38, Mr. Andras said.

The tiprates have not been officially released but are "pretty damn close," he said.

Maximum unemployment insurance benefit in 1976, will be $123 a week, up from $104 a week in 1975.

Mr. Andras revealed the figures to the Commons began consideration of 25 omnibus amendments to a controversial bill overhauling the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The legislation is a priority item for the government this week because the increased premiums deductions are effective Jan. 1. The government hopes to adjourn Parliament Friday for the Christmas break.

Provisions of persons 65 and over from the unemployment insurance program and reduce the special benefit rate for claimants with "dependents" drew most fire from MPs Monday.

Spokesmen from all four parties in the Commons attacked changes that would prevent those aged from making premium payments and collecting benefits.

Mr. Andras has said the change would save the government about $120 million in 1976 at an unemployment rate of seven per cent.

Both Progressive Conservatives and New Democrats submitted amendments to drop the clause under the jurisdiction of the program. Votes on the amendments will be held later this week.

Court Says CRTC In Wrong

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission acted without authority in ordering the disposal of cable television interests held by Bushnell Communications Ltd. of Ottawa, the Federal Court of Appeal said Monday.

Opposition MPs called the government cruel, callous and Scrooge-like for the proposal to drop the aged from the plan.

Andy Hogan (NDP-Cape Breton-East Richmond) said he found it hard to believe the government was picking on the aged. Half of the people over 65 are living in poverty.

"It's shameful and scandalous. It's a Scrooge-like policy."

The opposition also criticized the government for proposing to reduce the special benefits paid to claimants with dependents to 66 2-3 per cent of earnings from the present 75 per cent.

The government was trying to fight its inflation program on the backs of the poor, Mr. Alexander said.

Daryl Grukow (NDP—Winnipeg North) said the higher benefits for claimants with dependents were introduced in 1971 as a way of cutting down on the number of unemployed asking for welfare in addition to claiming jobless benefits.

What is taken away from the unemployed will have to be paid out in increased welfare payments, he said.

Trudeau Criticizes Retiring Ambassador

OTTAWA (CP) — Departing U.S. ambassador William Porter was rebuked by Prime Minister Trudeau for his "not normal offensive remarks and the unfriendly attitude" he later apparently snubbed by cabinet ministers he invited to a farewell reception.

The rift was caused by a weekend social function at which the ambassador apparently told invited journalists that Canadian policy decisions such as restrictions on U.S. investment in Canada—have discouraged investment, if not hostility.

In the U.S. Congress and media, Mr. Trudeau told a Sunday Commons Monday afternoon that the ambassador went beyond the acceptable bounds of diplomatic conduct. He was not greeted cordially.

"I am sure the American government would agree on this," he said during a question period dominated by the incident.

Even so, John Trattner of the state department said in Washington that the department had prior knowledge of what Mr. Porter was going to say, another U.S. official said earlier the ambassador "had his facts right" in referring to U.S. resentment.

Several invited cabinet ministers later passed up an evening reception at the sprawling ambassadorial residence in Ottawa's Rockcliffe Village.

Council To Petition OMB Over Exemptions

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council officially decided Monday night to petition the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) over tax exemptions for hospitals.

The issue stems from a prolonged argument between city hall and Belleville General Hospital officials over payment for garbage and sewage services.

BGH administrators adamantly refused to pay the bill in the past year. City officials were just as determined to collect applicable taxes.

Involved was an annual total of about $20,000 which city council finally waived a month ago.

BGH had Canada's Supreme Court on its side. The court ruled in favor of such exemptions for hospitals.

Council now has approved two resolutions to the OMB asking for amendments to the Municipal Act so such charges can be made against hospitals.

The resolutions also are being forwarded to the Association of Municipalities of Ontario for "further action."

Santa's Workshop

Tom Maracle of William R. Kirk School played Santa Claus in the school's annual Christmas pageant. About 300 persons turned out for the performance. About 100 students at the school spent three weeks rehearsing for the show. This year's theme was: A Charlie Brown Christmas.

Ottawa To Cut Spending

OTTAWA (CP) — Announcement of promised economies in government spending programs for next year has been put off until Thursday night, when the government also will publish detailed explanations governing the federal program of selective pay and price controls.

Jean Chrétien, president of the treasury board, gave the limited plans Monday. Government officials had said last week the spending announcement was expected today and the controls regulations Thursday night.

Cabinet ministers are reported to be considering plans to trim spending on such programs as student summer employment, winter jobs under the Local Initiatives Program and annual increments in family allowance built-in to keep pace with inflation.

Carlos Promises Broad Civil Rights

MADRID (Reuter) — The government of King Juan Carlos has taken its first step toward bringing post-Franco Spain into line with Western Europe.

In its first policy statement, the government promised Monday night to broaden civil rights—especially freedom of assembly—and reform legislation such as the Cortes parliament.

The statement, issued after a cabinet meeting, said the government will allow "responsible criticism"—indicating a relaxation of press censorship—and work for closer ties with the European Common Market.

The government also said it will give greater autonomy to regional minorities, a reference to the opposition to central rule by the Basque and Catalan provinces.

Widely heralded in the Spanish press as a reforming government, the new team picked by Premier Carlos Arias Navarro announced its intention to make Spain a "political and public system uniform with that of Western community."

During Francisco Franco's rule all meetings of more than 13 people required government authorization and only one-fifth of its Cortes was directly elected. Political parties and independent trade unions were banned, and press freedom was severely curtailed.

But the statement did not outline reforms in detail nor did it give any timetable for their implementation.

Opposition demands since Franco died last month have centred on urgent steps toward democracy, taking in a starting point a complete amnesty for those jailed and exiled opponents of ranco and the reappeal of all legislation curtailing political rights.

Kissinger Urges Sharing Of World Oil Profits

PARIS (CP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger today urged the oil-rich countries to channel some of their huge profits to "the most wounded of all" poor relatives in the Third World.

The United States and other industrialized countries cannot be expected to fill the widening gap between rich and poor countries caused partly by high energy costs, he told the international conference on energy and economic co-operation.

He proposed that members of the oil exporters' cartel turn billions of dollars over to international lending agencies for use by needy borrowers.

"We cannot be expected to bear the major burdens for, remedying balances of payments problems in which the actions of others play such a significant role," he said.

"There is a collective obligation to act. There must be a joint program involving the industrialized as well as the oil-producing countries.

Kissinger spoke after French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, in opening the three-day conference, warned that "the moment of reckoning, of frustration and selfishness" overshadows the meeting.

Beirut Fears Israeli Attack Over Community

A BEIRUT (AP) — Premier Rashid Karami today said that Israel is preparing to invade Lebanon on the pretext of rescuing the tiny Jewish community in embattled Beirut.

Karami said he heard of Israel's plan in an English-language broadcast over Israel radio today. But in Tel Aviv, Radio Israel denied broadcasting any such plan or anything resembling it.

The Lebanese premier, in a nationwide broadcast, called on the big powers and other members of the United Nations Security Council to note "Israel's perpetual lust" for the attack.

Karami also holds the defence portfolio in his six-man cabinet.

"I heard an English-language broadcast over Israel radio this morning declaring the existence of such a plan by the Israeli army general staff in cooperation with the ministries of foreign and military affairs to attack Lebanon to rescue the Jews of Wadi Abu Jamil," Karami said.

Equal Fees for Equal Sexes Now in City Dog Bylaw

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Thanks to Ald. Jean Smith, man's best friend — whether male or female — will receive equal treatment under Belleville bylaws.

City council last night revised its dog control bylaw to increased annual licence fees, but not before one changes were made at Ald. Smith's insistence.

She successful, argued that male dogs and female dogs — as females — $8 for one dog, $12 for each additional pet of either sex.

The proposed bylaw, she initialed, discriminated against the female of the species by proposing their licences at $8 and only $5 for males.

For an unaltered dog — if there's only one by a bye-child — the fee remained unchanged at $5.

New Kennel fees — now $25 brought a written protest from perolved kennel owner Arthur Barks.

He called the increase — up 150 per cent from $10 — "draconic" and said the 10 per cent anti-inflation government guideline would have been applied.

He would have favored a $3 increase, for kennel owners.

Purebred registered owners pay from $100 to $300 for favorite pup breeds, added Mr. Barks, while "many" owners of non-purebreds run at large.

Catherine Bell of 31 Diamond Cres. wrote in surprise that dogs were not required to have anti-rabies shots before being licensed in Belleville.

Ald. Stu Meeks said the incrypse for kennel owners was "fairly substantial."

City manager Wilbur Purcell said the pertinent provincial legislation indicated $25 fee.

It also was uncertain whether anti-rabies vaccination could be made a condition of licensing.

Rotating Strikes?

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto high-school teachers may switch to a rotating strike rather than continue their Metro-wide work stoppage which began five weeks ago, a union spokesman said Monday. Jack Hastie, administration officer with the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF), said a rotating strike would keep half of the 8,800 teachers off the job while the other half returned to work for an indefinite period.

May Reduce Fuel Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wide-ranging energy bill that would temporarily reduce fuel prices in the United States is before the Senate for final congressional action, but faces an uncertain fate at the hands of President Ford. The House of Representatives passed the bill 236 to 160 Monday night. Legal authority for maintaining oil-price controls expired less than three hours later, at midnight, before the Senate had time to act.

Guidelines Get Final Okay

OTTAWA (CP) — Two months after it was first introduced to Parliament, the government's anti-inflation program was given its final approval Monday evening. The act, which establishes the anti-inflation board to enforce selected wage and price controls, was given royal assent after a long and sometimes stormy debate in the Commons and the Senate.

Ontario Uses Less Oil

TORONTO (CP) — Consumption of oil and natural gas in Ontario has declined this year compared with last year, energy ministry figures show. The latest figures for oil consumption show that by the end of July, the province was using four-per-cent less than in 1974.

Paris Conference Opens

PARIS (CP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing opens the long-delayed conference on international co-operation today amid warnings that the parley must not be allowed to degenerate into a clash between the industrialized and developing nations. With Canadian and Venezuelan ministers acting as co-chairmen, the conference will attempt to seek a more mutually satisfactory relationship between what rich and poor countries pay for their essential imports and what they get for their exports.

Builder Asks City to Speed Project Approval

City council moved Monday to speed up the opportunities for residents in a northwest housing development to qualify for senior government ownership grants.

Council approved a developer's agreement with Maurice H. Rollins Construction for a 77-townhouse condominium scheme.

The move will allow the developer to conclude condominium agreement which in turn qualifies residents for $1,300 in first-home-ownership government grants.

The approval has been hanging some time as both the city and the Quinte Planning Board (QPB) sought undertakings for site improvements in the development.

But, Bob Marcotte, Rollins vice-president, told council Monday there is an urgent need for council approval which must also go the province unlimited.

The recent mail strike prevented circulation for comment of the QPB's staff recommendations he said.

The first-home grants run out at the end of the month he noted, and this now also presents "a considerable problem."

Work demanded of the developer includes sidewalk locations, landscaping, fencing and clearing of a drainage ditch, and designation of an access road as fire route banned to parking.

Ald. Jack Ireland said Mr. Marcotte was asking for council approval in advance of such work.

Mr. Marcotte said the city hold land as a performance security on the project with a deadline for May 1976.

Coulson New Crown Attorney

NAPANEE — Assuming prosecution duties for Lennox and Addington County has been like a homecoming, says 36-year-old J. Peter Coulson, the county's new Crown attorney.

Mr. Coulson's appointment was effective Dec. 1 — the date former Crown attorney G. G. Wynn retired.

However, the appointment became official only last Thursday when a provincial order-in-council was signed.

In a telephone interview with The Intelligencer Monday, Mr. Coulson, who was born at Newcastle, Ont., said he and his family resided on Amherst Island, a 20 minute southeast of here, from 1953-60.

"I'm very pleased to have a job down here," he continued, adding his father, 81-year-old William P. Coulson, owns a farm on the island.

He gained experience for his new position by serving the past six years as assistant Crown attorney in the southeastern judicial district of the Regional municipality of Niagara — a post he filled on Dec. 8, 1969.

Called to the bar in March, 1967, he is a graduate of Queen's University in Kingston where he received his BA in arts in 1963 and his LLB in law in 1965.

For three years Mr. Coulson was in private practice with the law firm of Fagan, Cash and Coulson in Port Colborne.

YOU AND YOUR AGENT
Ed. McElwain' Realty Ltd.
A. E. McElwain

The quickest — and by far the easiest — method of selecting a home is simply knowing all that's available on the market. And you won't get that information by charging from one "house for sale" sign to another. Your best choice is to seek help from a REALTOR. Preferably, one who knows — and is active in — the neighborhood you're interested in.

Before you sit down with your REALTOR, determine your family's needs, number of bedrooms and baths, storage space, room for future expansion, recreation facilities, etc. If you're willing to compromise on any requirements say so. Be flexible about architecture, and consider looking at a variety of house styles and be particular about the location of the house. It's the one thing you'll never be able to remodel.

Final advice: Be candid about your finances and what you can afford. This information will come out sooner or later and you'll be wasting your time by looking at houses that are beyond your means.

Tourist Operators, Chamber Unaware of Village Plan

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward's economic development director William Duggan says the recent proposal for a Loyalist Village in the county received input from tourist operators but Robert York, president of the Quinte's Isle Tourist Association (QITA) states the project is "completely new" to him.

The village concept was mentioned in a report to Prince Edward County council submitted last month by the economic development director.

In a recent letter to the editor questioning an Intelligencer column Mr. Duggan stated, "The Chamber of Commerce has been suggesting for years that an authentic 'event' or 'place' relating to the County's history would be of considerable tourist and commercial value to the area."

He also noted, "As for the suggestion that a Loyalist Village concept was "the brainchild of the assistant deputy-minister of tourism . . . tourist operators, local citizens and county tourist officials all provided input."

However, in his report to the chairman of the economic and development committee in the November meeting of county council Mr. Duggan attributed the village proposal to the assistant deputy-minister.

The written report included in council's agenda stated, "A meeting was held with the assistant deputy-minister of industry and tourism who had suggested that the county needed a large permanent general tourist attraction and that the area's Loyalist heritage might be invoked."

The report added: "Ideas relating to such a plan are being assembled."

Mr. Whitaker added that he was unaware of a proposal for a Loyalist village in the county and noted there was no bid for such a development by the local chamber.

He added the chamber ranks worthwhile projects and the proposal for a village might be interpreted as a type of county promotion.

Chamber Drive Under Way

TRENTON — The Trenton Chamber of Commerce is in the midst of its annual membership drive which they hope will increase participation among business as there are more than 75 per cent, said Jack Wilson, manager.

Currently, just over 50 per cent of the business, retail outlets and industry in the municipality, are members of the chamber and the board said it hopes to increase the membership from 160 to about 200 in 1976.

"The more members we have the stronger we will be and the broader the support we can provide," said Mr. Wilson. "We now provide a better business bureau and are active in municipal events like celebrations and the Santa Claus Parade but we can become more active with more support," said the manager.

Survey Under Way

A dramatic increase in the minimum wage might result in worker layoffs by small business caught in the crunch of rising prices, and costs says Jack Wilson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Trenton chamber is conducting a survey of small business in town or establish how dramatic an effect the wage increase would have on current operations.

Historic Documents On View at Museum

PICTON — A unique assortment of "Christmas mail" is on display this month at the Prince Edward County Museum, including letters signed by Sir, John A. Macdonald, Picton's first mayor, Phillip Law, Q.C. and Anglican Church Rector William Macaulay.

The letters form part of a collection of more than 1,000 historical documents recently donated to the museum by Dr. H.C. Burleigh of Bath, a leading historian on United Empire Loyalists.

Dr. Burleigh's donation is on exhibit in a special holiday display that shows all of the gifts made to the county museum in the past year.

Curator James Gooding said Monday the collection of documents is known as The Fitzgerald Papers. They originally belonged to Picton lawyer Richard Fitzgerald who practised here in the 1790's.

Mr. Gooding said the documents have been catalogued and will be included in the museum's archives collection.

A number of the most interesting letters and documents from the Fitzgerald Papers has been displayed in a glass case on the second floor of the museum.

One of the documents is a receipts issued to Mrs. Fitzgerald for the annual property assessment of $6 for pew rental for one year at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, now renovated as a county museum.

Mr. Gooding said several of the letters in the collection reflect an old habit of writing both horizontally and vertically on the same page.

The author would fill the page writing from right to left, then turn it sidewise and start to write across it.

Included among the documents on display are several other items such as the 1791 voter's list and a copy of the ninth edition of The Prince Edward County Year Book, published in 1940.

Also a large family bible with its records of births and deaths in the Jamieson family is on exhibit.

Mr. Gooding said the museum's Christmas display of gifts received throughout the year will be highlighted Sunday, Dec. 21 by an open house from 1 to 4 p.m.

Letter Perfect

A collection of more than 1,000 historical documents recently donated to the Prince Edward County Museum has proved letter perfect for a special display. Among the famous signatures on the 19th century correspondence are those of Sir John A. MacDonald, author Camilff Haight and Picton's first mayor Phillip Law. Curator James Gooding above enjoys re-reading the well-preserved documents.

Police Charge Two Men, Car Stopped Twice

TWEED — Ronald Miles, 21 of Nashville, Ont. is charged with careless driving, impaired driving and having a blood alcohol count greater than 80 and Kirk Farthing, 19, of Ellesboro, Ont. is charged with driving while prohibited in connection with two separate incidents here during the weekend, involving the same car.

Both men will appear for the first time in Madoc provincial court on Jan. 20. Miles is also charged with possession of a narcotic by Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc.

Tweed police say they stopped a 1972 Grenada on Division St. at 6:45 p.m. Friday which was doing "doughnuts" in the Tweed Fairgrounds.

Constable Paul Clement arrested the driver.

Provincial police say when the suspect was searched at the Madoc detachment, a narcotic was discovered in his clothes. Police have not released the type or quantity of the narcotic.

Tweed police say Constable Tom Andrews stopped the same car on Victoria St. at 1:35 a.m. being driven by another person.

Pay Hike Worries Chamber

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON The anticipated increase in the minimum wage could cause small businesses to tighten their belts and lay off workers, Jack Wilson, manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, said Monday.

The local chapter of the chamber is conducting a survey of business in Trenton to determine just how devastating an impact the wage rise would have on retail outlets and factories whose salary levels are directly connected to the standard, said Mr. Wilson.

"The Ontario Ministry of Labor has indicated there will be an adjustment in the minimum wage and the chamber is worried the increase might force many small businesses to close or curtail operations," said Mr. Wilson. "The Ontario Federation of Labor has recently called for an increase in the minimum wage up to $4 per hour and this would be disastrous", he said.

Mr. Wilson said he is not contesting the need for the minimum wage increase but rather questioning squeezing effect it had on smaller operations such as restaurants and gas stations.

The increase in the number of self-service gasoline stations in the area is indicative of the problems facing smaller business, said Mr. Wilson.

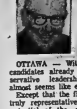
A Leader for PCs?

Peppy George Hees Is Alive and Well and Working in Ottawa



By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — With nearly 30 candidates already in the Conservative leadership race, it almost seems like enough.

Except that the field won't be truly representative of the full potential of the multi-talented Tories unless and until the Hon. George Harris Hees, P.C., 25-year veteran of the Commons and MP for the old Ontario constituency of Prince Edward-Hastings is in the running.

It could be that Hon. George, a contestant in other party leadership stakes, figures that at 65 it's time to hang up his running shoes.

But he owes it to the Conservatives, to the Commons, and the common Canadian taxpayer to give it another go.

Sixty-five he may be, but like his former Prime Minister, John George Diefenbaker, he remains ageless.

Vigorous physically, sharp mentally and joyfully radiating an infectious zest for life, he keeps in top shape by enjoying every precious living minute of it.

The big plus that George Hees has going for him is not just the quality of parliamentary and administrative performance, it's his star, his appeal.

Save for Don Jamieson, who talks and promises to give a great trade promotion game, George Hees was the best Industry Trade and Commerce Minister to come down the political pike since the federal days of the late great C.D. Howe, the amazing Minister-of-Everything.

George Hees looks good, Handsome, dapper.

He acts young. Often does a little shadow-boxing in the Commons lobby. Sometimes runs a little behind the Parliament Hill. In exuberance greets you with "Hiya, boy." Or "Yay to go." Or "Going great."

But other candidates, too, are pretty acceptable parliamentary performers. Some even look good. And a few have at least a touch of that same go-go enthusiasm.

But none have the fun-and-games talent of George Hees. None of them is the entertainer he is.

Examples:

He was ribbing Lucky Pierre the other day about the failure of yet another of the Prime Minister's personal appointments, Yves Pratte, the recently resigned chairman of Air Canada.

Here's how it went:

Hees: Will proven ability to direct large corporate operations be the criteria in the appointment of a new Air Canada chief?

Trudeau: We will continue as in the past seeking out the best person available for any job that is open.

An Hon. Member: What about George?

Hees: You couldn't make a better choice.

Some Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Trudeau: There may be a contradiction there between the qualification of "proven ability") and the Hon. Member's claim that there couldn't be a better choice than himself.

Hees: Well, that's your opinion, but what's yours against thousands of others?

Here Trudeau shrugs and Hees bows, and they exchange a few insults in their own body language, the only MPs in the House who can converse with hand and finger signals.

And consider this exchange:

Quebec Conservative MP, Howard Crafftey, one of the going-on 20 leadership candidates, is lecturing Lucky Pierre on the housing crisis:

Crafftey: Why today can buy his own home in this country?

Hees: Same one.

Crafftey: How much encouragement is given small operators to set up business?

Hees: None.

Crafftey: How much help is the farmer given to stay on the land?

Hees: Zilch.

Crafftey: And how much encouragement is there for Canadian investment in Canadian enterprise?

Hees: Mimo zero.

Some Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The point is that Crafftey was asking some pointed questions.

But nobody in the Liberal cabinet, and no one on the government backbenches had replies to questions that, if only for the parliamentary record, should be answered.

George Hees didn't give any of them time to think of replies.

He answered for them . . . with a light touch and left them sitting on the government benches looking like a lot of dummies.

And the interesting thing about it was that he achieved this without in the slightest drose of debate, but had fun doing it up a little.

George Hees has the great attribute of looking and sounding alive somewhat a lot of Conservatives could use.

Socialism in the English-speaking world has fallen upon hard times.

That's the message from three successive elections, including last week's provincial vote in British Columbia.

The trend to the right has been under way for some time, but it assumed tangible form only last month in New Zealand when that country's National party — the equivalent to the Progressive Conservatives here — ousted the Labor administration. Mismanagement of the economy was a strong factor influencing voters in this decision.

It was followed last Thursday by another setback for the left with the defeat of the NDP government of Dave Barrett in British Columbia. Back in power again is Social Credit, this time under Bill Bennett, son of longtime premier W. A. C. Bennett whom Barrett defeated in 1972.

A big factor in Mr. Barrett's defeat was electoral disenchantment with the decision to legislate strikers back to work during recent work stoppages. But as much of this was his alienation of the business community and the dismay of many at his government's banning enactment of social legislation.

The irony of it is that with Mr. Barrett defeated in his own riding too Canada has lost one of its most colorful politicians. But as one observer put it, British Columbia "is not yet ready for socialism."

The final act in this international ballot box cranma was played out in Australia on Friday when Gough Whitlam's Labor administration fell to the Liberal-National Country party coalition party. A weakened economy, unemployment, hints of scandal in high places, and with relations via-a-vis old friends such as Britain and the United States at a low ebb, were factors in the voters' minds there.

These are results which will be of significance here. The NDP party in Ontario made considerable gains in the election this year but as columnist Dalton O'Hearn noted recently, its strength may have peaked.

Overall, there is surprising unanimity in these election results. It reflects a reaffirmation of private enterprise and a suspicion of government interference. However, while rejuvenating their economies, it will be up to the new governments to give consideration also to the kind of social legislation which has been enacted in British Columbia and which undoubtedly will stand.

"Oh and ask Mr. Jansen if there's room for another desk in our office."

Mayoral Leadership

Mayor Ben Corke is no Don Quixote tilting at windmills but rather a seasoned veteran of Council and local politics.

In the relatively short time since taking over the office of mayor, Mr. Corke has made his mark on many issues.

In focusing attention on various community problems and needs Mayor Corke has ruffled some feathers. But that is only to be expected; progress in public affairs does not come from hiding one's light under a bushel or from dodging issues.

Finding additional space for the rapidly-growing city is one factor Mr. Corke believes is urgent, but it is not going to come from is another matter.

For one thing there has been opposition from the Fair Board to the idea of moving the Quinte Exhibition out of town so Belleville has more room for housing. Similarly neither Sidney nor Thurlow townships seems about to entertain any thoughts of accommodating Belleville in the matter of relocation of the CP south end rail tracks. Again, if this were to materialize Belleville would have more development space.

Still, the democratic process is served best in discussion of such problems and Mayor Corke is providing many of the talking points. He has been active too in trying to find a solution to Ontario Street's high-cost sewer services. Again he exhibits a fine turn of phrase in summing up one situation or other. "Somewhere we're on the line," he says, the traffic committee is going to have to "hang out hats" on the traffic formula needed before lights are warranted at Herchimer and Victoria. This location is regarded by area residents and school authorities as a hazard to students and pedestrians generally.

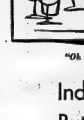
Whether he has everyone on his side or not Mayor Corke is a shrewd political operator who has his finger on the pulse of the community.

Indexing for Private Pensions But Just Look What It Costs

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service



Indexed pensions are gilt-edged protection against future inflation.

If a member of Parliament or the Senate, or anyone for whom the federal government is responsible—civil servants, members of the armed forces and Royal Canadian Mounted Police—that kind of inflation insurance could be taken for granted.

Now, in a generous gesture, the governments of Canada and Ontario are allowing private employers to link their pension plans to the cost-of-living index as well.

The only trouble is that the cost of annual inflation-geared pension increases, to a private employer, is staggering.

It's usually staggering to the case of the federal government. But since it's the public treasury that will be saddled with the expense, nobody cares—except the forgotten taxpayer.

Until the recent changes in the rules, there was a distinction between the federal and provincial legislation on funding requirements and indexed pensions.

Among other things, that conflict created an embarrassing problem of professional conduct for actuaries who do the pension planning. They helped to prepare upon Ottawa and Queen's Park to amend the rules.

As a result, future inflation has been recognized as an element to be considered in the operation and financing of private pension plans—a recognition that has been specifically prohibited in national revenue's information Circular 72-13R2.

Why did it take the tax collector so long to change this hard-nosed attitude?

Probably the fear of losing tax revenue, if a company is allowed to set aside more money for future pensions to employees, then its operating costs are that much higher and its tax liability that much lower.

Ontario's approach has been to permit "escalation adjustment" on a pay-as-you-go or partially funded basis. That means that an employer is permitted to increase the pension of an already retired worker as the general price or wage index rises.

It neither costs the donor thrown wide open to ensure that private pensions will increase in direct proportion to the cost of living, as do federal pensions.

And even if the law did permit it, the private sector could hardly afford such a massive cost increase—especially at a time when economic growth is minimal and unemployment is under great pressure.

The fact that the federal government itself should choose to protect its pensioners against all future inflation—at the stroke of a pen, with no real plan to meet the full cost—is not the only cause for concern.

Another is that the most targeted young people will be strongly attracted to civil service jobs. That in itself might be welcome—but productive careers in the private sector could go begging, especially if income military remain in force for a long time (which seems likely, in view of the government's passion for regulation).

One other consequence: senior civil servants with 20 or 35 years' experience (and thus entitled to the maximum pension) have a strong incentive to retire early on an indexed pension that will probably rise faster than the $2,400 maximum salary increase permitted under the anti-inflation guidelines.

Many have already retired from the higher levels of the civil service. Many others are ready to follow, as soon as they can line up a suitable "consultancy" or other post in the private sector.

His Day In Court

Editor

The Intelligencer:

I recently spent an interesting morning in the provincial court. Having spent a large part of my working years in courtroom atmosphere as a police officer in the city of London and various Canadian cities I wondered if things had changed.

The learned Judge struck me as a tireless and compassionate man who kept the business of the court moving. He dealt with the factors of county politics efficiently with due consideration for the rights of those appearing.

By and large, those appearing, represented the usual working class element who seem to make up the "average court calendar. Shoplifters, drunk drivers, civil livenists etc each stood before the court while their misdemeanors were extolled by the Crown Attorney. Some were represented, others refused to have counsel or the services of duty counsel, but all got a fair hearing.

The smoothness of the court was temporarily interrupted when a defendant arrived with his own counsel to represent him. He was told that in matters of indictable offences this was not allowed. Why not?

Obviously lay people are at a disadvantage when competing with the professionals who have has their training. But surely it should be the inherent right in 1975 for a person to be represented by counsel of his choice. The court has all the built-in protective machinery to protect any person from doing unconscionable harm to himself or his case. The role of lawyers has been carefully preserved over the years so as to be such a most necessary. My own opinion, after watching many of them perform before the courts is that they would be better employed in other fields.

Legal aid are often outrageous for the services provided — they get paid whether they win or draw. Perhaps if they were paid on a win or lose basis there would be different.

Another long standing practice of which I object to is the have changed is the discriminatory consideration given to defendants who are better with their furs. Their cases are "shuffled" on the docket to best accommodate the lawyer. After the lawyer-represented cases have been dealt with the lesser ones are then heard.

Lawyers should be for those who can afford them. Let welfare recipients be defended by those who so desire in matters of lesser importance. It would save time and money. Few lawyers, today, can afford low fees for services of a lawyer — indeed, to hell with juries they really do not need one.

It was nice to see the Judge awarding costs related to the life crime. The newer concept of making it a condition to probation orders that the defendant provide an amount of voluntary labor to the community has much to be said for it. It is worth sending them to the universities of crime that make up our penal institutions and penal institutions.

Catholic Church Joins Opposition Against Chilean Military Junta

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The Chilean military who seized power from the crumbling but elected Allende Marxist government two years ago continues to act true to its brutal and repressive form.

Thousands are reported still in jails for political crimes, mainly supporters of the dead Salvador Allende or socialist and Marxist causes he had in former government.

The Catholic church in Chile which, for years, has been the liberal view compared to the same church in Colombia or Argentina, was notorious during the first months of the military regime.

But a few days ago, the main cathedral in downtown Santiago was jammed with Chileans for the morning mass because they knew the archbishop would make a political homily against so much repression in this once model democracy of the Americas.

They were not disappointed. As in Spain at the end of the long Franco era, the church ies in Chile is beginning to resist the military leaders, in spite of the fact they also overthrew Marxism in that nation.

Internationally, the ruling Chilean generals are assuming a posture which seems totally contradictory to their record given their known political and military proximity to the United States.

They supported the recent famous United Nations' vote declaring Zionism a form of racism, a strange ideological juxtaposition of a strong right-wing military regime openly supporting the best of strong left-wing and even neo-Marxist Third World nations.

Many of these nations were friends of the Allende Marxist regime which the Chilean generals and admirals overthrew in 1973.

The reason some say has to do with the hidden anti-semitism of Chile's ruling military who also have the support of many of the country's rich and weak anti-Jewish Nationalist party.

But the reasons are more complex than that. A Chilean economy in worse shape than it was under Allende, with inflation running at [illegible] per cent, desperately needs aid. Chile's junta leaders, like Pinochet openly and blatantly look to the Arabs in the United UN motions against Israel and Zionism, he might benefit in terms of offers of oil at cost like other states but getting the Third World Nations.

And in the face of all this, the pro-junta United States government under constant investigation in Congress for its efforts to overthrow Allende and then support the new military is considering an end to the $25 million in its covert aid it has said to Chile.

With this prospect in mind and knowing it will get no weapons from Britain's socialist regime which also supported Allende, Chile may be turning to the Arab world for weapons.

This could come through some secret deal or supply operation of even U.S. weapons, though there are said to be Arab nations be the Arabs on the understanding they will not go to one other consequence: senior civil servants with 20 or 35 years' experience (and thus entitled to the maximum pension) have a strong incentive to retire early on an indexed pension that will probably rise faster than the $2,400 maximum salary increase permitted under the anti-inflation guidelines.

Many have already retired from the higher levels of the civil service. Many others are ready to follow, as soon as they can line up a suitable "consultancy" or other post in the private sector.

Cabinet Won't Veto Inflation Decisions

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is prepared to make representations to the federal government's anti-inflation board when a decision affects the province's public sector, but has no plans to retain a veto in the provincial cabinet, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said on Monday.

Donald MacDonald (NDP—York South) pointed out that the federal cabinet has used a veto power over the anti-inflation board and asked in the legislature whether Ontario plans a similar veto.

Mr. McKeough said that once the federal anti-inflation legislation is passed, an administrative board and an appeal tribunal will be set up.

The province is prepared to make submissions through those channels, Mr. McKeough said. However, he said he still is awaiting publication of the anti-inflation regulations, which he expects will be made public Thursday.

Schools Closed

HULL, Que. (CP) — Five Protestant elementary schools in this area were closed Monday after teachers called in sick to protest the pace of contract negotiations. Teacher spokesman Ruth Hines said school boards, at a bargaining session Thursday, did not produce an offer.

Gets New Premier

VICTORIA (CP) — Bill Bennett will be sworn in as B.C.'s new premier before Dec. 22, outgoing Premier Dave Barrett said Monday. Premier-designate New Democratic Party was declared in the Dec. 15 election leaving standings in the legislature at Credit 17, Liberal 16 and Conservative 4. Premier declined comment on his personal future.

Sees Some Light .

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson told the legislature Monday she now could see "the glimmer of light" in the resumption of negotiations between the Canadian Paperworkers Union and three paper companies. Dr. Stephenson said she had talked with both sides in the dispute during the weekend and the meetings were encouraging. Some 11,000 paperworkers have been on strike since summer.

Not a Demotion

TORONTO (CP) — The switching of James Auld from secretary of the provincial cabinet to deputy minister of industry and tourism is in no way a demotion, Premier William Davis told Liberal Leader Robert Nixon in the legislature Monday. Premier Davis said Mr. Fisch would continue to act as the province's chief anti-inflation control officer, working in liaison with the federal anti-inflation board.

Airports Will Test Use of French

OTTAWA (CP) — Wider use of French in air traffic control will be rigorously tested in special simulated tests before changes are implemented in Quebec airports, Transport Minister Otto Lang said Monday.

Mr. Lang said in the commons there will be extensive discussions with pilots and others in the aviation industry before French is used in air-ground communications for instrument flight rule operations.

Instrument flight rules apply to big commercial airliners. The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association (CALPA) has opposed extension of French in this type of flying, saying it would affect safety.

French now is used for visual flight rules only at five Quebec airports. Visual flight rules apply generally to small aircraft and not the commercial airliners.

Jack Murta (Lisgar), Progressive Conservative transport critic, asked for assurance that safety still is the government's main consideration in air traffic control.

With Liberal MPs strongly applauding, Mr. Lang said safety is not the only element. Safety came first but there were two languages in the country and French should be used in air traffic control wherever possible.

Land Bought

LONDON (CP) — When the Southwark council decided to make improvements to an old cemetery, it was discovered the ground had in fact been the property first. The price was $1.

Fossils Displayed

ADDIS ABABA (Reuter) — Skeletal remains of three people who lived in what is now known as eastern Ethiopia more than three million years ago went on display here Monday. A spokesman for The International Afar research expedition, a France-American Ethiopian team, said the latest finds add weight to the theory that modern man evolved in what now is the Rift valley of East Africa.

Means Convicted

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Russell Means, leader of the American Indian Movement, was found guilty Monday on a riot charge resulting from a 1974 Wounded Knee, South Dakota, incident. Circuit Court Judge Richard Braithwaite, who tried the case without a jury, found Means not guilty on a charge of damaging a public building. Fres on $1,000 bond, Means, 36, faces sentencing Dec. 31.

Travellers Die

LAGOS (Reuter) — Twenty-two people travelling in a Jehovah's Witnesses assembly in eastern Nigeria during the weekend were killed when their truck went off the road from Ikot-Ekpene to Aba, it was reported Monday.

Bans Liquor

PORT MORESBY (Reuter) — Papua New Guinea will not be allowed to drink liquor at hotel bars on public holidays and long weekends, starting this Christmas, a government minister said Monday. Police Minister Fabian Lau blamed alcohol for much of the violence, crime, road accidents and marriage breakups in Papua New Guinea.

Expects Visitors

JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 25,000 visitors are expected in the Holy Land for Christmas-New Year season, the Israeli ministry of tourism said Monday.

Mourn Dead

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Paul Godfrey of Metropolitan has declared today an official day of mourning for the nine people killed in the GO commuter train crash in the borough.

Calls Study

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture called for an investigation by the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board into reports that Ontario's registered egg producers are exceeding her quotas.

Jim Boynton of Chesley, county secretary-manager, said in an interview Monday that there have been conflicting reports by members of the Ontario Egg Producers' Marketing Board about the seriousness of quota violations.

Contract Endorsed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Workers at the Chrysler Canada Ltd. Windsor Lighting division of Tecumseh Canada Ltd. have voted in favor of ratifying a two-year contract of the Canadian Union spokesman said Monday. The agreement with the auto contract provides a total wage increase of $1.04 an hour including a 28-cent increase retroactive to Dec. 8, the date the previous contract expired. The previous contract gave the 200 production members of Local 195, United Auto Workers (UAW), a total increase of between 84 and 85, depending on job classification.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids ... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoidal tissue. It relieves itching and discomfort in the anal region and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

Once hemorrhoidal case history after case history reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was sustained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on cases with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished

Ottawa to Announce Cutbacks Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to make a major public-relations event out of its announcement Thursday of plans to curb its own spending during the coming fiscal year.

Announcement of the spending plans, originally expected today, was held off to form part of a double bill Thursday along with publication of detailed plans for operation of the program of selected pay and price controls.

Full spending estimates for the financial year beginning April 1 are due normally until about the third week in February, but the government is drawing them up began last August.

But the government decided to announce some spending details for the 1976-77 fiscal year ahead of time as part of a campaign to demonstrate that it means business in the fight against inflation.

Heightening the sense of drama, the government is expected to encourage the commitment to journalists in a locked room in advance of presentation to Parliament of a system used for full budgets and other major financial announcements.

Officials say Opportunities for Youth (OFY), Local Initiatives Program (LIP), Canada Manpower Young Canadians (CYC), Information Canada, even promised cost-of-living boosts in family allowances have been on a cabinet economies list.

Although federal expenditures are still expected to increase, the jump will be smaller than during the previous two years.

When announcing that the current fiscal year close March 31, The Star-Phoenix reported he was "disappointed" to see $33 billion, or six cents of every dollar spent last year.

If the government succeeds in cutting $1.5 billion next year, as Treasury Board President Jean Chretien says he wants, the total federal outlay in 1976-77 will still climb by an expected $2 billion to more than $35 billion—a record if it is attained.

One senior treasury official says the program must talked about slowing the rate of increase to total spending even if abolished. But the cabinet is eager to reduce well-known targets for spending as relatives its message of restraint to the public.

For example, wiping out the OFY program, which first announced more than 4,500 projects employing 38,700 people in the last summer, would pave the way for federal budgets in 1976 OFY, LIP, CYC and information Canada together, at a total cost of $100 million in the year, account for less than 40 cents out of every $100 Ottawa spends.

Nevertheless, administrators of such programs are "expecting the worst," says OFY director Paul Ryba.

All Information Canada headquarters, one of the 677 employees said in an interview Monday that there are fears that they are going "to be told we're finished."

Ottawa Names 117 Companies Subject to Price Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — The anti-inflation board announced Monday of 117 major companies which will be required to give the board 30 days advance notice of price increases.

A board spokesman said subsidiaries of the companies are also covered by the requirement, which would bring the total to about 300 companies. The board has not prepared a list of the subsidiaries. Companies in Manufacturing, and its subsidiary, Skiler Furniture, are both mentioned in the list.

The price notification rule applies to any significant increase in a single product or any rise that would increase the gross sales revenue of a product line by more than two per cent.

Here are the companies identified by the board:

PMs Support Strike Say Paper Workers'

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of 24,200 striking pulp and paperworkers said Monday that the members of Parliament from the three major parties indicated at the end of four days of hearings that they are "very sympathetic to our cause.

"The MPs are studying the matter—and are going to do whatever they can to bring about a settlement," Louis Laberge, president of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU), said after a meeting with Liberal representatives.

Labor Minister John Munro, who could not attend Monday's meeting because of a prior commitment, said last week industry managers have been holding behind federal wage and price control guides and he urged the two sides to bargain new collective agreements so they would under normal conditions.

The paperworkers, on strike at 7 mills in Ontario and Quebec and the Atlantic provinces, are seeking a first-year pay rise of $1.08 an hour on a base pay rate of $4.82 hourly, or slightly more than 22 per cent.

The union says the companies have refused to discuss demands that exceed the basic five-per-cent limit of wage restraint contained in the federal guides even though the anti-inflation board is empowered to make exceptions.

An aide to Mr. Munro said industry representatives have expected to meet the labor minister later this week to "explain their position."

Liberal MP William Rompkey, whose district includes the sprawling mill of Grand Falls-White Bay Labrador, said in an interview that because the pulp and paper industry is under provincially-legislation "the only influences we have is that of moral persuasion."

He said the Newfoundland economy in particular cannot afford a lengthy strike.

Mr. Rompkey said the strikes are severely damaging the industry as a whole and Canada's balance of payments position since export customers turn to sources of newsprint stocks. The major share of production is exported.

The union said in a background brief presented to the federal Progressive Conservative and New Democratic MPs that "there is evidence abroad that the pulp and paper industry appears to be scrambling to find the product to keep them in business."

The union said the anti-inflation board ruling, expected later this week, on the collective agreement signed recently by Irving Pulp and Paper Ltd. in Saint John, N.B., will have a tendency to "become a settlement with one mill or several mills will have a domino effect, touching other settlements with the same basic conditions throughout the major exporters of the industry."

The Irving settlement increases the base rate for paperworkers by $1.84 to $5.91 an hour in the first year of a two-year contract. The base rate at the Saint John mill now is $4.07.

Western Resource Outlook Is High

EDMONTON (CP) — Prospects for western resource industries have improved substantially in the last year, says Norman Lawrence, president of the 750-member Alberta-Northwest Chamber of Mines, Oils and Resources.

Mr. Lawrence said the federal-provincial conflict over resources has largely been solved. However, resource industries still face heavy taxation in British Columbia and Saskatchewan, and land use regulations in Alberta and the Northwest Territories will alter some activities.

J. H. Chesney, manager of the Alberta-Northwest chamber, said exploration dollars being spent in the Northwest Territories and Yukon are running at record levels this year and employment in the northern mining industry has increased.

Mr. Lawrence said Alberta has "a lot of good things going for it," including the oil, gas, coal and salt for petrochemicals.

But moves by the Saskatchewan government to take over potash industry and increase royalties on uranium mining prospects in Saskatchewan look bleak, he said.

Nearing the end of his one-year term as chief executive of the chamber of mines, Mr. Lawrence sees some improvements in general economic prospects and a continuing sound future for Alberta.

Canadians can no longer expect to improve their standard of living from revenues generated by resource exports.

"It is obvious that some of our resources are running out," said Mr. Lawrence. "This is proven by the federal cuts in oil exports which have been one of our greatest sources of revenue."

There is the possibility that the U.S. might retaliate against restrictions in oil exports by reducing coal exports to Ontario, Ontario is almost entirely dependent on American coal and it would require massive mine and transportation development to supply Ontario from Western Canada.

Overtime Overdue

CHICHESTER, England (CP) — Eleven years of forgotten overtime pay is being claimed by 89 psychiatric hospital workers here. A union says the workers are owed thousands of pounds because of a mistake over a 1964 wage deal. The workers, including porters, say they should have been given a "theoretical overtime" payment during holidays and sick leave.

Food Executive Says Prices Will Rise 15 Per Cent in 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1976 agriculture outlook conference got off to a gloomy start Monday as far as consumers are concerned: the consensus was that food prices will be even higher next year.

Thomas Bolton of Toronto, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., told about 300 delegates from industry and government at the opening session of the two-day conference that a 10-to-15-per-cent increase in food prices in 1976 "seems to be a pretty good guess."

One reason is that stores already have signed contracts containing cost-of-living clauses. As well, the 60-day freeze by several large firms on most commodities expires in early January.

"When the freeze ends, certain costs will have to be passed on to the consumers," Mr. Bolton said.

Mr. Bolton called for a national food policy, which he said he has been studying for at least two years.

This would consist of more open discussion among the different sectors of the food industry, establishment of long-term projections of food needs, a detailed assessment of the agriculture industry's production capabilities and a look at the import picture.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan did nothing to cheer the delegates, quoting experts as saying the world has enough food in storage to last 60 days.

He said Canada, the United States and a handful of other food exporters have been saddled with the job of staving off an international food crisis.

However, if crops in North America fail the way they did this year in the Soviet Union, there would be disaster around the world.

David Slater, director of the finance department's economics analysis division, said world commodity prices are expected to be stable next year, but this depended on North American production.

He said that if Canadian and American crops do not meet expectations, "then all bets are off."

Amendments Push Rent Law Closer to Final Approval

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's controversial rent control legislation moved a step closer to final approval Monday night with the addition of a series of amendments proposed by the three parties.

During hours of clause-by-clause study, the NDP proposed a series of amendments, losing most of them, but squeezing through several key changes.

Among the amendments guided through by Michael Cassidy (NDP—Ottawa Centre), the party's housing critic, was a motion to ensure that at least half the members of the provincial rent review board be representative of tenants.

A Liberal amendment in the same vein followed. It says that at least two board members must be present for the board to function and at least one of the two must be representative of tenants.

The actual number of board members is to be decided by the cabinet.

Mr. Cassidy also proposed another series of amendments, which, in effect, bring all rental housing in the province under the controls, including geared-to-income housing operated by the Ontario Housing Corp.

The only exceptions are non-profit units whose rents are set directly by the federal or provincial governments and units in co-operative projects.

Housing Minister John Rhodes later moved an amendment dealing with units covered under provincial rent-supplement programs to ensure that the overall rent for the unit covers under controls, while the tenants' actual payments do not.

In such supplement housing, the government pays a portion of the rent. The amendment ensures that the overall rent charged jointly to the government and the tenant comes under the controls.

Mr. Rhodes came under a barrage of catcalls and jeers at one point in the debate.

He attempted to move an amendment to exempt buildings with three of fewer units where the owner resides in one of the units, in effect exempting try homes and duplexes where the owner lives in one unit.

Mr. Cassidy, brandishing a copy of a housing ministry news release, said the minister made a public commitment to remove such exemptions from the bill.

The opposition deleted a series of sections that the Liberals and the NDP said gave the cabinet regulatory powers which were too broad.

The bill will receive further consideration today and must receive third reading and royal assent before becoming law.

Meanwhile, Donald Crosbie, Sprotty housing minister, said arrangements for the rent-review program cannot be completed until the legislation is made final.

"Until you know what the final legislation will be, you can't really set things up," Mr. Crosbie said in an interview.

President Praises Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the University of Toronto said Monday that the 14.6-per-cent increase in provincial grants to universities and community colleges will generate a 12.4-per-cent increase in university revenue in 1976-77.

John Evans said the increased revenues will help Ontario universities meet the costs of a five-per-cent increase in student enrolment and the impact of inflation.

"Considering the pressures which government faces at this time, I believe the universities have received very fair treatment," he said in a news release.

The Ontario ministry of colleges and universities announced Monday that colleges will receive $250 million for operating support. An additional sum of $631 million has been set aside for operation of Ontario universities and other post-secondary institutions.

John Macdonald, executive director of the council of Ontario Universities, said the increase recognizes the high priority the provincial government is placing on post-secondary education.

Universities will have to continue restrictions because of the difference between costs and revenue, he said in an interview.

Canada Won't Support Resolution

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canadian delegate Loris Dodico told the General Assembly Monday that Canada cannot support a general resolution on International Women's Year because certain certain elements it considers objectionable.

Dodico said Canada will abstain on the resolution as a whole. The resolution calls on the assembly to endorse the work of the International Women's Year conference at Mexico City last summer.

One section of the declaration approved by the Mexico City conference calls for the "elimination of colonialism, neo-colonialism, foreign occupation, Zionism, apartheid, racial discrimination in all its forms."

Dodico did not specifically identify the anti-Israeli reference as an element his delegation considered objectionable.

"Canada fully supports and endorses all those elements in the resolution pertaining specifically to the status of women," said Dodico. Liberal MP for the Quebec riding of Mesimoncey.

But the Canadian delegation cannot accept references contained in other resolutions and countries their political content "outraging the substance of these resolutions," he said.

Guaranteed Income Will Rise Jan. 1

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's guaranteed annual income supplement (GAINS) will rise by $2.85 a month for a single pensioner and $4.28 for a couple as of Jan. 1, Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced Monday.

In a statement to the legislature, Mr. McKeough said the increase will guarantee that GAINS recipients—persons more than 65 years of age—will receive $263 a month for a single pensioner and $530 a month for a couple.

The maximum GAINS cheque—added to the federal old age pension and federal supplements—will be $28.88 for each pensioner in January.

Mr. McKeough pointed out that the federal payments will total $267.15 in January due to the fact they are indexed to cost-of-living increases.

He said the federal payments have risen by 7.4 per cent between last April and Jan. 1. He said the province's maximum GAINS payment has risen by 48.1 per cent—to $28.88 from $19.50.

Police Bar Priest From His Rectory

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Yves Normandin, the traditionalist Roman Catholic priest dismissed from his north-end church, was denied access to the parish rectory Sunday by the new pastor and Montreal police.

Father Normandin had left the rectory early in the morning to answer a subpoena for a libel action hearing against several of his followers who had been occupying the church and rectory since his dismissal Nov. 5.

Father Normandin was reinvested to use the new mass ritual issued by Pope Paul VI in 1967 and approvedby the Canadian Conference of Bishops. He continued to administer the traditional Latin mass.

Father Normandin had barricaded himself inside the rectory 10 days ago after the new pastor, Rev. Leonard Barbeau, church wardens, locksmith, and police arrived at the church.

Father Normandin told the court Monday he did not feel compelled to answer any questions because it was not an ecclesiatical court but a civil court. Superior Court Justice Philippe Poiller took the injunction request under advisement.

Decorations Kids Can Make

Connie Morrison has three eager helpers when it comes time to make Christmas decorations. Peter, 11, Melanie, 9, and Liane, 6, have a number of favorite gifts and ornaments they make every year.

One of the prettiest and tastiest is a can of bone-made peanut brittle covered with felt, red floss and green felt holly leaves. A foil-covered cardboard top, with a red pipe cleaner and paper "flame" attached to it, makes the container look like a bright Christmas candle.

The recipe for the peanut brittle — "never-fail, and easy enough for kids to make," says Mrs. Morrison — is as follows:

two cups white sugar

one cup shelled peanuts

Melt sugar in an electric frying pan at 325-350 degrees, stirring constantly. When melted (it takes a long time) pour over the peanuts which have been scattered evenly in an unbuttered pan. Cool completely, and then break into pieces.

Candy, such as the peanut brittle or other seasonal sweets, can also be given as gifts if placed in a Santa Claus container. This is made from a baby food jar, with a cotton batten beard, and jolly features cut from paper, felt or other material for the face. A red felt or paper hat, fastened on the lid, completes the effect.

The Morrison children have also had some artistic success using home-made modelling clay, with which they've made ornaments both for hanging on the Christmas tree and for use on mobiles. The recipe for the clay follows:

two cups baking soda (one lb. package)

one cup cornstarch

Combine these ingredients in a saucepan, then add in 1½ cups water. Mix in thoroughly until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook one minute longer, or until mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes.

Remove from heat, transfer to plate and cover with a damp towel. When cool enough to handle, knead a little and store all but the clay you intend to use in a closed plastic bag.

Roll clay to ¼-inch thickness, and cut out shapes, with cookie cutters or freehand. Let harden for 24 hours before painting with acrylic paints or food coloring. If making ornaments to hang, remember to use a toothpick to pierce a hole at the top while the clay is still soft.

Christmas trees, stars, birds, elves, and bells are among the shapes that turn out well. The clay can also be used for three-dimensional items, such as the tiny pears that hang on Mrs. Morrison's creation — a little gold partridge sitting in a pear tree. The "tree" is a small branch, on which have been glued green leaves made of tissue paper, and sprayed with gold.

To make leaves, cut out one-inch squares of paper with pinking shears. Wrap each little piece around the end of a pencil to give it a flower-like shape, then remove and fasten to the twigs.

Mrs. Morrison has also made an attractive Christmas tree from teasels stuck into a cone shape, and covered with artificial snow. Another of her table ornaments is a snowman — "he stays out from November to March," says Mrs. Morrison — with a large juice can body wrapped with newspaper and covered with cotton batten. Simple to make and easy to store, the snowman has been with Jack and Connie Morrison all through their marriage . . . a decoration that's really "part of the family".

A foil-covered orange juice can with its paper-flame lid makes a candy-filled "candle" for Christmas giving. Beside it, a gold paper partridge sits at the top of the pear tree. Snowy teasels make a unique centrepiece with tiny red birds and berries attached.

The snowman's body is a can wrapped with cotton-batten, and his head is a styrofoam ball. The little Santa Claus head is a baby food jar in which Christmas candy has been placed, an easy task for children.

Eileen Armstrong with Cheryl Baldwin and Ann Kitchen.

King-sized Christmas Greeting

Eileen Armstrong, the new crafts director of the Belleville Young Men's Christian Association, began her duties last Saturday by leading a large group of children in the construction of a massive Christmas mural.

The mural, actually two 12-foot longpieces, will be presented to the Hastings Manor Home for the Aged this Saturday. It is currently hanging in the YMCA.

"The idea was to let the children express their feelings," m. Armstrong said, "to get them to show what they think Christmas is about."

NOTICE

ART by LISE ANN

I will be teaching Art Classes at 213 Front St., Belleville (at Bridge) on Monday and Wednesday beginning January 5, 1976. Medias will be pencil, charcoal, pen and ink, pastel and watercolor. Beginning with perspective (if needed) students will progress at their own speed with individual tutoring. I will have guest artists periodically. Students may pick their subjects such as still life, animals, scenes, buildings, live models and working from photograps will be covered, as well as Sunday field trips. There will be a maximum of 10 students — five vacancies remain.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

GARY

Gary is a 16-year-old who has never lived on a farm but would love to be a farmer.

He might do well there too, because he delights in the outdoors, likes to be helpful, is fond of animals and finds mechanical things fascinating. To be able to drive a tractor or a truck would launch him on to Cloud 9.

Gary is living in a small residence for boys. He gets on well with with the others and they with him. He's not so big himself, but Gary really wants a family, and says he would like brothers quite a bit older than himself or very much younger — toddlers or a baby perhaps.

Gary attends vocational school where, as at home, his main interest is in mechanical thing. His only poor marks have been in physical education. He is not keen on team sports though he will play football with the boys in the house when they need an extra.

Swimming, skiing and camping delight Gary. He has been on one long camping trip where he got to sleep out every night and cooked their own meals. He also enjoys dancing, seeing a lot of Canada, Gary says that help a highlight of his life.

Classical music is much enjoyed by the son of his foster parents and Gary often joins him in listening to records. He likes the more average pop music as well.

Gary goes regularly to church and belongs to a young people's group.

This lad needs a mother and father who will appreciate his pleasant personality and his helpful nature. They should add him in developing self-confidence, enjoy sharing activities with him and not be concerned about academic success.

To inquire about adopting Gary, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 387, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

She Saves Shakers

SAHNIA, Ont. (CP) — Ina Riddoch of Sahnia introduced upon by the animals and funny characters she has in her kitchen.

She has a kangaroo, two whales, a goose, a bartender, a man dancing a cancan girl and a hungry pair of cannibals.

They are all characters in her salt and pepper collection—a hobby she has indulged in for 18 years.

In that time she has acquired more than 65 sets ranging in size from less than an inch to some dachshunds about a foot long.

Most of the shakers have come from friends and relatives who pick them up in their travels.

All shapes and sizes, they are made from many materials — wood, ceramic, metal, plastic, china, and one pair is carved from stone.

Mrs. Riddoch, a native of Scotland, tells how she received a set in the shape of reflecting percolators on a pair of brothers.

"I had given a piece of rock from one of my trips to Scotland to a woman who has a stone grinder. She took the pieces, polished it and in return gave me this set because she hadn't been able to do my shelf," said Mrs. Riddoch.

Ann Landers

Cursed with 'Toothpicks,' Reader Depressed

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me. I am depressed and miserable. I don't want to see anybody or do anything. The problem is my legs. They are so thin they look like toothpicks. I tie as if I've been corseted.

Whenever I'm with my boyfriend and a woman with good looking legs walks by, I want to bull her. I know this sounds extreme, but I'm being honest with you.

A girl who works in the same department with me has very heavy legs, but I'd trade mine for hers any day. When I told her this she said I was nuts. Am I?

Can anything be done to add weight to a person's body? Would certain exercises help? Thanks for your advice; Am—Dependent.

Dear D.: Very little can be done about legs that are too thin. Have you thought about pantsuits for both daytime and nighttime wear? (I'm assuming the rest of you is thin, also.)

If you are still depressed about your legs when you read this letter I hope you will visit a rehabilitation institute or the wing of a hospital that cares for patients with spinal cord injuries. After you see a dozen people in wheelchairs (young and old) who wouldn't give anything in the world if they could walk again, you'll thank God for any pair of legs that can get you where you want to go.

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who drives me straight up the wall because she has a mouth that runs on a full tank. She is never short of wind and refuses to let anyone else say a word.

It's talk, talk, talk, blah, blah, nonsense, trivia, gossip, up to ta, "Ms . . . mine . . . I did this . . . I said that . . . I think . . . I bought . . . I saw." Honestly, Ann, I can't bear to listen to her interminable yakking another minute. Whenever I'm with her for an hour I get a terrific headache.

How can I shut off the egomaniac without coming right out and telling her I don't want to listen to her any more?—Ready To Explode

Dear Ready: Is the woman handcuffed to your wrist? Why should you be in her presence if she's such a bore? Part of the problem is you. The inability to say no comes from an irritating problem — producing person pleasers there's trouble with both sides. Look into it, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is always entering a contest and she never wins anything. This has been going on for as long as I can remember.

Mom has spent a lot of time (and money) on her entries. They look great to me. Can it be that most of the contests are phony? If so, how do the big national brand companies get away with it?

We'd appreciate it if you'd look into this.—Two Many Disappointments.

Dear T.M.D.: Most well-advertised contests are on the level. Somebody wins. But too often the winners are "professional" contest people who make a career of it. They know all the ropes.

Your mother should read the rules carefully before she invests any more time and money. Some contests are not in certain states. Moreover, your mom may not qualify on other grounds. The small print is frequently ignored by the eager beavers. I hope your letter alerts other considered losers.

British Birth Control Pill Causes Cancer in Beagles

LONDON (Reuter) — Two birth control pills are being withdrawn in Britain following evidence that a hormone in them has produced cancer tumors in beagle bitches.

Volidan 21 and Serial 28, available here since 1962 and 1967 respectively, are taken by about 75,000 women—almost three per cent—of women using contraceptive pills in Britain.

Evidence of a possible link with cancer—the first for a contraceptive pill—came from the United States where beagle bitches were fed up to 50 times the human dose of the hormone, megestrol-acetate, continuously over seven years. Some developed cancerous breast tumors.

The manufacturer, Organon of Flockhart, a subsidiary of the Glaxo Co., is withdrawing them in Britain and said the pills also are being withdrawn in other countries.

In West Berlin, West Germany's federal health bureau today banned the manufacture and sale of contraceptive pills containing megestrol-acetate.

A spokesman for the bureau said tests on animals have shown that the chemical caused tumors of the breast.

AROUND TOWN with DAVID SAUNDERS

". . . no advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town."

The Economics of Scale

Anybody who has been around a supermarket recently is aware of the dazzling array of household products on display. There is a wide choice of products which have to be bought frequently by any homeowner, and often we wish that it was possible to buy these in greater bulk less often. However, you may not be aware that there is a place in town that you can buy just about the best household cleaning products in bulk . . . ServiceMaster, 179 Pinnacle Street (at rear) stock waxes, deodorizers for the home, wax removers, and all of the first class products that they use in their day by day cleaning service operation. You can buy 1 gallon drums of these fine products at substantial cost savings, and not have to bother about stocking up for many months in the future. Interested? Call ServiceMaster at 967-1672 for further details or drop around to their place on Pinnacle Street.

Watch Out!

Even in this enlightened age, "quack cures" for serious eye diseases are being advertised. Some are actually harmful; others, harmless in themselves do damage by delaying proper treatment. Don't be fooled! Follow the advice of your eye doctor. If an examination reveals that you need glasses — and a lot of us do after the age of 40 — obtain them on prescription only. Don't pick out an over-the-counter pair of spectacles even just because they look good . . . your wonderful eyes are too delicate, sensitive and important for this kind of guesswork. Optical advice brought to you each week by Quinte Optical, 54 Bridge Street East. Quinte Optical will be glad to arrange eye examinations on your behalf. Telephone 962-9311 for details.

Mix a Little Folly . . .

Horace, the Roman sage said it, literally thousands of years ago . . . "Mix a little folly with your wisdom: a little nonsense is pleasant now and then". It is a good thought at Christmas, a time to unwind and enjoy yourselves with family and friends. Whatever you wish to include in your festive season, remember that the Sidney Inn, 285 Moira St. West stocks just about every imaginable kind of mix . . . for every possible concoction you may wish to brew up. One good thing about the Sidney Inn is its accessibility and its spacious car park. This makes loading up supplies a lot easier! And remember, if you haven't got your Christmas tree up yet, this is the place to pick one out. Fresh and aromatic from the country-side, they're stacked in a respectful section of the car park. The telephone number of the Sidney Inn is 968-8131.

River of Crystal Light

Do you remember the lines by Eugene Field . . . "Wynken, Blynken and Nod one night, sailed off in a wooden shoe, sailed on a river of crystal light into a sea of dew". He packed a lot of wonder and excitement of childhood into these words, for wonderful times we have been fascinated by light. One of the earliest - and most obvious things - that man worshipped, was the Sun. The Roman god Mithras was the Prince of light . . . and today the lights of Christmas shine brightly at Hanby Electric, 231 Coleman Street, where they still have some seasonal decorations left from their extraordinary pre-Christmas sale . . . Tiffany lamps, swag lights or colonial lamps, they block a warm and wonderful selection, a gift that will be remembered and talked about for years to come. Bring sweetness and light into the lives of those you love! It really can be one of the most thoughtful and practical ways to give at Christmas.

Spirit of Christmas Present

In the final busy days before Christmas it's good to get away from the bustle of excitement in the city, and drive through the quiet, snowy back-countryside. The roads are bare, and its cold and still out there, perfect for a long walk that will bring out the roses in your cheeks and perk up your appetite . . . just the ticket for the lass as the Bay, Glenora Road, in Picton . . . Drop into the new Admiral Villeneuve Room for a snack or meal in surroundings before you head outside to dine in the gracious rooms of the old house. It's a Dickensian atmosphere, especially appropriate at this time of year. If you intend dining there tonight, do please phone ahead. The number in Picton is 476-3114.

How Clean Can You Get?

Talking to the people at Gibbs and Son, the Vacuum Specialists, recently I realized just how little I knew about vacuum cleaners — or rather what significant advances had been made in the field in recent years. Gibbs are agents for the Vista line of vacuum cleaners, a brand name that is known for its solid reliability and versatility. They come in two different models — Upright and Canister — and sport a variety of features from Turbo brush that provides the most powerful suction on the market, to a removable paper bag that can be dropped into the upright model and recycled 8 to 10 times. These models clean everything from shag to bare floors, drapes to chesterfields, and can penetrate into the most awkward places. Gibbs and Son, 27 Albion Street will be glad to arrange a free home demonstration. Call them at 968-5384.

Cutting a Rug

For those of you old enough to remember, that was slang, in the roaring twenties, for dancing. Decor Studios in the Plaza on Dundas St. East has a great variety of area rugs in stock just now . . . "Ryn" brand name in a Tempest pattern, sized 4'6"x8'6" regularly priced at $89 are now on special offer for the low price of $59 . . . Oriental Sasino Rugs sized 5'5" are at the low price of $100 — they would usually cost you $138. The Decor Studios also have a most attractive line in Scandinavian "Tronsoe" rugs — 5'6"x 8'10" — that they have dropped in price from $199 to $139. It's a great buy in this item, and a colorful rug can really add character to a room. Some of these are so good to look at that they are quite suitable as wall hangings! Henk Fritjers at 966-5842. He's always willing to talk about his great love — interior design.

Time Is Running Out

Winter always seem to catch us by surprise, and perhaps it will this year even more than usual. People always seem to have more things to do in the last minute . . . like winter tune-ups and fitting snow tires. That's why Vader's Car Sales, 11 College St. W. would like to remind you that all that cold weather is literally just around the corner, and their factory-trained mechanics would like to see that your car is in good shape to face the rough and cold ahead. Vader's also have an extensive line in gift ideas in their accessories department . . . roof racks, steering wheels for sports type, seat covers and just about anything that can help to make driving more pleasurable. And remember, December 31 is the absolute last day for sales tax rebate on 1973 cars. Phone Ken Float at 968-5302 for full details.

Why Is Hard Water Harmful?

That water in your tap contains many minerals dissolved from the earth, but the largest concentrates are calcium and magnesium. These particular minerals which turn water "hard" make it difficult to use water as a cleaning agent because they make soap 'curd', lowering its effectiveness and forcing us to use more to achieve results. Anybody who has tried to save in hard water will know what I mean! Mairs Schaeter Fuels, 17 Pinnacle St. South are agents for the extremely Aquaflow Water Refiners, which have particular relevance to those of us who live in and around Belleville.

More Frequencies Needed

Businessman Fights

CALGARY (CP) — Ed Wong, 69, a small grocery store owner organized a demonstration against a newly-opened Mac's Milk store next to his shop. Backed by a petition with 1,500 signatures, Mr. Wong said it was impossible for a small independent store to compete with the big chains.

Against Publicity

EDMONTON (CP) — Grant Ross, marries couples who choose a civil ceremony instead of a conventional church wedding—in front of an altar in his basement. An appointed marriage commissioner since his retirement, Mr. Ross says he believes marriage is a private affair and refuses to conduct ceremonies in parks and other public places.

Enrollment Up

SASKATOON (CP) — A record 11,251 daytime degree course students enrolled at University of Saskatchewan this year, Registrar J. A. Dergal said this was 883 more than last year and 487 more than in 1969-70, the previous record year.

University Course Teaches Confidence

EDMONTON (CP) — Teaching people to stand up for themselves is a bit like teaching them how to skate, says Edmonton psychologist Jim Beaubien.

"The difference between assertive and non-assertive persons seems to be a set of habits or skills that some people don't pick up along the way," said Mr. Beaubien, who is teaching an assertiveness training course sponsored by University of Alberta.

"These are specialized skills that can be learned."

The non-credit course, which uses eye contact, relaxation tapes and psychodrama, "is about being able to assert yourself and feel good in the process," he said. It does not teach aggressive behavior, which is "as non-productive as non-assertiveness."

"The key approach is to give non-assertive persons the opportunity to practise behavioral changes and to receive some coaching. The idea is to develop assertive responses."

Students are placed in imaginary situations and asked to act out assertive responses to such incidents as being served a bad meal in a restaurant.

"We try to get people out of their traditional way of responding," Mr. Beaubien said. "Once people are aware of their traditional response patterns, they have the opportunity to change."

Students work with a number of different techniques at each session, the psychologist said.

"Some of these techniques may seem to bear little relationship to real-life situations, but are presented with the idea the person will apply them as needed," he said.

The "broken record" technique, designed to teach persistence in fulfilling one's own needs, involves an encounter between two persons. The first person repeats his wish over and over to a second person, who rejects it each time.

"The student thus learns to hold onto his wish no matter what manipulative techniques the second person comes back with," Mr. Beaubien said. "You've got to teach people not to be responsive to all the little things people may say to manipulate them."

A second technique called "fogging," prevents people from being manipulated by sloppily short the kind of responses they may succumb to.

St. Lucia Still Has English Influence

CASTRIES (CP) — This capital city of the Caribbean island of St. Lucia has frequently been used heritage but is English in character. That is understandable since the island changed hands between the two countries 14 time: in 200 years before Britain gained the final victory in 1803.

Today the island is an associated state of Britain. Castries still bears the name of a French minister for the navy and colonies.

With one of the finest harbors in the Caribbean, Castries is a well laid-out town following fire which destroyed most of the old buildings in 1948.

Above the city on Morne Fortune—Hill of Good Luck—is Fort Charlotte where the British flag was raised by Queen Victoria's father, the Duke of Kent, after one of the changeovers. The hill offers a fine view of the town.

St. Lucia also boasts a connection with French royalty, asserting that the Empress Josephine was born there in 1763, and not on the island of Martinique, which has long claimed the honor. Her family had a plantation near Castries and lived there until 1771.

Among the attractions of the island, which was visited by 7,... last year, are a drive-in and walk-in volcano, lots of spectacular scenery and interesting villages as well as beaches and resort hotels.

Soufriere is a dormant volcano of bubbling sulphur springs less than 20 miles from Castries. The road winds around the mountains and along the coastline, a 1½-hour drive. The town of Soufriere can also be reached by sailboat in 2½ hours or by launch in 1½ but local transportation must then be arranged at the harbor.

Be sure to ask whether quoted price is in Canadian or United States currency or BeeWees, the local name for the British West Indian dollar currency, also referred to as EC, for Eastern Caribbean. Use Canadian or American dollar is road into Soufriere you see

... Pitons. Piton means spike and there rising dramatically out of the ocean are two volcanic peaks, Gros Piton and Petit Piton. The former, at 2,619 feet, is 138 feet higher than its companion.

Soufriere, second-largest town on the island, has two gastronomic restaurants. The Still, with a front consisting of an old plantation house, and The Ruins, a 19-year-old louvred house with an old four-poster bed arranged as a bar. Both feature creole dishes.

At the sulphur springs, about seven miles from town, the hot-spring baths ordered by Louis XIV for his troops still are in ...

Another day-long excursion ... is the drive to Dennery, through a magnificent rain forest. The town is named for Comte d'Esnery, a French governor-general.

U.S. Economy in 1976 Still Under Speculation

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States started out of the worst recession in 60 years in 1975 but year-end indicators were still pointing in all directions, making the 1976 outlook a subject of wary speculation.

Basically, leading economists and government forecasters remained optimistic that the recovery will continue through the next year and into 1977, although probably at about half the roaring rate of last summer.

While both businesses and consumers had increased their cash income by year's end, they seemed to lack the confidence to step up spending significantly.

This seemed the basic factor causing uncertainty and there was concern in governments circles that new economic statistics might heighten the uneasiness.

Real gross national product (GNP), the measure of final value of all goods and services, grew at an annual rate of 13 per cent, extremely high, in the third quarter of 1975, creating the strongest level of public confidence for the year.

However, the bulk of sales since the recovery began last May have been from inventories and there was little indication that industry was moving to enlarge its productive capacity to meet any future increased demand without raising prices sharply and refuelling inflation.

The Federal Reserve Board index showed new production was increasing at an annual rate of less than 5 per cent in October and November, far below the normal pace of about six per cent in times of economic strength.

Even sales from inventories fell off near the end of 1975 with expectations that GNP growth may be failing to a more realistic level.

On the positive side, however, corporate profits surged to 18.4 per cent a year in the third quarter, the highest rate since 1966, providing businesses with substantially increased pools of cash for new investment.

The United States also seemed likely to record a surplus of nearly $11 billion in foreign trade in 1975, giving the U.S. dollar a strong boost on international monetary exchanges.

Offsetting this spur to the dollar's strength was a gradual lowering of interest rates expected in the first part of 1976, making the U.S. currency slightly less attractive to ... Imports were expected to pick up substantially as domestic demand for foreign goods strengthened.

Inflation was brought under control, at least for the time being, dropping to an annual rate of 7.5 per cent from 12.2 per cent in 1974.

But there were warning signals on the price front, too. The heaviest labor bargaining schedule in three years was set for 1976 with about 4.5 million workers, led by the powerful Teamsters union, preparing to negotiate new contracts. They mood seemed militant.

Economists feared excessive wage increases would set off a new round of inflation. Since the end of 1972, workers' average gross weekly pay measured in constant 1967 dollars has actually dropped 5.3 per cent while after-tax pay, adjusted for inflation, dropped four per cent from 1973 levels.

The main concern seemed to be that unless wages try not only to recoup these losses but to make large gains as well, Wall Street reflected these worries, recovering sluggishly from the depressed 1974 levels but fluctuating wildly at times as year-end statistics began to appear.

Also troubling economists and government officials was the behavior of consumers who although incomes were generally stagnant or falling slightly in real terms, were stepping up their rate of savings instead of decreasing it.

Consumers seemed to be creating a hedge against future inflation and unemployment. The jobless rate, while moderating, remained at roughly 8.5 per cent for 1975 and experts predicted it would stay above seven per cent in 1976.

A high savings rate usually means an eventual fall-off in spending, forcing governments to increase its outlays to beef up demand, but this in turn often creates too sudden an increase in the general money supply and generates its own forms of inflationary pressure.

On the energy front, Congress defeated President Ford's attempts to remove all controls from domestic oil, presenting him instead with a compromise bill which would initially lower prices, but then allow them to increase slowly during the next couple of years.

Faced with sharp cuts in Canadian oil exports and reluctant to increase dependence on Middle East supplies, the administration moved to help finance the search for new domestic sources and pay for the development of alternatives to oil, particularly nuclear energy.

But the process started with painful slowness and no rapid pickup was in sight.

City Council Again Defers Any Decision on Sidney Sidewalk

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A decision on construction of a sidewalk to heighten safety near a Sidney St. school has again been postponed by city council.

Council, for the second time in two weeks, balked at a traffic committee recommendation that it consider budgeting in 1976 for a walkway near Our Lady of Fatima separate school.

Council had earlier sent the proposal back to the committee after Ald. Jim Cox said it would cause youngster to cross the intersection of Sidney and Wilson Ave.— an area with heavy industrial traffic.

The committee discussed the point last week and voted to retain the recommendation intact to council.

Ald. Cox this time was waiting with a sketch showing children would have to cross 120 feet to get onto a sidewalk up on the northside of Wilson. He suggested the walkway be laid on the southside — penalizing youngsters to cross further away from the intersection.

Ald. Paul Rustell said drivers had a better view of pedestrians at the intersection as their vehicles slowed to turn.

And, he added, traffic officials for years had been endeavoring to make youngsters cross at intersections.

Council decided to table the recommendation — until it receives the committees' minutes of debate on the issue for further discussion.

Mall Gets City Council Approval for Expansion

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

City council has advanced expansion plans for the Meadowland Quinte Mall past one basic, but crucial, local requirement — transit.

Council, Monday night, amended zoning regulations to assure developers Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd. it could start planning construction of the project. The expansion will add another 195,000 square to the existing mall's 233,000 square feet.

But the total approval process has yet to be worked out. Details still to agreed upon include:

— Ontario Municipal Board approval of the rezoning. The amending must also be circulated to neighbors property owners before OMB endorsement is sought.

— Agreements on cost-sharing of services to the site between the city and Cambridge.

The agreements were still not in a form acceptable to council, reported city manager Wilbur Purcell. Nonetheless the specimen documents presented to city councillors were considered sufficient to form the basis of forthcoming suitable agreement.

On that basis, he recommended rezoning approval to meet Cambridge's expansion timetable.

Urgency was also implied by Ronald Ellingwood, Cambridge consultant. He said the developer is aiming for construction start on March or April.

But issuance of a building permit depends upon final approval of rezoning by the OMB.

Clauses recommended for the services agreement will specify equal apportionment of cost-sharing if installations exceed present estimates.

The services include sewers, road-widening of Bell Blvd. to four lanes the length of the mall property—and new traffic signal control at the North Front St. intersection.

Total cost of this is $436,000, to which Cambridge would contribute $200,000, or about 45 per cent.

Mr. Ellingwood said one concern of the developer might be that the city could install a bigger sewer than originally projected, to service future developments in the area.

This would mean Cambridge could be paying a share for other projects.

Mayor Bea Corke said the mall now generates about $250,000 or more in city taxes. By 1979 this will increase substantially.

City hall he said faces one problem with civic expansion: As new areas develop, consume more capital funds, which are restricted by the provincial government. In turn, this means older city areas are neglected.

However, he said, he basically favors the mall developer should pay for service on the 45 per cent sharing formula.

Alarm Box

Monday, Dec. 15, 11.37 a.m. — oil burner overheated at 83 South George St.; no fire.

Monday, Dec. 15, 8.33 p.m. — overloaded fuses at 377 Charles St.; no fire.

Tuesday, Dec. 16, 6.01 a.m. — frozen sprinkler line in outside coal bin broke at McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing Ltd. (Belleville Division) 40 Sidney St.; pressure drop set off fire department alarm.

Expansion Talk

Ronald Ellingwood, consultant for Cambridge Leaseholds, talks over cost sharing details for services to Quinte Mall before city council. Later, council passed a zoning amendment for the expansion project which now goes to Ontario Municipal Board.

Council Briefs

Station May Come Down

City council Monday signalled it has no objection to demolition of the old Canadian Pacific Rail Station on south Church St.

Council's was asked for its sanction earlier this year, but postponed a decision after discussion on the building's potential as a restaurant.

But, wrote Donald W. Curtis chairman of CP Hotels, company engineers report such a conversion would not be "economically viable."

Parking Ban Passes

City council Monday night approved two recommendations from its traffic committee: (1)

(1) No parking on the east side of Singleton from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

(2) A three-way stop at the intersection of Montgomery-MacDonald-Hastings.

Crossing Closed

Federal approval has been received for closing off of South John St. Canadian Pacific Railway level-crossing.

Mayor Bea Corke said CPR should begin work on sealing the crossing to traffic early in the New Year.

Meeks Questions Costs

How much does it cost the treasury when city hall proclaims days and weeks marking special events?

The query came from Ald. Stu Meeks Monday night as city council formally proclaimed Boxing Day a public holiday.

Ald. Meeks said it would be "a real interesting exercise" to total the cost of such proclamations — which must be advertised.

Mayor Bea Corke said the request would be taken under advisement.

Bylaw Read Again

City council Monday found itself passing a second ordinance in more than two months on the question of a senior citizen housing project.

The ordinance: The Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) agreement covered by the earlier by law was the wrong one.

The original OHC agreement Oct. 6 supposedly involved the 83-unit senior citizen building on Bleecker Cres. It was later discovered the agreement was property description submitted by the OHC was for the Moira Apartments, complex for the elderly on East Bridge St.

School Levy Approved

A levy in lieu of taxes on the Sir Lancelot Whitney Home for the deaf should bring $18,800 to Belleville's city treasury

The Ontario Treasurer's offices recently informed city hall it can 'charge the school $50 for each pupil in the institution. It sets the school's capacity at 376.

City council Monday night passed a bylaw authorizing the levy in lieu of taxes.

10,000th Bylaw Introduced

City hall has crafted its 10,000th bylaw.

The ordinance — passed Monday night by city council — was a rezoning amendment to permit expansion of the northend Quinte Mall.

Meeting Last of Year

City council held its last regular meeting of 1975 Monday night.

It's next session was scheduled for Dec. 29. But because of Christmas season Monday night council decided to dispense with the meeting.

Ambulance Operators Form Counter Proposal

Ambulance operators from across the Quinte area met in Belleville Monday to discuss how local ambulances should be administered and formulate a counter proposal to be given to the ministry of health, Friday. Those present, however refused any comment in the matter.

During the past year, Belleville ambulance service has come under heavy fire from provincial authorities, who say too much money is being spent in the city for the service.

The ministry of health spent the past year drafting a study and recommendations that will "create a more cost effective "ambulance service for not only Belleville but the entire area.

The recommendation has already been acted upon. An accidental dispatch system for the entire area was set up in Belleville General Hospital to reduce duplication of equipment purchases and to provide more co-ordination of ambulances in the area.

Although the ministry report has not yet been made public, unofficial sources from Monday's meeting said, it implemented.

The report would mean a 50 per cent reduction of ambulance staff in Belleville.

A ministry spokesman, earlier, said reduction of one vehicle from each shift is a major part of the study findings.

Christmas Pageant

Even Santa's elves took time out of their busy work schedule to sing Monday at Williams R. Kirk School's annual Christmas pageant.

Theme of this year's production was, A Charlie Brown Christmas. Playing elves were: (from left) Alan Dawson, Marie McCann and Jan Blatchford.

Inflation Leaves City Short on 3 Projects

City council learned Monday how inflation has hit some of its major work programs.

Revised estimates on the city's capital works quota showed the $723,500 remaining in the budget falls short of adjusted costs on three schemes: Reconstruction of Paul-Dundas St. from Front St. to Bleecker Ave.; Pinnacle St. extension over the Moira River and the watermain to the northeast industrial park.

Funds still required for the three projects in current budget now are set at $811,155, reported city manager Wilbur Purcell. This is an increase of $87,087 over the present quota — a difference of about 2.5 per cent.

He recommended council seek the balance of present funding allocations for the street-rebuilding and bridge projects.

Council passed three resolutions for Ontario Municipal Board approval.

It asked permission to issue debentures on the East Dundas reconstruction ($300,000); Pinnacle St. bridge and property purchases ($225,825) and the watermain extension ($258,500).

Revolver Stolen

The theft of a 22-calibre, seven-shot revolver from an apartment here recently has Belleville police concerned, says Cpl Douglas Crosbie.

Chief Crosbie said today the firearm, which has a white handle, is among items missing from the apartment at 804 South Front St. sometime after Dec. 8.

Also missing are a quantity of antique coins, a diamond ring and a watch fob, he said, adding the total value is still unknown.

Chief Crosbie said the theft went unnoticed because the tenant is in hospital.

Employee Robbed

Belleville police are seeking two men who robbed a 19-year-old Belleville youth of $40 and his wallet in the Don Hat Parking lot on Front St. Monday.

Police say Stephen Mark Furze of 604 Victoria Ave. an employee of Tele of the White at 322 Front St., was sent by his employer to get $40 worth of change at Up-Town Submarine and Burger Shop at 324 Front St. at 6 p.m.

On his return, he was accosted by two males in the parking lot, police relate. Furze, who was uninjured, escaped when a passerby distracted his attackers.

Contents of the wallet, were unknown and $180 worth of taps and earphones were recovered from the Nov. 26 incurrence, police add.

The attackers' descriptions are unavailable pending further investigation.

Three Youths in Court on Theft Charge

Two youths pleaded guilty and another youth had a date set for trial when they appeared before Judge J.L. Clendenning in provincial court here Monday on charges of break, enter and theft.

William Edward Forbes, 17, of 42 Thorneliffe Dr., in Belleville will appear in provincial court here Jan. 21 for trial on one count of break,enter and theft.

David Ronald Hedger, 17, of 26 West College St. in Belleville and Gerry Lee Johnston, 16, of Corbyville were remanded to Jan. 13 for sentencing.

Hedger pleaded guilty to two counts and Johnston pleaded guilty to one count of break, enter and theft.

Belleville police say the three youths were each charged with one count of break, enter and theft in connection with a break-in at Holy Rosary Elementary School on East College St. here Nov. 30.

Police say Hedger was charged with an additional count of break, enter and theft in connection with another break-in at the school Nov. 28.

The male youths were arrested at 7:30 a.m. Nov. 30 at the school after a series of two break-ins and an attempted break-in during the week of Nov. 23, police say.

Two tape recorders and a portable typewriter with a total value of $300 were recovered from the Nov. 30 incident and $180 worth of taps and earphones were recovered from the Nov. 26 incurrence, police add.

Corke Has High Praise For Former City Mayor

City council paid tribute Monday night to a former member with distinguished service at city hall — A. McLean Haig.

Mr. Haig died suddenly Sunday. He was 68.

Mr. Haig's civic record was recalled by Mayor Bea Corke as that of a man of "very considerable ability."

Mayor Corke stressed Mr. Haig's role in assisting in civic office — after service as mayor and alderman in the early 1950s — after the 1950 inquiry into the city's finances.

Among his achievements was his formula for retiring the $565,000 shortfall incurred in city finances, said the mayor.

Added Mayor Corke: "His death has been a severe loss to me, because unfortunately I consulted with him on some matters ... (which) he could lend some advice on from a long and varied career."

Sewage Disposal Costs To Rise Next Year

Cost of sewage disposal service is going up in Belleville.

City council Monday voted for a cost formula which will increase rates by steps over the next five years.

Since 1973 the city has paid the Ontario environment ministry — which operates the sewage disposal plant — 17.3 cents per thousand gallons treated.

The ministry offered the city a choice of paying the higher charge through a fixed rate of 39.5 cents per thousand gallons or stepped increase starting at 18.10 cents in 1976 and reaching 21.30 cents by 1980.

City manager Wilbur Purcell said he believed the stepped-rate option would benefit the city.

New Leader Won't Hurt Grits Says Contender

The prospect of a Liberal party with a new leader facing the Ontario election next year doesn't alarm Mark MacGuigan.

In fact, such a combination could be an electoral boon, says Mr. MacGuigan—44-year-old MP for Windsor-Walkerville, and one of the seven declared candidates for the party's Ontario leadership.

Mr. MacGuigan was in Belleville Monday as part of a quick swing along the Ontario Lake shore to acquaint leadership - convention delegates with his personality and policies.

An early election with a new leader would have a positive effect on Liberal victory chances in replace the minority Progressive Conservative government, Mr. MacGuigan said in an interview after meeting party workers over lunch at the Sun Luck Gardens.

The Liberal leadership convention is in January. An early campaign would see the Liberals "on the move with a new leader and a new emphasis in policy," he said.

But in table talk, Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte, said he dubbed an early campaign call.

"I don't think anybody really wants an election right now, said Mr. O'Neil. "I don't feel we'll have an election until next fall, a year from spring ... unless something triggers it off and he, Premier Davis) figures he can win."

The next election, whenever it's called, must see the Liberals stage a strong centre-of-be-road campaign, Mr. MacGuigan told the delegates. Last week's British Columbia election, which ousted a New Democratic Party government, was a "real body blow" to Ontario NDP who were modelling their strategy after the Barrett administration head, he said.

The Liberals must avoid being polarized to the left with the NDP which would, assure a Conservative gain, warned MacGuigan.

"It will very much be an election in which economic issues are important. If we're on the wrong side of this and we promise big spending programs of any kind, I think the people will be turned off."

Seeking Support

Mark McGuigan, MP Windsor-Walkerville, was in Belleville Monday to meet delegate to Ontario Liberal leadership convention where he'll be one of the candidates. Among local Liberals he met were Charles Bates (left), party organizer for Eastern Ontario, and Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte.

Jewellers on Target

Flett place Doug Jones Jewellers kept rolling along in the Minor Bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's house league program last week, getting shutout goaltending from Brad Pulla in a 4-0 win over Y's Men's Club. Kenneth Kent, Robert Indeway, Lorne Harden, Danny McGrath and Kevin Johnston shot the Jewellers' goals. Larry Drabot helped himself to three assists.

Legion put on a late drive which saw two goals in the team's 7-6 squeaker over Bob's Auto Body. The losers' line of Don Carisio, Jim McMullen and Todd Belch was flying, sharing 16 points. Carisio had five goals while McMullen scored once and drew five assists and Belch was also in on five of the scoring plays. David Quinney had three of the winners' goals with two each for Neil Ellis and Terry Calder. Jeff Ricketts earned four assists and Calder, three.

Three goals by Steve Barley led Red Shark past McInroy-Blainers 6-2. Ted Cameron, David Maikawa and Ross Harvey had the other counters. Mike Miller counted both the losers' goals.

Jim Cook closed the door as Kiwanis as Blake Kerr Etco earned a 2-0 win. Ty Cole and Don Peel were the marksmen.

Whitley Rentalls Peewee Major Selects, second place team in the standings, finished three place Ed's Esso 7-4 decision. Tim Marshall scored three times Steve Clarey, Brian Crawkwright, Gord Graham and Rick MacDonald each hit for a goal and Craig Saxby picked up three assists. Mike Weatherhead, Greg Miller, Mike Vasi and Doug Austin replied for Ed's.

Bill McQuaid was the top marksman in the Midget division, counting three goals to lead Tim Horton Donuts past ANAF Dukes 8-6. Other goals went to Randy Cox with two, Mark Houle, Gary Frederick and Tim Bellrose. Fred Laing had two for Dukes with the other goals going to Pye Lewis, Doug Fraser, Steve Pearce and Gene Pearce.

Gary Stapely and Lynn Simpson each scored twice in Bantam action as Sterling Sheet Metal, Wally Jawood sided one to the attack. Ron Ferguson had the losers' answer.

Licence Leisure World Bantam Major Selects earned a 3-3 draw with Dennark Construction on goals by Shane Butcher, Andy Rossit and Steve Gilbey. Counting for DeMark were Ken Mc-Catcheon, Brian Gooding and Gary Mrinyuy.

With Duff Porteous supplying two goals, Legion knocked off Nov Royals 5-2. Bernard Trumpour, Greg Mulvihill and Dennis Greer had one each for the winners. Ernie Gordon took care of both the goals for the losers.

Uptown Billiards, with Tim Duvall potting a pair of goals, got by Sun Jack Gardens 3-1. Ron Doorobos had the other Uptown goal and Scott Hubbs scored for Sun Luck.

Chuckwagon, Yardmen Share the Top Rung

Belleville Yardmen and Chuckwagon Foods continued their leap-frog act with Bob's Sports, Monday, in the duel for first place in the Gas House Hockey League.

Bob's, Ido Monday, entered first place by Yardmen and Chuckwagon who both moved one point up the second place squad, with 18 points each. The league leaders own identical 9-3 records while Bob's is 8-4-1 for 17 points.

As the league moved into the second half of its schedule, Chuckwagon turned back Rollies Lumber 5-3 while Yardmen outscored Bayview Orchards 6-5. In the third game, Murray's Food Market fell a little short of the mark in a bid for its second win of the season, bowing 8-5 to Jim's Pizzeria.

Tom Pierce was a two-goal shooter for Chuckwagon which got singles from Al Walker, Mark Acquafredde and Don Donaldson. Walker also picked up two assists as did Tom McDonald. Checking in with one helper each were Pierce, Fred Sickle and Wayne Brown.

Rollies, with only nine men in the lineup, gave it a good shot with Dale Tummon firing a pair of goals and Bill Dunn scoring once and arranging another counter.

A five-point night by Dan Lupenette powered Yardmen past Bayview. Lupenette scored twice and picked up three assists. Single goals went to Rob Bastedo, Doug Thompson, Rob Brown and Ron Richardson. Don Bonter and Bill—Minaker replied for the losers.

Cougars Stall Huskies' Drive

CO-TOURG (Special) — Frankford Huskies had their climb up the standings-ladder in Lake Ontario Hockey Association Junior C League interrupted here, Monday night.

Huskies, sixth in the seven-team league, have been showing signs recently of challenging the upper echelon clubs in the standings but they could not gain any headway here.

Cobourg Cougars, trailing 3 1 early in the first period, exploded for eight consecutive goals in gaining a 10-7 win.

A four-goal display by Marty Kernaghan keyed the Cougars' attack.

The Tim Neroo-Jamie Ogden-Mark Bamford front line led Huskies. Neroo scored twice with singles for each of his linemates. Sandy Waiers, John MacKenzie and Dan Bedard had the other Frankford goals.

Huskies make their next start, Friday when they play host to Port Hope in an 8.30 p.m. game.

Wellington Dukes Score 10-0 Win

WELLINGTON (Special) — Saturday's hazardous driving conditions forced postponement of Wellington Dukes' scheduled Ontario Hockey Association Junior D game in Hallowton, Saturday and the local squad took it out on Bewdley when that team kept a Sunday date here.

With goalie Terry Harrison closing the door on the visitors, Dukes skated to a convincing 10-0 win.

Garnet Brant was the top sharpshooter with four goals. Barry Ellis was right in step with three while singles went to Larry McQuaid, Mike Lavender and Bob Green.

This week, Dukes have two games scheduled. The team is in Lakefield, Thursday and on Sunday, Wellington is at home to Bancroft for a 4.30 p.m. match.

Lafleur Will Continue Quest in the West

MONTREAL (CP) — Right winger Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens his quest for his first National Hockey League scoring title this week when the Canadiens play three games on the West Coast.

Lafleur now has 19 goals and a league-leading 30 assists for 49 points and a four-point lead over team-mate Peter Mahovlich.

Mahovlich has 17 goals and 28 assists and is just a point ahead of Bobby Clarke, Philadelphia Flyers captain. Clarke has 15 goals and 29 assists.

Jean Pronovost of Pittsburgh Penguins is fourth with a league-leading 20 goals to go with 21 assists for 41 points and a two-point lead over Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles Kings and Bryan Trottier of New York Islanders.

Dionne has 21 goals and 20 assists while Trottier, a top candidate for rookie honors, has 15 goals and 26 assists.

Montreal netminder Ken Dryden has the best goals-against average and the Canadiens have the best team average. Dryden has allowed 46 goals in 1,020 minutes played for a 1.85 goals-against team average. Compiles with Michel Larocque in give Montreal an over-all average of 2.22.

The shutout lead is shared by Dryden and Glenn Resch of the Islanders, each with four. Wayne Stephenson of the Flyers leads in goaltender wins with 19, one more than Dryden.

Steve Durbano of Pittsburgh leads the league in penalties with 167 minutes, 17 more than Philadelphia's Dave Schultz.

The league statistics show that 25 per cent of the goals scored this season have been on power plays. Of the 1,798 goals scored in the 576 games played, 446 were power-play efforts.

The Islanders have the best power-play mark, 27.4 per cent, getting 47 of their 125 with a man advantage.

Selects wasted little time scoring on their first two shots on goal—Gilbert at 2:19 and Belcourt at 5:37. Oil Kings came back with Hodgson scoring on their second shot against Moscow goalie Mikhail Vasiliev at 6:48, but Moscow got that goal back at 16:34 when Belcourt went through two Edmonton defencemen to beat Hendrick along the ice.

Hendrick allowed his only bad goal with 26 seconds gone in the second period as a 25-foot slapshot by Devlaire trickled in off his right pad. Then Kings came back with Hodgson and McMillan scoring to reduce Moscow's margin to 4-3 after the second period.

In the final frame, Moscow appeared to tire while the Kings improved defensively and a five-foot backhander by Hodgson tied the score at 2:06 before a 15-foot backhander by Chapman at 4:39 trickled in off Vasilevski's catching glove.

Hendrick, who had sparked a WCHL team to a victory over the Selects in Vancouver two years ago, made an outstanding sliding save on Moscow's Alexander Bariner with 40 seconds left to preserve the victory.

Oil Kings took seven of 11 minor penalties.

Tardif Leader

TORONTO (CP) — Marc Tardif of Quebec Nordiques continues to hold a 25cm lead in the World Hockey Association scoring race, say statistics released Monday by the league.

Tardif has 27 goals and 25 assists for 53 points, four more than Bobby Hull and Ulf Nilsson of Winnipeg Jets. Hull, who scored his 300th WHA goal Sunday night against Edmonton Oilers, has 19 goals and 29 assists.

Nilsson, Hull's linemate, has 18 goals and 22 assists. Christian Bordeleau of Quebec follows with 47 points, including a league-leading 35 assists.

Joe Daley of Winnipeg has the best goal-against average among goaltenders, a 2.22 average and four shutouts.

With a Little Help, Kings Trump Selects

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, bolstered by players from seven other Western Canada Hockey League teams, scored four unanswered goals in the last 31 minutes of play to defeat the touring Moscow Selects 5-4 before 10,181 fans here last night.

It was the first loss in five games so far during the Canadian exhibition tour by the Selects, who include seven members of the Red Army and five of the Soviet wings that will play exhibition games against National Hockey League clubs.

Edmonton was bolstered by 11 players from other WCHL teams, plus former Oil King and Calgary Centennial Larry Hendrick in goal.

The additions performed most of the heroics, as defenceman Rick Hodgson of Calgary scored three goals and Blair Chapman of Saskatoon and Dale McMullin of Brandon Wheat Kings added singles.

Vladimir Belousov scored twice for Moscow with Vladimir Bevlaiev and Vladimir Golikov counting single goals.

After a shaky start, Hendrick was outstanding in the last half of the game as Kings were credited with 12-6 in the final period while enjoying a 37-26 margin over-all.

Raymer Sparks Whitby

RENE ROBERT

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Paul Raymer scored two goals to pace Whitby Warriors to a 5-3 win over Lindsay Lancers in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Monday.

Other Whitby goals went to Rob Kirk, Peter Vipond and Ed Taylor.

Playing-coach Bob Rivard and Randy Rich replied for the Lancers, who trailed 3-1 at the end of the first period and 4-1 going into the third.

A crowd of 219 watched goaltender Bruce Jackson make 49 saves for Lindsay, outspread with 41 saves by Whitby's Dave Boyarski.

League action resumes Thursday with Lindsay playing in Whitby and Napanee Comets travelling to meet the Flyers in Earlte.

Boxing Brothers Winners

HAMILTON (CP) — Johnny Summerhays, the Canadian lightweight boxing champion from Stratford, Ont., defeated Johnny Bay of Hamilton in a 10-round bout Monday night.

Referee Harry Davis stopped the main event at 1:50 of the fifth round as Summerhays, 24, was pounding Bay at will along the ropes. Bay says he is 23 but his friends say he is closer to 27.

In the semi-final event of the boxing card at the Hamilton Forum, 25-year-old Gary Summerhays, Johnny's brother, took a scheduled eight - round mix-over Tracy Morrison of Kansas City. Gary is the Canadian light-heavyweight champion.

In preliminary action, Toronto's Daniele Pellgrino scored a technical knockout at 1:18 of the third round in a welterweight bout against Teddy Flaxton of Cleveland; Cecil King of Toronto took a six-round decision over Jerry Wells of Cleveland at 147 pounds; and Lee Barner of Detroit decisioned Ernie Wit of Cleveland over six rounds at 168 pounds.

Wingers Injured

BUFFALO (CP) — Rene Robert, right-winger on Buffalo Sabres' Connection line, will be out of National Hockey League action for a month as a result of a knee injury suffered in Sunday night's 7-4 loss here to Atlanta Flames. Robert, 26-year-old native of Trois-Rivieres, Que., was hit by a clean hip check from Hilliard Graves.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Right winger Bill Goldsworthy, leading scorer for Minnesota North Stars of the National Hocky League, suffered a twisted knee in Sunday night's 6-4 tie with Washington Capitals and will be out of action for about two weeks; Goldsworthy, 21, of Kitchener, Ont., has scored 14 goals this season.

Needs Collect Damages

VANCOUVER (CP) — A West Vancouver couple described as being obsessed with hockey and their hockey-playing son were awarded a total of $750 in damages Monday in a libel action against radio broadcaster Al Davidson.

Mr. Justice J. C. Bouck awarded $500 to Norman Neeld and his wife, Jean, and $250 to their son, Greg, 19, at the conclusion of a five-day British Columbia Supreme Court trial.

The suit for general damages followed a Dec. 17, 1972, broadcast by Davidson on radio station CKNW on the day Greg Neeld underwent an operation for the removal of his left eye which was injured in a hockey game in Toronto the day before.

The suit was against Davidson and Western Broadcasting Co. Ltd., owners of CKNW.

Shaky Squires Still Drawing

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Virginia Squires have the worst record and the shakiest franchise of the seven surviving American Basketball Association teams, but you couldn't prove it at the box office.

A sellout crowd of 10,010 turned out Monday night to watch the Squires absorb a 131-119 shellacking from Denver Nuggets in the only ABA action scheduled. There were no National Basketball Association games Monday.

It was the Squires' fifth consecutive defeat, dropping their record to 4-12.

But it had to be a shot in the arm for the team's owners, who seem to be operating on a day-to-day basis in their hopes of finishing out the season. Their dream, perhaps impossible, is gaining admission to the NBA and television exposure.

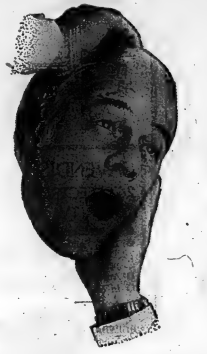
For a three-game series with the Nuggets that began last Thursday night in Richmond, the Squires attracted 21,780 fans—6,186 in Richmond and 8,594 Friday night in Newport News before the game here.

While David Thompson, who led the Nuggets with 31 points Monday night in their eighth win in a row, might have been the big attraction, full-page newspaper ads calling on fans to "save the Squires" might have helped.

In the last five games here, since it was announced the Squires would remain in business with the aid of funds from the Norfolk Investment Co., UIC the Squires' average attendance has been 7,594.

If nothing else, it enabled the franchise to meet its payroll Monday, thus assuring the players will be around another two weeks.

DON'T FORGET BELLEVILLE



You only have a few short weeks left to save yourself hundreds of dollars on the purchase of a new automobile.

Under existing legislation Ontario new car buyers must complete their deal prior to January 1, 1976, to be eligible for the provincial government 5% Sales Tax rebate on most new models. At that time as well, the currently reduced provincial sales tax will revert to 7%.

AS OF JANUARY 1, 1976 NEW CAR BUYERS WILL BE OUT OF POCKET ANOTHER 7%

As they say, "All good things must come to an end", and the countdown has already started all across Ontario to end the Provincial Government's 5% sales tax Rebate on most new cars. As well, the current 5% sales tax is due to revert to 7%. The deadline is midnight, December 31.

After that, new cars are going to cost Ontario consumers everywhere a lot more, hundreds of dollars more.

There's still time for you to move up to a new model at a real saving. Now is the time for wise buyers to take action. Whether you're thinking domestic or import, full-size right through to subcompact, don't delay your buying decision, visit these reputable district dealers this week and compare. Every model in town is competitively priced. Special deferred terms can be arranged and remember, your trade-in is probably worth much more than you think! Make this test drive week . . . do it now!

Births

BARRETT — Keith and Kerse (nee Petersen) are proud to announce the birth of their 1st child, Courtney Elizabeth, born on Wednesday, December 10th, 1975, 1st grandchild for Mrs. Margaret Barrett and Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Petersen, 1st great grandchild for Mrs. Frances MacLeod, Special thanks to Dr. Fry and staff. D16-2t

In Memoriam

BEGLEY — In memory of our dear grandmother, Jessie Begley who died two years ago today.
She left us silently,
Her thoughts unknown,
And left us a memory,
We are proud to own.
Her memory is dear,
As the garden of Heal,
Yet when on earth,
She was one of the best.
—Missed by Dawn, Vern Reid and Grandchildren.

COOK — In loving memory of Mrs. Eva Louise Cook who passed away December 15, 1973.
Sadly missed
But cherished memories stay,
Truly remembered every day.
A little flower,
Small and tender,
A little life,
So still and fair,
—Daughter Ruth and Roy and Robert Perrin.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest thanks to those who sent cards and flowers during the illness and after the death of our mother, gifts, cards and phone calls received at the hospital and for our evening opponents. And to all who attended the funeral, for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown to us during these days. Thank you one and all.
—Mrs. Ruth Hall and Husband, John Sr.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and deep appreciation to my many friends for their visits, cards and flowers during my recent illness. Also to the Rev. Mr. Hamilton, Trenton, thanks to Rev. Lombard, Wellington, for his visits and prayers, to Dr. Wilson for his visits and care, to the nurses for the nurses who were so kind, to Mrs. Hall for her visits.
—Mrs. Mabel Ackerman.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my family, friends and neighbours for cards, gifts, flowers and visits during my recent illness in Belleville General Hospital. Also to Dr. Wilson and the nursing staff on 3 West for their care and kindness.
—George Davies.

Wilkinson and Ethel Gillespie wish to thank their family, friends and neighbours for gifts, cards and good wishes. Also the ACW and nurses and doctors for their kindness on their 50th anniversary.

Accuses Some Circles

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev gestures during his address before the Polish party congress in Warsaw Tuesday. He accused "some industrial circles" in the West of seeking to undermine the spirit of the Helsinki accord. He also took an indirect slap at China but his speech was regarded as unusually mild. Character Role Key to Dancer's Success

OTTAWA (CP) — Some eyebrows still must be confusing for Jacques Gorriaux, one of the leading character dancers, of the National Ballet of Canada.

One moment he is on stage playing the role of a crotchety old grandfather, the next he is in his dressing room being the real-life father to his first son, Adrien, three months old.

Gorriaux, Belgian by birth, is a product of the Antwerp Opera Ballet who came to Canada to dance at Expo 67, liked the country and joined the National the following year.

He's happy to be dancing character roles because at the age of 30 it means his dancing career will probably extend well beyond 35, when most dancers have to retire to teaching, choreography, or some less strenuous role.

In Antwerp, the handsome dark-eyed young man said, all dancers were required by their contracts to retire at age 35.

But character dancing is strenuous in its own way, Gorriaux said in an interview while here to play the role of Dr. Coppelius, the toy maker in Leo Delibes' ballet Coppelia.

"It requires a different kind of dancing, more emotional in some ways and more acting."

He has the advantage of formal training in the art of mime, as well as the mime and acting talents that are needed by all ballet dancers.

He also dances the role of master of ceremonies in The Sleeping Beauty and the grandfather in The Nutcracker. His favorite role, however, is the old witch Madge in La Sylphide.

On a recent tour, Gorriaux shared the role of Coppelius with Constantin Patsalas, another of the National's principal dancers, and with Eric Bruhn, the great Danish dancer, now resident producer of the National in Toronto, who staged the new Coppelia.

Gorriaux said that while the costumes and make-up for the three dancers are the same, each interprets the role with slight differences. In directing the ballet, Bruhn said that as long as the dancers were at the proper place on the stage at the right time, they were free to supply their own character-ization.

For Gorriaux, every night's performance is a little different, depending on his mood and that of the company and the audience.

Gorriaux's wife is Victoria Bertram, one of the leading ballerinas of the National, who continued dancing with the company until three weeks before the birth of Adrian.

Now she is back and Adrian travels with his parents across the country and to the theatre every night, where he usually sleeps in their dressing room.

"There's always somebody around ready to watch him while we dance," Miss Bertram said. "In fact, he's being spoiled."

Gorriaux said he is happy with the National because of his friendly atmosphere. He has done free guest performances with other companies, but occasionally has been called on in an emergency.

Last spring, when the National was on tour in London with Giselle, Lucanne Surmeyan suffered an injury and Gorriaux had to step into the role of the gamekeeper, Hilarion.

He had seen the ballet many times but had not danced the part. With only two hours to learn the role, and with Surmeyan in the wings to cue his entrances, he performed it smoothly.

Magician Makes Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian-born Doug Henning, the star magician-actor who a Broadway hit called The Magic Show, has a trick we've seen him do from less than five feet away and still can't figure out.

He and an aide gently put a lady horizontally on the tips of five or six tall, sharp swords. They remove all the swords, save one at the base of her neck. But she doesn't fall down or even cry "ouch."

We asked Henning how he'd react if someone offered him $1 million in cash to explain how he accomplishes the sword trick.

"I wouldn't do it," said Henning, 28, who will do an NBC special called The World of Magic live from Los Angeles on Dec. 28. He explained why he wouldn't reveal the secret of the sword and other tricks.

"For one thing, money isn't that important to me," said Henning.

"For another thing, the secrets are really important. Some of my friends think I'm a bit of a fanatic about it.

"But it's not because I want to keep it from them, or that I have something they don't' thing. It's because when you tmesning noo-magicians know the secret, the wonder is gone.

"And my purpose as a magician is to create wonder."

Henning, born in Winnipeg and raised in Toronto, has been creating wonder since he was nine and magically transferred a penny from a handkerchief to a small box.

He's starred in The Magic Show on Broadway since it opened in May, 1973, with the help of friends, financial backers and the support of his first theatre show. That show had a similar theme—acting magic and music—and played in Toronto under the title Spellbound.

Henning may be the first magician to have a theatre in physiological psychology. He said he earned it while working his way through McMaster University, Hamilton.

That particular course of study, he added, concerns human perception—sight, sound and the like—which is all related to magic."

Henning, who was six when he saw his first magic act—a levitated girl trick on the old Ed Sullivan Show on TV—said he feels TV does not present magic properly. But he hopes to correct that.

"I've created five illusions specifically for television," he said. They'll be seen in his NBC show, in which a hand-held camera will be used extensively to give viewers a close look at his hocus-pocus.

Showbiz Shorts

HOLLYWOOD (AP) (Reuter) — A news conference to launch the $35 million 20th Century-Fox movie Lucky Lady turned into a shambles with two of the film's stars criticizing the picture.

During a news conference held on the weekend aboard the Queen Mary, Academy Award-winning actress Liza Minelli said:

"It was a total shock to me. I'm upset and stunned by the picture."

Her co-star Burt Reynolds joined in the criticism by blasting the slapstick epic of the film on its director Stanley Donen and saying:

"I'll never work with him again."

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Rock musician Greg Allman says he and his wife, singer Cher, have dropped counter divorce suits and have decided on a reconciliation after a brief separation.

"We both dropped the court suits Wednesday," Allman said in an interview Friday with the newspaper Huntsville Times.

"It was in Buffalo (N.Y.). We decided, Cher just happened to be there. Strictly coincidence."

CBS-TV, which has broadcast Cher's television variety series, announced recently that her former husband, Sonny Bono, will rejoin her in a variety show next year.

Allman said Cher's return to Sonny, at least on the TV screen, does not bother him. "This is a business we're in," he said. "Strictly business. That's all the TV show is going to be."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You can gain in a situation today if you'll take time to make another person bow be, too, can profit from your ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where money is concerned, you're still under very favorable aspects. Just be sure not to let anyone else count your change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have a chance today to do something for a cause you're developing. Your actions will make him more ready to help you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) To get what you want today, use an indirect approach. You'll have a better chance to realize your desires than if you meet issues head-on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't shy from what you consider at first to be a friend's far-out scheme. Weigh all aspects. You'll find there's something in it for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't hesitate to approach the boss today if you are in opportunity. Don't be faint hearted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Good things will happen to you today, unless you sit on your hands instead of being truly aggressive. Move out on your ideas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be overly concerned with self-interest today. Look out for the other guy. Later, he'll be better able to look out for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't turn down any invitations today to a social event involving many people. You'll learn something valuable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be alert for unusual opportunities today. Should one come up, you must be prepared to move swiftly and decisively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) New people you come today could turn out to be very important to you, either businesswise or socially. Take time to be gracious and pleasant.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're better equipped to face challenges today than you give yourself credit for. You can harness your way around any barrier.

Canker Caused By Allergies

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has canker sores all the time. Would you please comment on this problem? — F.W.

Cankers are small, painful ulcerations of the mucous membranes in the mouth. A list of all possible causes would occupy several columns, but I'll give you a few.

A food allergy or some irritation can be the cause, and the chronic nature of your son's condition seems to indicate this is the likely one. Foods such as citrus fruits, melons, tomatoes, vinegar, wine, chocolate and walnuts are prime offenders.

Emotions can also play a role in this. One study suggested that emotional upsets with physical exhaustion can predispose a person to oral lesions. I might mention for the benefit of women readers that one study indicates some women have cankers during menstruation while others find the problem lessened during pregnancy. The incidence also appears high among college students under stress.

There's not much you can do about them except to avoid substances that seem to bring them on. There are several medications used to relieve the discomfort.

There is some evidence of inherited susceptibility to canker sores, especially where both parents have been subject to recurrent episodes. But any agent that can irritate the lining of the mouth can cause the sores.

Even with this limited list of possibilities it is not surprising to learn that as many as 20 per cent of the population may have canker sores at any given time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, age 9, wets the bed. I've been told that is because he sleeps too soundly. I was also told that he should not be shook out—grow it by the time he was nine. Well, he hasn't, is there something you can tell me? I would like to help him if I knew how. — Mrs. J.J.

He probably doesn't sleep any more soundly than other similar-aged boys do. I would not give much credence to that theory.

The boy needs a complete check up, just to rule out a simple matter to deal with, from either a pediatrician or a physician's point. The causes can be complex, ranging from allergies (always a possibility) to psychological factors. There can also be structural malformation of the urinary tract which might require surgical treatment.

In any case, he should have begun to overcome the problem by himself. Since he hasn't you have now seen the appropriate medical help.

Mother Appalled On Busing Rule

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CP) — In the fall of 1951, seven-year-old Linda Brown had only four blocks from her neighborhood school in Topeka, Kan. But to find a school which would accept her had to walk 21 blocks and travel nearly eight miles by bus.

Last year, simply because Linda was black, while her local school was segregated by white. Finally, it so enraged her father, Rev. Oliver Brown, that he openly challenged an 1896 Supreme Court ruling that states could provide separate facilities so long as they were equal.

Three years later, United States Chief Justice Earl Warren issued his momentous decision: "Separate educational facilities," he said, "are inherently unequal."

The judgment led to forced desegregation of public schools all across the country and to a red-hot controversy in areas such as this that now are being compelled to bus children over great distances to achieve racial balance in once-ideal institutions.

Twenty-one years after the historic Warren ruling, Linda Brown Smith, now a 31-year-old mother of two, said in a telephone interview from Topeka she is appalled that busing has been one result of the integration decision.

"I'm totally opposed to busing," she said. "I would accept it only if they knew of no other. There has to be a better solution."

Her sentiments, whether justified or not, seem to be shared by a growing segment of ordinary people in the United States and by a strong group in Congress, if the Ford administration and the courts.

It seems clear from conversation with congressmen and with the local level in communities like this that sentiment is clearly is growing toward defining the limits beyond which it is no longer realistic or constitutionally necessary to force school populations into racial balance.

Recently, President Ford ordered an extensive review of alternatives to busing by both the health, education and welfare department and the department of justice.

Committees in both the House of Representatives and the Senate have announced they will hold hearings on the busing issue, in the wake of the rioting and protest which greeted the court-ordered busing of blacks here and in Boston last September.

And James Coleman, a noted sociologist, charges recently that one of busing's strongest effects is to accelerate white flight from cities, now says he no longer supports it. It has led to a country of black cities and white suburbs, he says.

No precise figures are available on how many white children involved in forced busing, but authorities say it is almost certainly less than five per cent of total school enrollment.

The criticisms levelled at the busing issue by those not one of the main charges is similar to Coleman's. They say busing has driven families to move out of city centres and into suburbs which are failing in a different district and large white populations are deepening racial divisions.

In areas such as Louisville where the same district encompasses the city and surrounding Jefferson county, critics argue busing many children over the long distances involved is unnecessarily cruel and dangerous, as well as being often leads to fights and racial violence.

Opponents also say that because many large American cities now are dominated by blacks there simply aren't enough white children to go around for purposes of how intricate a busing network is devised.

However, backers of the forced busing program, such as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), counter with a strong argument that while, it may make education more difficult for children there is no other way of giving blacks an equal schooling opportunity.

Says Howard Keller, a leading black educationist here: "It has happened in that the courts prohibited segregation by law but not in practice. Nothing was done to stop whites moving out of mixed districts and we were back to square one. We have to have busing or the whites just won't accept integrated education."

Not, however, everyone supports this position.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

West shifted to a trump at trick two. South played low and took a low trump back to dummy's queen. Then he studied the layout.

He saw that he needed five heart tricks and decided to play East for the queen. In cash the queens were guarded by three small hearts, a first-round finesse was necessary. Since queen and three small in the East hand were there, he made a singleton queen in the West hand. South led dummy's lack of hearts and let it ride. West produced the queen and another spade and South ruffed.

South's play had not really been bad. It had not been the best percentage. He should have played West for the queen because the location of the queen was a fifty-fifty proposition. He could have had a heart to his ace and given himself the extra chance of picking up a singleton queen.

That is how it would have worked and the better play would have triumphed.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's hand came from a New Jersey reader. He asked us to comment on the bidding and play. The article discussed the play. As for the bidding, I would overstate a little but the final contract was a very reasonable one.

NFL Playoffs? Wait and See

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers will play at home Saturday, Dec. 27 against Baltimore Colts or Miami Dolphins and Oakland Raiders will be at home Dec. 28 against Cincinnati Bengals or Baltimore in the first round of the American Football Conference playoffs, it was announced Monday.

In the National Football Conference, the four playoff teams are set—Minnesota Vikings, Los Angeles Rams, St. Louis Cardinals and Dallas Cowboys. After that, little is sure.

Dallas definitely will be a visiting team since it is the wild card selection from the conference St. Louis has a long East coast trip ahead of it. Minnesota, at opening at home, but the two those spots appear to belong to Los Angeles on Dec. 27 and Minnesota on Dec. 28.

If Miami, 9-4, beats Denver Broncos on Saturday and Baltimore, 9-4, loses to New England Patriots, then Miami will be the AFC East champion. If Miami and Baltimore both win, then Baltimore will be the East champ because it has beaten Miami twice.

But even if Baltimore wins, Miami can still gain the wild card berth with a victory if Cincinnati, 8-5, is upset by San Diego on Sunday. Miami would get a wild card spot ahead of Cincinnati because it has seven points—the lower the better—to 12 for Cincinnati in a rating system based on a team's standing against conference rivals in the area of points for and points against.

In other words, if a team is third in the conference in points for and second in points against, it has a five rating.

So if Miami ends up at the wild card team, it would play at Pittsburgh, 13-1, the Central Division champion, and Baltimore would play at Oakland, 9-4, the West champion.

If Cincinnati is the wild card entry, it would play at Oakland and Baltimore or Miami would play at Pittsburgh. Cincinnati can't be a first-round game against Pittsburgh because the two clubs are in the same division.

St. Louis' chances of opening at home border more on being a miracle than a keto Cardinals, 10-3, trail Minnesota and Los Angeles by a significant number of rating points.

The Cardinals would have to beat Detroit by a margin of 86-0 on Sunday and hope Los Angeles and Minnesota, each 11-3, would have to suffer lopsided losses. Los Angeles plays Pittsburgh Saturday night and Minnesota meets Buffalo.

If Minnesota, the NFC Central champion, and Los Angeles, the West winner, both win, then Minnesota would play host to wild card Dallas, 9-4, Sunday while Los Angeles would be home against St. Louis, the East champion even if it loses Sunday. Minnesota would get the wild card team because it has a better edge over Los Angeles in the rating.

Should Los Angeles win and Minnesota lose or Los Angeles overtake Minnesota in the rating, which is unlikely, then Los Angeles would open against Dallas while St. Louis would play at Minnesota.

All this has you confused, don't feel bad. Hardly anybody else understands it either. What is certain is that Minnesota, Los Angeles, Oakland, Pittsburgh, Dallas and St. Louis are definitely in the playoffs. The other two playoff teams will be two of these three: Baltimore, Miami and Cincinnati.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds announced two minor league managerial changes Monday, naming Jim Snyder to direct their Class AAA farm team in Indianapolis and Roy Majtyka as manager of the Trois-Rivieres baseball club in the Class AA Eastern League. Snyder, 43, replaces Vern Rapp, who resigned last week to become manager of Denver Bears. Snyder has been a manager in the Cincinnati organization for 10 years, including 1973 with the Trois-Rivieres club. Majtyka, 36, has managed in St. Petersburg, Cardinals' farm system for the last eight years.

Namath – "No One's Fault But My Own"

Broadway Joe Benched; Jets Lose

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Ken Shipp decided to teach Joe Namath a lesson. He benched and fined the star quarterback of New York Jets for missing curfew Sunday night.

But Monday night, with Namath strolling the sidelines for the first 20 minutes and 29 seconds, the Jets lost 34-14 to San Diego Chargers, one of the lowest teams in the National Football League. Shipp says his decision had no bearing on the outcome, but Namath thinks otherwise.

Touchdown runs of four yards by Tony Baker in the first quarter, two yards by Rickey Young in the second and one yard by Bo Matthews in the fourth carried the Chargers to the victory, their second in a row after they lost the first 11 games of the season.

"I was damn near sick when I got the news," Namath said of his benching. "It was no one's fault but my own. I felt I really let everyone down, especially coach Shipp.

"I got caught talking to friends from back home who live in San Diego. I knew what time I was supposed to be in, but lost all track of time."

Shipp wouldn't talk much about his decision or what led to it. And he did not disclose the amount of the fine.

He acknowledged, though, that he talked with Phil Iselin, president of the Jets, before he benched and fined Namath.

"I am only an interim coach," Shipp said, "and I had to consult the president of the club—and he was in favor of it."

Namath came on in the second quarter in place of young J. J. Jones and passed New York to the Chargers' goal-line—but couldn't get the final yard in four tries.

Namath's losses got the Jets 3-10, into position for their two touchdowns, one-yard runs by Steve Davis in the third quarter and John Riggins on the final play of the game. The rest of the scoring came on field goals by New York's Pat Leahy and San Diego's Ray Wersching who kicked one apiece.

With Full Headgear

Company Offers Free Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — A sporting goods manufacturer has announced that it will offer free insurance starting Jan. 1 to hockey players in Canada and the United States who use the company's full headgear—helmet, eye shield and lower face protector.

CCM says a personal accident insurance policy will provide $2,000 dental coverage, $2,000 loss of sight indemnity and $1,000 accidental death insurance. The coverage is underwritten by the Seaboard Life Insurance Co. of Canada and will be in effect during every supervised practice or game anywhere in Canada or the U.S.

Insurance application forms will be available from sporting goods dealers.

The program has been named the "Parsons policy" after George Parsons, a CCM vice-president, who lost an eye in a National Hockey League game for Toronto Maple Leafs many years ago.

When the count of 32,466—the largest to watch the Chargers this year—was told shortly before game time that Namath would not start, they booed. And when Namath took the field for the first time, with 9:31 remaining in the first half, they cheered.

Namath completed 15 of 29 passes for 181 yards. He was intercepted twice.

And in the end, Namath and the Jets were done in by both San Diego quarterbacks, Dan Fouts and Jesse Freitas, and by Young, a rookie running back who picked up 111 yards on 21 carries for his second consecutive 100-yard game.

"I have to give most of the credit to the line," said Young. "It did an outstanding job up front. The big difference in the team now is that everyone believes in themselves. We're making the big play, which we didn't used to do."

Fouts, who played a conservative passing game before being knocked out of action by a birdy-quarter injury, clicked on six of 11 throws for 86 yards to set up both first-half Charger touchdowns.

Burden Sets Record

5 Rush Past 1,000 Yards

TORONTO (CP) — Willie Burden faced the final 40 minutes of the 1975 football season lacking 137 yards for the prize he coveted most.

That was the yardage necessary to top Earl Lunsford's one season Canadian Football League rushing record.

In 1961, Lunsford, now general manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, had run for 1,794 yards, the first player ever to rush for more than a mile in one CFL season. Saskatchewan's George Reed became the second miler with 1,766 yards in 1967.

Burden not only became the third member of the one-mile club, he took over the club presidency with a smashing 238-yard performance against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in that final regular game which gave him a record total of 1,898 yards.

The Calgary rookie's 238-yard effort not only helped him the season's record by more than 100 yards, it marked the third highest one-game rushing effort ever in the CFL. The two higher marks were Ron Stewart's 287-yard game in 1960 while with Ottawa Rough Riders and Reed's 268-yard effort in 1965.

That final performance also gave Burden a total of 19 games in which he had rushed for more than 100 yards, exceeding by one the season record shared by Reed and one time Edmonton great Johnny Bright.

Also, Burden's 222 runs from scrimmage topped the one-season record of 302 set by Reed in 1967.

For the 11th time in 12 seasons, Reed rushed for more than 1,000 yards, taking second place to Burden with 1,454.

Chrysler Will Raise Average Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said Monday it will raise prices as much as $60.95 on a few of its cars to cover the cost of new government-required braking systems, effective Dec. 22.

The price will average $3 when spread over the firm's entire model line.

At the same time, Ford Motor Co., citing the need to recover rising costs for labor and materials, said it will raise the base price of its cars an average 3.3 per cent or $97 next month.

The increases come three months after the upsizing of the 1976 model year, when all four U.S. auto-makers raised prices.

Sales reports for early December, issued by the makers Monday, showed the pace for the period was up 43.5 per cent to their best rate for the period since 1969 from the depressed levels of a year ago.

In the Dec. 1-10 period, sales totalled 339,478 or an average of 33,948 in each of nine selling days. The sales pace was 19,320 a day in the period last year, 34,499 a day in 1969 and a record 37,751 in 1965.

Ford's sales in the Dec. 1-10 span were up 18.7 per cent from a year ago on a daily selling basis. The sales pace for General Motors Corp. was up 63.5 per cent, Chrysler Corp. was up 61.1 per cent and American Motors Corp. rose 69 per cent.

Sales of domestic models are up about 30 per cent since the beginning of October and company officials say the industry's worst slump since the Second World War appears to be at an end.

Ford said that in addition to the base price increase, prices of optional auto equipment will rise an average 1.6 per cent.

The firm also said prices for light trucks will increase an average of 3.8 per cent or $123.

The suggested base prices of medium, heavy and extra-heavy trucks will increase an average of $239 or three per cent as of Feb. 1, the company said.

A spokesman for General Motors Corp. said the company had no plans to raise passenger car prices, although the suggested price on light trucks will increase $92 Jan. 1 to cover the cost of improved seat belts.

American Motors Corp. said no decision has yet been made on whether to raise prices.

Quebec Economic Future Is Bleak

MONTREAL (CP) — The economic performances of Quebec in 1976 will be inferior to that of the rest of Canada, the provincial government predicted Monday.

A report presented by Guy Saint-Pierre, minister of industry and commerce, said recovery from the recession has begun but "Quebec's recovery is expected to be slower and milder than in Canada as a whole."

Quebec's real gross provincial product (GPP) will grow by three to four per cent, compared with five per cent for the gross national product (GNP), Mr. Saint-Pierre said at his news conference.

Business Sings

NEW YORK (AP) — The jukebox business has been ringing up a happy tune in 1975, J. Barton, president of the Rowe International, says, "It is depression-proof business" and "when times are bad people seem to want music."

payment, a slight braking of the rate of the provincial economy, a mild revival of residential construction, . . . and a reduction in the volume of non-residential construction," he said.

Moluccan Leader Warns Dutch Against Using Force in Siege

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The leader of Holland's South Moluccan community warned the Dutch government today not to use force against Moluccans who have held 25 persons hostages inside the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam for two weeks.

Violence means victims," said Johan Alvares Manusama. "There are Indonesian hostages in the consulate which would mean difficulties with the Indonesian government if they were harmed."

Manusama issued his warning after Justice Minister Dries van Agt said in a telecast that the government has "had enough" and that its patience is "used-up-less."

There were reports that the gunmen intended to remain in the consulate until Dec. 17. That will be the 25th anniversary of the execution by the Indonesian government of Chris Soumokil, who led an unsuccessful guerrilla war to free the South Moluccan islands from Indonesia.

Police believe seven young Moluccans are holding 23 Indonesians, 10 of them women, and three Dutch nationals in the consulate.

Rev. Sormel Metiary, a Moluccan Presbyterian minister, resumed negotiations with the gunmen Tuesday, but there was no indication so made any progress toward ending the siege.

Manusama headed a team of negotiators who persuaded a second group of South Moluccans to surrender Sunday after holding 22 Dutch men and women hostage aboard a hijacked train in northern Holland for 11 days. The hijackers killed three Dutchmen, and an Indonesian died of injuries he suffered escaping from consulate.

The government has rejected the demands of both groups of Moluccans that it seek United Nations support for their campaign for independence of the South Moluccas from Indonesia, the area-wide Dutch empire in the Far East.

Liberals, NDP Force Rent Review Reform

TORONTO (CP) — The Opposition forced its muscles in the Ontario legislature Tuesday, amending the province's rent review guideline and passing two government-sponsored amendments.

In a series of recorded divisions, the NDP and Liberals combined against the Conservatives to pass eight amendments, in six other cases, the Liberals voted with the government to outlaw NDP proposals.

All but one of the votes was about strict party lines.

In the only exception, Marvin Shore (L—London North) voted with the government in a losing cause. The government's motion, sponsored by Housing Minister John Rhodes, would have allowed a rent review officer to set rents for comparable units in an apartment building at the same time. The vote was 61-43 against.

The most important effect of the various amendments was to bring virtually all rental accommodation in the province under the rent review legislation.

When first introduced, the bill contained a series of exemptions, including housing operated by the Ontario Housing Corp., apartment buildings with four units or fewer, luxury apartments renting for more than $300 a month and units in new buildings.

As amended, OHC apartments, small apartment buildings and luxury apartments come under the rent review provisions.

The only exemptions are for units where rent is set with the direct approval of either the federal or provincial governments, units in motels or hotels or vacation homes rented for less than four months and in buildings opened after Jan. 1, 1976.

The opposition combined on amendments to ensure that half of the rent review board, to be set up under the legislation, is made up of persons "representative of tenants."

The cabinet is to set the number of board members.

The opposition parties also amended the bill to say that at least two board members must be on hand to carry out board business and one of them a must be representative of tenants.

The board acts as an appeal body, following decisions of the individual rent review officers.

The NDP failed in an effort at amendment requiring the board to refuse to the legislature.

The bill sets an eight-per-cent ceiling for rent increases in the period between July 31, 1975 and Jan. 1, 1976. However, increases over that limit can be passed on.

The penalty for violation is set at a maximum of $2,000. An NDP attempt to broaden the penalties section was defeated.

Wage Demands
Trenton Employees Seek 50 Per Cent

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Reported wage demands by two groups of municipal employees make town firefighters' per cent look more objective pale in comparison.

The firefighters' demand Tuesday that the 35 town-employed members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) be bumped by a 50 per cent pay hike by 1976.

Such an increase would "end up of bounds," according to CUPE representative Jack Rigby, especially when a guideline (Prime Minister Trudeau) says we must settle for 10 per cent."

Meanwhile, Trenton's 25-member police force is negotiating contract talks with town officials looking for a 30 per cent increase that reportedly would give them a 25 per cent increase in wages. Representatives of both parties declined comment on the negotiations.

Today the wage dispute between the municipality and town firefighters is the subject of an arbitration hearing. Town clerk Sharp said last week proposed a report for council recommending that consideration be a volunteer fire brigade if the firefighters granted the request for a 26 per cent salary hike.

As for negotiations with the town's CUPE employees, Mr. Sharp refused comment on their contract demands, but maintained that the town would adhere to federal guidelines.

Inside workers currently earn about $8,000 annually, and outside CUPE men in the $10,000 range. The 35 employees have been negotiating with the town for the past month to replace the current contract expiring Dec. 31.

Michael Paul Karkbeck, 17, and Frederick Charles Rees, 19, are charged in the death of Amedee Plante, an employee of the Arrow Service Station.

Wilson Faces Party Revolt

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government was trying today to head off a revolt by members of its own party in the House of Commons opposed to the government's $362.5-million (-$325-million) plan to bail out the Chrysler automobile company's British subsidiary.

Parliament's lower house approved the salvage scheme in principle Tuesday night by a 25-vote margin. But at least 40 dissent Labor MPs abstained to show their disapproval, and 20 others would have abstained if the government had not promised to meet them today to discuss the issue.

Had the 39 abstained, the proposal would have been defeated. It faces another test tonight when the Commons votes on whether to authorize the funds the government says is necessary to save the money-losing company from collapse.

The government is not yet out of the woods," said one political source.

The ballooning blueprint announced Tuesday by Industry Minister Eric Varley, includes a government offer of $79.2 million ($145 million) to cover British Chrysler's losses over the next four years, $56 million ($110 million) in loans and backing for a $56-million ($99-million) loan from British banks.

Quinlan May Have Been Hit Before Coma

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An investigation is underway to determine whether someone tried to kill Karen Anne Quinlan before she lapsed into a coma might complicate her parents' battle to allow her to die.

Court papers filed Tuesday in Rock Island, Ill., said that Miss Quinlan, 21, had a lump on the back of her head and several cuts on the lower part of her body the night she was admitted to hospital, last April 15.

The New York Post, which broke the story before the court papers were filed, quotes unnamed sources as saying authorities also are trying to determine whether a pimp and an "older woman" who worked at a massage parlor may have somehow been involved.

The investigation also want to know whether Miss Quinlan was illegally supplied with the barbiturates and tranquilizers reported found in her blood and in urine tests the night she was admitted to the hospital, the newspaper says.

A judge last month rejected a request from the young woman's parents that would permit doctors to disconnect the machinery that has kept Miss Quinlan alive for eight months.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinlan have argued the young woman is in a vegetative state with no chance of recovery and have taken the case to New Jersey's Supreme Court. A hearing is scheduled for Jan. 26.

William Hyland, New Jersey's attorney-general, said he wants to see whether foul play was involved in producing the coma.

Fromme Faces Sentence

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette (Squeaky) Fromme, convicted last month of trying to kill President Ford, faces sentencing today by a judge who says he wants to discourage other assassination attempts. Miss Fromme, a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, was found guilty Nov. 26 of trying to kill Ford in Capitol Park here on Sept. 5 when she pointed a gun at him.

Not Official Views

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau insisted Tuesday that he has been told by high-level U.S. spokesmen that retiring American Ambassador William Porter was not expressing official views last weekend when he rapped recent political developments in Canada.

Seeks 5 Per Cent Growth

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday he is seeking a five-per-cent growth in the gross national product (GNP) during 1976. He gave the figure in the Commons in reply to a question from Sinclair Stevens (PC-York-Simcoe), but added that growth in the GNP includes "a lot of factors beyond my direct control." The GNP is a measure of all goods and services produced by the economy.

Bricklin Resigns

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Malcolm Bricklin says he dreamed of mass-producing a revolutionary new sportscar, has resigned as president of the financially-troubled company that bears his name. But Bricklin said he still will work "toward the betterment of transportation through the development of a revolutionary new engine." He did not elaborate.

Social Functions
Catholic Board Revises School Party Guidelines

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board Tuesday night handed down a new set of guidelines to control community use of school facilities for social functions.

The guidelines, recommended by the board's policy committee, were prompted by complaints about recent social functions at St. Carthagh's Separate School in Tweed.

The board will now require that social functions stop by 12:30 a.m. and the school premises be cleared by 1 a.m. Previously, the board asked that the function stop by 1 a.m. unless special board permission had been granted.

New fee schedules were also approved. Permit holders will now be charged $15 an hour for the school facility as well as $2.50 an hour for time required to set up furniture and prepare facilities. Permit holders will also be required to assist custodial personnel in the setting up and replacing furniture after the function.

In order to curb recent problems at the Tweed school the board also approved a recommendation that if any regulation is broken the permit is automatically cancelled and will not be re-issued.

That has been in effect before but trustees now want guarantee that the regulations will not be broken. Trustees asked director of education E.J. Neville to report monthly on the conditions at the Tweed school.

Some trustees objected to the guidelines on the basis that they would affect all schools when only isolated areas, such as Tweed, seem to have the problems.

The board rejected a recommendation to have all church-sponsored activities approved by the local pastor. Some trustees felt this would bring the pastor into conflict with the community over social functions which involved liquor.

A letter to the board a neighbor of St. Carthagh's school complained noise was excessive during parties and that liquor on the premises set a poor Christian example. The woman complained that noise of the parties lasted until 3 a.m.

Board trustee Peter L.P. Casarelli told trustees that if liquor is becoming a problem during these social functions the board should re-evaluate its position. Father Casarelli said the board had no business condoning the sale of liquor on school premises.

Senate May Halt U.S. Funds to Angola

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversial effort to end U.S. clandestine intervention in Angola is facing its first test as the Senate considers a compromise measure that might halt the use of U.S. funds to support factions fighting in the African country.

The Senate scheduled a two-hour secret session today before a planned vote on an amendment to the $113-billion defense appropriation bill that would prohibit use of any funds in Angola without specific Congressional gathering.

The amendment was formally introduced Tuesday by undisclosed supporters for the CIA, which is reported to have committed $50 million for military equipment to assist two Angolan factions opposing forces supported by the Soviet Union and Cuba.

A White House spokesman declined comment Tuesday on report of U.S. involvement, but Ford administration officials reportedly concerned by "actions taken by the Soviet Union and Cuba in providing large amounts of military aid and men to Angola."

Meanwhile the Senate foreign relations committee on military assistance approved 7 to 6 on Tuesday a resolution to cut off arms U.S. aid to any individual or groups in Angola.

Identical resolutions sponsored by Senator Dick Clark (Dem., Iowa), the resolution would permit, the president to use available funds to assist openly military factions in Angola unless either the House of Representatives or the disapproves within 60 days.

The resolution would be binding if passed by both the House and Senate and if signed by the president. It will be considered Thursday by the full Senate foreign relations committee.

The subcommittee resolution supports efforts by the Organization of African Unity to settle the conflict in Angola and calls on all countries to terminate military assistance to any group in Angola.

Under the Wire

A recruit of the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), cap clenched between his teeth, crawls out from under layers of barbed wire during training session at camp on outskirts of Luanda recently. After each training obstacle, the soldiers are lectured by political instructors on the MPLA's left-wing ideology. They are being prepared for action against other Angolan nationalist movements in the country's current civil war.

Boyce Explains Village Proposal

PICTON — Wellington Reeve Robert Boyce, chairman of Prince Edward County council's economic development committee, told councillors Tuesday there has been no detailed discussion of a proposal for a Loyalist Village in the county.

When asked by Picton reeve Larry Richardson why further information on the proposal was not included in reports from the economic development committee, reeve Boyce explained that the in-depth study has been done.

He said that there was no time for his committee to take any further action this year.

Alhd. deputy-reeve Harold Silly commented," I think a Loyalist Village concept would cost this county a fortune. We had better think twice."

Reeve Boyce stressed that any discussion of the proposal at this point is premature as all facts relating to it are not

Location for Authority Offices Poses Problem

Belleville parks board is turning to city council in a dilemma involving new quarters for the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

MRCA offices, for years located at the Thurlow Township council offices at Carallton, has chosen the highest point in Belleville for its building.

It's on land which is an extension of the West Riverbank Park area earmarked for greenbelt-recreation development.

The parks department already has its offices there, and MRCA wants to build north of the parks office on a rise of land about 100 feet above the Bay of Quinte which, says parks director Lloyd Syer is the highest elevation in the city.

The greenbelt development has been a co-operative venture of the department and MRCA.

In fact, the city has leased the land from the MRCA for 20 years an annual $1.

Ald. Paul Hassell, parks chairman, told a board meeting last Monday that the MRCA was anxious to locate in Belleville. A recent meeting with its representatives indicated they were intent on the building on the greenbelt hillside — for which an observation deck surrounded by ornamental gardens has been planned.

The board decided to send the matter to council pointing out the site is reserved for another use and the board's "reluctance" to have a building on the spot. However, it also is willing to help the MRCA select another location said the resolution.

Mishap Causes $7,300 Damage

A 35-year-old Belleville man has been charged with failing to obey a traffic signal after a four-vehicle collision about 9 a.m. which sent three persons to hospital with minor injuries and caused a total of $7,300 damage.

Michael Ryan of 219 Farley Ave., was charged after a vehicle he was driving southbound along Herchimer Ave. was in collision with a vehicle driven eastbound along Bridge St., by Jolan Horvath, 36, of RR 2 Belleville, said police. She was taken to hospital with minor injuries.

Police said one of the two vehicles in the collision apparently bounced into a northbound Belleville Department of Public Works truck then struck a following northbound car, knocking it sideways and then skidded across a lane into a house where it caught fire.

Edmund Davis, 42, of Carrying Place, passenger in the public works truck at the time of the accident was taken to hospital for treatment of cuts.

Pedestrian Injured

TRENTON — An 85-year-old Trenton man was sent to hospital for treatment of facial lacerations after he was struck by an automobile while crossing Dundas Street East Tuesday afternoon.

John Parker, Tyrol Valley Lodge Nursing Home, 186 Bay Street, was treated and released from Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Police said Mr. Parker was walking across Dundas Street when he was in collision with a westbound vehicle.

County Employees to Get First Crack at Vacancies

PICTON — New jobs opening up in Prince Edward County's roads department now will be posted in permit workers already working for the county to apply for them.

Explanation of the hiring policy followed discussion Tuesday of a motion in the road committee's report recommending that Paul Kirby become subforeman in charge of equipment at the county garage.

Road committee chairman Athol Reeve Kelch Perry said in the past when job vacancies occurred a file of applications kept in the county engineer's office offered names of persons interested in working in the roads department.

"Available jobs haven't been advertised but we are changing it so that new jobs are posted in the county barns so employees can apply," said reeve Perry.

When asked by Ameliasburg deputy-reeve Gordon Babbitt about open advertising reeve Perry replied, "We got away from this and we are trying to get it back on the track."

Restraint Watchword In Salary Increases

PICTON — George Foster, Sophiasburg reeve and chairman of Prince Edward County council's finance and personnel committee, told councillors Tuesday a salary scale complying with federal guidelines has been used in determining salary adjustments for county employees.

He said that during a lengthy meeting members of the finance and personnel committee set eight-per-cent increase of 19, per cent for employees earning less than $8,000 a year.

Employees receiving from $8,000 to $18,000 will receive and eight-per-cent increase while those earning over $18,000 will receive a five-per-cent boost.

Reeve Foster said his committee had met with two county roads employees, the economic development director, the county engineer, the administrator of the county home and the county welfare administrator in relation to 1976 salary adjustments.

Sun Sets on Political Left in British Columbia and in Australia

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Is there a message for democratic socialists in their heavy defeats in two places in the Commonwealth, the provinces of British Columbia and in Australia?

Yes, there probably is, though a more than surface look at the circumstances calls out reasons for socialist defeats in the two widely-separated locales are substantially different.

First, the similarities. David Barrett in B.C. and former Australian prime minister Gough Whitlam are similar types, flamboyant, egocentric, dynamic on the hustings, incisive in turn on election into a contest of personalities.

Both men moved very quickly for socialist party in power, by hitting hard at extractive industries and in Whitlam's instance he headed a national government, switched traditional Australian foreign allegiances from the U.K. and the U.S. to the Third and Communist world.

Another similarity was that both men and their socialist parties were new to power. The New Democratic Party had never before held office in B.C. And in Australia the Labor party had been out of power for about a quarter century.

Hence the reasons for moving quickly, obviously too quickly for two democratic electorates in making the changes often promised and proposed while in lean and frustrating opposition.

Australia and B.C. are similar in being Pacific regions, heavy on extractive industries which have been developed by outside foreign capital, rugged regions which are also underpopulated.

And both socialist parties had moved to reduce the foreign economic control, in each case within weeks of coming to power.

The major difference of course is that we are talking of natives governmental changes in one instance, a provincial one in another.

Some Canadians already believe the federal Liberal government with its heavy commitments to welfare, unemployment insurance and a future guaranteed annual wage is "socialist" not only in principle but practice.

And other socialist parties in Canada have not suffered the crushing defeat which sent Premier Barrett endured the other day.

Saskatchewan's Allan Blakeney was re-elected in his province in a few-key election where his NDP government lost a few seats but was retained. The early result of his victory has been his scheme to nationalize his province's potash industry.

And in Ontario, one of Canada's industrial heartlands, where citizens who are mainly doing well about socialism, the NDP is the official opposition in the legislature.

Nevertheless, there is an unmistakable feeling in this commentary on two socialist defeats that hard-pressed public sectors in democratic constituencies are fed up paying for larger governments and ever-growing state handouts.

The voter resistance to socialist parties in power with promises to enlarge the state's function, is not so much an ideological one as an economic one.

With taxes already at record highs and hundreds of citizens taking personal advantage of existing and efficiently-run welfare schemes, the honest taxpayer is fed up.

Any government that promises to cut costs and simplify the system is a winning kind these days.

Violence in Media

If anyone has had doubts as to the effectiveness of the Royal Commission studying media violence, they may have been dispelled to some extent at least by the recent hearings in Bancroft.

Not only did the hearing bare a lot of detailed evidence about violence in television programming and a commensurate lack of educational programming outside Toronto and Ottawa, but it was notable for some valuable observations by chairman Judy LaMarsh and commission member Scott Young.

Both encouraged those making submissions to take their complaints further, by writing to the CBC, the government, and their members of parliament.

It is so easy to let things slide and become apathetic on issues that demand strong opposition. There is "overkill" where violence is concerned, and the use of vulgar language is becoming more prevalent in the media. The hearings are providing an indispensable forum on these issues, but the public must go a step further by making their views known to the appropriate authorities. And this, in addition to whatever conclusions the Commission itself reaches when it comes to make its report.

Bowmen Hunters

Some facets of deer hunting by bow and arrow that are puzzling.

Arrows are designed to pass right through the deer. If the animal is only wounded it has a better chance of survival than if hit by a bullet, which may lodge or disintegrate in the body.

An arrow will cause a clean wound, and any barbs left protruding from an animal are so designed that they pull free when brushed by undergrowth in the deer's flight.

A deer thus wounded, has less chance of infection and a greater chance of recovery.

This information from a recent report by Terry Humphrey, some, conservation officer Napanee Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Says Mr. Humbenome too, "we've had no complaints from members of the public whatsoever."

Previously, it seems, there was a lot of "misunderstanding" of the sport.

It all sounds like good sport — for the hunter, but what about the deer, run through on so cleanly by those nice arrows, and if its lucky, only wounded?

On the other hand the needs of conservation are acknowledged and if they can be served humanely and safely — in the judgement of some — by bow and arrow, maybe there is something in it after all.

Christmas Seals

However cynical the view some take of Christmas and of human behavior at this time of year, its positive aspects surely outweigh the negative.

Christmas Seals is one of the expressions of concern for human needs which is brought to bear these days. It stretches back almost as far as the tradition of sending cards which came to North America from England in the mid-1800's. Borrowing an idea from Denmark, Emily Bissell, an American, drew the first design for a Christmas Seal and started a crusade against the then rampant disease of tuberculosis. This at the turn of the century.

Today, tuberculosis can be cured, even prevented by taking pills. Yet 3,000 Canadians have the disease.

As well as tackling the lingering presence of tuberculosis, Christmas Seals have broadened the process of health control to include a whole range of diseases that attack the respiratory system. Thus, they provide funds to fight emphysema, bronchitis and other lung diseases, cigarette smoking and air pollution.

It's a good time to think of physical fitness in general, of the fitness demanded of our hockey players for instance, and the younger fry growing up. It is of some significance that skating ace Toller Cranston is honorary chairman of the Christmas Seals campaign.

As well as demonstrating his prowess on the ice, Mr. Cranston also pursues a successful career as an artist. His credo he sums up this way: "I believe in pursuing any ability one has to maximum capacity; I use both skating and painting to try to bring people close to other people." Admirable objectives for anyone. And right in line with the idea of promoting a fitter Canada of which the Christmas Seals program is a part.

Lewis Looks Over His Shoulder At the Poll in British Columbia

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — In the wake of British Columbia's provincial election, questions are being asked ivot what impact the B.C. vote might have here.

Normally one doesn't expect a vote in one province to swing much weight in another.

But this western vote had special condit ons which might be unusual.

One was that it was "polarized" which obliged the Barrett government.

Solid people from the other parties combined behind Social Credit and the crystallization of the vote which resulted was too much for Barrett to cope with.

It is unlikely, however, that there will be any such polarization here much as the government might like it.

While the New Democratic Party is the official opposition it is third in the popular vote and the Liberals remain top dog in number any form of coalescing.

Over the years, in fact, when there has been any talk of coalition in provincial ranks the proposal has been that the NDP and Liberals should get together.

This has never been seriously entertained in the past and is even less likely to be in the future.

One development we should see is much more use of the "socalled" label in referring to the NDP.

The government has already begun to make fairly wide use of this.

It apparently worked well for Bennett in B.C. and so we can expect even more of it here.

As for Stephen Lewis, he has cause for much thought.

The NDP leader had strong admiration for David Barrett. He quite often referred to the B.C. record in his speeches, and to some extent patterned his policies after it.

He particularly used to cite the good relations the B.C. government had with industry.

Now, not only has the government been defeated, but Barrett has lost his own riding and very personal relations with industry were far from good.

It is all enough to make the leader realize that if his party is to manage a better result in Ontario, probably its policies will have to be revised.

Incidentally, there is the chance of some sort of provincial axis between B.C. and Ontario on inflation control. Both Bennett and Premier Davis favor them.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dec. 17, 1975

Leopold II of the Belgians died 44 years ago today—in 1909—after ruling for 44 years. His main achievement was the development of the Belgian Congo, which he ruled for much of his reign as a personal estate. Although the rule of the cruel slave traders was broken the Congo Free State was vigorously exploited. A British consul-general in 1903 said the natives lived in "veiled slavery."

Under international pressure, Leopold transferred leadership over the Congo to the Belgian government.

Charles Dickens' classic, A Christmas Carol, was published.

American Economist Raps Government Extravagance

By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — The biggest problem for the government — any government, federal, provincial or municipal — is the "Attack of Inflation" is credibility.

Fewer and fewer disillusioned taxpayers believe either the government or its self-serving public service.

Perhaps almost nobody does.

The politicians and public servants are going to have to do something really dramatic — and soon — if they are to regain even a shred of credibility.

Something dramatic like making themselves subject to the same rigors of restraint and control they are trying, so far unsuccessfully, to impose on everyone else.

Internationally recognized leading economist Pierre Rinfret of Berlios and New York said it for a great many cynical taxpayers when he recently asked the annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants:

"How can you control wages and prices and inflation when you can't control the idiots responsible for government spending?"

Politicians and public servants are not exactly looking good.

And they appear to be in league against the very people who support them.

Their seeming anti-taxpayer conspiracy dates back years to former Prime Minister Lester Pearson and Walter Gordon.

It Gave public servants the right to strike — with governments following his lead — which in turn had to be the right to hold the taxpayers to ransom no matter what the cost to the public interest and the economy.

Despite the successive and excessive increases in pay, pensions and fringe benefits for public servants who were supposed to be serving not their own but the public interest.

Together, politicians and public servants have managed to find themselves in a class apart, in an adversary position to the taxpayer.

Mutually they have run up their inflationary tab to the point where they lost the pack.

And in their uncontrolled spending of the taxpayers' money, they insulted themselves with pensions against the inflation they created.

Who else but an MP can retire after six years with an annual pension of $3,000?

Who else but a public servant can retire, as former deputy Finance Minister Simon Reisman did, at 55 with a pension starting above $20,000?

Who else can index their pensions against inflation in such flaw careless rapture that it's possible for a former public servant to draw a large raise in superannuation than he would in salary?

As a taxpayer ask yourself this:

What is the psychological impact of indexing parliamentary and public service pensions — and who will do it for their concern with inflation — when, as a select few have they have managed to project themselves like nobody else from the economic damage it does to everyone else?

Your friendly neighborhood MP will tell you that 23 per cent increase he was shamelessly cutting back from 50 per cent is spread over five years, really makes it only about an annual seven per cent.

That may be, except that those years ago Parliament voted itself better than 33 per cent.

Except, too, that when they ran for election last year, they knew full well the pay, pension and other fringe benefits — but after only nine months on the job voted themselves that 23 per cent pay raise and the faster and more generous pension. The $7,000 is retroactive salary to the day of election, the day they got the job.

Except, finally, they stood still with heresy as objective public servants vote, too, you see, to stop any such them mad" — when just before prize and wage control, Prime Minister Trudeau awarded these $60,000-a-year deputies a $4,000 increase.

A roll-back of this unbridled gluttony anywhere along the line is the only hope for any public servants. If done quickly and dramatically enough, might restore some measure of government credibility.

Compulsory Arbitration ?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Without a Union an individual is as helpless as a drop of water in the ocean in any dispute in industry in general and also in the Federal Government such as the Post Office, the Police Force, the Firemen, Nursing Courses the Armed Forces, and other fields of employment profession, the medical profession, the legal profession, and specialist consulting lawyers, engineers etc.

No matter what group an individual might belong to, he or she must band together in order to have a voice and also to individually he is nothing but together he is powerful. Question it, how to control the group once it realizes its power.

Without getting into the reasons of pulse and counterpoint that could be stated in answer to the above question I would like to simply state as follows:

1st. Strikes of any kind should be outlawed! Disputes should be arbitrated.

2nd. Compulsory arbitration should be the law of the land.

3rd. Reason for the above is that no group of any kind would not be able to force their will and views on the public through the theory that 'Might is Right'. The theory that should prevail is that 'Right is Right'. What better could decide what is right than an elected government? In other words let the government govern for the any given situation. If you don't like the way the government governs then you can still vote in another government as long as you believe in democracy.

Government Handling Funds Queried by Macdonell

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs

Analyst

Thomson News Service

Accountants are noted for choosing their words carefully, but few are quite as cautious as the auditor-general of Canada, James J. Macdonell.

So, when he says that the federal government's financial controls are significantly below the accepted standards of quality and effectiveness, you can be sure that your tax dollars are being handled somewhat carelessly in Ottawa.

Accounting and auditing aren't the last of activity to stir people's emotions.

But, when even Mr. Macdonell is moved to warn that weak financial controls are no open invitation to fraud, it's time for the public to pay attention.

Noting the good reputation that the civil service has enjoyed, a reporter mentioned to the auditor-general that "there hasn't been much fraud."

Mr. Macdonell corrected him. "There hasn't been much fraud detected," he said, with emphasis on the final word.

The possibility of fraud is almost inevitable in a sprawling bureaucracy which handles billions of dollars each year, with no single person or group having the responsibility of "riding herd on the spenders.

The government should follow the example of any large business enterprise, Mr. Macdonell, and appoint a chief financial officer.

Such a person could curb the spending excesses of the government before they are committed — which would obviously be more useful than having the auditor-general draw them to Parliament's attention after the fact.

Granted, the government does employ large numbers of people who are generally responsible for financial planning and controls.

But bureaucratic priorities have become so askew that the main pre-occupation of these civil servants is with the task of persuading the treasury board to authorize ever-greater spending projects.

That, in Ottawa, is how empires are built and careers advanced.

The comparatively dull job of keeping a lid on these expenditures, once they have been approved by the treasury board, seems to be given much less attention than it should.

Mr. Macdonell deserves the taxpayer's thanks for recommending 34 chartered accountants be given their private positions temporarily and to work with an equal number of government accountants in searching for ways to make government spending more accountable.

The accounting profession is also offering its advice to the federal government on the tricky problem of administering the anti-inflation program.

A submission by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants says that "last-day" anti-inflation board should use its powers to impose maximum national uniformity for the program.

(That's what the board seemed to be aiming for in turning down the 38-per-cent wage increase for mail sorters, but then allowed everyone in Pepin and his colleagues).

The CICA would assign the responsibility for monitoring compliance with the anti-inflation program to the auditor department of national revenue—which has been in the business of checking incomes for a long time — the Audit Services Bureau of Supply and Services Canada.

One member of the anti-inflation board has suggested that nonchartered bank compliance should be the responsibility of the private auditors who scrutinize corporation's financial statements.

"While as a profession we are willing to co-operate in any way possible," says the CICA, "there are many practical difficulties in having shareholders' auditors so involved."

New Seniors' Home Highlight of Year Says County Warden

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County warden Clifford Walker Tuesday told county councillors if inflation is not "wrestled to the ground" while an advantage exists, it is unlikely that the prosperity of the past 30 years will return in their (council's) lifetime.

He termed the federal government's anti-inflation legislation as "the most important piece of legislation passed at the senior level of government this year."

The warden added it indicates the days of free spending and open-end programs are over.

In a brief summation of his year in office warden Walker observed that it had been a year of accomplishment.

The highlight, he said, was on Feb. 9 when all residents of Prince Edward's old home for the aged were moved to the new E. J. McFarland Memorial Home.

Warden Walkers added new senior citizen housing units now being built in Picton are nearing completion and he urged a meeting between councils early in the new year to reach agreements permitting county residents to occupy them.

He referred to effective reconstruction and maintenance of county roads and observed that there, was "some criticism" of the roads department this year.

"But we have the best county roads in the province," he said.

At the close of Tuesday's council session immediate past warden Keith MacDonald took the warden's chair to deliver a brief tribute to warden Walker.

Warden Walker was then presented with a watch as a token of his year in office.

Wolf Bounty Passes

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors have voted to rehabilitate $25 wolf county to combat what warden Clifford Walker Tuesday termed "a pretty serious situation."

At a regular meeting of council Tuesday night councillors passed a motion instructing county clerk Thomas Walker to prepare a by-law bringing back a wolf bounty for presentation at the next council session.

Warden Walker said a ministry of natural resources report indicates that there now are from 600 to 100 wolves in Prince Edward County.

Taylor's Help Requested

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors Tuesday passed a motion requesting James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox to assist in expediting the processing of the county's draft official plan.

Approved at local level the draft plan was submitted for ministry approval several months ago.

The motion noted there has been "considerable delay" in final comments from the province concerning the draft official plan.

Sophisticated reeve George Foster told council that "the time has come to put pressure on the powers that be."

Traditional Favorites Make Holidays Special

Fresh cranberries make a magnificent mousse.

In each family there is at least one food that means Christmas. Whether it's a sweet or a main dish, a long involved recipe or just cranberry sauce with oranges, a traditional food favorite makes Christmas even more special. Here's a variety of special dishes that seem to be almost universal in their holiday appeal.

Mincemeat

four pounds chopped cooked beef chopped pared apples ½ pound suet
two pounds raisins
two pounds currants
8 oz. citron
8 oz. orange peel
8 oz. lemon peel
one cup molasses
two pounds brown sugar
½ cup cider vinegar
two quarts sweet cider
two tbsp ground cinnamon one tbsp cloves (ground)
one tbsp allspice
one tbsp nutmeg
½ cup brandy

Boil cider down to one quart. Prepare twice as many cups of apples as you have cups of cooked beef. Mix all of the ingredients except the brandy, together, and cook slowly for two hours, stirring frequently. Add the brandy just before the end of the cooking time. This large recipe (you can reduce it) makes 16 quarts of mincemeat. (One quart will make two pies).

Tourtiere

½ lb. ground veal
½ lb. ground pork
¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup water salt
pepper

Combine ingredients in a small sauce pan and cook until all of the pink color is gone. Drain slightly and place in an unbaked nine-inch pie shell. Cover. Cut vents for steam and bake at 420 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce oven to 375 and bake an additional 20 minutes.

Cranberry Mousse Mold

2 cups fresh cranberries
½ cup sugar
2 cups water
2 packages (3 oz. each) raspberry gelatin
1 cup 1% (1 pint) heavy cream

Sauce

2 tbsp cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
2 cups cranberry cocktail
one-third cup orange flavored brandy

In a saucepan mix cranberries, sugar and water. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer for five minutes. Stir in raspberry gelatin until completely dissolved. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in whipped cream and pour the mixture into 1½ quart mold or bowl. Chill until firm. To prepare sauce, mix cornstarch and sugar. Stir in cranberry cocktail and brandy. Cook over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens, stirring constantly. Chill until ready to serve. When ready to serve, dip mold (if used) into lukewarm water for a few seconds. Tap to loosen, and invert on platter. Ladle chilled cranberry sauce on each serving at the table.

BRIDGE STREET UCW

The Bridge Street United Church Women held their Christmas meeting recently, at which they installed their new officers for the coming year. Kay Summers is the group's new president.

The worship service was conducted by May Sanders, with Donnah Jefferson assisting.

A program of reminiscences of the past 50 years in the life of Bridge Street women's groups was given by Greta Morden, Fran Fluhr, Bessie Marsh, Maude Rollins and Joy Nichols.

A Christmas tea was served by the evening unit, with Ruth Warc pouring tea.

CANADIAN FEDERATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The annual Christmas dinner of the Canadian Federation of University Women (Belleville and District) was held at Moher's Restaurant near Madoc. Members were welcomed by the president, Carol Wilson. Grace was said by Betty McFarlane.

After dinner Connie Burns introduced the Beninger sisters, Loretta and Louise, who played the guitar and led the carol singing. Loretta, who was an exchange student in Germany last year, described Christmas as celebrated by a German family.

Santa arrived, and called upon some elves to introduce new members Sue Beevor, Elizabeth Edwards, Cathy Hodgins, Elizabeth Mitchell, Elaine McGrath and Ginny Palliser.

Presents for the mentally ill were collected and described made to the Christmas sharing fund.

Connie Burns and Julie Brock were in charge of arrangements for the party.

MARMORA IODE

Marmora Chapter IODE held their annual Christmas tea, bake sale and boutique at the Public Library on Friday afternoon. Proceeds amounted to over $100, part of which will be donated to the Canadian Legion Branch 227 for the Christmas baskets to needy families.

The boutique was looked after by Helen Meiklejohn and Helen Brady while Mabel Brady and Vi Parks waited on customers at the home baking table.

In the tearoom, Ann Walters, Marjorie Bleecker and Helen Jones served hot coffee and cookies while guests visited with their friends.

EYEGLASS DONATIONS

Marmora Chapter IODE is grateful to those people who have turned in 44 pairs of eyeglasses for shipment to the Caribbean, where they will be given out to needy people.

The parcel will not be sent to IODE headquarters until after the new year so there is still time for other to locate any old glasses in their possession and leave them at the Marmora insurance office or call 473-2723 for pickup.

NORTHBROOK SENIOR CITIZENS

Members of the Senior Citizens Club of Northbrook and District held their Christmas tea party recently. Roll was called and 72 members were present.

A vote of thanks was given by Vera Charlton to ladies who decorated the hall, Ina Storey, Grace Thompson, Ann Perry, Gena Armstrong.

The Club also thanked Clara McLackie and Tressa Dafoe for donating the amount of $13 they received for quilting to the club.

Gena Armstrong, assisted by Ann Perry, was auctioneer for the evening and raised $16 for the club.

Eva Marriselle was in charge of a stunt in which members had to toss rubber rings over pipes held in other members mouths.

A recitation was given by Damon Bryden about old school days. Don and Ann Perryman a couple of tunes on violin and guitar, and Ann and John Perry treated the members to a step dance.

MELROSE WI

The December meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute was held at the Tweedmans Township Hall recently.

Helen McLaren, Marion Hargrave, Kathryn Holden and Mary Phillips decorated and conducted the program. The women exchanged old hats to wear for the evening at the roll call.

Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs Bridges, were sung and after an exchange of gifts, Mary Ann Piers and Lynda Walsh served lunch.

QUEENSBORO WI

Bernice Cassidy was the hostess for the December meeting of the Queensboro Women's Institute held at the WI hall recently.

Margaret Rollins reported on the executive meeting she attended.

Goldie Holmes showed a quilt she made and read a poem she had composed about it.

Music Is Good Therapy For Retarded Children

EDMONTON (CP) — Two teachers at the Winnifred Stewart School for Retarded Children are proving that music can transcend the barrier of mental retardation.

Dolores Womy, once a performer for the Edmonton Opera Association, and Fred Jackson, a music instructor for 37 years, are music therapists for the 350 retarded children at the school.

Music therapy, developed in Europe during the 1930s, uses music to influence or change behavior. It is used extensively in Europe and the United States, where degrees in music therapy can be attained at several universities.

In Canada, however, there isn't one university offering a course in music therapy despite evidence that the technique works with the retarded and emotionally disturbed, geriatric patients and the physically handicapped.

Neither Mrs. Womy nor Mr. Jackson have degrees in music therapy, although both are accomplished music teachers who have taught themselves acceptable therapeutic techniques by reading journals and attending seminars.

Mr. Jackson has worked at Winnifred Stewart for seven years but says he only began to see the therapeutic possibilities in music when Mrs. Womy came to the school, about two years ago.

"We were really only using it as a background, as an accompaniment for children wanting to sing," he said. "But after Mrs. Womy came, it evolved into more than that." Music became "almost a new sense" for the children at the school.

"There are things these kids can't do, things they might not feel adequate enough at. But music is something they can understand and do, and they seem to put more effort into it than most other things."

Mrs. Womy said retarded children "seem to have a basic beat."

The beat begins each morning at a general assembly of all students.

"We play contemporary and seasonal music; body music that gets them ready for the whole day," Mr. Jackson said.

Mrs. Womy said the school hasn't yet reached the point of playing music to motivated children during non-music classes, as do some schools for the retarded in the U.S.

"But there's a lot of communication between other teachers and the music department, so they're aware of what we're trying to do."

She said adult retardants, who had not complicated with others for years, had been "brought out of their shells" after music therapy.

One boy, 15-year-old Glenn, came to the school last year at the edge of suicide, a victim of years of being misunderstood by his family.

The music therapists sensed his natural talent and began to bring him out of his state of desperation.

"We encouraged him to drum at first," Mrs. Womy said. "Soon we noticed he had a beautiful voice and we helped him develop his vocal ability."

Glenn now is lead singer in one of three choirs Mrs. Womy has started at the school. His attitude about life and his self-esteem have improved dramatically.

Mr. Jackson said he has seen Mrs. Womy bring about significant improvement in the speech of mongoloid children.

"We've had many favorable comments from parents on what music therapy has done for their children," Mrs. Womy said. "The parents are learning it is possible to bring their children out of their shells."

The two teachers handle eight classes a day for about 45 minutes each.

Mrs. Womy heads the classes while Mr. Jackson plays one of about 176 songs they have chosen.

Because retarded children have a short attention span, the former opera singer is almost continually on the move. The children learn to read music using a method developed in Austria that allows them to provide a percussion backing for Mr. Jackson.

A class may join in two or three melodies, for perhaps five minutes. Mrs. Womy then leads the children in a simple slide dance. Quickly she changes the activity to a game, a kind of musical chairs, with the children running to an up-tempo organ selection. The children then are led in a song or asked to play their percussion instruments again.

Mrs. Womy said she can't understand why Canadian universities don't offer courses and degrees in the area.

"I've gone about as far as I can go in Canada. If anyone really wants to learn anything about the subject they almost have to go to the States."

Ann Landers

Love Brings Change in Son

Dear Ann Landers: I had to write when I read about the woman whose lunatic husband wants to give his four-year-old daughter up for adoption because she is hyperactive.

I am the mother of a five-year-old hyperactive child. I used to bit, pinch, kick, spit, have violent temper tantrums, and couldn't play with other children. We took the boy to several doctors before one suggested our state university medical center for evaluation. He was placed in a daily therapeutic program and the results have been fantastic. He is a different child.

I am grateful for all the help our son received there but I feel that most of the change was accomplished by love.—Grateful For Help in Connecticut.

Dear Conn: I'm grateful to you for writing. I caught Holy Ned from hundreds of readers because I combined my fight against making "little junkies" out of their children. Too, often a youngster is put on drugs because it's easier than taking the time to be loving and patient.

I realize that some children are truly hyperkinetic and medication can be a godsend, but drugs should not be a substitute for parental time and attention. An excellent book for parents who need guidelines for raising children (not necessarily hyperkinetic, just normal healthy kids from one to five years of age) is Your Young Child And You by Eleanor Weinberger and Dutton is the publisher. I've read it from cover to cover and it is superb.

Dear Ann Landers: You help lots of people. Please come to the aid of bank tellers. You have no idea how much abuse we take from the public.

Why don't customers realize it's not the teller's fault if the line moves slowly? Most people can't decide what to do with their money until they reach the window.

So many customers who grip about "the long wait" haven't filled out their deposit slips. They forget to endorse cheques. They hand us money rolled in a ball, which is difficult to count.

When we ask customers for identification they get mad—act insulted yell, "I've been cashing my cheque here every week for years, you oughta know me!"

Please print this and make thousands of bank tellers happy.—Your Friend in Chicago.

Dear Friend: It's a pleasure to be of help to the fine people who have served me faithfully for so many years.

Band Plans Concert

TRENTON — The 11th annual Christmas concert of the Trenton Citizen's Band will be held Thursday, Dec. 18, 8 p.m. at Trenton High School.

The band under the direction of Ted Snider, will present a program of music and singing for the whole family.

"We try to present a lighthearted concert which is an opportunity for the entire community to be part of and enjoy the wonderful Christmas music, said Mr. Snider.

One Hurt In Crash

MARMORA — A Marmora area woman is in Belleville hospital today in satisfactory condition after a three-car collision that caused over $2,500 damage just east of here on Highway 7 Tuesday.

In Belleville General Hospital with facial lacerations and a knee injury is Mabel Amanda Dunham, 73, of RR 3 Marmora.

Madoc provincial police say the Dunham vehicle was westbound on Highway 7 when it was in collision with two eastbound vehicles one driven by Donald Bruce Wafzel, 37, of RR 3 Marmora and the other by James Garnet Casselman 36, of RR 2 Marmora.

Pet of the Week

This ginger female kitten is a playful six weeks old. She is one of the many animals available for adoption at the Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society. The animal shelter requests a $3 donation for kittens.

Car Dealer Robbed

PICTON — Twa police today are investigating a break-in at Grindrod Motor Sales Ltd. that netted a thief or thieves approximately $400 in cash.

Picton Police Chief Charles Fletcher said the service station was entered between closing time Tuesday and opening time today. Entry was gained when a window was broken and a lock opened.

On Monday, police investigated the theft of 800 liters from a Sunoco station and car wash here.

District at a Glance

Grosbeaks Join County

PICTON — Prince Edward County is being invaded this winter by grayish, robin-sized birds. Birdwatchers say they are pine grosbeaks which are normally northern in distribution.

Tag Receipts Decline

MARMORA — Ray Brown of Deseronto has reported dog tag collections amounting to $966.38 for Marmora Township in 1975.

The Township's council noted that $899.50 was collected last year.

Office Closes for Holidays

MARMORA — The Marmora and Lake Townships office will be closed from 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 24 until 9:00 a.m. Jan. 5.

Council said recently that few, if any, people would be visiting the office to pay taxes during that time.

Animal Bylaw Passes

MADOCK — Third reading has been given by Marmora and Lake Township Council to a bylaw which prohibits the running at large or trespassing of all animals, except dogs, and provides a penalty of not more than $25.

Few Merchants Hiring Holiday Help

By AL ZARAS

Most local merchants are not hiring great numbers of additional sales staff this year to handle the influx of Christmas shoppers.

Canada Manpower officials say the government employment agency has had no requests for sales help from local retailers.

Instead, stores are either giving their regular part-time staff more hours or calling names for a backlog of applications on file.

As far as Belleville is concerned, says Ray Young, manager of Walker's Stores Ltd. on Front St., it is a fallacy that retailers in small stores in smaller cities hire large numbers of Christmas help.

It may be true for larger stores — citing Towers and Stores as examples — but not for smaller ones, says Mr. Young, adding his store has only hired one or two additional staff members.

Al Towers, west of the city limits, manager Frank Strelesky says he has hired about a dozen persons as Christmas part-time help, "basically the same number of people as before (in previous years)."

But it's a small percentage of his total staff strength, he says.

Regular part-time staff get additional hours, Mr. Strelesky added. "It's only fair to them that they get the hours first."

Belleville Manpower manager Jim White says his offices are seldom used for retail staff selection at Christmas, because employers normally call in their regular part-time staff to fill in extra hours.

"In smaller areas," he says "Stores do carry a fairly substantial number of part-timers."

Manpower assistant manager Ham Fraser says that every commercial outlet uses its part-time staff that works in the store during the rest of the year at Christmas.

He says there is no "great sudden increase in hiring" at Christmas.

Marmora and Lakes Council Approves Multi-phase Recreation Project

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake Townships council recently gave its approval to a draft plan for future development of the Shawano recreation area in Lake Township as presented by John and Don Bowes of Hedonics Inc. of Peterborough. Council, however, added the stipulation that the approval is subject to the approval of the Hastings County Planning Board.

Using maps of the area, John Bowes reviewed the draft plan which has been scaled down to 575 condominium units from the original plan of 1,400 units. Instead of a large commercial area with a hotel, the company now plans to build only essential services, Mr. Bowes said. The company began the Shawano project six years ago.

All but 20 of the original 320 single family cottage lots in Phase 1 of the development have been built on.

The latest plan calls for clusters of condominium units away from water frontage. Mr. Bowes said 360 acres out of 1,500 the company owns would be left for green space.

Cox Still Wants Four-way Stop

City councillor Joe Cox says he has had "numerous" complaints about hazards at the Victoria — Herchimer avenues intersection.

The spot has been a source of recurring complaints from area residents, which usually are mentioned at traffic committee meetings.

Last week, the committee was told traffic at the intersection does not justify provincial government spending standards.

Ald. Cox wanted the committee to examine the situation and bring in a recommendation — or reasons — for a four-way stop.

Ald. Ireland, committee chairman, replied such a stop-signal would be a hazard to young cars, and with traffic not meeting provincial standards there would be no subsidies.

Goodrich Remanded On Theft Charges

Terry Arnold Goodrich, 21, of RR 3, Brighton was remanded by Judge Russell C. Haney in Hastings County Court here this week to Feb. 9 for trial by judge alone on charges of robbery and attempted robbery.

Goodrich appeared Monday to advise the court on the current status of his legal representation.

Trenton police say the charges were laid following an investigation into two incidents in Trenton on Oct. 30, 1974.

Police say two men threatened J. A. Walker, owner of Walker Food Variety and Meat at 185 West Dunbar St. in Trenton with a knife but were forced to flee when Walker also displayed a knife.

Less than 30 minutes later, two men escaped with more than $140 from Birt's Handy Stand at 118 Byron St. in Trenton where three employees were threatened at knifepoint, police say.

A charge of robbery laid against one of the men involved in the incidents has already been disposed of at the provincial court level.

New Chamber President Outlines 1976 Goals

By CLIFF KENTON
Staff Reporter

Making the public more aware of what the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is doing is one of the top priorities of the group's newly elected president.

"There are lots of things the Chamber is doing that the public is not aware of," said Keith Allison, president of Shoppite Stores Ltd., elected recently to replace George Thompson of Bell Canada in the president's chair.

Mr. Allison says the board of directors plans to ask city council to proclaim a Chamber of Commerce week for sometime next year.

"One of the important things is to have better communication with members," he says.

One of the Chamber's newest projects is to regularly survey opinions of its approximately 450 members. Surveys, says Mr. Allison, will be done by mail.

The first survey of members will concern the proposed Belleville minimum building standards bylaw. It will be taken in January.

"Unless I ask the members how they feel how can I develop a Chamber stand on the issue," says Mr. Allison, a member of the board of directors for two years.

Another top priority will be launching of a boost Belleville campaign.

"I'd like to see a lot of thought go into it," he says.

The purpose of the campaign to include promotion of a city slogan, as yet to be determined, will be "to make people more aware of us and to give the people in Belleville more feeling for their city".

Revitalizing the downtown area and promoting shopping in Belleville will be another priority, says Mr. Allison.

"A lot of people shop out of town. We'd like to find out why and from the feedback improve upon our operations," says the new president.

Another major goal of the Chamber this year is to promote the free enterprise system in the schools.

"Free enterprise and democracy go hand-in-hand," says Mr. Allison.

He adds there is so much misunderstanding in the education system concerning business. The Chamber wants students to get first hand information from Chamber members.

"While we're not soliciting people to go into business they can't help learn something."

Boost Belleville

Boosting Belleville is one of the top priorities of Keith Allison, newly elected president of Belleville Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Allison, president of Shoppite Stores Ltd., and Chamber director for [illegible] says the Chamber will begin a boost Belleville campaign in late spring.

Union Disciplinary Action Still Undecided for 11 Workers

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Eleven inside postal workers who returned to work in Belleville and Brighton during the recent strike by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers will be disciplined sometime early next year, Walter Yateman, local CUPW president, said Tuesday.

But what the nature of that discipline will be is still unknown.

Mr. Yateman said the union's local executive — which has jurisdiction over 51 workers in the two centres — has not yet met to establish penalties.

Workers — five in Belleville and six in Brighton — have been suspended from union activities, although they continue to pay membership dues.

Union charges now are pending against them for working "contrary to the purpose of the union during a strike", said Mr. Yateman.

All six CUPW members in Brighton returned to work during the course of the seven-week nationwide strike.

In Belleville, five persons returned to work crossing union picket lines over a week's time in mid-November.

Trenton's 12 workers also returned to work, but Mr. Yateman said Tuesday, any disciplinary action to be taken there will come from the CUPW national office.

"We don't have the right to try them," he said.

Workers failing under the Belleville-Brighton local's jurisdiction will be tried before a three-member union board which will decide penalties, set by the local executive, are to be imposed.

Mr. Yateman said he did not expect the trial board to meet until the new year.

"But I don't think we'll be as drastic (in penalizing workers) as they are in Ottawa," he said.

The Ottawa local has suspended 196 postal workers until they pay the CUPW local money they earned after crossing union picket lines during the strike.

While under suspension, they cannot attend union meetings or vote on union business.

However, according to Mr. Yateman, they still are represented by the union in any grievance procedure with post office management.

Funding Key Problem

BGH Teaching Plan Delayed

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Provincial medical education schemes are contradictory says Belleville General Hospital's retiring medical director, Dr. Reginald Anderson told members of the Belleville Kiwanis club Tuesday. The ministry of health says community hospital will be used as teaching hospitals and they can't have another clinic.

Dr. Reginald Anderson retires at the end of this month.

Financial restraints have already delayed BGH from accepting doctors for post-graduate study in the hospital, he said. A director was to be appointed to the new program in January and it was to be underway by mid-1976. Dr. Anderson said the program, making BGH an extension of Queen's University medical school, will not be under way until mid-1977.

He disputed claims medical services or patient's rights would be affected by the hospital becoming a teaching facility.

Students trained under the program would already be licensed physicians, he said adding government quotas would require that half the students be trained as general practice specialists.

"The quality of medical services in the community is bound to improve if BGH becomes a teaching centre," said Dr. Anderson.

He said "peer pressure" would force all doctors, even those not involved in teaching, to increase their learning efforts to keep up.

Senior and junior medical students have been taught at the school in the past and some medical staff members are opposed to turning BGH into a teaching hospital but, said Dr. Anderson: "Co-operation and participation of the majority of medical staff has been exemplary."

He said most staff members opposed to the proposal are not in favor of it due to the years they spend in teaching hospitals during their own training.

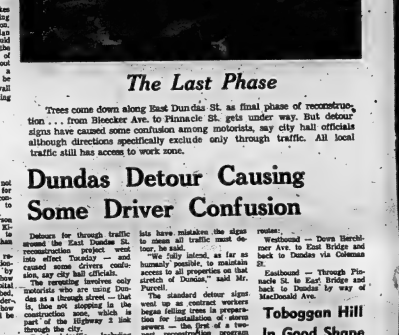
Friends, said Dr. Anderson, would not automatically become "private pies."

"If the patient wishes not t o be used (or teaching) he posts he only need say so."

"Most patients enjoy the role they can play in training young doctors," said Dr. Anderson

Situations in large teaching hospitals where beds are allocated to patients according to teaching needs "are not likely to be seen here," he said.

Training specialists takes two to three years following medical school graduation. Training family physician specialists at BGH would include training in the hospital, training in offices of family physicians throughout the area and training in a family physician centre to be established by the Edith Cavell building, the former nursing building on BGH property.



The Last Phase

Trees come down along East Dundas St. as final phase of reconstruction . . . from Bleecker Ave. to Pinnacle St. gets under way. But detour signs have caused some confusion among motorists, say city hall officials although directions specifically exclude only through traffic. All local traffic still has access to work zone.

Potter Suggests BGH Buy Self-care Unit

A suggestion by Dr. Richard Potter, former Quinte MPP and health minister that Belleville General Hospital use Sills estate funds to purchase the Queen's Motel for the continuation of a self-care program was ruled out today by BGH board of governors chairman Carl Estenson.

Dr. Richard Potter today asked why money from the Sills estate could not be used to purchase the building.

"They (board of governors) can't use the money in the estate for anything but a convalescent home."

Mr. Estenson, however, said today his board has already considered the use of Sills money and rejected the idea on three points.

"The price asked for the motel was far in excess of money allocated in the estate for a convalescent home; the motel is too large . . . and finally we have to put the Edith Cavell building to good use," said Mr. Estenson.

The hospital board now is formulating an application to the ministry of health to create a smaller self-care facility in the Edith Cavell building which is currently being used as some extra beds as a residence for Loyalist College nursing students.

Dr. Potter suggested that costs would be high if the board of governors hopes to renovate the former nursing school to turn it into a self-care unit.

"Naturally, I hate to see this thing closed out," said Dr. Potter. "There's no question about the concept being a good one."

Last week, the provincial government announced it will not renew its lease with the motel and that the present lease would be allowed to expire at the end of 1976.

DR. REG. ANDERSON

Self-care Facilities Good Idea: Director

Self-care unit beds may be the answer to the growing need for hospital beds during government austerity programs, Belleville General Hospital (BGH) medical director said Tuesday.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if these new hospital beds in the future will be self-care beds," said Dr. Reginald Anderson.

Locating the 70-bed Queen's Self-Care Unit with a 40-bed unit in the Edith Cavell building, the former nursing school on Bridge St. east, has been proposed by BGH officials. The province confirmed this week it will not renew the five-year lease for the pilot project at the converted motel. The unit is to close in a year.

Self-care beds, Dr. Anderson told members of Belleville Kiwanis club, are cheaper to provide and maintain than hospital beds.

He said future hospital requirements for additional beds would be met by building a new hospital, how many patients in the hospital do not require a hospital bed, South studies, said Dr. Anderson, would determine how many self-care beds would be needed.

Two Hurt In Crash

A Plainfield woman and her son were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital for bruises suffered in a one-car collision early Tuesday on the 25th sideroad near the 8th concession of Thurlow Township.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say Linda Lee Fralick of RR 1, Plainfield and her three-year-old son, Brian, were transported to hospital by a passing motorist.

Police say Fralick is charged with careless driving.

Police said a 1969-model Chevrolet was travelling west when it failed to negotiate a curve, entered a ditch and overturned.

Constable Terry Lewis estimated $1,200 damage to the car in the 10:45 a.m. mishap.

Separate School Board Gets Tough on Vandals

In an effort to cut vandalism in the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board will ask Belleville city police to enforce the province's Petty Trespass Act and lay charges against people who trespass on separate school property.

Director of education E.J. Neville told trustees Tuesday night the vandalism problem has been on the increase during the last two years. He said three local youths were apprehended last month within the school's break and enter Holy Rosary School.

The board decided to ask city police to be the board's agent in laying charges against trespassers on separate school property.

Under the petty trespass act police require a complaint to enforce trespassing rules on private property. By acting as agents for the board city police can enforce the act and charges against trespassers on separate school property.

Trespassing is not a criminal offence.

Mr. Neville said the board's sole purpose in taking this action is to curb vandalism at the school's and eliminate financial losses to the board.

Mr. Neville said the board would post the trespassing signs on certain school properties.

Bay Ice Still Unsafe

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie today warned residents to stay off the ice in Bay of Quinte.

"The ice is definitely not safe, particularly in light of the mild spell we've had these days," said Chief Crosbie.

Skaters and snowmobilers should stay off the ice until later in the season. Even then they should exercise caution, he said.

"There are spots in the Bay where the current runs that are never safe."

Rape Suspect In Court

MADOC — Provincial court Judge R. C. Jackson committed William Marshal Jones, 22, of Madoc to trial by a judge and jury on a charge of rape Tuesday.

Jones, of 94 Rose St., was charged with the rape of a 19-year-old girl by provincial police after a car was loaded in a cottage about six miles north of Madoc.

No date for trial has been set.

Trash Along Roadside Worries Townships

BRIGHTON — Garbage along township roads is becoming a major problem in Brighton and Murray townships since a joint dump was opened earlier this month, it was learned Tuesday.

Smaller dumps in the two townships were recently closed and a new landfill site opened north of the village of Brighton.

George Murray, a spokesman for the firm contracted to manage the dump, said the problem is getting out of hand.

People are coming to the landfill site on weekends, are finding it closed, and are throwing garbage alongside the dump access road, he said.

Provincial police say they will charge anyone found littering and have already issued several warnings.

There are also township bylaws under which residents may be charged.

Bancroft Gets Housing Grant

Bancroft is to receive an Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP) grant for $31,186 from the province's housing ministry.

The cheque will arrive in about three weeks, says Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings-Peterborough.

OHRP is designed to upgrade present housing stock.

Dundas Detour Causing Some Driver Confusion

Detours for through traffic around the East Dundas St. reconstruction project went into effect Tuesday — and caused some drivers confusion, say city hall officials.

The rerouting involves only motorists who are using Dundas as a through street — that is, those not engaged in the construction zone, which is part of the Highway 2 link through the city.

But local traffic — including those visiting friends or businesses in the section — is protected, city manager Wilbur Purcell emphasized Tuesday.

The work zone — from Pinnacle to Bleecker — is posted accordingly, but some motorists have mistaken the signs to mean all traffic must detour, he said.

"We fully intend, as far as humanly possible, maintain access to all properties on that stretch of Dundas," said Mr. Purcell.

The standard detour signs went up as contract workers began felling trees in preparation for installation of storm sewers — the first of a two-part reconstruction program on the last stretch of the highway link to be upgraded.

Contract bids for the road work will be called later with construction starting after the sewer mains are laid.

The through-traffic detour routes:

Eastbound — Down Herchimer Ave. to East Bridge and back to Dundas via Coleman St.

Eastbound — Through Pinnacle to Earl Bridge and back to Dundas by way of MacDonald Ave.

Toboggan Hill In Good Shape

The toboggan hill at East Zwick's park is in even better shape for recreation this year, park director Lloyd Ayers said.

It told the parks board and recreation — arena committee Tuesday work on the new hill during the summer involved stone removal which will improve surface conditions.

City, Lions Discuss Project

Talks are continuing between the city's parks board and Belleville Lions Club representational on a possible project at West Riverbank Park.

One suggestion is that the Lions develop a children's activity centre in the park.

Ald. Paul Russell, board chairman, said Tuesday meetings with club representatives showed them "very interested" in such a project.

He told the board the club might spend up to $30,000 if it approves the design.

In total, he estimated such a project would cost $50,000 or more.

Toys Galore

Wrong Way on 401, Driver Charged by OPP

A Belleville man has been charged with dangerous driving after a car going in the wrong direction on Highway 401 was chased by police about 2:30 a.m. this morning.

Charged is John E. Adams, 23, of RR 4 Belleville.

Belleville OPP Constable Fred Fry began the chase after seeing a car leave the Sun Valley Motor Inn and proceed eastbound in the eastbound lane of Highway 401.

The car was attempting to stop him before he (the driver) got killed," Corp. Fry's knowledge said today.

"Two tractor-trailers almost collided with the vehicle," said Corp. Rutledge. They were passing each other at the time and had to make way for the vehicle travelling in the wrong direction.

Put Cycle Path on Bridge Urges Wills

Motor vehicles aren't the only mode of transportation for which a new Bay Bridge crossing should be designed, says a Belleville businessman.

Bicycles should also be considered, says William Wills.

Mr. Wills said Tuesday he's writing a letter to that effect to Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow.

What he has in mind is a separate bicycle path to be incorporated into the design of the new Highway 14 bridge across the Bay of Quinte — whenever — and wherever — it's built. At a meeting with a provincial study team to discuss latest developments in the project with local government politicians was called off Monday. Instead the ministry representatives met with local municipal technical staff.

Mr. Wells said his suggestion to the minister was prompted by the growing popularity of cycling.

Bicycles already are in wide use in the Quinte district as a means of reaching the area's recreation and scenic spots.

But it's inevitable the machine will eventually be used for recreation use, he said.

For one thing, the automobile is "pricing itself out of favor" except where it's a straight necessity."

There'll come a time when bicycles will be used to travel short hauls — say up to 20 miles said Mr. Wills.

There is a growing need for setting aside areas specifically designed for bicycling, said Mr. Wills.

More people, he said, would ride bicycles as hobby and cycle streets if it wasn't for heavy traffic.

"In time . . . this problem can be solved by providing separate paths" along traffic routes.

"However, when a new, permanent facility like a bridge is constructed special requirements like bicycle paths must be considered at the same time or be lost forever," says Mr. Wills.

Sharing Their Wealth

Cubs from the 11th Belleville Pack Tuesday drop toys into a box for Belleville firemen Stanley Urena, a co-ordinator of the fire department's Christmas toy-sharing program. Encircling the fireman (from foreground left) are Geoff McKnight, 8,/Todd Bennett, 9, Robert Pargey, 10, John Summers, 9, Richard Jefferson, 8, and Peter Jeffs, 10.

Agriculture Outlook Bleak in 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — No news might have been good news as the 1976 agriculture outlook conference. As it was, all the news was bad.

Consumers were told Monday they could expect retail food prices to increase by up to 15 per cent next year. Farmers were told Tuesday their net income comes can be expected to plummet by 36 per cent.

The two-day conference, which attracted about 450 delegates from the agriculture industry, governments and universities across the country, is held annually to give the industry a look at prospects for the coming year.

Thomas Bolton of Toronto, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., which has about 420 branches, was the one who said a 10-to-15-per-cent increase in food prices in 1976 "seems to be a pretty good guess."

One of the main reasons was that stores already are locked into contracts that contain cost-of-living clauses. As well, a 60-day freeze by some store chains on most commodities expires in mid-January.

"When the freeze ends, our rising costs will have to be passed on to the consumers," he said.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan did nothing to assuage anyone's fears in his opening speech by quoting experts as saying the world has enough food in storage to last 25 days.

"We are at a cliff edge and everyone is nervous," he said. "Never have there been so many people so anxious to know what will happen in the next few years regarding food production."

The prediction that net farm incomes would plunge by 25 per cent next year was the work of Statistics Canada and was referred to the conference by agency economist Barry Pyood. But Mr. Whelan, in his closing speech, noted that the last outlook conference heard a prediction that farm incomes would drop by 12 per cent this year. Incomes actually rose.

"We can only hope that the crystal ball is wrong twice in a row," Mr. Whelan said.

Mr. Pyood said that although 1975 was the fifth consecutive year in which an increase in net farm incomes was reported, "1976 will be a year of downturn."

Recording Found

NEW YORK (AP) — A previously unknown recording of 17 privately taped songs of faith including traditional hymns, spirituals and a rock prayer composed by bass-baritone singer Norman Treigle, who died last February, is being sold by the Norman Treigle Memorial Fund. All proceeds will go to the fund's scholarship program for vocal students.

Refuse to Pay

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP) — Volunteers are checking how much water is boiled for tea or flushed in the loos at Werrington village hall near here. Villagers are refusing to pay a £37 bill from the water authority which says 750 gallons a day are used at the hall.

LOTS OF VARIETY FOR CHRISTMAS DINNER

No matter what your traditional Christmas dinner - whether turkey, duckling, a handsome big rib of beef, or Cornish hens for a family of 2 - you'll find a wide range of festive main-course makings at your Miracle Food Mart, at money saving prices.

Beef is a particularly good buy this year. So perhaps you'll want to serve a smaller turkey than usual, and roast beef as well. Or team up your turkey with a crisp-skinned, rich-flavoured roast young duckling, for a Christmas dinner to remember.

For widest selection, choose now. And if buying fresh turkey, order from your Miracle Food Mart store this week, for pick-up Dec. 23rd or 24th.

Only Future Will Show Merit Of Mid-east Shuttle Diplomacy

By JOHN HAY
Canadian Press

The shifting sands of Middle East politics in 1976 can determine whether the 1975 success of shuttle diplomacy was real or just a mirage.

Bargaining through the mediation of the jet-propelled United States secretary of state, Henry Kissinger, Israel and Egypt agreed last summer on a further separation of their forces in the Sinai. U.S. civilians are to monitor the peace agreement.

More important, the two former combatants agreed that conflicts between them "shall not be resolved by military force but by peaceful means."

On the surface, they have promised never to fight each other again. But no treaty alone can prevent a war if one side is bent on fighting, and the treaty was quickly attacked by more belligerent Arab countries opposed to the very existence of the Israeli state.

In the coming year, the success of that treaty and prospects for a more limited treaty between Israel and Syria rest on an old issue that has assumed paramount importance: the fate of the Palestinians.

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) will score another diplomatic point in January when it participates in a United Nations Security Council debate on the Middle East.

Its presence at the UN will bolster the claim of its leader, Yasser Arafat, to be the legitimate and authoritative voice of the Palestinians living throughout the region.

This claim has always been disputed by Israel and the United States. The PLO so far has denied the right of Israel to exist. Because of that, and because of PLO terrorist actions, Israel has refused to negotiate with Arafat's group.

But there are some signs of changes ahead.

The PLO recently has sometimes seemed to be on the verge of at least tacit recognition of Israel.

A joint communique issued when Arafat visited Moscow in November referred to establishment of a Palestinian state "according to United Nations resolutions." That has been taken by some to mean acceptance of Israel's existence.

Leading figures in Israel itself have begun to question their government's continued refusal to talk to Arafat. Among them are former foreign minister Abba Eban and the present information minister, Gen. Aharon Yariv.

What last year seemed improbable, therefore, now looks at least possible — a Geneva conference on the Middle East that would include both the PLO and Israel.

The plight of the Palestinian refugees, however, continues to poison relations within the Middle East and beyond.

Lives are lost every month as terrorists and Israeli forces exchange assaults across the Lebanese border.

In Lebanon itself, the presence of thousands of refugees has helped inflame the war between Moslems and Christians.

Syria has used the issue as a lever at the UN—making PLO participation in the Security Council debate a condition of continued UN presence on the Golan Heights between Israeli and Syrian armies.

Even in Canada, the prospect of PLO participation in a UN crime conference in Toronto led the government to withdraw its invitation. The meeting was held without incident in Geneva.

While the diplomatic tiffuse over the Palestinians, Canadians still are patrolling the truce lines in Sinai and the Golan as part of the UN peacekeeping mission.

GIVEN VOTING RIGHTS

Mexican women were given the right to vote in a presidential election for the first time in 1958.

U.S. Foreign Policy Takes Subtle Change

WASHINGTON (CP) — Thousands of pitiful, destitute refugees clinging to ships and helicopters as they fled Vietnam as Cambodia marked the final collapse of more than 20 years of United States involvement in Indochina in 1975.

There was a minimum of mourning and, despite warnings at home and serious concern abroad, there were few concrete signs that the tragedy would mean a greater U.S. isolationism.

It seemed clear, however, that the style and substance of American foreign policy began a radical if subtle transformation in the post-Vietnam period which may take years to emerge clearly.

For the refugees, nearly 180,000 of them, the Communist takeover in Vietnam and Cambodia brought a drastic change in their way of life.

Almost overnight, they were shifted from the hustle and clamor of Saigon and Phnom Penh or from rural ricefields and farms to a culture so alien that for many it seemed to defy comprehension.

Almost 1,000 of them found the prospect too daunting and were granted permission to return to an uncertain future in Vietnam.

For virtually all the others, American consumer had been found by the close of 1975 and the major refugee camps were closing.

There seemed no clear pattern of adjustment among the refugees and for the majority the future seemed to dictate a long, slow period in become familiar with the Americas philosophy.

The new pattern of foreign policy was hard to discern as Vietnam receded in the public consciousness.

Historian Arthur Schlesinger described it as "groping after humane alternatives to brute force in the painful realization that might is not always right."

Many seemed to agree with him. Former state secretary Dean Rusk commented: "What we are seeing is a return to a kind of diplomacy which existed before the two great wars of this century—perhaps a retreat to realism but not a retreat to isolationism."

The new style appears to concentrate on creating a stable power balance among Russia and Communist East Europe, China, Japan, North America and Western Europe.

The long and damaging war in Vietnam seems to have injected a novel ingredient into the process and nowhere was this more evident than in the bloody civil war in the African country of Angola.

Cuban troops sponsored by Russia are directly supporting a pro-Moscow Marxist faction for control of Angola while China, South Africa, the U.S. and others back rival factions.

But Washington has avoided active interference and gives every indication of having abandoned its pre-war policy of fighting Communist advances wherever they appeared.

"It is a more subtle, indirect approach," says Schlesinger. "The Soviets are a world power with world interests and to pursue these. Particularly in an economic sense, they need an accommodation with the United States. We're no longer interested in fighting local wars. There is a greater awareness that these can be minimized by concentrating on global politics."

Retirement Does Not Mark Incompetence

OTTAWA (CP) — "Brainwashed" is the word Walker Tyrrell uses to describe people who believe that age 65 marks the end of competence and the beginning of incompetence for human beings.

Mr. Tyrrell, president of the Ottawa Senior Citizen Council, told seniors at a conference recently to get up from their easy chairs and wrestle with life.

"In spite of the fact that we know we have the ability to contribute much to our world, we listen to younger people tell us we should do this and not that until we've pushed out of our life's work at an age when we are just beginning to flex our wisdom muscles," he said.

"What is worse, after a while we start believing the fallacy that we really aren't competent, and sit around waiting for someone to coddle us."

Some senior citizens do need coddling, however, but not in the slang sense of the term.

Dr. S. E. Goldstein told the conference that the elderly do not get a fair share of health care, especially for the most common psychosomatic ills besoes of their age group—loneliness and depression.

While physical ills are well cared for, emotional troubles, which are sometimes those physical ills in the first place, are neglected.

His own predicament was proof. Dr. Goldstein is the only gerontologist specializing in the psychologic and psychiatric problems of the elderly in the Ottawa region, which has about 60,000 people over age 65.

"We have to change our stereotyped picture of old people," he said, referring to the myths of inevitable senility and memory loss connected with old age.

"These people are not crazy. They have a right to a psychiatrist's services as well as anyone else," he said.

Dr. Goldstein said the average stay of a senior citizen in his occupational-therapy program at the Royal Ottawa Hospital is a month but often after was visit to a psychiatrist, the patient's symptoms decrease.

Often the therapy is aimed at people who have lost their interest in life and need to get involved in the business of living again.

Illnesses brought on by depression can be combated completely in the majority of cases if the victim seeks help from professionals, he said.

Tablet Unveiled

LONDON (CP) — A memorial tablet to poet Gerard Manley Hopkins, a Jesuit priest who died in 1889 at age 44, will be unveiled in Westminster Abbey. It marks the first time a Roman Catholic has been commemorated at the Anglican place of worship since the placing of a memorial to Dryden, who died in 1700.

Quality is Low

LONDON (CP) — Judges for the annual Commonwealth poetry prize of $250 announced recently that no award will be given for 1975. They said the quality of the small number of entries was low. Previous winners included George McWhirter of Canada.

Mousetrap Plays On

LONDON (CP) — Agatha Christie's mystery play The Mousetrap, seen by 3.75 million people since it opened Nov. 25, 1952, recently celebrated its 23rd birthday. Miss Christie made her grandson wealthy when she made him a gift of all royalties at the time the play first opened. The theatre says it has advanced bookings until 1977.

Ministry Officials to Visit This Week

By AL ZANAS
Staff Reporter

Vera Heimbach, chairman of the Quinte Information and Assistance Centre, says the suspects three consumer and corporate affairs ministry officials expected in Belleville this week will tell the centre what role it might take in channelling information to the federal anti-inflation board.

The chairman said early this week, "We're going to come into it completely but we don't know to what extent yet."

The visit, she said she believes is partly to acquaint the centre with methods for information referral. It will give the officials some first-hand knowledge of centre operations.

But just how active a role the centre will take in the anti-inflation board monitoring process is not known, said Mrs. Heimbach.

Reasons behind the visit are not fully understood, she said.

If the centre is asked to act as a information referral centre, such a request will have to go before the centre board of directors for approval, she said.

Last week, the board refused a request from its staff that the centre act as a clearing house for public complaints over wage and price increases.

Any request this week during the visit, said the chairman, will have to go before the board for a decision.

"We'll be asking them (ministry officials) how the individual gets information to the board," said Mrs. Heimbach, adding that procedures now are not clear.

That was one reason sited in the centre board's refusal to act as a complaint clearing house.

Court Date Set

Leland Herbert Diamond, 21, of no fixed address and a former Belleville area resident, will appear in provincial court here Dec. 23 for the first time on a charge of break, enter and theft.

Diamond was ordered detained at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee during a bail hearing in provincial court here Monday.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say the charge resulted from an incident at Cook Motors in Shannonville early Sunday during which about $100 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes were stolen.

Now you can shop for your lights where the people who lit the CN Tower shopped for theirs.

Ruddy Electric has always been different. We specialize in hard-to-find lighting designs. Like our award-winning lamps and chandeliers. Why? Well, we started out as a wholesaler. And we dedicated ourselves to pleasing the very, very, demanding tastes of Ontario's leading builders, architects, industrial designers and interior decorators.

Modern and traditional chandeliers $65.00-$1470.00

20 YEARS EXPERIENCE WITH THE PROS.

Actually we've had over 22 years experience answering the most demanding questions about lighting requirements—about taste. Decor. Function. Colour combinations. And wiring. Now, these artists of taste are just like you. Very grateful when their exacting demands are met. But often, they're very secretive about their sources. So we decided to let you in on their secret.

Colonial Sconz and Table Lamps $71.25-$201.25

4 PROFESSIONAL LIGHTING SHOPS.

That's why we now have 4 professional lighting shops. Located where rents are low. After all, we know you're not interested in helping us pay for fancy locations. But you do want to find the one, particular lighting design that fits your home best. And just as important, you're willing to go quite a way to find it, and to get expert answers to your questions about colour. Period combinations. High fashion. And so on. Answers which our people have. Probably better ones than anybody else.

Tiffany Lamps $74.25-$780.00

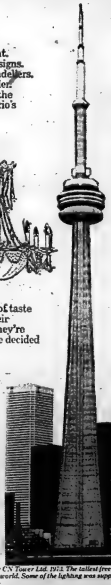
LOOK WHO FOUND US IN BELLEVILLE.

The new Century Place at Front & Bridge St.

But don't take our word for it. Talk to the people of the new Century Place at Front & Bridge St. We supplied the Quinte Mall with hard-to-find lighting designs. We did the same for the new Miracle Food Mart store.

Ask custom home builder Reg Breault, or Paul Bernard of Bernard Interiors about us. Or the people who bought 50 of the finest custom homes in this area during the last 12 months. (Of course, you may have some difficulty at first getting them to reveal our name.) As we said before, some artists are very secretive about their sources.) Ruddy Electric in Toronto even supplied some lighting for the CN Tower and the revolutionary new solar energy heated Ontario Hydro Building.

Brass Lamps $43.95-$216.00



The CN Tower Ltd. 1975. The tallest free standing structure in the world. Some of the lighting was supplied by Ruddy Electric.

TASTE MAKERS OF BELLEVILLE UNITE.

We suggest you join the search. First, visit the most convenient lighting store in your neighborhood. Or your nearest department store. Then gather up all your courage. And try to find one of our shops. (We've included some easy clues below). And, once you see our unusual selection of award-winning traditional or modern designs— you'll agree it was worth the effort.

WITH WINGS AS EAGLES: The Story of Soaring.
By D.S. Halacy.

Soaring is a growing international sport, with thousands of new enthusiasts taking to the air each year in planes capable of speeds of a hundred miles an hour, and distances of 300 miles. Mr. Halacy describes the fundamentals of soaring, the sailplanes themselves and the feeling he gets when flying along the crags of a windy ridge or passing a wheeling hawk. He touches on the beginning of the sport and gives a list of schools, organizations and publications.

MONEY: MEMENTO, IT CAME, WHERE IT WENT.
By John Kenneth Galbraith.

One of the foremost economists today has given us a history of money — and the lessons which can be learned from that history. It is a sweeping and comprehensive look at the use of coins and paper money and the way banks and governments have sought to use monetary policy to cure whatever economic ills were in evidence at a given time. Professor Galbraith says "From history we can see how money and techniques for it's management and mismanagement were evolved and how they now serve or fail to serve." This is a readable and sometimes fascinating book.

BOXING: A PICTORIAL
By Harry Carpenter.

Boxing as we know it today began in 1743 when Jock Broughton drew up the first humane rules. It was the era of bareknuckle champions and marathon fights which lasted for hours. Later the Queensberry rules modified the sport, and in 1867 the first heavyweight championship took place with gloves. Harry Carpenter, boxing commentator for B.B.C. Television since 1952, relates the story of the sport in the twentieth century in detail decade by decade. All the great fights are here and the great fighters, from Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis to Mohammad Ali. With photographs on every page, this is a book for all enthusiasts.

ONE DAY AT KITTY HAWK: The Untold Story of the Wright Brothers and the Airplane.
By John Evangelist Walsh.

Orville and Wilbur Wright have been presented over the years as equal partners in the development of powered flight. John Walsh has sifted through the original documents and it is his conviction that Wilbur was the true genius and Orville very much the junior partner. Wilbur died in 1912 and Orville, who lived until 1948, was able to control the archives and thus present a distorted view. In "One Day at Kitty Hawk" the author has created a step-by-step account of the aeroplanes development and testing. He reveals Wilbur Wright as a brilliant man who planned and supervised the long series of dangerous glider experiments which preceded the famous pioneer flight in 1903.

FELTON AND FOWLER'S BEST, WORST AND MOST UNUSUAL
By Bruce Felton and Mark Fowler.

This is a light-hearted collection of the best, worst, and most unusual aspects of anything and everything. Some of the judgements are the compiler's own, some are from other sources; the largest portion pertains to the United States. For example the most unusual glacier is one containing millions of newspapers forced to land during a snowstorm; the best light bulb has been in use for thirty years.

Saints Stung by Rebounding

Unsung Starter Carries Nicks' Tune to CSS

Centennial Secondary School appeared to have something going for them Tuesday night in opening game of the Senior A Basketball Doubleheader at Quinte. The Chargers went down by a mere six points, 29-23, to the powerful Holy Cross Catholic College Nicks at half time.

However, the Nicks weren't looking in asserting their dominance in the second half and by the end of the game had walloped the Chargers 72-50.

In the other contest, Belleville Collegiate edged the home Saints 31-27.

Nicks Icon demonstrated their awesome balance of strength in Tuesday's encounter. Charger coach, Pat Carty, specifically defended against NCC's All-Scholastic centre Dale Wilson. Though he scored 17 points, his check, Curtis Crawford kept things on an even keel scoring 15 points and hauling down 13 rebounds.

When the Nicks found their big man under the boards, being kept in check and tight reins on six-three guard Jeff Boyle — he was limited to 14 points — they began dumping the ball off to five-foot eleven Danny Drasziewski. The shortest of the Nicholson starters, Krasznewski appears an unlikely threat, but he made his presence known hitting for 19 points — Centennials best scorer was John Hipwell with nine.

BCI 51, QSS 47

Quinte Saints, without the services of their number one rebounder, Al Rutherford, have been plodding along hoping for the best in the season. Tuesday BCI controlled the boards and finished with a four point margin of victory.

Forward Brian Bell, a strong outside shooter, keyed the Collegians attack with 18 points. Centre Gord Wright added 14 and guard Mike Kirby had 13.

Steve Jones was tops for the Saints with 19 points and Steve McCracken and Rick Calkin had nine apiece. Brian Hamilton was next with eight.

Rutherford, who was suspended from participating against any Bay of Quinte Secondary Schools after a football altercation, will be back in the Quinte for lineup in the new year. His suspension lasted only for the remainder of 1973.

Oldtimers Sharpen Skills To Mark Arena Opening

MARMORA — Saturday at 8 p.m., Hastings-Peterborough MPP Charles Rollins will push a button to illuminate Marmora's refurbished arena.

On hand for the event will be a number of invited guests, one hockey insane, the Ottawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers, and local residents.

The official re-opening marks the culmination of two years' work, a year and a half of which was spent in re-shingling all possibilities before December was reached in May of this year to repair the original arena at a cost of $70,000 — rather than build a new one at an estimated cost of $400,000.

The committee which made the final decision was composed of two representatives from each of the three local municipal councils, Marmora and Deloro Village and Marmora and Lake Townships. Councillor Gordon Bennett of Marmora Village was elected chairman of that committee.

With the help of Mr. Rollins the committee was successful in obtaining substantial grants from the provincial government and the three municipalities pledged the remainder. The official work got under way in August.

Saturday's official ceremony is being held in conjunction with a hockey game between Ottawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers. All proceeds from the evening will go towards the expense of the local team attending the National Oldtimers Hockey Tournament in Lethbridge, Alta. in February.

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. with a demonstration by the Madoc Skating Club, followed by a warmup of the two teams. Official ceremonies will take place, after which the members of both teams will be introduced and a presentation of new sweaters and a cheque made to the home team by Keith Brown of Peterborough.

In addition to Mr. Rollins and his wife, Hastings MP Jack Ellis and Mrs. Ellis, Warden Bill McCrae of Hastings County and Mrs. McCrae and Reeve James Pollock of nearby Rawdon Township and Mrs. Pollock are expected to be guests.

The guest list also includes George Wield, General Superintendent of Marmoraton Mining Company, and Mrs. Wield, Bill Jones, President of Local 4854, United Steelworkers of America, Mrs. Jones, Paul Frappier, President of Branch 227 Canadian Legion, and Mrs. Frappier; Ken Gilfoy, president of the Marmora Curling Club and Mrs. Gilfoy; Leonard Rickard, president of Minor Hockey, and Mrs. Rickard; James, (Scotty) Campbell president of Minor Hockey, and past chairman of Marmora Recreation Committee and Mrs. Cook; Garnet Brownson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee, and Mrs. Brownson and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brown of Peterborough.

Thor Pal, the design engineer, and Frank Surchard of the Panther Engineering Company in Kingston who carried out the renovation project, have also been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Phillips of Marmora have received a special invitation in order that a plaque in memory of their son Larry may be presented by minor hockey.

The Ottawa Old Stars, who have been billed as the oldest hockey team on earth, will then take on the Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers in what is expected to be a crowd pleasing game of hockey.

Tom Dr. Hamilton Crawford Arena, as it is properly called, was named in memory of a general practitioner who served the people of Marmora for almost 35 years. It was built at a cost of $38,000 by the C. H. Maynard Company of Markham and the official opening was held on October 24, 1948. The entire cost of the arena was raised by public subscription. Many of the employees at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company donated a day's pay and the company gave a sizeable donation.

The committee in charge of raising the money and building the arena consisted of the late Bernard Hughes as chairman; William Shannon (now clerk-treasurer of Marmora Village) as vice-chairman and Alex Fraser acting as secretary-treasurer. The reeve of the village at that time was Vincent Lynch, well known merchant.

Four years later, in 1952, the cost of an ice plant was raised through donations and installed at an approximate cost of $35,000. A replacement ice plant was needed in 1970-71 so the people of Marmora got behind a fund raising committee called the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee and raised another $30,000. The arena was showing signs of wear at that time and it was felt that the ice plant could be transferred to a new arena if one was built.

The Ministry of Labor forced the issue sooner than expected by issuing a closure order on the area just before the 1974-75 season. Minor hockey and the curling club were forced to seek accommodation in neighboring community arenas for practices and games, an arrangement that taxed the players physically and their parents financially.

This was one of the reasons the arena committee chose to renovate the existing structure rather than build a new one, although the main reason was financial. It was felt by some people that another winter without the local arena would see the end of minor hockey.

Now, 27 years after the arena was built, about $100,000 is being spent to upgrade the building and insure that it is safe. The arena roof has been reinforced throughout and received a new coat. The quasso-colored sidewalls have made it attractive looking outside, new lighting is being installed, the dressing has been repaired and proper sewage connections made.

BOBBY CRAWFORD

Lions Hotter Than Ever

Belleville Lions Midgets, sparked by the two goal effort of Bobby Crawford, rallied in their eighth win of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association regular season Tuesday night, edging Kingston Township Centre 70's 6-5.

The victory gave the local squad an 8-5-1 record on the year, their best ever since admission to the AAA OMHA calibre.

Howie Coons, Bob Bunion, each scored singles in helping the home team to the win.

The Lions play a home and away series with Peterborough this weekend. Saturday the Petes are at the Memorial Arena at 7 p.m.

League Continues Without Referees

Gas House Officials Learning No One Is Indispensable

Despite a boycott by referees, it's business as usual in the Gas House Hockey League. For the past two nights officials have refused to preside over league games. Regardless, all six GHHL games have been played this week.

In Tuesday's action, Bob's Sports moved back into first place with a 7-1 victory over Procter and Gamble. Bi-Temp Air Conditioning retained their hold on fourth place with a 7-6 thrust over Constellation Carpets and Bel-Con Engineering moved back into fifth place in the league standings with a 5-2 victory over Murray's Food Market.

Mining Gas House president, Barry Brown, said, "my own personal feelings are that the referees have a legitimate claim.

"Officials are demanding more money for their services per game. Currently referees and linesmen receive $6 and $5 respectively. Brown says Gas House referee in chief, John Lansfield, feels these amounts raised to $10 and $8.

Brown said he explained the matter would be up to Bell with at a full executive meeting and that the earliest date for such a gathering was Thursday. That, apparently, was not satisfactory with the striking officials and Monday they began their boycott.

Both nights the league made do with makeshift officials and it appears not to have suffered any ice time.

Bob's Sports continued their domination of opposition with another decisive win. Ray Summers collected a hat trick and drew a pair of assists to show the way. Mike Goegan was right behind him with two and two and Frank Wiles and Dorian Lessard each added singles. Ted Rowland assisted on three goals.

The lone Procter and Gamble goal was scored by Bob Kiddle. That single tally stopped Vern Whalen from dropping his goals against average below one per game. In 11 starts the red hot Bob's netminder leads league netminders with a stingy 1.09 goals against mark.

Steve Campbell, one half of the number two goalie unit in the league, was between the pipes to collect credit for Bi-Temp's shutout. Larry Woodley gave him support with two goals and Bob Graham, Dem Di Tomaso, Bill Lynch, Steve Donator and Jim Meens each added singles.

Murray's, which leads the league in losses with 11 in 12 games, dropped their second as many nights Tuesday.

Don Brookhouse had two goals and a pair of assists to lead the way for Bel-Con and Bill Bowers scored twice. The fifth marker came from Richard Read.

Warren Rushlow and Doug Semark replied for Murray's.

Atlanta Flames Are Believers

ATLANTA (CP) — Atlanta Flames extended their unbeaten streak to six games Tuesday night with a 3-1 triumph over Kansas City Scouts, and coach Fred Creighton compared his club's record to that of a golfer.

"You go back over the games and you see different people chipping in on different nights," said Creighton after his Flames defeated the Scouts in the only National Hockey League game set to move to within five points of second-place New York Islanders in the Patrick Division.

The Flames are third with 33 points, three ahead of New York Rangers. Kansas City remains fourth in the Smythe Division with 29 points.

It was Hilliard Graves, Claude St. Sauveur and Gerry Meehan joining the damage Tuesday night for the Flames, each scoring a goal.

Seven-goals by Graves and St. Sauveur mapped a 1-1 first-period tie and sent the Flames to their fifth victory in six games. The other ended in a 3-3 tie against the Islanders. It also brought Atlanta's record to 7-1-1 in the last nine games.

"It's like in golf," said Creighton of his club which started the season slowly but now has a 15-13-2 record. "You hit a good shot and then you're probably going to hit three or four more good ones. Then you can't wait to get to the next tee. The guys are starting to believe in themselves."

Kansas City got its only goal at 15:33 of the opening period when Will Paisnect scored his fifth of the year, beating goalie Dan Bouchard, who stopped the Scouts' other 23 shots.

"Every game we've played against this team, they've outplayed us," said coach Reg Guidolin of the Scouts. "I don't know what it is."

Graves, with his eighth goal of the year, and St. Sauveur, with his fifth, broke the game open, scoring within 20 seconds of each other early in the second period.

"We were a little too loose in the first period, but we played pretty good offensively in the second period and we tightened up on defence," said Creighton.

One unhappy note for the Flames was an injury to forward Larry Romanchyk, who collided with Kansas City defenceman Ken Hicks in the final period.

Creighton said Romanchyk suffered strained ligaments in his left knee and will be out 10 days to three weeks.

Meanwhile, Washington Capitals continuing to shuffle players to hopes of finding a winning combination, sent four scorers Guy Charbonneau to Pittsburgh Penguins in exchange for centre Harvey Bennett.

It was the second trade in less than 24 hours for the Capitals. Monday, Washington sent right winger Mike Sirois from Philadelphia Flyers to Pittsburgh for a player to be named later.

WAYNE BELISLE

Saints Plan Action

TORONTO (CP) — Wayne Belisle, president of Toronto Fighting Saints, hopes to involve his World Hockey Association players in a limited partnership agreement that will keep the team solvent.

"The players will become investors and part owners without the personal exposure," said Belisle in a telephone interview from Minnesota on Tuesday, adding the players will be asked Friday to help keep the financially-troubled franchise afloat.

"The limited partnership setup was granted by United States taxation authorities. With the tax benefits that will be afforded players, each dollar put in will cost them only 23 cents.

"If, for instance they put in $1,000, when and if the franchise is eventually sold, their $1 million will be the first money coming back, it's a hell of a deal."

The Globe and Mail says the Fighting Saints barely made Monday's payroll and chances are not good that they will be able to make the next one, scheduled for the end of the month, unless something is done.

Bruce Boudreau, a centre with the Saints, said the club's captain, Ted Harrapson, told the players that Belisle would meet Monday's payroll but the president wasn't sure that he would be able to look after the next one.

The newspaper said two other WHA teams, Denver and San Diego, are likely to fold by the end of the season, with Cleveland, Calgary and Phoenix surviving only because of strong ownership.

Tardif Celebrates $1.6 Million; 10-year Deal For Nordique

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Left winger Marc Tardif proved his worth to Quebec Nordiques and Winnipeg Jets continued to make life miserable for Toronto Toros.

Tardif, who recently signed a 10-year contract with the Nordiques for about $1.6 million, collected two goals and three assists Tuesday night to lead Quebec to a 7-3 World Hockey Association win over Calgary Cowboys.

The Jets improved their record over the Toros to 4-0 this season with a 5-3 triumph, thanks to Anders Hedberg's goal with 15 seconds remaining in their game in Toronto.

In other WHA games, San Diego Mariners surprised Houston 6-3, Edmonton Oilers defeated Indianapolis Racers 3-1 and Denver Spurs shaded Cincinnati Stingers 3-2 in overtime.

Tardif, who jumped to the WHA from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League following the 1972-73 season, now has 29 goals—best in the league—and 38 assists for a league-leading 67 points.

The 25-year-old native of Granby, Que., had 28 goals and 24 assists with the Nordiques last season in 33 games after joining the club in a trade December, 1974, with the now defunct Michigan Stags. He had 12 goals and five assists in 1974-75 with Michigan after 23 games.

Christian Bordeleau with two, Ronald Leclerc, Serge Bernier and Real Cloutier scored the other goals for the Nordiques. J. C. Tremblay picked up four assists.

The Nordiques, however, remained in second place in the Canadian Division behind Jets.

Polaris, five behind the Jets who increased their record to 3-2 with wins and nine defeats.

The Jets thrive on their opponents in the Canadian Division, holding a 6-0 record on the road and a 10-2 mark over-all. The Nordiques are the only team in that division having any success over the Jets, winning once at home and once in Winnipeg.

Hedberg took a blueline pass from linemate Bobby Hull, maneved in alone on rookie netminder Dave Tataryn and lipped the puck over the goalie's right shoulder for Winnipeg's win over Toronto.

Peter Sullivan, with two goals, and Bill Lesuk, scored the other Winnipeg goals. Rookie Mark Napier, with two, and veteran Paul Henderson replied for Toronto, last in the Canadian Division with nine wins, three ties and 18 defeats.

Tataryn was again outstanding, stopping 39 shots, including one from Hull on a breakaway in the third period. Curt Larsson, in goal for Winnipeg, made 40 saves.

Tataryn, who called Hull the greatest, admitted he asked him for one of his sticks as a souvenir before the game.

Rookie Joe Norris and Gene Peacock scored in the third period to give the Mariners their win.

Noris' goal, his second of the night, and his first for the season, on a pass from Andy Devine at 1:34 and Peacock's 11th was the clincher at 15:18.

Rusty Patenaude's goal early in the third period sparked the Oilers past the Racers.

Patenaude slid the puck into the unprotected net after Norm Ullman's breakaway effort was stopped by defenceman Pat Stapleton. However, Stapleton crashed into goaltender Leif Holmquist, and the puck trickled out to Patenaude who converted the opportunity.

Denver's Barry Legge broke between two defenders after taking a pass from Mark Lesenda and scored an overtime goal at 5:25 to give the Spurs their win. Goalie Bob Johnson also drew an assist on the play.

Keep Politics Out — Esposito

NEW YORK (CP) — Phil Esposito of New York Rangers said Tuesday he hopes politics will be kept out of the eight-game series between two top Soviet teams and the National Hockey League.

Esposito stole the show at an NHL luncheon when he exchanged good-natured banter with Russian correspondents and recalled the Team Canada series of 1972 against the Soviet champions.

"I don't think I could ever go through a thing like that again," Esposito said. "It was a traumatic experience."

Esposito, then a Boston Bruin, rallied Team Canada to victory, four games to three with one tie.

"I hope the news representatives don't make this a political thing," Esposito said. "It's a game. It's between two Russian teams and the NHL choice."

He went on to say that "if the Canadians, or the Americans, or the NHL, or the Soviet Union, or the head of hockey in Russia, wants to make it a political football, that's their business. As far as I and the players are concerned, we want no part of that."

The Rangers open the series at Madison Square Garden Dec. 28 against the Soviet Army team, last season's Soviet champions.

Each of the Russian teams play four game against NHL clubs. After the Rangers, the Soviet Army meets Montreal Canadiens Dec. 31, Boston Bruins Jan. 1 and Philadelphia Flyers Jan. 11.

Soviet Wings play Pittsburgh Penguins Dec. 29, Buffalo Sabres Jan. 4, Chicago Black Hawks Jan. 7 and New York Islanders Jan. 14.

Ten Russian players who will participate in the series are now touring Canada with Moscow Dynamo. Five will join the Soviet Army Team and five will play with Soviet Wings.

GIVEN KEYS

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck and his estranged wife officially became owners of Chicago White Sox, the American League baseball club, in a ceremonial exchange Tuesday of money for keys to Comiskey Park. Veeck handed over cheques for "several million" dollars to John Allyn who gave him keys to the ball park offices. Veeck and his backers took majority control of Arbrell Co., which includes the baseball team, from Allyn at a cost of $19 million.

Danny Kaye After Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Entertainer Danny Kaye and business partner Lester Smith met for two hours Tuesday with National League president Charles Feeney and expressed their interest in purchasing baseball's, San Francisco Giants.

Blake Callen, league spokesman, said the two men told Feeney they were interested in acquiring a major league baseball franchise for Seattle but the Giants very definitely figured in the conversation.

At the same time, the board of directors of the financially troubled Giants met across town and considered purchase offers for the club.

Art Santi Donato, public relations director for the Giants, refused to discuss the meeting.

The source has been leaning the Giants operating cash for several months, leaving Feeney with a substantial voice in negotiations between the Giants and prospective buyers.

The team has until Dec. 30 to come up a buyer or the league will take over its operations. Two groups from Toronto also have been seeking to purchase the franchise.

Big Win

LONDON (Reuter) — Third Division leader Crystal Palace clinched a spot in the third round of the English Football Association Cup Tuesday night by winning its second-round replay 5-1 over south London neighbors Millwall.

David Kemp and Peter Taylor scored for Palace in the first half, the second goal on a penalty. Millwall got one back from Jon Moore in the 58th minute.

Rochdale of the Fourth Division bumped another non-league side out of the competition with a 2-0 triumph over Gateshead.

LEO CAHILL

Cahill Not Interested

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Cahill, unemployed since the World Football League went out of business two months ago, says he is not interested in joining Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

Cahill, former coach of Toronto Argonauts, started this year as general manager of the Memphis Southmen and left that job for a similar one with Chicago of the same league. When that franchise folded, he joined the league's front-office staff as assistant to president Chris Hemmeter.

"I've had a number of contacts from football teams but right now I'm waiting to see what's going to happen to Memphis and Birmingham and their efforts to get into the National Football League," Cahill said.

Would he be interested in coming back to Canada?

"Sure, why not?" Cahill said. "You need somebody to generate T little life into the CFL. Football is show business as you know."

Records Tumble

TORONTO (CP) — A 26-member Ontario age-group swim team set eight Canadian records during recent competition in Miami.

The team, made up of swimmers representing 19 clubs throughout the province, outscored a combined University of Miami Hurricane age-group team and the Miami Aquatic Club of Florida.

Ken Fitzpatrick of London, Ont., set three Canadian records in the 13-15 years division, winning the 100-yard butterfly in one minute, 7.7 seconds, the 200-yard individual medley in 2:16.5 and the 200-yard breast stroke in 2:28.4.

Christine Hodson of Ottawa swam the 100-yard breast stroke for girls 13 and 14 in a record 2:28.5 and Cathy Corbin, Sudbury, the 400-yard individual medley in 4:57.3.

Named In Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Trainer Stanley Dancer and Maryland Racetracks have been named in a $1.4 million suit arising out of an operation that allegedly ended the harness racing career of Dancer's 1973 Harnessman winner.

The suit, filed in United States district court Tuesday by John E. du Pont of Newtown Square, Pa., alleged the horse showed lameness in June, 1974, after an operation by Dr. Robert A. Churchill.

Du Pont said he had bought the gelding several months earlier for $250,000. He said Dancer informed him of the operation and recommended a period of rehabilitation.

DAVE CUTLER

Eskimo Goes All Out

TORONTO (CP)—When Dave Cutler breaks records he doesn't do it gently. He really shatters them.

With two games to go last year he was only three points shy of the Canadian Football League's single-season scoring record of 146 points set by Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1966.

The Edmonton Eskimos kicker scored 11 points in each of his last two games in 1975 to increase the record to 168 points.

This season he went into the final game having tied the CFL record for field goals that set University in Burnaby, B.C. He now has a career total of 161 field goals, surpassed the old record of 171 kicked by Lui Robinson of Calgary Stampeders in 14 years.

Cutler has a decisive margin in both categories in which he scored. Closest to his 168 points was Organ, the Eastern Conference leader with 124, also closest in the single-season record was Ernest Geschwinder of Toronto Argonauts with 40 field goals.

All Well Assures Official

NEW YORK (CP) — Roger Rousseau, secretary-general of the 1976 Summer Olympic Games, assured the United States Tuesday that the Games will go off as scheduled in Montreal next July, with tickets and accommodation for all who want them.

The only "critical" area remaining in construction of the Olympic facilities is the main stadium, Rousseau told a news conference, which he said was called to assure the American news media that all is well with the strife-plagued Olympic organization.

"From the operational point of view we are ready," he said. "From the installation point of view, we are ready." Construction of the stadium, which had been hampered by work stoppages, now was proceeding "very well."

Wolves Sent Howling

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Fincups, in first place in the Eilers Division, scored four unanswered goals in the second period and two in the third to gain a 7-3 victory over Sudbury Wolves, leaders of the Leyden Division, in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Tuesday.

The game was the sixth consecutive victory for the Fincups and extended their undefeated streak at home to 13 games. It was Sudbury's first loss in 12 games.

The win increased Hamilton's lead over second-place London Knights to eight points in the Emms Division. The Wolves hold a 10-point lead over Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds in the Leyden Division.

In other games, Kingston Canadians downed Ottawa 7-4 and Oshawa Generals upset Kitchener Rangers 8-4.

At Hamilton, Rick Selling and Ed Smith each scored twice for the Fincups, who trailed 3-1 entering the second period. Rob Street, Archie King and Mike Keating scored the other Hamilton goals before a crowd of 3,466.

Wes Jarvis, Ron Duguay and Rod Schutt scored for the Wolves, who were outshot 46-30.

Canadiens 9 Wings 5

Linemates Ken Linseman and Mike Gillis each scored two goals to lead the Canadians to victory.

Generals 8 Rangers 4

At Oshawa, Greg Malone's three-goal effort paced the Generals in a game before 1,111 spectators.

Gimpy Legs and All, Forego Horse of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Forego, the huge gelding with the gimpy legs, was named U.S. thoroughbred racing's Horse of the Year for the second consecutive year on Tuesday. Other major Eclipse Awards winners were Ruffian, the ill-fated three-year-old filly, and Wollmus, the late-blooming three-year-old colt.

Steve Knight, owned by P. Taylor of Toronto and Bell Publips of Montreal, was named top thoroughbred sprint horse.

Forego, owned by Martha Gerry and trained by Sherrill Ward, also was again named best older male in voting by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selectors, the National Turf Writers Association and the Daily Racing Form. And he just missed repeating as sprint champion, a title that went to Robert Hester's Gallant Bob.

The other 1975 division winners, who will be honored here this week at the Eclipse Awards Dinner, were: two-year-old colt, Honest Pleasure; two-year-old filly, Richard E. Bailey's Dearly Precious; four-year-old filly or mare, Fred W. Hooper's Susan's Girl; and steeplechaser, Mrs. William J. Van Allen's Lilo's Hussar.

Steve Knight, an English-bred four-year-old, won six of nine races this year and earned $668,624. His stakes victories included the Canadian International Championship at Toronto, Woodbine, Brighton Beach and Man o' War Handicap.

Pittsburgh purchased Steve Knight for his wife for $14,000. After the horse won the Epsom Derby in 1974, he sold 60 per cent interest in Steve Knight to Taylor for $1 million.

Boniface, who had to be detrained after breaking down in a match race against Finnish Pleasure July 6, was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Janney.

Mrs. Gerry had raced Wollmus, who has been retired to stud under syndication.

Two AHL Streaks Snapped As Indians Down Robins

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The goaltending of Terry Richardson was the difference Tuesday night as the Springfield Indians defeated Richmond Robins 5-3 to snap two American Hockey League streaks.

Richardson turned aside all but three of Richmond shots as the Indians ended a seven-game losing streak in raising only their ninth win of the season.

Richmond, on the other hand, saw a five-game winning streak go down the drain as Springfield rebounded quickly after blowing a two-goal lead in the third period.

Goals by Andre Peloffy and Steve Coates within a 1:18 span pulled the Robins into a 3-3 tie early in the final period. But then, a minute later, Pete Haraynm caught Richmond goalie Jerome Mranek by surprise and fired in what proved to be the game winner.

Then, 9:38 from the finish, Jerry Kemp added an insurance goal on a power play. It was his second goal of the night.

Richmond had opened the scoring with 22 seconds left in the first period, Larry Wright pulling Richardson out of position.

But Kemp's first score and assist from the left circle by Hugh Harvey gave Springfield a 2-1 advantage after 40 minutes, and Jelly Ingles increased the lead to 3-1 on a power play

LOBLAWS PRICE - FREEZE POLICY

Loblaws Price Freeze is actually a self-imposed price ceiling on all products covered by the Price - Freeze program. Where cost decreases are received from our suppliers Loblaws will continue to pass these decreases through to our customers.

Price - Freeze books listing prices in effect as of Friday, November 21st, 1975 are posted in all Loblaws stores at the courtesy desk to enable you to check the actual Freeze Ceiling Price.

Loblaws will continue to offer weekly advertised specials as usual during the 60 day Price - Freeze Period — on food, non-food and general merchandise, as well as meat and produce.

Following the effective period of time for all advertised specials as indicated in our advertisements, these prices will be returned to a level not higher at which they were frozen on November 21st. - excluding fresh meat and produce, which remain subject to normal market fluctuations.

Opposition Predicts 1976 Election

QUEBEC (CP) — With what could pass for a touch of wishful thinking, opposition spokesmen in the national assembly are predicting a general election for Quebec in 1976, focused on next summer's Olympic Games in Montreal.

A recent, well-publicized poll showed separatist Parti Quebecois fortunes rising while the governing Liberal party's wane, as the PQ's interest in elections is understandable.

Some PQ members forecast that Premier Robert Bourassa will call a spring election before the anticipated Olympics deficit of $800 million becomes a vote-bearing fact.

Others lean to a fall election. They suggest that if Mr. Bourassa's takeover of the Games from Montreal in November procures the Olympics despite soaring costs, convinces de Gaspe and a bad press, the premier will try to capitalize on the success.

Mr. Bourassa himself said recently that a provincial tax increase—the first in six years—is in the cards for 1976, a possibility that suggests he may want to postpone an election. His current mandate is valid until the fall of 1976.

If he does call an election, Mr. Bourassa will probably claim credit for, among other things, the historic James Bay agreement through which aboriginal peoples of northern Quebec would end opposition to the James Bay hydroelectric project and surrender their native rights in return for $250 million in grants and greater civil status.

The agreement was signed Nov. 12 but requires popular approval by Cree and Eskimos in northern Quebec and legislative action by Ottawa and Quebec before it is implemented.

Mr. Bourassa's warning of a far-from-easy cause with a year-end financial pinch, created in part by the Olympics situation and a provincial deficit estimated at about $600 million. It has forced cuts in the mammoth James Bay project and a freeze on hiring in the civil service.

At the same time as it moved to increase this year's $2.3-billion budget by about $250 million, the government directed its departments to cut spending by a total of about $300 million.

It also took steps to set up its own anti-inflation board in the wake of federal legislation to control prices and incomes.

The financial squeeze was not the only problem facing the government in 1975.

A farcical inquiry into organized crime resulted in the resignation of Guy Ledoc, member of the assembly for Taillon, from Liberal ranks last February for "inexplicable" relations with underworld figures.

Gerald Shanks, member for Montreal-St. Henri, was suspended from the Liberal caucus in July after an investigation of municipal corruption resulted in his being charged in criminal court.

And in September, Jerome Choquette, a tough justice minister for five years before being moved to the education portfolio last July, quit both cabinet and party in disagreement with the government's language policies and the premier's style of leadership.

All three now sit as independents in the assembly.

In October, a public opinion poll for the first time showed the Parti Quebecois, whose 23 sitting members form the official Opposition, running ahead of the Liberals in voter popularity.

And on Nov. 11, Mr. Choquette surfaced as possible "third force" leader of a political force."

Mr. Choquette's aim is to rally elements of the splintered Ralliement Creditiste, the reviving Union Nationale and others to occupy the no-man's-land between the pro-Confederation Liberals and the separatist Parti Quebecois.

The Creditistes had two sitting members until Fabien Roy, the party's house leader, was expelled from the party in November for promoting the "third force."

The Union Nationale, obliterated at the polls in 1973, elected one member in a 1974 by-election and is determined to make a comeback.

Standing in the 110-seat assembly are Liberals 98, Parti Quebecois 6, Union Nationale 1, Ralliement Creditiste 1, Independent 4.

The interest in a new political party was particularly noticeable among the province's sizable English-speaking community and members of ethnic groups, all of whom found themselves in conflict with the French-speaking majority in September over language. The outcry centred on the largely Italian Montreal-area municipality of St. Leonard, where about 200 children of Italian parents were denied admission to English-language schools because of provisions in Quebec's Official Language Act.

The children had passed language tests proving their proficiency in English but were barred under a quota system limiting the size of the English-language school population.

At the height of the crisis Mr. Choquette resigned, complaining that the act was unworkable.

The St. Leonard episode ended, for this year at least, when Finance Minister Raymond Garneau, who took on Mr. Choquette's education portfolio, readjusted the quotas and the children were admitted to English-language classes.

Islanders Asked To Sell Land

OTTAWA (CP) — Landowners in the Thousand Islands region of Eastern Ontario are being asked to sell their land to the government for a planned national park expansion despite a promise that such negotiation would be delayed, a Progressive Conservative MP said Tuesday.

Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) said in the Commons that representatives of the federal supply and services department approached the owners of land in the area and offered to purchase it on behalf of the government.

This was done despite assurance given by Indian Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan that no negotiations for land purchases to expand St. Lawrence Islands National Park would take place until there were consultations with people in the area, he said.

Mr. Buchanan said he asked for a halt on such negotiations.

However, 25 landowners had already approached the government on their own and negotiations with about three owners may be too far advanced for the government to withdraw he said.

Union Members Get Backing

OTTAWA (CP) — About 350 postal workers in the Ottawa local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) suspended for crossing picket lines during the recent postal strike still have the right to union backing, a CUPW spokesman said Tuesday.

Fari Mitchell said that despite the broad formula the suspended inside postal workers have the right to union backing and the presence of a shop steward when they are called before management on a complaint.

The Canadian Press distributed an erroneous report Tuesday that said the postal workers lost their right to union support when they were suspended.

Toronto Continues Awarding Lawyers

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government intends to award the title Queen's counsel to a number of Ontario lawyers again next year, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry told the legislature Tuesday.

Liberal Lorrie Robert Nixon had asked the attorney-general whether he is going to accept the recommendation of the Law Society of Upper Canada and abolish the title.

"I am indicate to the house," Mr. McMurtry said, "it is the intention of the government to honor certain members of the legal profession on Jan. 1 of 1976."

Mr. McMurtry said it is his intention to award the title to lawyers who have made a contribution to the province, both in community or the courts.

Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) shouted across the floor, "Give it to all your friends."

MP Doubles as Cabbie For Grass Roots Input

TORONTO (CP) — If you want to find Peter Stollery, Liberal member of Parliament for Spadina riding during weekends or when the House of Commons is recessed for holidays, you might look in a taxi cab.

Mr. Stollery has been a cab driver in Toronto intermittently since 1958 and when not in Ottawa sometimes returns to drive a taxi.

"It's the real world," he said. "Politics isn't the real world."

Mr. Stollery says driving a cab relaxes him and gives him a chance to get away from Ottawa and politics.

"I also feel I'm with the average citizen. There's something about Ottawa that takes you away from that."

"You feel rootless, which is very sad for a politician. Driving a cab teaches you about the average person."

When the MP is in Toronto, he finds himself drawn to downtown taxi lot where he will chat with the other drivers and swap stories about strange fares. Sessions have been known to run to 6 a.m.

Mr. Stollery started driving a taxi when he was trying to earn money for a three-year trip around the world.

"I needed the money," he says. "That's the only reason anyone ever goes into the cab business."

People should have respect for those working in the service industries, he says, and one of the best ways to gain respect is to go out and work in the industry.

"I get cheesed off when I hear MPs saying how hard it is to live on an MP's salary. Driving a cab teaches you how hard it is to earn a buck. MPs forget that."

Mr. Stollery's biggest beef against the taxi industry is with restrictions on getting a taxi licence.

Horse Power Sparks Trade

PORT ALEXANDER, Ont. (CP) — Bob Lucier's work takes people back to the days when horse-power meant exactly what it says.

The young man, who runs a summer tourist camp here in miles west of Ottawa, spends his slower winter months repairing buggies and cutters in the basement under his restaurant-gift shop on Highway 17.

Parked at the front of the store is the stage coach that started it all seven years ago, when he first bought his 75 acres of land here.

Mr. Lucier thought it would be an added tourist attraction if he had an old horse-drawn vehicle to offer rides to tourists, and his search of farmers' barns in the Ottawa Valley showed there was no shortage of horse-drawn equipment.

He has never looked back and now has several vehicles in various stages of repair, with others parked at the rear of the store awaiting facelifts.

A former job in upholstery gave Mr. Lucier the skill to refinish the old vehicles' seats, which he says are often their exhibited future. The floors, he says, also pose problems.

"The floors of the old buggies were usually made of poplar, a fairly soft wood that often wore through," he said. Custom-made models built of oak often survived much longer.

Besides buggies and cutters there are surreys with or without the fringe on top. Mr. Lucier parks the horse-drawn vehicles outside his establishment on the highway where they are seen by passing travellers.

He has no record of where they have all gone, but he does know that two went as far as Ohio. Most, he believes, have wound up as transportation for tourists or as decoration, perhaps outside antique stores.

Catholic Women Want Recognition

OTTAWA (CP) — Most Rev. Leonard Crowley, auxiliary bishop of Montreal, says that his two-year study on the role of women in the Roman Catholic church, reveals that women want to have their contributions to the church recognized.

"Women are sensitive to the needs of others and have traditionally acted to help others," he said in an interview. "But no matter how important their roles have been, they have tended to be overlooked within the framework of a church run by men."

Although the question of women in the church came up at the Vatican in the mid-1960s, it was mainly through the efforts of Canadian Bishop George B. Flahiff, and his questions about the part women play in the church, that Rome established a committee to study the situation.

Bishop Crowley said there may be individuals in the church who would like to see the ordination of women priests but he has "not yet sensed any pressure on this point from women themselves.

In terms of the Scriptures, there is no specific evidence for the exclusion of women from the ministry, he said, "but the constant tradition in this area is an indication of the position of the church and you can't discriminate against it."

The bishop said he would be willing to undertake studies on the matter of the ordination of women priests but, because of the complicated nature of the question, a lot of Biblical studies would have to be made before a decision could be reached on the subject.

There are a number of possible ministries to which women can be admitted and Canadian bishops have written to Rome asking that women be admitted to non-ordained ministries such as acolytes and lecturers, the Bishop said.

Stratford Police Moved Against Chief Last May

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Police Association passed a vote of non-confidence in former police chief E. T. Anderson last May 2, an association member testified Tuesday at a hearing of the Ontario police commission.

Constable Kenneth Sharpe said at the inquiry into the Stratford police department that the vote was taken at a special meeting to discuss comments the chief had made to The Beacon-Herald and London Free Press about the association's latest contract with the police commission.

Mr. Anderson was quoted in The Beacon-Herald last April 29 as saying he did not know whether they (the local police commission) traded to the association certain things to get a favorable contract . . . they managed to settle two or three per cent less than most other departments settled for."

Stratford Mayor Betty McKitrick, a member of the police commission, testified that Mr. Anderson was warned to make no more controversial statements to the news media at a closed commission meeting April 6.

The hearing was called by the Stratford police commission in July after a report by two advisers of the Ontario police commission indicated the department suffered from serious internal problems.

The hearing opened Sept. 3, but adjourned indefinitely that date after Mr. Anderson resigned. The hearing resumed Monday and continues.

Gambler Gets Stuck

SURBITON, England (CP) — Hotel pianist Tony Hartwell, 34, of Surbiton struck a wrong note when he bet a customer he could wriggle through a bar stool. He was halfway through when the stool became stuck around his middle. Finally, firemen had to be called. It took eight men and an acetylene torch to release him.

Ottawa Reconsiders Multiculturalism

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The federal government is conducting a major review of its four-year old multiculturalism policy, John Munro, minister responsible for multiculturalism, said here Monday.

He told the Trans Canada Alliance of German Canadians that there will be a shift towards "a more outward looking approach" instead of concentrated efforts on ethnic communities.

The policy will "bring various groups together as those who have developed such skills and techniques as community development and leadership training in a Canadian context can share their experiences with other less well-established and less articulate groups," he said.

Mr. Munro said the government is considering funding "strong national organizations for groups anxious to establish a strong contact with government at various levels" and giving support to the ethnic press.

A text of the speech was released prior to delivery.

Wants Water

SAN ANTONIO, Tx. (AP) — Striking oil is usually a cause for celebration, but to the well-digging crew at the Panic Mexicana Foods plant, finding the black gold was little more than an annoyance. The crew had five times before finally finding the water it was drilling for, 1,408 feet underground.

Advises Indians Not to Eat Fish

WALPOLE ISLAND, Ont. (CP) — The federal government has advised residents of an Indian reserve here to eliminate from their diets any fish caught in Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River.

Dr. N. S. Black, zone director of medical services for the federal department of health and welfare, said at a news conference Tuesday that above-average levels of mercury have been found in the blood of four island residents.

Department nurses and technicians tested 175 persons—all but two of them island residents—during four weeks of testing which began Nov. 15, he said. Four of the 23 persons whose test results are available had mercury levels of more than 20 parts per million in their blood.

"In the general Canadian population you may find levels up to 20, but over 20 is above average," Dr. Black said.

Band chief Donald Isaac said the residents are not likely to follow the advice immediately because "It's going to take a little time for this to sink in. It is not natural to think that you can just stop eating fish out of the river."

Walpole Island is about 30 miles south of Sarnia on the eastern shore of Lake St. Clair.

Olympic Products Will Make $2 Million

MONTREAL (CP) — The organizing committee of the 1976 Summer Olympics published its catalogue of licensed Olympic merchandise Tuesday and forecast that listed products manufactured by 69 licencees will return a minimum of $2 million in royalties.

The committee has been given permission to sell the merchandise in 44 countries and to return the national Olympic committees in these countries will receive 20 per cent of royalties for amateur sport.

The first overseas boutique handling the licensed merchandise was listed as the Galeria Tweedas in Lisbon, Portugal, while many others were being opened. The organizing committee of the Winter Games at Innsbruck had allowed its Montreal counterpart to set up a boutique in which 19 licensees would be sold.

The goods were being sold in numerous department stores and shops across Canada and ranging as far north as Frobisher Bay, on Baffin Island.

Maurice Allan, director of the licensing program, said the value had increased by $421,000 since the catalogue was printed.

"Some new licences have been granted and some of those licensed earlier have already sold merchandise far in excess of the minimum," Mr. Allan reported.

Merchandise headings include jewelry, sports equipment, apparel, games and toys, school and office supplies, handicrafts and housewares.

Judge Presses Conspiracy Plot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The federal judge who let Sara Jane Moore plead guilty to a lesser charge that she tried to kill President Ford says he wants to find out more about whether she was involved in a conspiracy before passing sentence.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti, cancelling Miss Moore's scheduled trial, said Tuesday he is convinced that her last-minute change of plea to guilty was "voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently given."

But he expressed concern about Miss Moore's refusal to say under oath whether anyone encouraged her or helped her plan the attempted assassination of Ford before Sept. 22, the day she fired a shot at the president.

"I'm not completely satisfied with some statements she made as to who assisted her in formulating her intentions in committing this act," said Conti.

The judge urged her to give prosecution officers further information on the possible involvement of others in the attack on Ford. Such information, he said, "could assist in possible mitigation of sentence."

Conti said he will sentence Miss Moore on Jan. 15. He has the option of sending her to jail for any term up to life.

Her lawyer, public defender James Hewitt, urged the judge to order a jury trial at which he could provide Miss Moore with a defence of insanity or diminished capacity. "I think the case was very defensible," Hewitt told Inter.

But Conti said: "The court finds that, after reviewing all of the evidence, a jury of reasonable minds could find the defendant guilty as charged and there is a factual basis for the plea."

Miss Moore, a bookkeeper who turned FBI informer and infiltrated the radical underground, showed no reaction to the judge's remarks. She stood before the bench and once more calmly entered her plea: "Guilty."

Earlier, she admitted on the witness stand that she fired a shot at Ford as he left a downtown hotel and said she meant to kill him. A bystander deflected her gun, and the bullet missed the president.

But she evaded questions which raise the possibility of conspiracy.

"Did you intend to assassinate Mr. Ford?" prosecutor Jon Rapp asked.

"Yes," replied Miss Moore.

"Did someone else encourage or assist you?" asked Conti.

Miss Moore replied: "As to that particular date, I acted alone."

"How about some other date?" he asked. "I'm not going to answer that, Judge," Miss Moore said.

However, prosecutors say they have no evidence of a conspiracy and don't feel Miss Moore's remarks indicate one existed.

With Tuesday's events, Miss Moore became the second person to stand guilty under a federal law covering assault on the president.

Lynette (Squeaky) Fromme, a member of the swastika-marked Charles Manson family, was convicted last month of trying to kill Ford on Sept. 5 in Sacramento and will be sentenced today.

Conti's decision to accept Miss Moore's guilty plea was based partially on reports from two psychiatrists who examined her.

One doctor, Gustave Welland of Hyattsville, Md., said Miss Moore suffered from "superimposed effects of her borderline personality." He felt her mental condition "had a pivotal effect on her actions of Sept. 22, 1975."

Lang Asked to Restrict French-speaking Pilots

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Otto Lang was urged Tuesday to restrict unilingual French-speaking pilots to areas in Quebec where there is bilingual air traffic control.

However, in replying in the Commons to Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon), Mr. Lang would not commit himself to such a move.

The transport minister said "we only issue at the moment is the broad one of the pilot's basic ability to perform the functions which are required having regard to the control facilities which are available."

The Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), which has long been pressing for such restrictions, repeated its demands in a statement Tuesday.

Jim Livingston, CATCA president, said transport department officials recommended more than a year ago that unilingual francophone pilots be limited to areas where there is bilingual air traffic control.

In the Tuesday statement, CATCA noted other aviation groups is protesting Mr. Lang's decision to extend the use of French in Quebec airspace.

Report Charges Province With Unequal Opportunity

TORONTO (CP) — A report issued by the Ontario legislature Tuesday criticized several provincial Crown agencies for failing to implement programs to achieve equal opportunity for women in the civil service.

The report, prepared by Ethel Mr L C I T H, co-ordinator of Women's Programs on the Status of Women Crown Employment in Ontario, indicated that of the agencies involved only five have initiated programs to upgrade women employees.

The said agencies which have failed to follow the guidelines include the Ontario Teachers' Superannuation Commission, the Ontario Stock Yards Board, the Ontario Heritage Foundation, the Royal Botanical Gardens and the St. Lawrence Parkway Commission.

The report, commissioned by the government and prepared at a cost of approximately $530 000, includes 25 recommendations designed to overcome discrimination which still exists in the civil service."

Mrs. York's problems."

McLellan said in an interview he recommends that maternity, adoption and paternity leaves be renamed as child-rearing leave—a leave of absence for a minimum of four weeks, applying to fathers, mothers and adoptive parents.

The report also recommends that the employer continue his contribution to the benefits during the leave, such as life insurance, rather than having the employee bear the total cost of said contributions. Mr. McLellan estimated this would cost the government about $172 per employee.

The report also recommends that the Civil Service Commission initiate a study into adjusting pay scales to provide equal pay where job duties are equivalent.

The report says that among 34,000 women Crown employees in Ontario, women are over-represented in the lower salary scales and under-represented in the higher scales.

The report says that 81 per cent of all employees earning $10,400 or less are women and only 9 per cent of female employees earning $15,000 or more. The average female salary of $8,200 is 72 per cent of the male average of $17,700, it says.

It calls for the government to read the Public Service Employment Union to give high priority to developing a system whereby persons performing secretarial work are classified and paid according to skill, effort and responsibility.

In Memoriam

COOK — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Eva Cook who passed away Dec. 17, 1973.

We do not need a special day,
To remember you dear mother,
For the days we do not remember,
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We'd give it to you, mother dear,
Cause nothing else could bring you back,
Cause nothing else could bring you back.
—Dearly loved by son and, Dor-ron and family.

ROBERTS — In loving memory of a very dear friend, Bill, passed away Dec. 17, 1971.
Years are many, sea does not open,
Time has taken you from me,
Many and the days distorted,
For the rest I am to be,
Yet when the time has reached, the end,
We'll be side by side.
—Mary, always.

Slim Pickens In Comedy Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When movie producers want a stagecoach driven, an outlaw plugged or a cast booted to they more than likely send for Slim Pickens, the slowest draw in the West.

The Pickens lingo sounds totally Texas, which is odd for a fellow who has spent most of his life in California.

"That's right—I was born and growed up in Kingsburg in Fresno County," says Slim. "Course, my dad came from Texas and my mother was from Missouri, so I came by my drawl naturally. I didn't pay a whole lot of attention to English class, and when I got on the rodeo circuit, I was a goner.

"I never met a rodeo cowboy who didn't sound like he'd just fell out of a cotton patch."

Luckily for Slim, nobody ever tried to give him elocution lessons. His rough-hewn charm makes him one of Hollywood's busiest actors—he averages four feature films and several TV guest appearances a year.

His next film is Hamps, a comedy about the U.S. Army's attempt to introduce camels to patrol the American desert in the last century. Pickens feels right at home as a camel wrangler.

"I done it before, 35 years ago in Salt Lake City," he says. "They have promoter, got a bunch of camels and, stated a race with rodeo guys. I came in first and got $40, more than I made in my first picture."

Slim was still on the rodeo circuit when he made his first movie, Smoky, with Fred MacMurray in 1946. Slim was paid $25 to ride a "computer model-of-a-gun named Sundown." The action was so sensational that it was repeated in the 1966 remake of Smoky with Fess Parker.

"My daughter saw the picture and came home all excited," Pickens said. "Daddy, I hardly recognized you," she told her. 'You were so slim!'"

Indeed he suited his name during his rodeo career. Born Louis Burl Lindley Jr., he was 6 feet 3 and 190 pounds at 15 when he entered a bronc-riding contest near home. He needed an alias, and the promoter suggested Slim Pickens "because that's all you'll get in this rodeo."

He now is 220 pounds and "an old 58," the result of his rodeo career. "Once I got scared all over, an' the doctor looked at the pictures and said, 'You was in a pretty good wreck, wasn't you?'

The x-rays showed 17 fractures, all engendered from his battles with recalcitrant animals. He says was third place in an event without realizing that he had suffered a fractured skull. A few days later he had the dent in his head examined. "The doc knew right off you'd be dead," he was told.

In 1950, director William Keighley saw Pickens in a rodeo in Saugus, near Los Angeles, and hired him for an Errol Flynn western, Rocky Mountain.

He learned the trade in 20 years of Alan western, then began getting bigger parts. The film that established him was not a horse opera but Stanley Kubrick's black comedy of Armageddon, Dr. Strangelove. Slim was the mad Maj. King Kong, who rode the atom bomb to glory, whooping and hollering all the way.

"After Dr. Strangelove, my salary jumped five times," he said, "and assistant directors started saying 'Hey, Slim,' instead of 'Hey, you.'"

Neil Sedaka Making Comeback

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Neil Sedaka, whose syrupy goody-two-shoes ballads carried him to pop music fame during the early 1960s and left him in the cold with the British rock invasion, thought the time was right for another run at stardom.

And with a little help from friends Pia English rock superstar Elton John, Sedaka's not only rocking back to fame.

"It wasn't an accident," said Sedaka at his comeback debut this year. "I thought the time was right for a melodic composer. It all came together—the Elton John endorsement, the right people, my wife, manager, lawyer, musicians, everything.

"I think people like my music because it's all voice, song and piano without a lot of glitter. SOS it's an impossible dream."

John got the comeback rolling for Sedaka, financially backing his albums and writing liner notes on his album jackets. Sedaka, freely admits, "If it had not been for Elton John, Laughter in the Rain would not have been a hit."

At 36, Sedaka's teddy bear voice, which came across in such early hits as Breaking Up Is Hard to Do, appears to be changing to a heavier, rocking sound in Bad Blood, which is backed by Elton John on harmonies.

The initial problem was to shatter the old image," Sedaka said. "I had to widen the scope of my music. The old songs all sounded the same."

Sedaka's comeback contrasts with 13 years of musical famine and an unsuccessful try for the charts in 1970.

"It was a rude awakening," he said in an interview during a recent engagement here. "I found you could have a wonderful product but if it's not promoted properly it can be a lover."

That was where John came in. Sedaka now records for John's label, Rocket Records, and has a contract for two albums a year.

Sedaka met John when Sedaka performed at the Albert Hall in England in 1971, played new compositions and old hits. They became friends, Sedaka said, "because we had a lot in common. We both were trained in classical piano, were country, and not popular as teenagers."

Sedaka began playing the piano at age 8, was performing at 18 and had his first hit, The Diary, in 1958. That was followed by a string of others that sold a total of 25 million copies through 1963. His last hit came in 1973 and since then he's contented on writing music.

Sedaka now is booked up through 1976 with concert dates, recording sessions and personal appearances and is to be host ABC's New Year's Eve rock music special.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Singer Tiny Tim has countered his estranged wife's divorce action with a suit seeking custody of their daughter.

He contends in the suit that his wife is an unsuitable mother for four-year-old Tulip because she has been "intimately involved" with men and has posed for lewd magazine pictures since they separated.

His wife, the former Victoria Budinger has been working as a go-go dancer in a Camden bar. She dances under the name of Miss Vicky, which she assumed while engaged to the singer.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Picasso etching valued at $2,500 was stolen from the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, police reported Tuesday.

The painting, Abduction, 1918, is about 17½ by 13¾ inches. Police Det. Robert Cash said the painting was taken late Friday or Saturday.

LONDON (Reuter) — Actor Rex Harrison's fifth marriage ended in divorce Tuesday in an uncontested suit.

Elizabeth Harrison, 39, was granted a divorce on ground of "unreasonable behavior" and the 67-year-old actor was ordered to pay costs.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Thursday, Dec. 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today won't be all wine and roses for you, but if you can accept things philosophically, the rough spots won't bruise you at all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll have to do some fancy juggling today to keep your budget in the black. Happily you're sharp at manipulating things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Associates may give you some stiff opposition today. Keep your wits about you and retain your sense of humor. You'll need them over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Play your hunches in cooking with a serious situation. Things can be handled if you don't back down on what you feel is the best way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're lucky today, but not in anything speculative. Confine your gambling to those things where your knowledge assures the right outcome.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Competition will be much stiffer today than you relish. But if you feel you can win, your positive approach will help you to overcome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) To placate others, you have a tendency to subordinate your own views. This is a mistake. Your thoughts are as good or better than theirs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't hesitate to invest your time, your service or your good will today. When it comes to money, however, keep a lock on the wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone you've close to will have opinions contrary to yours. Don't be upset. Instead, let your ego cloud your judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pressures are going to be heavy on you early in the day. Don't panic. Space things out a bit. You'll be better able to deal with them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't stray from your planned course today. Something you hope to accomplish may not be possible at first. Your second move can prove more fortuitous.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Feeding your vanity is not the yellow consideration today. Go after those things you can put in the bank, to use later to keep warm and secure.

To Your Good Health

Many Factors Cause Insomnia

By G.C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: Can you give any advice to an insomniac, or a partial one, who invariably can drop off to sleep practically immediately upon going to bed, but awakens two to five hours later unable to return to sleep?

I have had examinations recently and am in good health. The question boils down to this: how can a person learn to in turn to sleep? L.R.B.

You have labeled yourself an insomniac, or a partial one, at least. Are you? Most people sleep more than they think they do, and often people who think they are not getting sufficient sleep are getting about what they require. I recall talking with where hospital patients have complained to me during rounds of "not getting a wink" the night before, in most cases nurses reported that they had "slept like a log."

Insomnia can occur for both psychological and physical reasons. Psychological causes include tension, worry, anxiety, sometimes a depression against sleep itself.

Physical reasons can include discomfort (warm) rooms, poor mattresses, a full bladder, muscle discomfort, or difficulty in breathing.

Some insomniacs have been found to have a drop in blood sugar during the night, with resultant restlessness and hunger. A small bedtime snack prior to retiring can correct this.

You don't tell me your age. Oldsters can require less sleep depending upon the degree of daytime activity. Perhaps a walk in the evening or some exercises would help, and there is always the warm glass of milk, a toddy, even. Avoid caffeine products at the evening meal or before retiring. An aspirin or two with a glass of water is perfectly effective in some cases.

There is a tendency to "the pill-popping society" with respect to drugs. Avoid this. You can quickly find yourself hooked, and save involving the need for pills to reverse the effects—to get you up in the morning.

I think we have little valleys of insomnia in our lives. While some of us can become an obsession that we take to bed with us. Keep a few pleasurable weapons against garden variety sleeplessness to be at hand.

Some recommended a dull book, the duller the better. I would prefer a good, engrossing book, one you don't want to put down.

Strangely, a half hour of concentration on a good pen will find the eyelids dropping and the head to go, into the arms of Morpheus!

Dear Dr. Thompson: What is the permanent tooth to grow in real late? Two of my teeth have just come and I'm still I was 21 years old. Mrs. L.W.

Decidous or baby teeth begin to erupt by about the six(th) month. The permanent teeth begin to replace them approximately between the sixth and twelfth years. These normally grow into the spaces left by the baby teeth, but there are factors that can delay this process. The opening may not have been large enough to allow easy passage.

There may also be crowding of the fronta teeth. Thumbsucking can affect the position of the teeth. If the other permanent teeth appeared on schedule, it is most likely some mechanical factor is involved.

Your dentist can give you further advice. He can x-ray the position of your "late bloomers."

CONFIDENTIAL NOTE: To the young woman who was separating from her wife. You should be examined, and you should have your sperm count tested to the police. Your information might well lead to the apprehension of the killer. I understand that most rapists are chronic offenders, and a great deal of information accumulating from the victims of the rapist-murderer's gangsaw. The medical examination would be a great assistant toward capital disease. Both the doctor and police would handle this matter in the utmost confidentiality. To relieve your mind, at least, have this done.

Psychic Used

CALGARY (CP) — Two ministers have used a psychic to locate mineral deposits in Colombia. Reverend Ron Warmoth of Los Angeles says Reverend Ro-yerson's success rate in discovering oil and mineral deposits worth billions of dollars, by using psychic powers.

Survey Participants Wary of Politicians

TORONTO (CP) — A recent survey of 300 downtown office workers—from stenographers to senior executives—shows most of them have little faith in politicians, the Toronto Real Estate Board says.

The survey was undertaken for the board by Robert Mac-Bain Associates Ltd. to discover the views and concerns of downtown office residents. Personnel from 13 unidentified companies participated.

Mr. MacBain said the survey indicates 75 per cent of those questioned believe politicians at all levels "are not serving the people who back their election campaigns."

An even larger group, 77% per cent, do not believe politicians always put the public's interest first and only 13 per cent believe most of what politicians say, he said.

He added the survey also shows that the majority of those interviewed want a crackdown on guns. A total of 85% per cent say there should be a stricter control of the use of all fire-arms, including registration and licensing.

Most of the office workers want street soliciting and begging stopped, Mr. MacBain said.

He said, the survey indicates that a total of 65% per cent object to people stopping them on the street and trying to interest them in religious tracts, body rub parlors or in giving them money and want soliciting banned.

Police disregard for the civil rights of criminals proves that 43% per cent is not object to such practices, while 41 per cent do not object to police arresting in high-speed chases, he said.

Mr. MacBain said a total of 77% per cent favor capital punishment in certain cases. Of these 31 per cent favor the use for murderers sentenced to death over the head. 19 years should have had their sentences commuted.

He said a multiple-choice question to assess civil servants drew only 3 per cent, rude government employees with whom he had had an excellent. A total of 27 per cent rate them mediocre, while 26 per cent rate them indifferent and 29% per cent say they are exceptional.

Opening lead — ♥A

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

If you could always get off to the right opening lead you could ride away from your bridge game in a limousine.

No one can be right all the time, but there are a certain principles you can follow that will help you a lot.

The most important of these is to lead your partner's suit. You won't always be right here, but even if it turns out wrong your partner isn't likely to be unhappy with you. On the other hand if you enter into uncharted meanings and try to find the better lead, you may really incur his displeasure.

West liked his club holding really blame West. That club lead might have been a winner, but this time it worked out badly for him. South grabbed the first club drew trumps with three leads, discarded two losing hearts on dummy's long diamonds and eventually lost two clubs and one heart. Of course, one club was ruffed in dummy.

Heart lead would have given East the first three tricks and South would still have had to toss a club at the finish.

Ask the Jacobys

A couple of months ago we showed how a player called "Desperate Dan" obtained a top score in duplicate by bidding six spades and being set three tricks. A couple of readers have asked us to explain why it was such a good result.

The answer is that his score was minus 150. If he had bid his opponents like that it would have been minus 1370 and everyone had the slam so his minus 800 became top for those holding 12 hand.

OHA Wants Proof Over Hospital Cuts

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hospital Association (OHA) wants proof that the provincial government has a well-considered austerity program for hospitals, the president of the OHA said Tuesday.

Don Robertson said in an address to a local service club that board chairmen and administrators of 360 public provincial hospitals who meet Friday in Toronto with Health Minister Frank Miller plan to discuss hospital austerity proposals.

Mr. Robertson, also administrator of the South Waterloo Memorial Hospital, said he hopes Mr. Miller will provide a plan that can be "pursued vigorously and fairly for all communities."

He said the health ministry has been considering closing as many as 3,700 active-treatment beds in Ontario and "this would be close to 10 per cent of the total, approximately 1.25 million days of care, 125,000 patients and maybe the loss of 4,500 jobs."

Mr. Robertson said the OHA could not endorse the closing of so many beds at a time when hospitals are still bearing the burden of health-care delivery in the province.

Unemployed Chef Wins $100,000

TORONTO (CP) — Alphonse Laland, 51, of Ottawa has won the $100,000 grand prize in the Wintario draw last Thursday in Windsor, lottery officials announced Tuesday.

Mr. Laland, an unemployed chef and father of two boys, ticket number 13254 in series 15.

He discovered he was a winner Saturday after the draw, he said, when his wife checked the list of winning tickets against the tickets he held.

She was very excited. She asked me: 'How can you stay so calm when I'm shouting and crying?'

Mr. Laland held five tickets on the draw.

"I buy one everywhere I go," he said. "Sometimes I have six or seven."

Mr. Laland said he plans to invest the money in Canada savings bonds.

Break Barrier

EDMONTON (CP) — Dr. Melvyn Lavallee says he often finds it difficult to break through a barrier of distrust with patients who are taken aback when they see he is an Indian. Even at a weekly clinic on an Indian reserve, he says, women patients are more assumed to admit problems such as alcoholism to him than to a white doctor.

Toronto Harbor Sets Records

TORONTO (CP) — The port of Toronto closed the longest overseas shipping season in its history Tuesday and harbor officials said the amount of cargo handled exceeded the 1974 total.

Toronto harbor commissioners said in a news release that 839,000 tons of overseas cargo were handled during the season, stopping the 1974 total by 80,000 tons.

The foreign season had a record early start April 1 and lasted 249 days, five days longer than the previous record set last year, the release said.

The official closing date for the St. Lawrence Seaway's Welland Canal section is Dec. 18.

Music Ruined

EDMONTON (CP) — Labelle Mabyn, pianist and composer, says records are ruining music and he will not make them. He says records make music impersonal because they can't capture the emotion of the performer or the feelings communicated by the performer.

Report Urges Sweeping Powers to Deal with Drinking Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — A report recommending new and sweeping discretionary powers for policemen dealing with drinking drivers was tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Attorney-General Roy McMurtry.

The report says a policeman should have the power to suspend a driver's licence for 24 hours on the suspicion that a driver has been drinking.

It also recommends road-side check-ks by police without prior warning or evidence of drinking and driving.

A public information program designed to inform drivers of the implications of driving after drinking and increased random road-side checks also were recommended in the report from an inter-ministerial committee.

In an interview outside the house, Mr. McMurtry said he agreed the report's recommendations, if implemented, would give police wide powers.

"I agree that perhaps civil liberties are involved here," he said. "But with the human tragedy that is taking place on our highways I think this discretion is warranted."

The attorney-general said he will urge the acceptance of many of the reports suggestions.

He said the recommendations regarding random road-side checks embodies one of the most important principles in the report—the fear of detection.

"I firmly believe tough punitive measures are important in the case of drinking drivers," he said. "But I think the real fear of detection is even more so."

The report said the .08 legal limit of alcohol in the blood is an arbitrary one, and many drivers are dangerous when the level is much lower.

The report also says present fairly requiring drivers to take breathalyzer tests or be charged with refusing to take one, have done little to reduce the problem of drinking and driving.

"Death and injuries have continued to escalate," the report said.

The report concludes that tests suggested by Mr. McMurtry in a speech last week are not feasible because the machine must be operated by a trained technician.

The report said 44,283 drivers in the provinces were charged with drinking-driving offences in 1974 and "police recognized that they are not even scratching the surface."

Mr. McMurtry said the average amount of alcohol in the blood of persons charged with impaired driving has been at almost twice the legal limit. He said drivers licences should have photographs to help police enforce suspensions of licences by clearly identifying the drivers.

The report recommended that a provincial program against drinking and driving be strengthened by allowing police to confiscate car keys or impound the vehicle if necessary to enforce suspension of licences.

Wilfred Bolton, chief superintendent of Ontario Provincial Police, said in a telephone interview that he did not expect that the province would need more police to enforce legislation that might result from the recommendations.

Radiation Levels Too High Says Miller

TORONTO (CP) — Radiation levels as high as 20 times acceptable limits were found in recent tests in a Port Hope school, Health Minister Frank Miller told the New Legislature Wednesday.

Mr. Miller said the highest reading found in St. Mary's school was 62 microroentgens of life of air in the school kitchen. The acceptable standard is three microroentgens per litre.

However, the minister told the house that readings in various parts of the school changed from day to day. He said the readings, although relatively high, are considered harmless.

He said that in atomic plants a level of 29 picocuries per litre is considered acceptable. Workers could work in that level for 40 hours a week, 50 weeks a year without harm.

The problem is caused by radon gas—produced by decaying radium—seeping into the school from landfill dumped years ago by a nuclear processing plant.

VD Cases Now Reach Epidemic Levels

OTTAWA (CP) — A record number of venereal disease (VD) cases was reported last year, a report to the federal health department said Wednesday.

The report says the incidence of gonorrhea in Canada has been escalating during the last decade, reaching epidemic proportions.

The number of reported gonorrhea cases in 1974 was 67,382, up five per cent from 1973—an average 233.8 "cases per 100,278 population compared with the 1968 high of 214.3 cases.

"The statistics for gonorrhea on national, provincial and municipal bases should be interpreted with caution," the report notes. "Under-reporting of this disease is evidenced, but the degree to which this occurs is not known."

Alberta and Ontario had the greatest increases last year. Thirty-one per cent of the total cases were reported in Toronto, Vancouver and Edmonton, the report said.

"Over half the reported cases were between the age of 15 and 29 and 75 per cent were under 29, indicating the seriousness of the problem in the younger age groups," it added.

Store Hour Legislation Undergoes Changes

TORONTO (CP) — Debate on the Ontario government's proposed legislation to control Sunday store hours ended Wednesday and a formal vote is scheduled for today.

An amendment proposed by the New Democrats which would include deaf, shoes in the list of shops forbidden to open Sunday got voice support from the Liberals.

The words "for religious reasons" were deleted from a clause allowing businesses closed for 24 hours in a 72-hour period before Sunday to remain open if, was felt, the words would make the bill unconstitutional.

Outside the legislature, Solicitor-General John Macbeth said he was pleased that few changes were made to the bill.

Castro Denounces U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro referred to the United States as "a monster" Wednesday and said it was Cuba's No. 1 enemy, the Cuban news agency Prensa Latina said in broadcasts monitored here.

Officers Captured

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The air force said today a group of rebel air force men have captured air force Cmdr. Hector Fautis Fasiario and other top officers. A communique, believed to be from the rebels, said the revolt was aimed at "overthrowing" public authority to achieve restoration of a new order with a national and Christian sense."

Fromme Gets Life

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette (Squeaky) Fromme, in a courtroom scene as frenetic and confused as her trial, was sentenced to life in prison Wednesday for taging to kill President Ford. The red-haired, 27-year-old defendant struggled with federal marshals, screamed at the judge and threw an apple at the prosecutor during the sentencing. The judge said she could not be rehabilitated.

Protests No Funding

OTTAWA (CP) — The Company of Young Canadians, anticipating a budget slash tonight that may be fatal, said Wednesday the government's "so-called anti-inflationary measures" will be made at the expense of the poor if the company is cut off.

Federal Budgets Will Be Slashed By PM Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC says Prime Minister Trudeau will announce today that the salaries of members of Parliament, deputy ministers and senior government officials will be frozen for one year as part of the federal government's spending restraints.

It says the restraints will include cancellation of the civil service annual increments and programs, as well as decreases in the budgets of many departments.

The CBC says Information Canada, The Company of Young Canadians, and Opportunities for Youth and the Local Initiatives Programs will be ended.

As recently as Tuesday, federal officials were insisting that no final decisions had been taken on the spending programs to be cut.

The CBC says the cancellation of the objective subsidy will result in a price increase of a barrel and 10 cents a gallon July 1.

However, last week at a joint ministerial press conference during discussions concerning an oil price increase July 1 were only in a preliminary stage and that any speculation on an increase at that time were impossible.

The subsidy on wheat will be cut by 57 cents a bushel, increasing wheat prices by the same amount, it says.

The cost-of-living index on family allowance cheques will be cancelled for one year, which means that the cheques will no longer be increased as the cost of living rises, it says.

The CBC says the budget for the department of manpower and immigration will be decreased and that $60 million will be cut from manpower-training programs.

The farm subsidy program will be affected by a $50-million decrease in the agriculture department's budget, it says.

The budget for the external affairs department will be cut by $2.7 million and the increase in the budget for the Canadian International Development Agency is limited to 19 per cent, it says.

Toronto's Principals Donate To Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's 600 secondary school principals and vice-principals Tuesday gave 85 per cent of their November pay cheques to aid the strike fund of the city's secondary school teachers, a spokesman for the principals said.

Teachers in the province so far have donated $5,000 following a suggestion from the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that teachers consider donating one day's salary, a spokesman for the federation said.

Harry Kreber, chairman of the salary committee of the principals' association, said about $170,000 was donated and each teacher received an additional $20 on their strike-pay cheque Tuesday.

About 8,200 Metro Toronto secondary school teachers have been on strike since Nov. 18, stopping classes for 140,000 students in 133 schools.

Teachers had been receiving 40 per cent of their regular wages in strike pay. This was cut to 30 per cent last week and will be cut to 20 per cent next week because of a dwindling strike-pay fund.

Wells Says School Aid Will Jump 8 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Thomas Wells told Ontario school board trustees today the government will increase education grants by eight per cent in 1976-77.

The minister, in a morning address to the trustees, said the government will allocate no money for new capital expenditures for at least eight months next year.

Mr. Wells said more of the burden of education spending will have to be shifted to property taxes and local taxpayers.

Separate School Board Approves New Contracts

12 Per Cent Increases

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board Tuesday went into closed session and approved three one-year salary contracts affecting the board's office staff, custodians and the administration group.

Director of education E. J. Neville said Wednesday contract talks with the three groups have been underway since October. He said the contracts reflect the spirit of Ottawa's anti-inflation guidelines even though the board does not constitute an employer with 500 employees.

In the recorded vote of 10 to 1 the board approved increases of between 10 and 12 per cent for the administration council. Mr. Neville said the board requested this agreement go before the trustees board for approval.

The director of education's salary has been increased to $27,025 from $22,000. The board's only secretary-treasurer of education will now earn $21,000 up from $25,000. The board's business superintendent received an increase of $2,000, from $25,000 to $28,000.

Mr. Neville explained the board had to consider qualifications for the new positions.

The administration council also negotiated an additional fringe benefit clause which will allow the board to extend all contract privileges to retired personnel up to the age of 65. The board's practice is currently 75 per cent of life insurance, hospital, medical, surgical and dental benefits.

For the other two groups, the salary increases represent a 12 per cent increase. The starting rate of a school secretary will now be $5,822 as opposed to $5,200 last year. A secretary with four years experience will now earn $7,203 as opposed to last year's figure of $6,547.

The board's own secretaries will now start at $6,802 and can earn a maximum of $10,454 after 10 ten years of service. The purchasing agent's salary has been increased to $11,368 from $10,-062. This contract affects about 25 employees.

Effective Jan 1 starting custodians with the board will earn $8,700 with a maximum of $9,139 after ten years service. Those figures apply to custodians responsible for six to eight rooms.

Custodians, responsible for more than eight rooms, will start at $9,139 with a maximum of $10,272.

Maintenance staff will begin at $9,318 with a maximum of $10,814 after 10 years experience. Supervisory staff will start at $10,200 and can earn up to $12,180 after two years. This contract will be preceded by salary increments covering the period between Sept. 1, 1975 and Jan. 1, 1976.

The shift premium for evening work will be increased to 15 cents per hour from 10 cents. New Year's eve work will be covered by triple time.

Postal Rates May Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to increase first-class postal rates to 10 or 11 cents from eight cents probably will be introduced in the Commons next March, Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey indicated Wednesday.

"I have to get it in by the end of March if I can," he said in an interview.

Mr. Mackasey declined to say exactly what the new rate would be but repeated that he thought "it might be 10 or 11 cents."

It would still be probably the lowest-cost mail in the world," considering the vast size of Canada. He cited the 30-cent first-class postal rate in West Germany as an example.

Mr. Mackasey said he is in search to introduce the bill in the Commons but he repeated that rates should increase once the post office has recovered its efficiency after the recent strike.

The post office needs the increase to offset higher wages and higher costs for transportation, gasoline and other items, he said.

Store Hour Legislation Undergoes Changes

TORONTO (CP) — Debate on the Ontario government's proposed legislation to control Sunday store hours ended Wednesday and a formal vote is scheduled for today.

An amendment proposed by the New Democrats which would include deaf, shoes in the list of shops forbidden to open Sunday got voice support from the Liberals.

The words "for religious reasons" were deleted from a clause allowing businesses closed for 24 hours in a 72-hour period before Sunday to remain open if, was felt, the words would make the bill unconstitutional.

Outside the legislature, Solicitor-General John Macbeth said he was pleased that few changes were made to the bill.

Trenton Employees Save Town $100,000

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The 5½per-cent increases being demanded by municipal indoor-outdoor staff is not excessive because the workers have saved the town almost $100,000 to 1975, said Jack Rigby, representative for the employees, Wednesday.

Mr. Rigby, in presenting in a statement made early this month by the treasurer Ralph Fagan who indicated there would be a $100,000 surplus in the current budget. Mr. Fagan said most of the surplus could be attributed to work within the public works department.

Mr. Rigby, spokesman for the employees represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), said this was because the department was a "complete construction industry."

"In most of the neighboring municipalities construction of sewers curbs and storm systems is contracted to private companies but in Trenton the public works department does all this work," said Mr. Rigby.

Mr. Fagan said this was correct and that a large portion of the surplus could be attributed to the department's efficiency but that the work were paid as much, if not more than private contractors in the private construction work.

Mr. Rigby also said when the costs of private work and the costs of public construction are analyzed by the town council, a contingency monies included for any problems they might incur," said Mr. Fagan.

The town and union representatives are currently involved in negotiations over the contract, with both CUPE employees currently earning about $8,000 annually, and outside workers $8,500.

Of the 76 employees involved, 34 are in the public works department, 11 are inside workers and three draftsmen and eight secretaries.

County Classroom Head Planning Program Changes

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

BLOOMFIELD — The County as a Classroom, a community education program sponsored through the Prince Edward board of education, has suspended its sessions until the new year.

Program co-ordinator Sandra Beattie said that she plans to prepare a schedule for the first three months of 1976 that will reflect several changes in the program.

Mrs. Beattie said Wednesday, originally, County as a Classroom programs were presented twice weekly on Tuesdays and Thursdays at various locations throughout Prince Edward.

A new winter program will feature one seminar a week to be held on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Beattie added that she hopes to bring all programs to either Queen Elizabeth School or Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton.

This year, programs were presented at schools and other centres throughout the county but need for more central location especially in winter, has been indicated, she said.

Although County as a Classroom seminars have been held only at night, there is a possibility that daytime sessions occasionally will be introduced, she said.

Mrs. Beattie explained one recent program, County Collections, required a great deal of work by participants and would have been an ideal weekend display in the community.

She also said interest has been expressed in programs that would instruct youngsters in pet care and training and possibly these sessions could be held on Saturday mornings.

Mrs. Beattie noted that the average attendance at programs presented this year was 25 persons. The largest night attendance was 58 persons and the lowest, zero.

Topics dealing with education and special education proved to be poorly attended and it is expected these programs will be held at other times in future. They have been dropped from the evening schedule now in preparation.

The County as a Classroom programs will continue through June with the classes next summer, Mrs. Beattie said. "Many corners were cut" to reduce the cost of the $1.7 million home opened last February and county was forced on several occasions "to pick up some of the corners."

A parking lot was built and a flag pole purchased in addition to other expenditures.

Deputy-reeve Sprague said council the new home is running "smoothly" but there are a number of deficiencies.

He explained that a nurse's call system may be added but no decision has been made as yet. This system was not in the original plan for the new home.

Also, the social services committee has been unable to obtain action from the contractors to correct several small problems with the new building.

Deputy-reeve Sprague added that the emergency power system is not operating properly but this is expected to be corrected soon.

Meeting of the Minds

Negotiators for Trenton and the municipalities fire fighters association presented briefs to an arbitration board to settle a wage dispute, Wednesday. A decision is expected from the board by the end of the year. Negotiators are (from left) Chief Cecil Ellis, treasurer Brian Fagan, deputy clerk Arden Royce, and chief negotiator and Trenton clerk Aubrey Sharp.

Wages Only Issue Blocking Firemen-Trenton Accord

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — An arbitration settlement for the 1975 contract will be handed down by the new year negotiators for the municipality and the firefighters association were told, Wednesday.

Donald White, provincially-appointed chairman of the arbitration committee, told negotiators of the Knights of Columbus Hall he hopes the wages settlement be only issue separating the two parties, could be resolved in time to allow the firefighters to receive compensation before 1976.

The town and the firefighters have been embroiled in a wage dispute over the associations demand for a 17-per-cent raise for 1975 which would increase the salary of a first-class firefighter of $14,981. The parties have been involved in the contract dispute since the 1974 award was made by another arbitration jury last summer.

The firefighters contend the department is undermanned, creating a more dangerous working environment. It was acknowledged by Trenton Fire Chief Cecil Ellis that there were times on the night shift when the fire hall was undermanned if two alarms arrive almost simultaneously.

Additionally, the firefighters say they would like to maintain wage parity with area police and firefighters.

Aubrey Sharp, town clerk and a negotiator for the municipality said the firefighters are the only municipal employees who had not settled for the 12.4 per cent offered by the town.

The town brief also pointed out that since Murray Township is no longer serviced by the fire department their responsibilities are lessened.

Both parties have argued the other side has made negotiations difficult. The town has said the firefighters told them to accept their demands because it should be obvious treference to previous arbitration awards) that when they go to the board the association's requests will be recognized.

The firefighters have said it is impossible to negotiate with the town because they are always being threatened with lay-offs if they do not capitulate.

Trenton town council is currently investigating the possibility of implementing a volunteer fire brigade in the town if the present system becomes to costly.

"If you can't afford a Cadillac, you have to look elsewhere," said Mr. Sharp referring to the volunteer system.

Further Lake Study Unlikely

MARMORA — Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Townships have received replies from J.W. Tooley of the ministry of the environment and Charles Rollins, Hastings-Peterborough MPP, to answer to their request for a study of Crowe Lake.

Mr. Tooley said recently funds alloted for such studies are limited and these studies are undertaken on a priority basis however, he said he would forward the request to the technical support group for consideration.

Mr. Rollins told council he had been advised by the minister of the environment that a comprehensive study of Crowe Lake was carried out during 1973 and additional testing of the lake's water quality was undertaken during 1974 and again this past summer. It is therefore felt, he said, a further comprehensive survey is not required at this time.

The ministry stated that with the exception of the two sources of public water supply (Hoosier Park and Anagance Spring), which the minister is bringing to the attention of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, the bacteriological data provided by the Property Owners Association is typical of what one might expect to find in any recreational lake.

The county, the ministry said are high enough to support the position that no surface water should be consumed without prior disinfection but low enough to be well within the ministry's criteria for body contact recreation.

Major Powers—East and West—Are the Culprits in Business of Arms Supply

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Who is responsible for the endless conventional wars of our age, presently waged in the form of civil wars in Northern Ireland, Lebanon and Angola?

It's the arms merchants, who use that once familiar word of the 1930s, when the likes of Basil Zaharias peddled the tool of weaponry wares in child's play compared to the stuff around today.

The arms merchants were supposed to be operating in secret, almost like drug peddlers of the '60s and '70's with popular magazines and "scoop reporters on radio trying to find out about their nasty activities.

There are still arms merchants of this kind around, plenty of them. Take Lebanon. Though the Beirut fly, Beirut disintegrate and the port is empty, the weapons still get in and through the so-called empty port.

Or take Ireland. What possible purpose could a Libyan ship, of all nationalities, have in Irish waters? Loaded with arms, that's what. Loaded with bombs earlier from the big bomb powers for the Libyan armed forces, and going clandestinely to the IRA terrorists.

But it's no longer a problem to sell and re-sell weapons around the world to any and all who want them. The major culprits are the great powers themselves, capitalist and Communist.

And in the case of the United States, Canada and Britain these vast exports of weapons and machines to kill, maim and destroy cities have to be approved by congress and parliaments.

Take the latest weapons package which the U.S. Congress must approve. The newest of American aircraft and modern aviation support services are being sold at one and the same time to the bitterest of enemies, Israel and Saudi Arabia.

The Israelis want and will get the brand new F-15 jet fighter not even delivered yet to the U.S. Air Force. The Saudis will get the rest of a complex modernization package of their air force and military air base facilities, the latter to cost a staggering $1.8 billion.

Shouldn't one query the morality of this kind of business?

While Dr. Kissinger was rushing back and forth between Israeli and Arab capitals a few months ago trying to get agreements on Sinai and the Golan Heights, the American aircraft and weapons industries were busy selling to both sides.

France has announced a staggering 10-billion package to build an arms-making industry in Egypt from which the Egyptians in the future can make their own equipment, plus a new subway for Cairo.

What in heaven's name does Egypt want with that kind of outlay in a nation burning its arms with the population explosion of 36-million people, most of them still living down the bottom of the economic scale of Third World nations.

How long would Jews and Arabs fight each other if the Israelis did not have U.S.-made F-4 jets to send screaming over Palestinian villages and the PLO did not have Soviet automatic weapons and man-handled bazookas which can turn a market square into a bloody shambles.

Take away the weapons and most of that carnage would not begin.

With very few exceptions it is the industrial nations who supply the world with their guns and aircraft. These are the self-same countries who sit in the United Nations and are future doom from Asia's warring factions which they are feeding at the same time.

Self-Care Unit's Fate

It comes as little surprise to learn of the impending demise of the Queen's Self-Care Unit.

The closing has been a matter of speculation for some time and now, with restrictions on hospital expenditure as with other sectors the final decision merely puts the seal on what had been anticipated.

For all that, the Self-Care Unit has been an important innovation in the area of medical care and it has served an important purpose. That it could not have been made more viable economically is less the fault of administration than of these straitened times. It will be remembered it an idea of then Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter. The former motel facility became available and its conversion to use as a hospital auxiliary unit took place.

There is the possibility of a smaller unit being established in the Edith Cavell building but this will depend on a number of factors including finance. Discussions on such a project are scheduled with ministry officials this week.

What of the Queen's facility? It was once a popular motel and restaurant and it was missed in this context when converted to a medical establishment. Should it revert to that use it would represent both a comeback and a welcome new addition to the Belleville scene.

A Fitter Canada ?

"As Canada heads into Olympic Year we are challenged, young and old, toward excellence of body fitness; to get involved; develop new standards, to 'keep on track.'

This is the legend on the cover of a special appeal issue of "Concerns," which is published quarterly by Alcohol and Drug Concerns Inc., of Don Mills.

It's a timely reminder of the health problems Canadians face as a nation, and of the vast improvements that could be effected nationally by a change in lifestyle. Of course it is easier said than done, but "Concerns" nevertheless believes it has a good "track record" in this context for an organization of its size.

Its work ranges from commercials aimed at countering those seeking to promote alcohol, for instance, as socially desirable, to a week-long university course on alcohol and drug-related problems, to a trailer program — an on-street facility to contact youth and parents in a variety of community settings.

There's a cover picture of two young girl athletes in a relay race, reminiscent of the 50-cent Olympic stamp of a hurdler in action, and there's a contribution from Lake Ontario swimmer Cindy Nicholas who has proved herself to be one of the finest of our young athletes and a bright and intelligent personality too.

There is evidence that alcohol has become an increasing problem in our society since the lowering of the drinking age. This, coupled with the lower age for driving a car, is causing real concern.

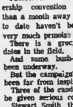
It's not a happy thought on the eve of Olympic year and in the absence of any immediate change in the legislation, the persuasive work of groups such as Alcohol and Drug Concerns Ltd. compel our attention and admiration.

Grits Have Three Front-runners In Quest for Party Leadership

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service



TORONTO — With their leadership convention little more than a month away the Liberals have yet to declare their hands to date haven't been showing very much promise.

There is a group of candidates in the field.

And some back-beating has been underway.

But the campaign to date has been far from inspiring.

Three of the candidates are to be given serious consideration:

Stewart Smith, the new MPP and ex-psychiatrist from Hamilton.

David Peterson, the 31-year-old lawyer and new MPP from London, Ont.

And Mark MacGuigan, the federal MP and 44-year-old lawyer-teacher from Windsor, Ont.

Of the three, Smith appears to be the front runner at this stage.

This is mainly because he appears to have substantial support in caucus.

He is acknowledged to be bright and many of his colleagues consider him to be an able politician, even though he is a freshman.

Peterson also has won some respect in his first term.

He has been prominent in committee work and it has been recognized that he could have a bright future.

But for the moment his youth is against him.

MacGuigan, it is said, will have some federal backing.

But still it is hard to rank him at the top.

He has now had quite a long political life in Toronto and Windsor and it seems he always just misses.

He has never been able to really make the big time.

And if the Liberals don't come up with somebody else it seems they may just miss too.

A fact of "the Liberal convention is that time is all-important.

The party probably will be facing an election within a few months of electing its leader.

And this calls for a man who can register quickly with the public and make the party credible.

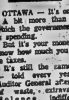
Spending—at $31 Billion—'Out-of-Control:' Macdonnell



By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — It's only money.

A bit more than $31 billion which the government this year is spending.

But it's your money. And you know how much you are paying in taxes.

It's still the same old story told every year by one Auditor General after another — of waste, extravagance, neglect and indifference all spouting the treasury to the peril of fresh government spending out of control.

The story is much an old serial that Parliament's Public Accounts Committee, trying to keep pace with it, is running two and sometimes three years behind.

It isn't, says the new self-retired and low-key Auditor General J.J. Macdonnell, that people in government are dishonest.

It's just that with so much money involved — think of it, $31 billion-plus — control has been lost, accounting has broken down and there's really nobody in charge of the federal store.

Treasury Board is supposed to be keeping a constant audit, scanning and trimming departmental spending.

But it has long too busy passing the bilingualism program and overseeing the staff operation of the ever-expanding bureaucracy.

So it has not really had time to bother with such non-essentials as out-of-control government spending.

Then, too, until the last reshuffle of cabinet, Charles M. (Bud) Drury was President of Treasury Board.

And he was the one, the very one, who tried so hard to muzzle the former school-friend the honorable Auditor General Maxwell Henderson.

To a degree he succeeded, too, for Bud and his cabinet buddies managed to make criticism of government policy a no-no for the Auditor General.

Which could have been one of the contributing reasons for the long-lasting Max Henderson's departure and replacement by the more diplomatic James Macdonnell.

One more thing about Bud Drury — he was deputy defence minister some 25 years ago when all the basics were found on the Army's payroll at Camp Petawawa and ordnance were stripping living quarters bare of stoves, fridges, washers and other household appliances and even rounding off the Canadian Pacific spur line track.

But Bud has got durability and survived that as he will survive, as Public Works Minister, payment of nearly $300.00 rental for the govern ment for office space it never occupy, a waste that the Auditor General warns this year could soon to $4,500,000.

It's only money, though.

And the reason, says the Auditor General, that its spending is out of control is because the bona bureaucrat, the deputy ministers, shuffle ir around at will.

Parliament votes a specific amount to a department for this purpose, and if it pleases him, the deputy can, and often does, says the Auditor General, transfer it for some other use.

And who is to know, much less object, until it's a couple of years too late.

Parliament doesn't and can't until it shows up in the Auditor General's report, and then what's to be done but perhaps deplore the practice and condemn it for another report that goes onto the shelf along with all the others to gather dust.

And who is to care, when former Prime Minister Pearson, regarding it as a joke, replied in a press conference with first-person stories that he was a deputy minister himself, who knew the angles — of how the boss bureaucrats hamboozled Treasury Board.

They would inflate their estimates, he laughed padding the spending plans with bits of wasteful fat. Treasury Board would cut off the lard, the deputies would end up with what they wanted in the first place. But, ha, ha, the joke had been made, and everyone was happy except perhaps the taxpayer, and he, poor sap, didn't know what was going on.

You think the Prime Minister was only funning?

Then accept confirmation from former Conservative Minister Gerald Gray who in an interview with the publication Maclean's said: "MPs, so cabinet, and definitely not the voting taxpayers — are the "manipulative powers" of the boss bureaucrats.

They have got $31 billion to play with.

And in this reckless era of squanderomania, the "bright young men" who come up with new and "innovative" ideas for spending it are the ones who get to the top and into the multi-billion-dollar jobs.

Like the sharp young "innovator" who grew to be the Company of Young Canadians, Opportunities for Youth, and other similarly imaginative like grabbers.

He is an assistant deputy now with millions to play with. He will be a deputy, a boss bureaucrat one of these days, and he will be into the billion-dollar leagues.

But it's only money.

Higher Energy Costs Promote Conservation And Boost Research

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The economic dilemma facing Canada's policy-makers is a question of prices.

Canadians, by and large, are fed up with constant price increases.

Public exasperation finally led to the creation of the anti-inflation board in mid. In turn, to the board's recently-announced decision to require a large number of Canadian businesses to submit any intended price increases to it.

But all increases are not necessarily bad, in Ottawa's view, if desirable results—such as conservation—flow from a price hike.

"Forcing consumers and producers with higher relative prices for energy is the most important single policy available to promote more efficient use and production of energy," said the government's anti-inflation board chief, Jean-Luc Pepin.

One school of economic thinking—with the endorsement of most producers—argues that price increases should indeed be used more imaginatively.

If the price of energy supplies (to use the government's example) is pushed high enough, consumers do scrub down their use and look for cheaper alternatives.

That new demand, plus the higher level of prices, combine to encourage suppliers to develop new sources, substitute products and new production methods. Investment is shifted into more socially rewarding outlets, and everybody benefits.

Another side of that argument is that, in a free market competition will keep prices from rising constantly.

But the economic theory isn't always borne out in terms that the consumer must cope with.

While retail prices of energy supplies have been multiplying in recent years, there's been little if any evidence that the sharply increased revenues have enabled producers to find new sources, to develop substitute products or to improve their production techniques.

Industry's position always seems to be that it's the next price increase, rather than the last one, that will be the key to future abundance.

Competition? Of course—collusion could land the businessman in jail, for one reason.

But the benefits of competition are felt much more by consumers when in heavily populated places, than in areas where suppliers have a near-monopoly.

What does it all add up to?

The returns aren't in yet—and probably won't be until the anti-inflation program has been in effect for more than a year.

Even if their costs of doing business were frozen today, typical pressures on prices would be bound to continue for the next several months while cost increases that have already been decreed, worked their way through the pipeline and into final prices.

But business costs haven't been frozen. As one example, wage rises will be rising by 10 or 12 per cent a year—more in some cases.

And yet another example, energy costs—which are basic to any enterprise—will be allowed to rise under the government's policy "to promote more efficient use and production."

Jean-Luc Pepin, Beryl Plumptre and their anti-inflation board colleagues face a truly Olympian task in administering a program that will necessarily sanction many price increases—even if for the best of economic reasons.

Agricultural Shortages

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

May I add my praise to the Paul Dillon letter. Here were brave enough to cross picket lines and go back to work. The people who went back appreciate it. Also a fair-sized raise was given so why try to kill the golden goose.

Some of the causes for labor demands could be the increasing rise in prices brought on by socialized shortages. Isn't it ironic that these shortages could be caused by large financial groups hoping for more profits, practically all stocks of sugar and holding them off the market, and then by creating a shortage, selling for a handsome profit. Next it could be coffee etc., etc.

Now we are being told the only way to help conserve our drifting gasoline supply is to raise the price so people will not buy so much, but what about the laborer who has no other means of travelling to his job? He will have to strike for higher pay also so the vicious circle will go on.

Why not retain any graces we have. Now is the time put a ceiling price on allowing the manufacturer profit, that will not need a raise.

CITIZEN

Mileage

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

A letter was printed in the Dec. 11 edition of your paper which was printed quite incorrectly. I have enclosed a copy of same. If you check my original copy, you'll see that statistics of miles driven in the U.S. were 23 per cent less and 27 per cent less with only 4 in per cent drop in accidents.

Quite by mistake, the typesetter left out the 3 (and again the three) in each case.

Ann Landers

Size of Your Family Is Nobody's Business

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a beautiful five-year-old child. This is the only child we plan on having. Are we committing a terrible crime?

I'm sick of answering questions from ignorant relatives, busy friends, co-workers, etc., as to why we only have one child.

These ignorantoons actually make comments in front of the youngster. He is an alert and sensitive boy. Now he has started to ask why we don't give him a brother. We have tried to explain as best we can. Our answers satisfy him until some big mouth starts it all over again.

We've been very polite to these dimwits but both my husband and I are losing our patience. What's the solution?—The Mother Of An Only Child.

Dear Mother: You don't owe ignorance and dimwittery an explanation. The size of your family is none of their business. Since you obviously want to respond, simply say, "We could never be this lucky again so we've decided to quit while we're ahead. Any more questions?"

Dear Ann Landers: What can you do when the person you work under is, quite frankly, a turkey? If I need an ok for a project I have to go over his head because he is unable or unwilling to make a decision.

This loser is not only indecisive but he is absentminded, grovelling, ineffective and he tends to lie when it serves his purpose.

Although I'm the one who is writing, several people in this organization share my sentiments. No one actually dislikes the jerk but he is out of his element.

Unfortunately, the executives around here are totally insensitive to this person's inadequacy. Even though they have been told everything I'm telling you, they seem unwilling to replace him. It gets worse and worse. We need your help.—Frustrated In Orange County.

Dear O.C.: You don't say if the turkey happens to be the boss's son-in-law. This could make a difference. Also, the turkey might have something on a member of top management.

If neither of these two possibilities are in the picture, be patient. It's just a matter of time and he'll get the ax. Do your own jobs and work around the bird.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old college student (girl) with a serious problem. Mother doesn't believe in snooping. She wouldn't admit a thing, but I insisted I was a "selfish daughter" for depriving her of the pleasure of sharing my romantic experiences.

Am I wrong about this? Please tell me if you think so and I'll shape up.—Going Bananas.

Dear Nan: You are not wrong. It's your mother who needs to shape up. Mail is personal and private property. Your mother needs a hobby.

Single Status Has Greater Cancer Risk

OTTAWA(CP) — Canadians who are single, divorced or widowed have a greater chance of dying of cancer than those who are married, says a United States expert.

Writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. J. A. H. Lee, a professor of epidemiology at the University of Washington, says his study of 1970-72 Canadian mortality figures show "differences (in the death rate) unlikely to be due to chance."

Dr. Lee studied the rate of death due to cancer of the gastrointestinal tract—mainly the stomach and intestines—which he said account for 29 per cent of all cases of cancer and 30 per cent of all deaths from cancer.

The mortality rate for divorced men was 20 per cent higher than for their married men, he found. Widowed men have a 25-per-cent higher death rate and single men 15 per cent.

The death rates were 23 per cent higher for divorced women, 14 per cent for widows and four per cent for single women, compared with their married women.

Dr. Lee says no studies had been done to pinpoint the causes of the higher cancer death rate but appetizities that lifestyles may play a big part.

He says he feels unmarried people may use more tobacco and alcohol than married people and says this may contribute to their problem.

"Differences in mortality in the groups of different marital status may be the result of factors of the unmarried state such as cooking arrangements," the article says.

Pre-natal Detection Of Muscular Dystrophy

EDMONTON (CP) — Discovery of a method to detect muscular dystrophy during early pregnancy may only be two years away, a researcher said Monday.

Dr. Patricia Stewart, said in an interview the Hamilton-based McMaster University research group is close to a major breakthrough in early detection of the disease, which in its most common form is incurable and fatal.

"We feel we've found the defect. is shown long before birth," she said. The disease, which shows up in young boys in its most common form, now is usually detected only three or four years after birth.

Dr. Stewart said such early detection would pose a "terribly difficult" question for parents.

"The mother would face a great responsibility" in deciding whether to terminate the pregnancy or allow the child to face a short, frustrating life.

Most of those affected are in a wheelchair by the time they are 10 years and at 15, they cannot feed themselves or turn in bed. They usually die between the ages of 18 and 21.

Dr. Stewart said a cure for the disease probably is much further off.

Some Timely Tips for the Prevention Of Tearful Tiffs on Christmas Day

There's a scene on Christmas Day that too many of us are familiar with . . . some child (maybe ourselves!) bursting into tears of frustration or fatigue. Too often these tears are a signal for other children to join the routine, and before we know it, adult emotions are involved as well.

Although these teary fits are usually short and easily settled with a "now-now, dry, dry, you really needn't be upset at all."

It's up to parents to carry out preventative measures, so that no child need have his Christmas spoiled.

How? Here are a few suggestions gathered from experienced parents who keep the Yuletide jolly.

Don't get your children "keyed-up" through your own desires to relive the Christmas of your childhood. Too many parents cast their kids on to tremendous expectations prior to Christmas.

"Santa will be here in just 'x' number of days. You better be good so you'll get lots of presents," may seem like a handy disciplinary technique . . . but the one-at-a-time is a pinch of excitement that can only lead to tearful times.

Keep any jealous or canvassing other holiday events going (shopping), or as a show, or to visit relatives — so that the children's focus is not only on Christmas gift-getting. A little parental "switch-hacking" beforehand can keep everything in proportion.

If you see one of your kids getting "wound up, accord him the privilege of an afternoon nap or a quivery chin or whiney voice. Once he's cooled down, put him in charge of some activity — peeling oranges, handing out presents, being leader of a game — to keep him busy and feeling important.

If your family is still young, start an "early bedtime" that will give the day order.

A exciting ball of small gifts — little puzzles, card games, comic books — will keep early risers occupied until older children and parents are ready to get up.

In the stockings and under the tree, make sure there are plenty of oranges, tangerines and nuts to nibble. Since few children can tolerate breakfast until after present-opening, keep them from getting over-hungry and irritable.

Open gifts one at a time. Simple though that idea seems, many families let an afternoon take over from good cheer, and before you know it there's a mad scramble and suddenly it's all over.

These are just a few techniques given each person several chances to be the centre of attention, not a piece of confetti. It also spreads the excitement over a longer time and gives each person time to look at what he's got from good cause, and before you know it there's a mad scramble and suddenly it's all over.

These are just a few techniques given each person several chances to be the centre of attention, not a piece of confetti. It also spreads the excitement over a longer time and gives each person time to look at what he's got from good cause, and before you know it there's a mad scramble and suddenly it's all over.

Children rivalries often vear their ugly heads on Christmas. "I got more than you got."

is an unbearable taunt and the agony of "not getting as much as" can be painful to a nine-year-old.

Check that your children are being treated as equally as possible. If grandparents or other relatives send gifts, it's quite within your role as loving parents to open the parcels (very privately, before) and to see what's been sent.

Grannies are only human, after all, and may show their otherwise hidden preference for one child over another in the choosing of gifts. If this happens, it can be neutralized by your choice of presents.

Even if sharing is normally a virtue at your house, squabbles can be avoided by stipulating that on Christmas Day, each child may keep his toys entirely to himself if he wishes.

At the end of the unwrapping, have each child pile his presents beneath the tree and then choose one toy or game to keep as yet. This prevents a mess in the Friar room and the confusion of too much to play with at one time.

What about the tearful child who didn't get what he wanted?

This is frequent result of the post-Christmas commercial build-up, and is hard to counter. Try, however, to channel the child's interest into what he did get.

Explain, lovingly, that he should be glad about what he does have instead of wishing for what he doesn't have.

Say, you know, that's not a bad idea for the grown-ups either.

Ask him to demonstrate some toy or game for the rest of the family — open the can — attempt the dismal-sounding invention suggest that he start his allowance to buy it some later in the year.

Santa Visits Handicapped Kids

Santa Claus was the guest of honor at a Tuesday night's Christmas party in the Parkdale Community Centre, sponsored by the Rotary Club for Belleville's handicapped children, the party was attended by 85 children and their parents.

Carol singing, led by Linton Reid and accompanied by Robert Johnston, opened the festivities following dinner.

Margaret Dyment and her daughter Sue presented a magic act that entertained the audience with all sorts of tricks, including a live rabbit brought out of an empty top hat. The two magicians also did mind-reading routines and sleights-of-hand that made scarves appear in the air.

A Christmas play by the Interact group followed, in which the actors were dressed as toys. Interact members are all students at Centennial Secondary School, who take part in various community services.

One Santa Claus appeared, presents were distributed to all the children.

The gifts were purchased by the Rotary Club and chosen for the children by staff of the Ontario Society of Crippled Children.

Host John Bruce and hostess Vickie DeMill are served by other students.

Students Prepare Christmas Dinner

A Christmas dinner, prepared and served by students of William R. Ryan School, was held Wednesday noon in the school auditorium, decorated with Christmas stars.

The annual event was attended by students and staff of the school in addition to invited guests, including representatives from the Hastings County Board of Education and members of the community who are affiliated with the school's work-experience program.

Two students were host and hostess for the occasion, 12 other students served the guests from the buffet tables, and 30 students were involved in the preparation of the turkey dinner.

Pocket Calculators Hot Commodity in East Europe

WARSAW, Poland (Reuter) — The West European businessman said mockingly: "Have you got a pocket calculator?"

Then he whispered hesitantly: "You don't by any chance have one to sell?"

"No," is the car's glib reply.

The Western traveller, who had overheard the conversation on the searching Poland, was finding it next to impossible to obtain the border controls this month. The pocket calculator, coveted by speculative Western businessmen of the accountant to the East.

In earlier years, East European checks concentrated on books, magazines, newspapers and western currencies such as gold rings, diamonds, loose and small objects of art.

Today the day pocket calculator matches in the search for the profit motive among East European citizens despite 30 years of communism.

A calculator bought in West Germany or Austria for $10 dollars, can reap a 50-to-one-dollar profit, based on the black market rates in Hungary.

Economics perpetually plague bloc tourism.

East European Communist states, chronically short of hard currencies, begrudge the money spent on tourism in Western countries unless they can recoup from the spending of Western tourists visiting their holiday spots.

But not every East European state has warm, sunny beaches to entice the West European sun bather.

Even if travel between bloc states, Communist economics and the individual's unending search for a quick ruble, zloty, forint, crown or mark can combine to upset the financial equilibrium.

When East Germany and Poland opened their frontiers to each other's citizens in 1972, Poles returned into East Germany and snapped up cheaper or better household goods and food.

The East Germans complained and Poland's tourist balance lurched into the red. A year later the whole scheme had to be changed, making it more expensive for Poles to go into East Germany and cheaper for East Germans to visit Poland.

"It's simply that there are many more Poles than East Germans—84 million of us to their 18 million," explained a Pole.

Not that tourism with a shopping basket is a novelty in Eastern Europe. When East Germans visit Czechoslovakia, they buy cosmetics, sardines, fruit and gasoline at advantageous prices.

Prague shops are kept well stocked by the Czechoslovak leadership to counterbalance the crackdown on political freedoms which followed the 1968 invasion by Warsaw Pact allies.

Communist states subsidize different items at varying prices. Here's one there is always some price "symbols for" a bloc visitor to exploit.

For years Poles have sought to robot'on, or wholly finance, vacations abroad by baiting out tourist or quality tobacco at their bargain.

A Polish crystal vase sells in Bulgaria and Turkey where it can buy an ornamental leather vest which in turn sells at a premium back home.

Traditional smuggling still thrives in Poland.

Recently a Polish bus stopped at the Romanian border and customs men, searching the hard shrines and luggage compartment, dragged out hundreds of western blouses, shoes, velour cloth and synthetic fabric lengths.

"Who owns this?" they demanded. No one owned up and the coach rolled on without a load of items worth hundreds of thousands of zlotis.

"The goods must have been plated there by gnomes who wanted to play a dirty trick on a respectable observer" was the ironic comment of Warsaw magazine.

Water Main Erupts

African Place Names Don't Identify Locations

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — African place names here are not simply to identify a location.

Many of them tell a story, advising travellers what to expect when they arrive.

They tell of long-forgotten battles, of places to find food, water and shelter; of "evil" places to be avoided.

For the early African traveller, food was of prime importance whether it was game, fish or vegetable.

Chiadzwa, for instance, meant there were elephants in the vicinity. Chararire told travellers there was food from the Deleya fruit tree and Nyabar was a salty patch at the source of a river.

Nyamanewena gave immediate warning that the river of that name was a place of large crocodiles and so to be forded with care.

Dorcenhembwe was a ready source of food. It gave the message that the land alongside this stream was wet and animals became stuck in the mud and were easily killed.

Chiramakwaya told the wayfarer there was a well-stocked fishery here where breams were easily caught.

Mboza was the destination of many a thirsty African. From the name he knew there were pans that could hold water throughout the dry season.

Dahwebvure gave the message that there was a pool with many fish while Chenzodo was the destination of those who wanted a delicacy. The name means place of baboons.

Chembendoro and Chashumba were locations to be avoided—they both mean a place of lions.

For those with a palate for evil's meat, Chinyamanzi—the place of owls—was a prime destination. Matakwa had to be a good hunting area—the name translates as the place where hunters cut up the meat of the animals they killed.

And if this location was a popular stop, both Zinabi and Buhi were to be avoided, the names mean evil, bad or unlucky place.

Mvumenmala was as popular for the hunter as the modern day restaurant. It was the place where the animals became caught in the swamp, and with her fine that easy it was really a matter of looking at the menu.

Wukakwa—hunting—means the spears and snares would be busy and the cooking pots filled. Inyathi—place of many buffalo - Sikhwele - partridge and Sinkombo—place of trees with edible roots—were all names that told travellers of the type of food they could expect.

Justice Served

LONDON (CP) — Italian student Paola Beleccdi, 19, who was on her way to court to face a shoplifting charge was robbed of the £40 she had to pay her fine. The magistrate said it was "poetic justice," and gave her a conditional discharge.

Teacher Gives Students A Lesson on Jails

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Teacher Catherine Tuttle gave his seventh-grade pupils a lesson that no longer is uncommon in many schools: what it's like to be in jail.

Mrs. Tuttle and 29 other New Haven teachers were fired by riots in classrooms at the end of an illegal strike, repeating a scene that occurred recently in Massachusetts, Illinois and New York.

"I didn't feel it was degrading," the young teacher of English said of her 11 days in Niantic women's prison. "I knew why I was there."

She and four other women teachers joined in prison routine with convicted murderers and other criminals while seven male teachers were blue collar "cons" uniforms at the Bridgeport state jail. The remaining 73 strikers were housed in a vacant military barracks.

Mrs. Tuttle said the initial reaction of her pupils on her return to East Rock community school was curiosity about jail, not contempt or disrespect because of her legal tangle.

She and other teachers say they do not expect jailing to cure disciplinary problems if teachers explain their reason for going to jail.

The president of the New Haven Federation of Teachers, Frank Cirrano, who also was jailed, said that "real discipline isn't based on blind obedience in the classroom" and suggested the school board consider firing them.

He fined the 90 teachers and the union a total of $254,500 as part of their civil contempt penalties. Striking teachers in Scheswesday, N.Y., Lyme, Mass., ailed of Teachers (AFT) will and Shelton, Conn., were jailed pay, will go to the board of edu- this fall for contempt of court; cation.

Connecticut is one of 25 states allowing teachers to join a union or other bargaining group but also prohibiting them from striking, according to the AFT. Three other states permit teachers to bargain collectively and to strike.

In addition, no-picketing orders led to house arrest during non-working hours for about 200 Wilmington, Del., teachers for demonstrations.

A Chicago teacher union leader is appealing a strike-related three-month jail sentence, an AFT spokesman said.

Chickens Challenge

EDINBURGH (CP) — A government committee's finding that wire-mesh flooring in hen's cages is cruel has been challenged by the chickens. An experiment in a research centre has shown that when chickens were given a choice they favored the wire-mesh floors over the recommended solid floors.

Top Student

Heather Ostrander, 12, of Carrying Place, has been chosen top student in the Eastern Region of Ontario Conservatory of Music. Miss Ostrander, who has been playing accordian for three years, is with her teacher Murray McNeely of Kingston. She was chosen from about 750 students in the five-studio region from Peterborough to Kingston.

Local Accordion Player Takes Top Student Award

"It was a shock," says Heather Ostrander of Carrying Place when she was chosen top student out of about 750 in the Ontario Conservatory of Music eastern region.

But Robert Bacon, head of the Belleville studio in the region from Peterborough to Kingston says the 13-year-old accordian player earned the award.

Each teacher in the five-studio region chose three students for consideration. They were judged on lesson attendance, compliance to mixed lesson procedure, enthusiasm, willingness to perform and home practice.

Heather says she practices at least 20 hours a week at home, and she spends Sundays performing for friends.

Heather also takes singing at Keste School where she is in Grade 7. She's entering Grade 8 in her music studies with the Conservatory and wants to be an accordian teacher.

She's played the instrument about three years. Her mother tried to talk her out of taking it up at all because she played accordian by ear.

Outdoor Skating Fees Unchanged This Season

Are winters becoming milder?

Whatever the reason, sustained cold spells have become so unreliable membership fees in Belleville recreation department's outdoor skating program will remain unchanged this winter.

The parks board this week agreed membership charges remain the same for its program at the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club.

A staff report says each year it seems there is "less skating time available for the outdoor enthusiast."

Clifford Belch, recreation director, said after the committee meeting southern Ontario writers are not "really reliable" for outdoor skating. In Toronto, such programs already are being reduced.

"It seems to be a change in the climate" said Mr. Belch.

The fee schedule ranges from 75 cents for a skating lesson up to $15 for family membership.

Township Raises Snow Fee

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake Township's council has set $10.50 an hour for snowplowing and sanding service to Deloro Village.

Reeve Doug Lynch of Deloro said recently the service provided in the past by the township had been satisfactory and the Village would like it to continue.

Last year's rate was $8.50 an hour but because of increased labor costs the Township Council felt an increase in the rate is in order.

Ald. Dever Questions Use of Hockey Profits

Any net profits from minor hockey in Belleville pay for ice time, the city's recreation-arenas committee was told this week.

A month ago, city councillor Wally Dever asked why youngsters were charged admission to such games.

Youngsters are charged 50 cents, adults $1.

A staff report said revenues from Ontario Minor Hockey Association events also go towards expenses for referees and staff.

Ald. Dever said he was satisfied that any profits were turned back into minor hockey.

Santa's Arrival Delights Children

MADOC — A large crowd lined the streets of Madoc Saturday afternoon for the Christmas parade, despite the southerman's warning of freezing rain, which held off until it was over.

The parade started at the fire station on Seymour Street and proceeded north on Durham Street through the village's main street.

The floats of Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Church, the Marmora Volunteer Fire Department, and the Madoc Y.M.S. Group took the prizes as the best three floats in the parade.

Entries included horses, the Highland - Band from Belleville, the Stirling High-Steppers Majorettes, Bob Danford's horses from Stirling, the Sea Cadets from Belleville, a covered wagon, as well as the local cubs, scouts, brownies and guides floats, besides the winning ones mentioned above, included the Wesleyan and Free Methodist Churches, the Public School, the O.E.S.A.A. Pee Wee Champs, the Outers Club the Oddfellows and Rebekahs, which featured Ken Yarvve's horses and wagon.

Of course, Santa Claus brought up the rear of the parade in the fire truck.

After the parade, children were entertained by firemen in the Kiwanis Centre.

Sarnia Firemen Get 20 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — The city of Sarnia must give a 20-per-cent increase in pay to its firemen as recommended in arbitration provisions, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry said in the Ontario legislature Wednesday.

He said it appears that the maximum increases under the federal anti-inflation wage guidelines is 11.4 per cent and that is the amount the city has proceeded to pay.

Mr. McMurtry said that while the Anti-Inflation Act now is law in Canada, the public sector is not involved until the province signs an agreement with Ottawa.

At that time the increase may be rolled back, he said.

Lang Will Announce Passenger Rail Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Otto Lang said Wednesday he plans to announce the government's passenger rail policy before Jan. 28.

He said outside the Commons he wants to make the announcement before that date because the Canadian transport commission must decide by then whether the transcontinental passenger train service should be continued.

The passenger-train statement will outline the government's general policy, leaving it up to the transport commission to determine which intercity routes should be maintained or improved, the minister said.

MP Will Fight Cuts In Railway Safety

OTTAWA (CP) — With last week's Toronto train-bus collision still a strong memory, former minister of transport Paul Martin O'Connell says he is going to fight against any cut in rail safety spending.

Mr. O'Connell, Toronto MP for Scarborough East, told reporters Wednesday that he will urge the government in Liberal caucus meetings not to reduce spending on rail safety projects such as subways, overpasses and signals.

The government is "in an

B.C. Crown Delays Murder Trials

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Murder charges against three prisoners involved in the June hostage-taking incident at the British Columbia penitentiary were stayed Wednesday at the request of the Crown.

Crown counsel Tom Fisher said he was staying the charges on the instructions of the attorney-general who said Dwight Lucas, Andy Bruce and Jimmy Wilson are already serving life sentences for murder and attempted murder in other cases.

Three knife-wielding prisoners seized 16 hostages, released one hostage a short time later. The remaining 15 were held for 41 hours in a vault in the classification area of the prison.

A prison classification officer, Barry Strohammer, was fatally shot when armed guards stormed the vault after the hostages tried to rush their captors.

Lucas, 30, of Winnipeg, Man., Wilson 30, of Campbell River, B.C., and Bruce, 31, of Prince Albert, Sask., still face charges of unlawful confinement, possession of dangerous weapons, attempted escape and conspiracy. The trial on those charges starts Jan. 13.

Asked why the remaining charges against the convicts are going ahead when the murder charge was stayed, Mr. Fisher declined to comment, saying his remarks could prejudice the Crown's case.

Miller Urges Safer Arc-Lamps

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller said Wednesday he will study the possibility of changing provincial regulations to make mercury-vapor arc lamps safer.

He told the legislature that the arc lamps, used as floodlights in parking lots and for similar purposes, emit high levels of ultraviolet radiation, which can cause burns and eye damage.

However, he said in most cases, the quartz arc tube is encased in a glass envelope, which cuts the ultraviolet emissions. The only danger occurs when the outer glass is broken without harming the inner light.

He said there have been cases outside Ontario where persons with prosthetic lenses have suffered cataracts and eye damage due to broken lamps.

Mr. Miller told Fred Burr (NDP—Windsor Riverside) he is willing to have his staff look into the possibility of regulations to require that the lamps stop working when the outer glass is damaged.

Canadian National Railway's main Montreal-Toronto railway line. Nine people died in a bus-train collision there Friday.

At a news conference called by Mr. O'Connell and Alan Mercilis L—Scarborough West), the former labor minister said news reports should be spent on rail safety.

The federal share of rail safety projects amounted to 25 per cent of costs up to a ceiling of $979,000 until changes were introduced two years ago.

The federal government now gives grants of 80 per cent of the initial $1.25 million, 60 per cent on the next $1.75 million and 5 per cent of the remaining costs.

Smith May Charge Negligent Parents

TORONTO (CP) — John Smith, Ontario minister of correctional services, said Wednesday he proposes no longer can parents' abdication of responsibility for their children and that he will urge prosecution of negligent parents.

Parents may be prosecuted for contributing to the delinquency of their children by abdication of their parental functions which "barely includes knowing where their children are and who they are with," Mr. Smith told a meeting of volunteers involved in correctional work.

He said the province "can no longer afford to indulge the whims nor tolerate the excesses of indulgent and affluent youth."

Teen-agers should also be required to carry identification cards with photographs, he said. The cards would be signed by the teen-ager and would contain his social security number where one has been issued.

The minister said he agrees McMurtry's suggestion that the legal age for drinking be raised to 19 from 18 and the driving age to 18 from 16.

A text of the speech was released prior to delivery.

Attached to copies of the speech given to reporters was a section of the Ontario Child Welfare Act prescribing fines of up to $25 for first offences for parents who allow children less than 16 years of age to loiter in a public place after 10 p.m.

Approves 22 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial legislature Wednesday approved a select-committee recommendation that Ontario Hydro's Jan. 1 rate increase be held to 22 per cent.

The legislature also agreed to allow the committee to sit until March 31, 1976. The committee was to have ended deliberations Dec. 31.

Ontario Hydro earlier had reduced its increase proposals to 22 per cent from almost 36 per cent.

Took Lessons

EDMONTON (CP) — Opera singer Cristina Deuleken started her career 25 years ago by taking singing lessons because she felt she didn't sing well enough to do a role in her church choir. Miss Deuleken was working in her own hosiery shop at the time and didn't plan on a singing career but since then she has appeared with many companies in Europe and North America.

Meat Dealers Charged With Selling Deadstock

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Four eastern Ontario meat dealers were ordered Wednesday to appear in court Jan. 6 on charges of selling deadstock meat for human consumption.

Richard Collins, 45, of Norwood, Ont.; Gordon Elrod, 44, of Jasper, Ont.; Nicholas Mostyaque, 46, of Colebrater, Ont., and Hans Kuhl, 44, Vankleek Hill, Ont., were released on their own recognizance.

Det. Insp. Eldon Bell of the Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigations branch said the charges of conspiring to defraud the public were laid following several months of investigation which began after a Quebec inquiry into organized crime earlier this year.

He said testimony indicated that several deadstock operators in Ontario had knowingly supplied meat, fit only for pet food, to Quebec residents for resale in both provinces.

Det. Insp. Bell said the men are charged with conspiring with three other persons from the Gatineau, Que., area to defraud the public during the period from Jan. 1, 1962, to May 31, 1973.

Names of the Quebec residents were not released.

Parent Training

EDMONTON (CP) — Family life training is available to Londonderry high school students in a credit course called Being and Becoming a Parent. Each student is assigned a child and demonstrates its developments through weekly sessions with the tots, visiting parents and attending meetings and work-shops with them.

RCMP Charge 16 In Narcotic Raids

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said Wednesday that 34 charges have been laid against 16 persons after three days of narcotics raids in Northern Ontario.

The spokesman said the raids followed six months of investigation by members of the RCMP narcotics team.

No names of those charged have been released, but the spokesman said the 16 parolees are from Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Timmins and Thunder Bay.

Insp. Lloyd Larose said the street value of the drugs seized is more than $10,000.

The investigation ended Tuesday when 17 charges of conspiracy to traffic in drugs, 13 of possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking, and four of possession were laid, he said.

Drugs seized were marijuana, hashish and a small quantity of phencyclah.

Sonic Device Controls Canines

PORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — Mail carriers in this north-western Ontario town are putting an electronic bite into the canine population.

Posts workers have been issued a sonic device that effectively keeps would-be leg biters at a safe distance by emitting sound waves painful to a dog's ears.

Ray Edgett a mail carrier who tested the device, said the device proved effective against a persistent pooch with ideas of taking a quick Christmas nip.

"A dog was coming at me from across the street at full gallop," he said. "When I let him have it with the sound of the dog-chaser, he stopped in his tracks about 15 feet away and just looked at me with a sort of a dumb, puzzled look."

Local mail carriers say, as many as 96 dogs—most of them unfriendly—can be encountered during a single day's work. The device, manufactured in the United States, sells for about $8 and cannot be detected by human ears.

Canadian Ku Klux Klan Fined $2,000

CALGARY (CP) — The former imperial wizard of the Alberta Ku Klux Klan was fined $2,000 in provincial court Wednesday after he was found guilty of charges in connection with the death of a Mexican immigrant.

Friedrich Mac A Fhearsoin, 27, of Calgary was fined $1,500 for criminal negligence and $500 for dangerous use of a firearm.

Mac A Fhearsoin was also charged after Elias Aguilar Ramirez, 23, whom Mac A Fhearsoin brought to Canada as a servant, was found shot to death in Mac A Fhearsoin's home Sept. 12, 1974.

Mr. Justice W. J. Moore said the fact that Mac A Fhearsoin was viewing Ramirez as a loaded gun was "a reckless disregard for the safety of the deceased.

Mac A Fhearsoin resigned as head of the Alberta KKK following the incident.

Olympic Architect Bills Mount

QUEBEC (CP)—Architectural severity in the design of the main structure of Olympic stadium caused a $180 million cost increase between 1970 and last month, this year, says a report prepared by a group of consultants.

Tabled in the national assembly Wednesday, the report also blamed recurring technical adjustments and poor co-ordination for the cost increase.

The report by Lalonde, Valois, Lamarre, Valois and Associates Inc. confirmed cost of the 73,000-seat stadium and swimming pools now is estimated at $201 million.

Futuremobile

Sam —Colosimo, 14, of Niagara Falls, Ont., sits in the Futuremobile, his two-passenger electric car built from scrap metal and plywood. The car weighs 150 pounds and has a shock-absorbing front bumper, wheels from a lawn mower and a starter motor from a car. Sam is uncertain whether electric cars will ever be practical because of the heavy batteries. He uses one automobile battery and each change keeps the car running 15 to 20 minutes. (CP Photo)

Search for Peace

Priority for 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — In an effort to reduce food costs, shoppers are advised to cut down on ill fiscal attitudes, conspicuous spending and overconsumption. These suggestions come from the food advisory services of Agriculture Canada.

In its publication, Easy on the Budget, the service suggests that shoppers buying groceries purchase the basic food groups first—the luxuries later.

"You'll be surprised at what your dollar still brings in dairy products, cereals, meat, fruits and vegetables."

Another idea is to rediscover cooking.

"Take a tip from Europeans or oriental countries who never had our riches—or our rich diet. Treat yourself to the ethnic food combinations that had humble beginnings, born out of the need to make a little go a long way.

"Try dishes such as curry, chili, paella, Chinese stir-fry meats and vegetables or Stroganoff."

The department also suggests that homemakers cook less food, and if too much is cooked, it should be saved.

"Store it carefully and use it ingeniously in the next day or two. Give children small servings at first and seconds when they are ready. In our throwaway culture, some could feed another person with what we leave on our plates."

The department says stretching food dollars in today's well stocked markets "is a challenge to most shoppers, regardless of income."

The first step in meal planning is to choose the main dish. "Canada's Food Guide helps provide the answer to what should be chosen with the recommendation that one serving of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese or dried beans or peas be served each day."

Also, eggs and cheese should be eaten at least three times a week.

To cook should adjust the size of each recipe so it provides enough for a family meal without leftovers, the brochure be extended with a sauce, stuffing or some other food."

Other tips listed: Select the says, "If meat is to be the protein source, choose one that can least expensive form of an ingredient. For example, use fresh fruits and vegetables in season when they are most economical; otherwise substitute frozen or canned.

Solar Heat Urged By Toronto Architect

TORONTO (CP) — John Atkinson, an engineer who says he believes traditional home-heating methods are expensive and wasteful, has set about designing an apartment building heated by the rays of the sun.

Mr. Atkinson, who is looking for money to fund the project, said in an interview that the city has granted him approval to vary from bylaws so he can attempt to build the solar-heated building.

Solar - heating experiments have been started in many North American cities during the last few years and solar energy has been used for years to heat domestic water supplies in Japan and Israel, he said.

The experiments in other countries persuaded Mr. Atkinson to devote his time to improving solar-energy technology.

But the costs of constructing a solar-heated building are high and without government assistance, it may not be possible to complete the project, Mr. Atkinson said.

Last summer, $190 million was available for such projects through the federal government's Canadian urban demonstration program for innovative housing, but the government cut $1 billion from its over-all budget and the demonstration project was scrapped, he said.

The extra costs include solar-collector panels, which soak up the sun's rays and convert them into a different kind of ray which can be used to heat water passing through copper or iron pipes to carry water throughout the house.

Solar-heated houses also require a large water reservoir underneath the building and extra insulation panels.

Appeal Unlikely in Meneely Case

There will apparently be no appeal of the reformatory term imposed on Jeremiah James Arthur Meneely, 19, of RR 9, Peterborough when he was given a one-year sentence for manslaughter by Justice Lawrence Pennell of the Ontario Supreme Court here on Nov. 28.

Crown attorney Glenn Dellies of Belleville said Monday in his knowledge an appeal had not been launched as of late Monday afternoon.

Both Mr Dellie and defence counsel Ronald Thomas of Toronto had 30 days in which to apply for appeal.

Justice Pennell recommended Meneely be sent to the Ontario Correctional Institute at Brampton where he will be able to secure psychiatric counselling.

A spokesman for the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee, where Meneely was taken immediately after the sentencing, said today Meneely was transferred to Brampton within a few days of the sentencing.

Meneely was on trial for eight days for murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the shooting death of his 40-year-old father, James Meneely, in their Rawdon Township farmhouse on RR 4, Marmora on Aug. 1, 1973.

A 12-member jury deliberated for about two hours and 45 minutes on Oct. 29 before finding Meneely guilty on the reduced charge which carries a possible maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

The 18-month sentence means Meneely will become eligible for parole after four months.

Reeve Says Building Ignored in Report

PICTON — Prince Edward County's old registry office, vacated last spring when a new building was opened, has been overlooked in a grand jury report says Sophiasburg reeve George Foster.

Reeve Foster Tuesday told county councillors this week the old registry office next to Shire Hall was not mentioned in the jury's report submitted to Judge Wilfrid Lane this month.

He added he feels the vacant office remains under jurisdiction of the grand jury's report as it is still county property.

Reeve Foster expressed concern that future disposal of the building could parallel the demolition of the old county home for the aged.

A grand jury report urged a new county home and council built one. The original home was demolished despite an eleventh hour attempt by the Prince Edward Historical Society for its preservation.

Chairman of council's property and supply committee, Athol deputy-reeve Harold Silk, said future use of the registry office has not been decided.

Councillors To Discuss Draft Plan

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors will meet in committee of the whole before the New Year to discuss a draft prepared on the re-structuring of county government.

Hillier reeve Allan Pettingill, a member of council's county government committee, said this week the draft for a single-tier government now should be presented to the full council for discussion.

"If they (Queen's Park) don't want to go any further then we feel we should drop that committee (county government committee)," he remarked.

Area Lawyers Favor Retention of QC Title

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

Douglas Boyle, president of the Hastings Law Association, Wednesday described a group of lawyers who successfully spearheaded a vote to abolish the title of Queen's Counsel (QC) at the annual meeting of the Law Society of Upper Canada earlier this week as "young Turks".

"There was, I suggest, a rump group of neophyte lawyers who proposed the motion," Mr. Boyle said in a telephone interview.

The meeting's decision does not represent "the true opinion" of the majority of Ontario's over 18,000 lawyers, he said.

"I'm not going to say they're radicals, but they were a bearded group of young lawyers," said Mr. Boyle, who attended Monday's meeting but was forced to return to Belleville before the actual vote was taken.

The motion to urge the federal and provincial governments to stop handing out the QC title was entered by John Swaigen, a lawyer with the Canadian Environmental Law Association.

About 450 lawyers voted in Toronto to abolish the title. Only a third of the people entered a greater degree of legal skill from those holding the title.

Mr. Boyle said that Mr. Swaigen was not in possession of all the facts, in part, because he was only a year out of law school.

He disagreed with the "connotation" contained in the motion that QC's charge higher fees and that titles are handed out as rewards for majority party or political favors.

"Arguably, they had an axe to grind with the government," he concluded, saying he agreed completely with Attorney-General Roy McMurtry in his intention to hand out the title.

Support for the law society's position was not widespread among Belleville lawyers as revealed in a sampling of the legal profession by The Intelligencer Wednesday.

Lawyers George Murray and Ray Kaufman both said they opposed outright abolishing the title instead of one of the criteria upon which the title is given is necessary.

Mr. John Lennox and Robert McCulloch expressed little interest in either retention or abolition of the title, both declining to comment on Mr. McMurtry's position of support of the title.

Referring to his own entitlement, Mr. Lennox said, "Certainly, it won't affect me, except maybe in my obituary."

Former city solicitor, John Miller, who now is in private practice, said he supports awarding of the distinction, provided it is done so on merit and a barrister's work in court.

A lawyer's qualification for a QC was a key consideration among five of the six lawyer's interviewed.

Mr. Kaufman said, "Perhaps, rather than abolish, we should examine the criteria to see if they are relevant and, indeed, valid."

The feeling has been prevalent among younger lawyers that to receive a QC one had to be a model citizen and have the right political affiliation, he said.

Mr. Murray was more emphatic. "All it is now is political patronage, or at least 90 per cent of it.

"I don't think it should be given as a political favor. I should be restored to the position it was given in recognition of courtroom competence," said Mr. Murray.

Red Tape Adding to Cost Of New Homes Warns Expert

BY COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

It is the responsibility of trade organizations such as the Quinte Home Builders to foster better understanding among builders and municipal councils, says Allen Klarer, a director of the Housing and Urban Development (HUDAC).

Mr. Klarer made the comment at a meeting of the Quinte association held in Belleville Wednesday.

"The builders' biggest problem is municipal red tape," said Mr. Klarer later during an interview.

Municipalities, "through all innocence, are penalizing prospective home buyers by demanding too much of the builder," he said. "Councils and planning boards are demanding unnecessary services calling for Cadillac developments instead of a comfortable Ford model."

Through municipal red tape, subdivisions are being held up for too long. "The longer it takes to get a subdivision off the ground, the more it will cost the consumer, said Mr. Klarer.

It is the responsibility of HUDAC members such as the Quinte association, to meet with councils and do something to speed things up.

Mr. Klarer was complimentary of the Quinte association saying the group here strikes one as having very good relations with civic administrators.

The Quinte Home Builders, more than a year ago, explained to city council that more co-operation should be fostered between the two groups which subsequently led to the formation of the subdividers' liaison committee. The committee meets with members of council several times a year to discuss problems in the housing industry that can be overcome with changes in city hall.

Commenting generally on the Canadian housing industry, Mr. Klarer said some 215,000 homes were constructed in Canada this year, slightly more than the target set by the federal government.

"This total will undoubtedly be surpassed next year" he said.

HUDAC represents 5,500 member firms across Canada.

Loyalist Preparing For Further Restraints

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

If Senate director of Loyalist College said Wednesday "chances are slim" the school will get the 13 per cent budget increase he says is necessary to maintain current college programs and services next year.

"Without any change in staff and assuming guidelines for wage increases are held as would need a minimum of 13 per cent to stay at the same level," said Glyn Harry.

He said due to a new government funding formula for universities and colleges now being developed the college will not know until January how much of an increase they are to be granted.

It was announced earlier this week the Ontario Government increased funding to universities and colleges by 14.4 per cent for next year.

Twenty-two community colleges are to share $230 million, or "We're really in a position to say how it will affect the colleges when we get more, some less," said Mr. Harry.

Loyalist College, with about 1,859 full-time students and about 8,000 part-time students, was granted an 11 per cent increase this year over 1974.

The 1975 budget totalled about $7.1 million. About 80 per cent of funds came from the province, the rest in tuition fees, said Mr. Harry.

He said the school anticipates a surplus of about $28,000 in this year's budget.

"We're not cutting back in our budget determination to break even . . . we haven't cut any services," he said.

If the college does not get what it feels is the necessary budget increase, he said, they would have to examine services and programs offered and "live within the funds available".

Mr. Harry said the situation is uncertain at the moment but if they do not get the necessary increase it would take about one month "to determine how we can best serve the community with financial restraints we have to operate under".

Home Builders Reject Comments by Hockley

The Quinte Home Builders Association has decided against making a formal reply to criticisms lodged by Bill Hockley.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Hockley attacked to home builders' participation on a city hall committee which at the time was preparing a building standards bylaw for the city.

Mr. Hockley suggested the home builders stood to gain from a building standards bylaw in the way of home repair jobs.

As a result, the association in mid October decided to have a lawyer file a formal response to Mr. Hockley's allegations.

"We decided against this course of action because we can see no sense in fighting this battle through the media," said Bob Marcotte, president of the association.

"We would only be giving Mr. Hockley more fuel for comment by responding."

"We actively participated in the building standards bylaw but we didn't author it," said Mr. Marcotte.

Builders were used as consultants on the document for their expertise in the building field.

"There's nothing to be gained by continuing the debate with him, said Mr. Marcotte.

Responding to a comment that builders could be lining their own pockets by ensuring a higher wood cost in home renovations, Mr. Marcotte said "nothing could be further from the truth."

"Association members aren't even in the business of fixing old homes," he said. "We're in the business of building new ones."

Students To Paint Windows

Century Place will get a dash of Christmas color this Saturday morning as 30 King George Public School children converge on the building armed with paint brushes.

Bill Wills, a spokesman for Bell-Bridge Developments Ltd. – builder of the $3.5 million commercial retail project – said approximately 1,000 ground floor windows will be decorated by the Grade 7 and 8 students.

The children, ranging in age from 12 to 14, are expected on the site Saturday at 8 a.m. and are expected to complete their art work by noon.

Bill Lundy, King George teacher in charge of the project, said about three measures approximately seven feet square. Students will paint a border on each window and a seasonal scene measuring about five feet square in the center.

Century Place management is providing the washable paint and hopes to have each window judged and prizes awarded for best efforts.

Smoke Detectors Unusual Gift

BY CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's fire department has perhaps the perfect gift suggestion for the family that has most everything and doesn't want to lose it – a smoke detector.

"We feel they're the coming thing," says Insp. Paul Stephenson, of department's fire prevention.

Although it may not by our idea of a gift you could certainly put it to immediate use protecting your home against the fire hazards of Christmas trees and lights.

"If anyone is looking for a Christmas present this is a great one," says Insp. Stephenson.

Recently, he says, a smoke detector in a home at West Park Village alerted a family about a kitchen fire.

Smoke detectors, which cost between $20 to $80, he says, detect particles of combustion in an ionization chamber.

Cigarette smoke doesn't bother them. Any other kind of smoke will cause the alarm to sound.

"They're very sensitive."

For residential fire protection he said they are better than heat detectors which do not activate an alarm until the room temperature reaches about 57 degrees (135 degrees Fahrenheit).

In smaller homes one detector is enough,he he says. In two-storey homes two will provide sufficient protection, said Insp. Stephenson.

He said the fire prevention department will provide information on smoke detectors and installation.

One Hurt In Crash

BRIGHTON — A two-vehicle accident on Provincial Rd. sent one man to hospital and caused $700 damage Wednesday afternoon.

Police said a northbound pick-up truck driven by Frederick Reilly, 20, of Trenton, was in collision with a second northbound vehicle driven by Patrick Patrick, 26, of Trenton.

Patrick was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

There was $200 damage to the Reilly truck and $400 damage to the Patrick vehicle.

Party Planned

Belleville Kiwanis Club will be holding their annual Christmas party Tuesday at the Kiwanis Centre. Salvation Army musicians will take part in the party with members of the Sheltered Workshop. The club's next regular meeting is to be held Jan. 6.

Show Date Set

The annual home show sponsored by the Quinte Home Builders Association is scheduled to be held in Ben Wicketter auditorium from 22.24 and 24. Chairman of the home show this year is Bob Mitchell.

Area Builder Tries All-wood Basement

Rollins Construction Co. Ltd. of Belleville is applying to provincial and federal governments for approval of all-wood home foundations — a building innovation that has been under serious consideration since the early 1960s.

Using specially-treated lumber and plywood, the system's developers say all-wood basements can completely replace conventional concrete block construction.

The wooden members are impregnated with preservative under pressure. All the wood is completely kiln dried, and ready, some say Canadian experimental nature, have the strength of concrete. The most of these are located in western Canada. Rollins Construction introduced the concept to the Toronto area last week.

Taken an hour of reaching the new pool party of Fathers, construction crews had all but completed the basement by early afternoon.

Today's tasks: the big saw-dusty by going to this form of construction," said Bob Mercotte Rollins Construction vice-president.

Robert Sumi, provincial engineer and director of technical services for the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada, did preliminary tests on the site to assist control on this particular type of project.

Mr. Marcotte said the Fanbove project is designed as a prototype to show the Ontario Housing Corporation and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

"We are hopeful that these two groups will allow wooden basement construction in future projects we complete for them," said Mr. Marcotte. "We're eventually hope to use this method of construction for small projects".

In Germany, Children Get Twigs If They're Bad

Christmas Tree Originated in Germany

The legend of the first Christmas tree originated in Germany, says Loretto Beninger, Grade 13 student who spent last Christmas near the Black Forest as part of a student exchange program.

Winfred, an English missionary, says Miss Beninger, according to the legend, was travelling through the Bavarian Forest and came upon a group of people about to slay Prince Lamb by an oak tree as a sacrifice.

Winfred demanded an end to the proceedings and cut down the oak tree. In its place grew a fir tree.

The people were filled with fear and awe and Winfred explained it was the tree of life.

Loretto Beninger won't get twigs in her shoes this Christmas as she may have last year when she spent the holiday in Germany.

According to German custom children put their shoes outside the door on Dec. 5.

"If you've been good, St. Nicholas puts candy in them. If you've been bad you get twigs," says Miss Beninger, Grade 13 student at Belleville Collegiate Institute who lived in Germany for 11 months last year as part of a student exchange program.

"There's no Santa Claus. There is St. Nicholas who is the messenger of the Christ Child," said Miss Beninger.

Food, she said, plays an important part in Christmas preparations. She gained 20 to 30 pounds taking part in the festivities, she says.

"The whole month of December is baking, baking, baking and everyone bakes because it is considered good luck."

"Germany has so many traditions that are different that I often wondered what was happening," she said.

In small villages a man, usually the mayor, dresses as St. Nicholas and visits all the children on Dec. 6 to warn them to be good for Christmas.

"Dec. 25 is a quiet family day...I thought the table would break under the weight of the food: roast goose, tongue, turkey, long loaves of bread bursting with nuts and raisins, homemade pastries and candies."

Miss Beninger stayed in Germany near the Black Forest until June of this year and says she's glad to be back in Canada for Christmas this year. "I enjoy our Christmas more as Germany's is more spiritual and ours is more commercial. It's all what you're used to. I like the idea of special food you eat only at Christmas but I like receiving all my gifts at one time."

Saints and Whalers Play to Scoreless Tie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints are happy after all.

The Saints, who went through three full World Hockey Association sessions without being shut out, were blanked Wednesday night for the second time in three games.

Frustrated by the acrobatics of New England goalie Gilles Gilbert, the Saints battled the Whalers to a scoreless tie, the second such stalemate in league history.

In Wednesday's only other game, Edmonton Oilers defeated Cleveland Crusaders 3-2.

The Saints, who lost 1-0 at Cleveland last week, really didn't deserve to be shut out Wednesday at St. Paul, but Abrahamsson ignored a cut near his left eye suffered in the first period and turned aside 28 of their shots.

"Abrahamsson is without a doubt the best goalie in the WHA and I'm not trying to blow smoke at anybody," said Whalers' coach Jack Kelley. "He's played phenomenal hockey for us the last year and a half."

The Saints had nine shots on goal in the overtime period, including a half-dozen good opportunities, but Abrahamsson didn't wilter.

Skip Krake scored twice for the Oilers to help send his old Cleveland team-mates down to their 19th defeat in their last 21 tastes.

Playing before a crowd of only 2,362, third smallest in the club's history, the Crusaders were kept in the game in the second period by Johnni Tamminen, who scored both Cleveland's goals.

Edmonton's Bob McAneeley scored the only goal of the first period, a rebound of a shot by Bob Russell. Tamminen tied the score at 9:35 of the second period, whipping a backhander past Oiler goalie Dave Dryden.

Krake put Edmonton in front again with 39-foot slap shot but Tamminen tied the score at 5:2 when he picked up a loose puck just over the Edmonton blue line and beat Dryden with an 18-foot wrist shot into the upper left corner of the net.

Krake broke the tie with his second goal or a centring pass from Mike Rogers at 9:15 of the third period, and Dryden shut out the Crusaders the rest of the way.

Hull and Howe Head Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Two veterans of the World Hockey Association—Bobby Hull and Gordie Howe—will lead their respective teams when the league's fourth annual all-star game is held Jan. 13 in Cleveland.

BOBBY HULL

This year, it will be the Canadian Division against players from the Eastern and Western Divisions of the WHA, or the rest of the league puts it. Canada vs. the United States in honor of the 200th birthday, of the U.S. in 1976.

Ben Hatskin, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the WHA, announced the teams Wednesday as chosen by sports writers and broadcasters from Canada and the U.S.

Hull of Winnipeg Jets was selected on the first Canadian team at left wing, and Howe, president of Houston Aeros, was chosen at right wing for the first U.S. team.

Hull will be playing his fourth all-star game and Howe, playing in the WHA for the third season, will be competing in his third all-star game.

Rounding out the first Canadian team is Joe Daley of Winnipeg at goal, J. C. Tremblay of Quebec Nordiques and Lars-Erik Sjoberg of the Jets on defence, Vaclav Nedomansky of Toronto Toros at centre and Hull's line-mate, Anders Hedberg, at right wing.

Gerry Cheevers, for the fourth consecutive year, has been voted the first-team goaltender. Other members of the U.S. first team are Pat Stapleton of Indianapolis Racers, and Paul Shmyr of Cleveland Crusaders on defence, Andre Lacroix of San Diego Mariners at centre and Gene Peacosh of San Diego at left wing.

Bill Dineen of Houston will coach the U.S. squad and Jean-Guy Gendron of Quebec will coach the Canadian team. Houston beat Quebec in four consecutive games to win last season's WHA championship.

GORDIE HOWE

In addition, coach Gendron added the following players to round out the Canadian team: Thommie Bergman, Winnipeg, and John Mizzuk, Calgary, on defence; Serge Bernier and Chris Bordeleau, both of Quebec, at centre; Frank Mahovlich, Toronto, and Rejean Houle, Quebec, at left wing; and Danny Lawson, Calgary, and Rusty Patenaude, Edmonton, at right wing.

Dineen added the following players to round out the U.S. team: Harry Howe, Houston, and Rich Ley, New England on defence; Robbie Ftorek, Phoenix Roadrunners, and Wayne Carleton, New England at centre; Mark Howe, Houston, and Ralph Backstrom, Denver Spurs at left wing; and Don Borgesse, Houston, and Tom Webster, New England at right wing.

Sabres Having Problems

Visions of Cup Fading in Buffalo

The Canadian Press

Any visions of a Stanley Cup that danced in the heads of Buffalo Hockey Fans in October look like pipedreams now.

They appeared capable of coming away and hiding from the competition in the Adams Division race when they opened the schedule with eight successive wins, especially when their main challengers, Boston Bruins, lost Bobby Orr early in the season.

But that early momentum was lost somewhere by the Sabres, who now find themselves in a tie for the division lead after they lost 3-1 to Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday night.

The Bruins, who were trailed the Sabres by 13 points, grabbed a share of the top rung with a 5-2 win over Washington Capitals.

Veteran Ed Giacomin blocked 28 Buffalo shots, seven of them in the third period, as the Sabres continued a slump into their fifth game without a win.

which they have picked up only seven points in his absence.

Detroit goals by Mickey Redmond and Nick Libett in the 57th minute broke a 1-1 stalemate.

For the first time this season, all 18 NHL teams played on the same night Wednesday.

In Wednesday's other games, New York Islanders blanked New York Rangers 3-0, Philadelphia Flyers downed Chicago Black Hawks 4-2, Toronto Maple Leafs downed St. Louis Blues 6-2, Minnesota North Stars edged Atlanta Flames 7-6, Kansas City Scouts edged Vancouver Canucks 6-5, Pittsburgh Penguins drubbed California Golden Seals 9-2 and Montreal Canadiens edged Los Angeles Kings 2-1.

The Capitals managed a team record 29 shots on goal but went down to another defeat when John Schock scored for the Bruins in the last minute of the game.

After chasing a Brad Park shot into the corner, the Bruins captain fired a shot past Washington goalie Ron Low for his 500th career goal.

Denis Potvin scored twice for the Islanders in the meeting between the New York rivals at Madison Square Garden. Gary Smith recorded the sixth shutout of the season by Islander goalie.

The Islanders' forwards forechecked ferociously while skating in a disciplined and defensive relation that the Rangers seemed to lack.

"They just forced us and forced us," said Rangers goalie John Davidson. "They kept us shooting from bad angles and far out.

"They took advantage of our mistakes and didn't make any of their own."

Reggie Leach scored his 30th goal of the season and goalie Wayne Stephenson kicked out 27 shots as the Flyers sent the Black Hawks to their fifth defeat in six starts.

Bobby Hull's Hubick scored twice for the Leafs, who drew a season-record 16,286 fans for their annual Young Canada Night hockey promotion. The Leafs fired 37 shots at St. Louis goalie Ed Staniowski.

Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago extended his home-ice winning streak to five games. Maniago, who stole as the Stars baked an Atlanta sidewalk streak at six games.

Dean Talafous swept in a rebound of a shot by Pierre Jarry midway in the final period for Minnesota to break a 3-3 tie.

Confident of Comeback

Boston Ace Looks Ahead To Return with Bruins

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins is hobbled by surgery on his scarred left knee, but despite the fears he is confident his hockey career is far from over.

On crutches and recuperating from a fifth operation on the left knee, Orr was reported in high spirits last week when he left a report of the Christmas holidays at his home in Parry Sound, Ont.

He confided to close friends that he had dropped 18 pounds from his normal weight of 195 by dieting. That's as he'll be when he begins skating in preparation for his return to the Boston Garden.

Many observers wonder just how much any athlete's knee can take, but Orr remains confident and is making ahead in the National Hockey League career.

"There's no way I'd think of quitting now," he said recently. "I'm only 27 years old and I feel I still have a future playing hockey.

"I have so much more to accomplish. There are Stanley Cups to be won, and so much else to do."

BOBBY ORR

The veteran defenceman, considered by many the greatest player in hockey history, obviously is encouraged by the report of his surgeon, Dr. Carter Rowe.

"There's no doubt in my mind that Bobby will play again," Dr. Rowe said after the last operation. "Right now we think he'll be ready about the first of February."

Since coming out of the amateur ranks as a teen-ager in 1966, Orr has won a record 10 NHL awards. He started by winning Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The Norris Trophy winner as the league's top defenceman for the last eight years, he has set all kinds of scoring records for his position, leading the league twice.

All of his feats have been accomplished since he originally injured his left knee when he was checked in a game Dec. 4, 1968. He suspect surgery then, but the operations began in February, 1968.

Following his fourth operation on the knee last Sept. 28, he had returned to action Nov. 6. He had five goals and 13 assists in 16 games before requiring another operation.

Asked about speculation that his hockey career is in jeopardy, Orr said:

Battle to 8-8 Overtime Tie

Bears, Reds on Scoring Spree

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears and Providence Reds record eight goals each in three periods of an American Hockey League game Wednesday night but neither team managed to score in sudden-death overtime.

Andre Deschamps, Jean Guy Gratton and Yves Berjeron scored their initial goals to lift Hershey into an 8-8 tie with the visiting Reds, who emerged three points back of Richmond Robins in the race for the lead in the AHL's southern Division standing.

Berjeron scored the tying goal at 18:48 of the third period to send the game into the scoreless overtime period.

Greg Hicks scored two goals to pace the Reds.

In other games, Rochester Americans beat New Haven Nighthawks 6-4 and Richmond defeated Baltimore Clippers 4-3.

Al New Haven, Dave Byers and Rick Addusso scored in the final six minutes to put the game out of reach for the Americans.

Rochester scored four consecutive goal in the second period to take control of the game despite a third-period goal by Nighthawks Al Langlais which narrowed the margin to 4-3.

Brian McCutcheon and Richard Chanelck gave New Haven a first-period lead before the Americans tied the score midway through the second period on goals by Dave Rousseau and Harry Smith.

The win moved the Americans to within one point of first-place Nova Scotia Voyageurs in the Northern Division standings. It was the seventh consecutive loss for New Haven which is struggling in last place in the Southern Division.

Goaltender Michel Bathumeur played an outstanding game as the visiting Dukes claimed the victory over Baltimore.

The Clippers dominated Bathumeur with 36 shots in the last two periods while the Robins managed only 12 shots.

Steve Coates scored two goals for Richmond. Larry Wright and Wayne Schaab, who scored the final goal of the game into an empty net from centre ice, rounded out the Robbins scoring.

Dick Sarrasin and Mo Stefaniw scored the only Baltimore goals.

Braves' Rookie Produces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Tom McMillen, getting a rare start for Buffalo, scored a career-high 24 and Wednesday night to lead the Braves to an 82-75 win over Houston Rockets in a National Basketball Association game.

McMillen, who had averaged less than 15 minutes and five points in 17 previous games and hadn't played at all in Buffalo's last two outings, got the call when Bob McAdoo's sore heel flared up.

The six-foot-11 McMillen, a Parsney Rhodes scholar, played 28 minutes, hit seven of nine shots, four of six free throws and pulled down seven rebounds.

In Wednesday's other games,

Boston Celtics overpowered Kansas City Kings 118-104, Golden State Warriors trounced Detroit Pistons 113-102, New Orleans Jazz trounced Washington Bullets 125-88, Phoenix Suns downed Milwaukee Bucks 116-111 and Cleveland Cavaliers routed Seattle SuperSonics 115-111.

In American Basketball Association games, Denver Nuggets dropped Spirits of St. Louis 109-98 and Indiana Pacers whipped the Spirits of St. Louis 113-102.

Orioles Are Tops Afield

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore Orioles led all American League teams in fielding in the 1974-75 season with a .983 percentage.

Official statistics released Wednesday by the league showed the Orioles committed 107 errors in 6,434 total chances. Cleveland was second at .979 with 134 errors.

Roog Powell of Cleveland led first basemen in fielding with an average of .997, Sandy Alomar of New York Yankees led second base regulars with a .985 average, Buck Dent of Chicago White Sox topped shortstops with a .981 mark, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore led third basemen with a .979 average, Detroit catcher Bill Freehan had a .991 mark to lead all receivers, and Baltimore's Paul Blair led outfielders with a .991 percentage.

It was Blair's seventh Gold Glove in a row and eighth in the last nine years, Robinson won the Gold Glove for the 16th consecutive season.

Baltimore's Ross Grimsley led pitchers defensively with 30 errorless chances.

Montreal Comeback Stalled, Moscow Scores 6-4 Victory

MONTREAL (CP)—A goal by Vladimar Reeves with two minutes to play broke a tie and Moscow Selects defeated Montreal Juniors 6-4 Wednesday night in an exhibition hockey game.

The goal ruined a comeback by the Juniors, members of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League who were bolstered by five of Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League as well as two from Junior and university clubs.

Reeves caught the Montreal defenders running around in their own zone after Alek-sandr Lobarev had just missed an open net after goaltender Ed Walsh had failed to clear the puck.

Vladimir Devlatov then added a goal into the empty net with 34 seconds remaining after Walsh had been fifted for an extra attacker.

Alexei Volchenkov and Devlatov staked the Soviet Union club to a 2-0 lead in the first period and early in the second, the visitors—who now have five wins and a loss on their tour of Canada—took a 3-0 edge on a goal by Sergei Kotov.

Vladimir Belousov scored Moscow's fourth goal in the third period after Montreal had come back to narrow the Selects lead to 5-2 on second-period goals by Garth McGuigan and Normand Dupont.

After Belousov scored at 8:46, the Juniors came back with goals 18 seconds apart with Dan Gauthier scoring at 15:39 and Dupont at 16:17 to tie the score.

The Selects were by far the sharper of the teams in the opening 20 minutes as Montreal lacked cohesiveness in their attack.

Moscow had a 12-7 edge in shots on goal and moved into an early lead when Volchenkov drifted a long shot past Walsh with 1:39 gone. Just 30 seconds later, Devlatov beat Walsh with a 30-foot drive to give the visitors the two-goal edge they carried into the middle session.

Kotov put Moscow ahead 3-0 with 2:01 gone in the second period, knocking home Alexandr Kozlov's rebound from the lip of the crease.

McGuigan then lifted the spirit of the partisan crowd of 13,095 when he scored Montreal's first goal at 11:44. It came about 30 seconds after Moscow goaltender Viktor Dovzhenko made two saves on Mike McDougall.

Dupont narrowed Moscow's lead to 3-2 at 14:23 scoring from 20 feet out with 30 seconds remaining in a hooking penalty to Vyacheslav Kevin.

Apps, Sr. Named To Amateur Hall

MONTREAL (CP) — Former hockey star Syl Apps Sr., is among 11 persons to be formally inducted into the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame Jan. 17, it was announced Wednesday.

Apps, best known for his exploits as a pro hockey player, won a gold medal in the pole vault for Canada in the 1934 Pan American Games.

Also joining the hall will be boxers John Primrose of Edmonton and Susan Nattrass of Medicine Hat, Alta., winners of the 1970 world moving target championships in the male and female categories respectively.

Other athletes to receive their certificates of induction Jan. 17 include former Olympic swimmers Richard Pound of Montreal and Mary Stewart of Vancouver, John Fitzgerald of Hamilton, a cyclist during the 1930s, swimmer Robert Pirie of Vancouver who won gold medals at the 1934 and 1938 British Empire Games, and golfer Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., six-time winner of the Canadian Amateur championship.

Admitted as builders of amateur athletics are Dorothy Forsyth, honorary treasurer of the Sports Federation of Canada and a long - time worker with badminton organizations, and Paul P. Hauch, distinguished Canadian swimming circles as an Olympic official, referee and organizer. Hauch is currently honorary treasurer of the International Swimming Federation.

M. Laid Watt, a former member of Canadian Davis Cup tennis teams and long-time president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, is also to be inducted as a builder.

The Money is Secondary; It's the Principle

As it stands the monetary demands of the Gas House Hockey League Officials cannot be met.

"We just don't have the money," said league statistician Vera Whalen, "most of the guys I've spoken to don't want to give them any more."

At present, each team is assessed $80 per game. From that $60 total comes money for officials ($6 for referee, $5 for each linesman), time keeper ($) and ice ($20). After each game, the league has $9 with which to work. But, by the time three games have been played in succession, things are running one-half-hour behind time and that costs another $15 in ice.

Should the dollar signs of the officials be posted, the league could not afford excess ice time and they would be $1 short in meeting straightforward financial demands.

However, when the league executive, combed through the coals as it might be since the first of the season, takes their stand against the officials boycott tonight at Sir James Whitney, they may discover they've jumped the gun.

"The money isn't really important," said the head of the officials' makeshift association, John Lindfield.

What the association is basing its strike on is a principle — gasp!

"All we want is the support of the executive when we step on the ice," said the chief and he does speak for the whole tribe.

Lindfield's colleagues happen to be a bunch of guys who enjoy hockey and enjoy officiating. If they didn't like the sport they'd hardly put themselves in the position of officiating. What they don't want is to have to tolerate the whippings they've had to. Those incited, recently, the admission of one referee to Belleville General Hospital.

"If the executive would back us," said Lindfield, "if they would lay down the law with some of the guys in the league, instances such as that would not occur."

The association, such as it is "and" all it comes down to is a bunch of guys liking hockey), neither has a say as to league regulations or all on the executive.

"We're treated like second rate citizens," explained Lindfield, "we've tried to bring our complaints to the executive's attention in the past, but have had no action."

Thus, the dramatic boycott of Monday night. All three officials were on the ice for the opening game of the GHHL's triple-header and then the defendants discovered, after being promised some action, they had been let down the garden patch.

So, all three officials retired to the dressing room: Voila! Boycott.

Though their actions appeared overdone, they deemed those mildly drastic measures necessary just to let the executive know how desperately futile things appeared from the inside out.

Chargers Hot

Centennial Secondary School junior Chargers stepped out of secret to play ball Wednesday night. They meant business and the stats showed it as they hit an astounding 63 per cent from the floor. The end result: a 68-51 victory over visiting Belleville Collegiate.

In other Bay of Quinte Secondary School Basketball League action, BCI's midgets trounced the Chargers 55-33 and in B Division action, in Picton, Bayside Red Devils answers topped Prince Edward 62-0, Bayside juniors won 49-28 and PECI edged the Red Devils 45-43.

Centennial's powerhouse juniors took their third win in as many regular starts this season despite being without the services of their big centre Steve Whitley, for most of the game. The towering CSS star ran into foul trouble early in the first half and sat out much of the second session. Then, just minutes into the third quarter he was fouled out.

Art Pulz proved most capable of filling in Centennial's stack as he pumped in 24 points, Jim Graham was next with 14 and Whitley, despite an abbreviated performance, scored 11.

BCI, down 31-25 at the half, got 12 points from John Donovan and 11 from Bruce Bell.

BCI 55, CSS 33

The midget Collegians, led by linebacking Mike Wright, kept tight record intact with this defensive victory. Wright, averaging close to 30 points a game, scored 28 Wednesday. Don Wilson was next with 14 and Keith Smith had five.

Dan Cleary got eight and Ret Haggerman seven for Centennial.

BSS 62, PECI 60

Down seven at the half, the Red Devils bounced back to earn the win. Rob Reive topped the winners' attack with 18 and Paul Draayiva in with 16.

Bayside's juniors were just as successful. They were six up at the half and nearly doubled that margin by the end of the game. Ken Lemoire was the top scorer with 28 points and Ron Bell added 16.

In the midget contest, the home team saved face with a two-point victory. Up 13-11 at the half, that margin remained throughout the contest. Don Draayiva was Bayside's number one gunner with 18 points.

PECI scorers were unavailable

Strength Up the Middle Works for Bobcats

Belleville Bobcats are headed into what shapes up as one of the easier weekends in their 34-game Metro Junior B schedule. They play two games, but according to statistics their opposition doesn't come across too strongly.

They may get a run out of second place Central Division St. Michael's Buzzers, but Friday at home against the Etobicoke Senecia the Cats should romp to victory.

Etobicoke stands second from last in the Central Division, just a few points up on North York Rangers, which Belleville walloped last Friday 12-2, the last time the Seneca and the Rangers met. They battled to a 4-4 tie.

St. Mike's should be more competitive. They are currently two points back of first place Brampton Blues and last Sunday the local Metro Junior B squad had to put together one of its best games of the 1975-76 campaign to win 6-4 in Bramalea.

Belleville's win Sunday lanced them into the second half of their regular season schedule. After 18 games, the Cats stand as the highest scoring team in the league, along with Oshawa Legionaires. Both clubs average 8.33 goals per game. Defensively, they also stand with the Legionaires with a 4.28 goals against average. That mark has been falling rapidly of late and now Belleville should be in contention as the best defensive club in the league.

The first half of the season left the Cats with an 11-4-3 record and, should they stay wray from the number of suspensions they took in their first 17 encounters, the second half of the year could be even better.

The locals have shown incredible strength at centre ice in the first half of the campaign. Team leader, Grant Goegan, tops the scoring sheet with 19 goals and 23 assists in 16 starts. 'GOG' seldom leaves the draw and his hustle and spirit is obviously what makes the Cats roar. The rangle-junior veteran missed four games with a back injury last year through the first half and during this span the Jo-eals managed only a tie. Since his return they've won the last three games and the 20-year-old has scored four times and assisted on seven others.

Paul Tilley, a veteran Junior from Peterborough, is another reason for the Bobcats' strength at centre and. Tony Meagher, a first year player, puns up the powerhouse story up the middle.

The quiet success story of the first half of the year though has to be veteran Andy Ricketts. A former 19th 20-year-old right winger has shown more finesse and tact than ever before in his style of play. The five-foot-six forward has gone about his business in a surprisingly disciplined manner.

Flyer Captain Named Male Athlete of Year

By MEL SUFFRIN
CP Sports Editor

Bobby Clarke, the brilliant Philadelphia Flyers centre who has twice been named most valuable player in the National Hockey League, is Canada's male athlete of the year for 1975.

The 25-year-old native of Flin Flon, Man., who has led the Flyers to two consecutive Stanley Cups, is the runaway choice of sports writers and sports broadcasters in the annual year-end poll conducted by The Canadian Press.

Runner-up Toller Cranston of Toronto, the Canadian senior men's figure skating champion for the last five years, and third is Bernie Parent, the 30-year-old native of Montreal who tends goal for the Flyers.

Clarke, a persistent forechecker and superb playmaker, has become the heart of the Flyers since being drafted from Flin Flon Bombers of the Western Canada Junior League in 1969.

He and Parent are the prime reasons why Philadelphia, admitted to the NHL in 1967, became the first expansion club to win the Stanley Cup.

Clarke, five-foot-10 and 178 pounds, is a remarkably durable athlete who has rarely missed a game in six full seasons in the NHL. Last season he played in all 80 games, scoring 27 goals and adding a record 89 assists.

He was named centre on the first all-star team and won the Hart Memorial Trophy as the league's most valuable player, an award he had previously captured in the 1972-73 season.

His truculence, exemplified by the fact that he spent 250 minutes in the penalty box, was perhaps best demonstrated in the 1972 Canada-U.S.S.R. hockey series.

Playing on a line with Paul Henderson and Ron Ellis, both of Toronto Maple Leafs, Clarke taught the Russians a few things about battling in the corners. And he wasn't reluctant to admit he used his stick to slash at the ankles of opponents.

The son of a miner, the baby-faced Clarke suffers from diabetes but for the first few years in the NHL was reluctant to discuss the condition.

"I've proved I can play in the league," he said two years ago. "In the beginning, if I didn't play well, I didn't want them saying it was because of that."

Having established himself as a genuine all-star, he became general campaign manager of a diabetes association in the Philadelphia area in 1973.

"He is an inspiration to all diabetics, especially youngsters, not only in Canada and the United States but all over the world, having made his mark in the toughest, fastest contact sport there is," said J. Richard Connelly, executive director of the American Diabetes Association, after Clarke was named MVP that year.

To which Keith Allen, the Flyers general manager, added: "I'd hate to think where we would be without Bobby Clarke."

In the CP poll Clarke received 71 first-place votes, 19 seconds and five thirds for 130 points based on a 3-2-1 value. Cranston received 52 points on four firsts, 14 seconds and 12 thirds and Parent 44 points on 19 firsts, four seconds and six thirds.

Fourth was jockey Sandy Hawley of Minaki, Ont., with 35 points, fifth Ottawa Rough Riders' kicker John Fleger with 27 and sixth Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins defencing race, with 21.

Ferguson Jenkins, the major league pitcher from Chatham, Ont., who was named Canadian athlete of the year for a record fourth time in 1974, received only 4 single third-place vote after a co-so season with Texas Rangers.

Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets, who set a record season goal league record with 77 goals for the World Hockey Association team last season, received five first-place votes and 19 points. Hull was named athlete of the year in 1965 and 1966.

Others receiving first-place votes included Bishop Dolegiewicz, the shot-putter from Montreal, Vyvyan Pelmear of Montreal Canadiens, goalie record harness racing driver Herve Filion of Angers, Que., Calgary Stampeders wide receiver Tom Forzani, Edmonton Eskimos place-kicker Dave Cutler, Toronto boxer Clyde Gray, Pan-American Games boxing gold medallist Chris Clarke of Halifax and Corrie Hover, the 47-year-old Houston Aeros right winger.

Deadline Extended

TORONTO — (CP) — The Ontario Racing Commission announced Wednesday that the deadline for registering standardbred stallions for the provincial government's multi-million-dollar sire-stakes racing program has been extended to midnight Wednesday night, Dec. 31.

Originally, the deadline for the registration of stallions standing in Ontario had been set for Dec. 1. However, after the recent Canada-wide postal strike, many Ontario breeders have protested that they will haven't received the stallion registration application forms which were mailed by the racing commission.

"We have extended the deadline for 31 days," said Dr. Glen Brown, chairman of the Ontario government's horse breeding and racing advisory board.

"With so much money at stake for the racing progeny of these stallions in the years to come, we wouldn't want the unfortunate delay in the mails to deprive any breeder of the opportunity to register his horse."

Farrell Dead At 62

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rocky Farrell, who managed baseball's Cleveland Indians in 1967, died of a heart attack at his home Wednesday. He was 62.

Farrell played two years in the major leagues, with Boston under Casey Stengel in 1942 and with Chicago in 1945. He also was a former coach for Chicago starter Alvin Dark and for the Indians under Eddie Stanky.

TOLLER CRANSTON

Foley Quits Hockey

TORONTO (CP) — Rick Foley, who has been playing for the Baltimore Clippers in the American Hockey League, said Tuesday that he has quit hockey.

He said he made his decision after listening to a dinner speech last week by former football star Johnny Unitas.

"Unitas said that when a sport, any sport, no longer is fun then it's time to get out," Foley said. "I left the dinner and I couldn't forget what he said."

The 30-year-old Niagara Falls, Ont., native started his pro career in the Eastern Hockey League in 1966. Since then, the 6-foot-4, 225-pound defenceman has also seen action in the Western, Central, American World and National Leagues.

Fournier Marks Return

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Bert Fournier, who returned to Chatham last week from Windsor Spitfires of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series, scored two goals Wednesday to pace the Maroons to a 4-3 victory over Mount Hamilton A's in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League action.

It was the only game scheduled.

Tony Woitowicz and Joe Campagnola scored the other Chatham goals.

Joe McKenna and Steve Hazlett replied for Mount Hamilton.

The teams were tied 1-1 after one period but Chatham led 3-2 after 40 minutes before a crowd of 300.

Hamilton's Joey Gallant received a match penalty in the second period for his part in a fight with Chatham's Dennis Brewer.

Welland travels to Niagara Falls Thursday and Owen Sound plays at Guelph.

Marchand Co-operates In Sky Shops Affair

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Marchand, minister without portfolio, said Wednesday he will co-operate with the RCMP but is ready to go to court to prevent them making "fishing expedition" through his files.

Mr. Marchand's comment that if they wanted to go fishing in his office they would have to use their CLV.

Outside the House, Mr. Marchand said that, over the last two weeks, following earlier RCMP visit to his office in search of material related to an investigation of Sky Shops Exp rt Ltd., employees had been compiling an index of the files.

The Sky Shops investigation has been connected in the Commons with a 1972 lease extension for the company's duty-free store at Montreal International Airport and with Liberal party fund raising.

Mr. Marchand was accused in the Commons by Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) of seeking to limit RCMP examination of his office files. This ensuing "the inference is totally unjustified implication that the minister has something to hide."

Mr. Cossitt repeated Mr. Marchand's comment that if they wanted to go fishing in his office they would have to use their CLV.

Advertising Bill Under Criticism

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner is coming under strong new pressure from publishers, printers and politicians to modify or abandon pre-Christmas legislative proposals and some Liberal MPs say disenchantment within the government caucus will grow over the five-week Commons Christmas break.

The latest delay in giving the bill final Commons reading paving the way for Senate approval and royal assent—will cost Time magazine, Reader's Digest and others affected by the measures his controversial foreign magazine tax legislation. The bill has been dropped launch new lobbying campaigns.

Under terms of the bill, introduced last April, advertisers in Canadian editions of foreign-owned publications would be denied 100-per-cent income-tax deductions for advertising costs.

The Liberal MPs say they wanted the bill finally passed this week to avert further pressures from voters in their home ridings.

McDonald's King Starts New Chain

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian entrepreneur George Tidball, 45, who brought the McDonald hamburger chain to Canada, has moved into the United States market with his own string of eateries.

Mr. Tidball, once a miner and accountant, said the first restaurant will be picked up with McDonald's Restaurants Canada Ltd. to set up his own restaurant chain—the Keg 'n Cleaver.

Six Keg 'n Cleaver restaurants are either open or near completion in key U.S. cities, in addition to the 16 operating in Canada.

By the end of next year, Mr. Tidball says he expects the empire will number 32 outlets, 11 of them earning U.S. dollars with the profits coming back to Canada.

Next year, Mr. Tidball has plans to add two more restaurants in Seattle, a second in Chicago, and two others in Texas and Louisiana. In Canada, there are plans to open three more outlets in Toronto, as well as one each in Port Credit, Hamilton and Kingston.

Mr. Tidball said the format of the Keg 'n Cleaver is the same as McDonald's—"a small profit margin, but a big volume of sales."

The two key ingredients, he said, are "steak and lobster of good quality, but sold at a price the ordinary guy can afford."

After high school in Penticton, B.C., Mr. Tidball went to work as a miner, but after "having a great time" gambling and drinking away his wages, he entered university.

After a year in university, he switched as a chartered accountant for six years in Penticton and Kingston, Ont., before moving to Toronto, where he married his wife Dianne. They have three children.

His spent two years at Harvard Business School, helped by money as a copy typist. From there, he worked for two years with an American management company in Chicago and Los Angeles, then took a job with MacMillan Bloedel of Vancouver, the forest industry firm.

One day, after the move to Vancouver, his wife confessed that her biggest disappointment in coming back to Canada was that there were no McDonald's restaurants.

The remark prompted Tidball to franchise for Van Houtte coffee from McDonald's, first by mail and then by personal contact.

"We opened our first restaurant on a Thursday and I was terrified," Mr. Tidball recalled. "What happens if nobody came?"

But by the following Sunday, Canada's first McDonald's restaurant had run out of hamburgers.

"There were a bunch of aggressive young guys in our operation and by 1970 we had sales of $15 million annually. On the other hand, I could see our rate of growth declining. That was when I began to work on my Keg 'n Cleaver concept."

He opened his first Keg 'N Cleaver in North Vancouver four months later. Keg 'n Cleaver of Ontario was formed two years ago as a partnership between the western-based parent company and Ontario investors, headed by Julie Flos, a Toronto restaurant owner.

Oddities in the News

Trash Men Bright

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — When the city takes over garbage collections again Jan. 2, the change will be strikingly visible to its 80,000 households.

Crews will use bright orange pickup trucks, which the city will rent for its 90 garbagemen, at a cost of between $15,300 and $77,000.

"The uniforms will allow residents to spot and identify collectors," says assistant public works director John Reilly. "And they also serve a certain public relations function. These men need and greet 80,000 people a week."

The city takes over trash collection Jan. 2 from a private agency which has been handling collections for the last five years. The city claims it can do the job cheaper and more efficiently.

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Newborn babies at St. Luke's Hospital sleep to a strange lullaby that seems to please them but drives a few of their nurses.

The nightly tune is a soft, whooshing sound, a recording of a pulse similar to the one the babies heard in the womb before birth.

"I guess you could say it's like putting a clock next to a puppy," said Julia Durand, head nurse in the delivery room. By calming the infants, the system helps them gain weight faster because they don't use up calories crying, she said.

The record player in the nursery was proved especially effective in calming premature babies, Mrs. Durand said.

LONDON (Reuter) — British politicians are leading the field in a contest to determine the male chauvinist pig of the year, but tennis star Arthur Ashe of the United States has an outside chance at the title.

Main contenders in the BBC poll are Conservative MP Ronald Bell, well known for his anti-women's rights views, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, because he's up against the housewives.

Ashe is leading the foreign nominees, apparently because of statements that he prefers his women "servile."

The winner will be announced on Dec. 31 and will be given a silk purse and the chance to defend himself on a women's talk show.

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Molly Hiller said good-bye to her hairdos and bells to powerful muscles when she signed on as one of the few women oilfield roustabouts.

Now, 46-year-old Molly spends her workdays elbow to elbow with hardened oil-well workmen at the Belridge holdings of Mobil Oil Corp. on 25 miles northwest of here.

Her long blonde hair had to go, its victim of regulations that say her hair must be tucked into the dirt and oil she collects while dirt-assembling wells and working on pumps all washes out, she says.

Molly isn't the only woman battling dirt and grease in the San Joaquin Valley's oilfields. An Atlantic Richfield spokesman says seven women are working on its oil rigs in Kern County, and Shell Oil Co. says they are at work on rigs here and several others in the San Joaquin Fresno County.

"All I want to do is make a living," she said. "I don't go for women's lib. It's up to a man to whatever she wants to do. I shocked be a girl."

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — When electronics tycoon M. J. (Jack) Monsked died in a 1971 plane crash, he left no heirs. A simple will directed that his 250-million estate be given away.

Directors of the M. J. Murdock Charitable Trust say they will hand out $3 million each year, most of it in the northwestern United States.

The first grant, a $1.5-million gift to Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore., was made public Tuesday.

Murdock was co-founder of Tektronix Inc., a firm which makes electronic components in Beaverton, Ore.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The FBI has accused Gerland Ramsey, 31, a janitor, of burning 60-one quarters out of the Federal Reserve bank during a 56-day period by stuffing his pockets at lunch time and just before going home.

Ramsey was arraigned Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Herbert Zaber on a charge of embezzling $15,000 in quarters.

Agents said the thief had to cut into a wire cage in a high-security room where the coins were stored in 15 bags weighing 50 pounds each.

The FBI affidavit said Ramsey admitted emptying at least 10 bags of coins and walking past the bank's armed guards daily with his pockets stuffed.

Government agents said Ramsey started working at the bank Aug. 12 and was fired Dec. 10, the day the theft was discovered.

Showbiz Short

NEW YORK (AP) — The orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera said Tuesday it will strike the Met if no contract is agreed to by New Year's Eve.

The musicians have been working without a contract since Sept. 7, agreeing then to work until Jan. 1 as that negotiations might continue.

The 170 musicians now have a base weekly pay of $385. Last year, they were guaranteed 31 weeks of work and worked 32 weeks.

The Met is offering no pay raise for this year, a pay raise of five per cent next year and 44 weeks' work guaranteed this year and 46 next year.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "How sweet it is," comedian Jackie Gleason, 38, said after he was married to Marilyn Taylor Horwich in a ceremony before a handful of friends at a private Bal Harbour home.

The marriage was Gleason's third. He was divorced from his second wife, Beverly McKittrick Gleason, Nov. 19 after a long legal battle.

Mrs. Horwich, the widowed mother of a 13-year-old boy, is the sister of choreographer Jane Taylor, a longtime Gleason associate.

CHICAGO (AP) — Blues musician Theodore "Hound Dog" Taylor, 58, whose multitrack guitar style influenced many contemporary rock musicians, died Wednesday of lung cancer.

A native of Greenville, Miss., Taylor began his musical career there in 1925. He moved to Chicago in the early 1940s and played mostly on the circuit of South Side blues clubs and taverns which produced such popular performers as Muddy Waters and Howling Wolf.

Although perennially popular on the South Side, he did not record or play music until 1957 and did not come to national attention until his featured performance at the 1970 Ann Arbor, Mich., blues and jazz festival. Taylor returned to the festival in 1972 and 1973.

In his later years, Taylor toured Europe and Australia, and gave numerous solo concerts in the United States and Canada.

SEATTLE (AP) — Actor Bob Cummings was arrested Tuesday and accused of detract'ng the telephone company's subscribers wid.

He was released on his own recognizance after appearing in King County superior court and posting $7,500 bail.

Booked as Charles Clarence Robert Orville Cummings Jr., the actor was arrested when police raided a downtown apartment building seeking the user of a "blue box"—described as a sophisticated, electronic device that allows the user to bypass phone company controls and obtain free long distance calls.

Cummings, 68, has been appearing for six weeks at the Orpue Dinner Theatre in the Kent County comedy-musical "No Hard Feelings."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Olga O'Brien, wife of actor Edmond O'Brien, has filed for a legal separation after 38 years of marriage.

Mrs. O'Brien, 63, filed the action in superior court on Tuesday against the 60-year-old actor.

They were married in 1967 and have three children ranging in age between 13 and 27.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Friday, Dec. 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your biggest source of frustration today will come from the domestic scene. Not one major blowup—but, more likely, a series of exasperations.

TAURUS (April 20-May, 20) Mentally, you're prone to spread your resources too thin today. If you must do something to challenge your imagination, concentrate on one thing only.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before assuming new financial obligations at this time, measure with a critical eye that which you have to keep solvent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't put yourself out on a limb today. You can probably handle some difficulties, but not if you have to worry about others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Matters that should have been handled by will be coming back to haunt you today. Don't let them collect any more, either.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Advance planning is fine, but this is not the time to lay out money for something somewhere. Wait until your position is more stable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Avoid situations today where the opposition has the advantage gaing in. Hold back a bit till you're in a position to operate on your own terms.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you don't wish to play today, you could have something out of proportion that would involve and possibly hurt some friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's good to be loyal to your pals, but today you could get elsewhere and get a better price.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Seek advice of trusted counsel or learned friends before making any legal moves today. If you go on your own and make a mistake it'll be a bad one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You attempt to bite off more than you can chew today, physically and mentally. You'll even irritate those who try to pick you up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's no pie in the sky or get-rich-quick scheme that will make you wealthy overnight. Play anything close to the vest. You'll survive.

Colitis May Not Mean Infection

By GC THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: recently had an illness, and now I have colitis. The doctor said it often follows some other illness. How is this so? And what is colitis? What causes it, and what is the diet for it? W.E.S.

Colitis is defined as an inflammation of the large intestine. But it does not necessarily mean the presence of an infection. It can be and often is a complication of an earlier illness, either a migration of an infecting organism from the site of another inflammation or some functional bowel problem caused by such things as a change in eating habits necessitated by an illness. Antibiotics can on occasion cause colitis.

In crystal ball term colitis is not helpful unless the precise form of it is included. And you don't tell me what your previous illness was, which would be important to know.

Since your doctor has not discussed your diet with you, I have to assume that your colitis represents some other bowel function disturbance which he feels will correct itself as your system adjusts to normal eating habits following your recent illness.

In cases of stubborn colitis a low residue diet is helpful because it reduces the amount of bowel activity required on digestion. Such a diet could not harm you and it might help you make the adjustment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Just how serious is the migraine condition known as "scotoma"? Doctors don't seem to know much about it, but when you have been disabled by migraine, as I have for many years, you would like it there cannot be some bad effects from this. A.M.

I'm 74. They do not seem to diminish with age. G.N.L.

It is a symptom, usually a forerunner of an attack of classic migraine attack. It is featured by a disturbance in sight in a localized portion of the eye while there is normal sight around it.

The term "serious" could not be applied to scotoma, except that it does herald the headache. We don't know much about the condition, not much more than we know about migraine itself, which is bad enough.

Headache can be a symptom of underlying problems ranging from allergies to vascular disorders to emotions.

Ergotamine tartrate can be effective in migraine, but this can cause some undesirable effects, with uninterrupted, long range use. These include swelling of the fingers and toes, muscle pain and general weakness. Nausea or vomiting is an indication that the medicine should be discontinued or the dosage lessened.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend of mine, who is 18 years old, is pregnant. If she has sexual intercourse the day after she stops her period she cannot become pregnant. Is this true? T.A.

If the young lady in question has a long-established regular period, then it would stay the chances of her becoming pregnant at this time would be less likely. But if periods are irregular and vary in duration from month to month then she would obviously be pushing her luck.

Young Strippers Hired By Dubois

MONTREAL (CP) — Girls as young as 13 were hired by an underworld-connected agency in the Montreal area as strippers and go-go dancers, the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime was told yesterday.

A 17-year-old girl, formerly employed by Fast Talent Agency, told the inquiry the agency was controlled by Raymond Dubois who at one stage also encouraged her to "do tricks" with a prostitute.

Dubois is one of nine brothers commonly described in inquiry testimony as members of a Montreal underworld family.

The witness, who said she was "so disgusted with myself" she couldn't express a proper hate, testified she never earned "less than $250 a week, and sometimes $1,000 a week" when she worked as a topless dancer in Chibo.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

It was the last rubber at Castle Elsinore, Hamlet, sitting South, knew his chances had passed the fair: Ophelia's diamond opening, but people tend to bid in the last rubber.

Similarly, Ophelia didn't have to jump all the way to three notrump, but she had great faith in Hamlet.

West opened the king of spades. Hamlet ducked, but had to win the queen continuation. Then he solliquized, "To gamble, or not to gamble. Ah, there's the rub. For whether 'tis better to suffer a small penalty or to test the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and risk a seven-trick set. I'll try the latter."

Then he let dummy's king of hearts, overtook with his ace and led his 10 of diamonds. The finesse worked and all was well at Castle Elsinore.

The finesse was not as much of a gamble as it might have been. West's bid had marked him with a lot of high cards and he was more likely than not to hold the king of diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader wants to know if his opening bid of four hearts indicated:

♠ A ♥ AKQJ 10 x x ♦ A Q J x x ♣ 5 5

was correct. His partner had passed.

Our answer is that it was sound. He had 10 tricks all his own, but, a forcing two-bid opening would have been far better. In spite of his partner's pass there might well be a slam.

Student Politics Time Consuming

OTTAWA (CP)—University life can be hectic, exhausting and frustrating and not all student leaders handle a full-time course load but studies only take up part of Dave Dunn's time.

A 22-year-old six-foot architecture student, he is president of the Carleton University Students' Association (CUSA) and admits it is demanding.

He cannot count the number of hours he has spent at meetings. "What is not in the CUSA offices I'm over at architecture."

Architecture, like Carleton's other two professional undergraduate schools, engineering and journalism, has the reputation of having a heavy work load. Most student politicians come from the arts department. Despite the stress of being a fifth-year graduating student, Dunn does not seem to mind the pressure.

He became involved with student politics two years ago like when he was elected arts council representative on the university's New Student Government (NSG).

As a representative, he says, he discovered that student interests were being ignored by faculty members and became a member of the students' council.

He decided to run for president of CUSA last February because, in his view, there was no one capable to lead the organization and criticisms similar to students' needs. "Leadership was needed, so I ran."

He says the problem of declining provincial financial support, which has made quality of education might be affected," he said.

Already Carleton library hours have been cut with no desk service on the weekends.

Lights in various parts of the campus have been removed or turned off.

Students' council runs the campus pub, a coffee house and a printing service, manic-looking area and sponsors social activities.

More students are becoming aware of university government and want to become involved, he said.

Ouellet Avoids Racist Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet averted a Commons flare-up Wednesday over allegations that he had implied that a Progressive Conservative MP was racist.

The charge was made earlier in the week by Otto Jelinek (Toronto High Park-Humber Valley) who said the minister had suggested that racist motives were behind questions he asked about the Montreal Olympics.

Mr. Ouellet he accepted Mr.Jelinek's word that there was nothing malicious about his questions.

The incident arose out of inquiries Mr. Jelinek made concerning the Olympic coins program.

Mr. Ouellet asked him to forward any evidence he had to proper authorities. No evidence was turned over, the minister said.

He told MPs this led him to believe that Mr. Jelinek was more interested in asking controversial questions than in getting answers from the government.

However, he added he would accept the Hon's word that he was not acting with improper intention.

Tighten Controls

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Niagara regional welfare officials announced Wednesday they are planning to work with the area Canada Manpower office to tighten requirements for persons seeking welfare benefits.

A spokesman for the region's social services department said a new system will be implemented whereby Manpower personnel will provide a form certifying that a person seeking welfare benefits has registered with their office for work and has been unable to find it.

New Appointment

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police announced Wednesday the appointment of Chief Supt. C. Nalimith to assistant commissioner in charge of the staff development division.

H. H. Graham, commissioner of the force, also announced the appointment of S.Supt. J. W. Lidstone to the rank of chief superintendent, second in command in the field division.

Introduces Bill

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Eaton (PC—Middlesex) introduced a private member's bill in the legislature Wednesday to control municipal mill rate increases. He said outside the house the measure would provide relief for homeowners, similar to the safeguards extended to persons who are receiving accommodation. The bill would hold property tax increases to eight per cent. Private member bills routinely receive first reading but rarely are enacted.

Reports Loss

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Americrn Airlines said Wednesday it had a net loss of $22.4 million during the first 11 months of this year.

By comparison, the company said it had made a profit of $9.1 million during the same period in 1974.

Earnings during the 11-month period fell to $1.13 per share, compared with a profit of 71 cents last year.

During the three-month period ending Nov. 30, American Airlines lost $9.77 million, compared with a loss of $8.9 million during a comparable period in 1974.

The share loss totalled 24 cents, three cents more than over the same period last year.

Blood Services

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller said Wednesday the government is prepared to consider setting up a centre for blood transfusion services in Sudbury next year.

Earlier in the week, Rod Gervais (NDP—Sudbury) asked the minister why Sudbury is not included in the national blood transfusion service.

Alters Border

PRAGUE (Reuter) — The Czechoslovak federal assembly has agreed to alter the border with Poland because of a new dam, Orieka news agency reports. The dam is to be built on the Polish side and its waters will flood 20,000 acres of land in Czechoslovakia. The submerged land will be given to Poland in return for equivalent Polish land further along the border.

Furs Sold Well

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — The total value of furs sold at the Ontario Trappers' Association's first auction of the season, which concluded Tuesday, was $1,250,000, a spokesman for the association said Wednesday. He said more than 134,000 pelts changed hands and the sale was "better than we expected." The next auction is scheduled for Feb. 9-11.

Renewal Forms To Be In French

TORONTO (CP) — The threat of a province-wide protest campaign by Ontario's French-speaking community got results Wednesday when Transportation Minister James Snow announced that renewal forms for motor vehicle licence plates now are available in French.

The minister said in an interview the forms were distributed throughout Ontario and were made available Dec. 1.

The banning of the forms follows a protest campaign last month in Ottawa.

Senate Continues Debate Over U.S. Military Aid to Angola

From AP-Reuter

The United States Senate was to hold its second closed session in 24 hours today to consider voting on a proposal that would halt United States military aid to anti-Soviet factions fighting in Angola.

Today's session was called after opponents of further secret backing of warring Angolan factions said they have enough votes to end U.S. aid to the African country.

Senator Robert Griffin (Rep, Mich.) asked his colleagues Wednesday to limit their action to approval of his proposal for a introduction of U.S. armed forces in, favor or of the factions of Angola.

But Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) and other senators warned that step-by-step escalation of U.S. financial involvement could lead to involvement in another Vietnam type war.

Meanwhile, in Paris, sources said State Secretary Henry Kissinger met with the foreign ministers of Zambia, Nigeria and Zaire Wednesday night to seek a solution to the Angolan conflict.

Kissinger, who was attending the international economic cooperation conference, took time to see the three ministers separately.

He is believed to have urged the ministers of the three countries to work for a quick African solution to the Angola crisis.

South Africa also announced Wednesday it is sending regular of commandos into the Angola battle zone and tacitly acknowledged some forces are already deployed deep inside the war-disturbed territory.

Defence Minister Pieter Botha said in a statement that reservist units, many of them trained commandos, will serve in Angola for three months at a time instead of the usual three-week training period.

It has not been disclosed how many South African troops are involved.

South Africa has a total armed strength, including all reservists, of 80,000 men. Twenty thousand are regulars and there is a national draft intake of 22,000 men a year.

Fiction for Young Canadian Readers

By JUDY CREIGHTON
The Canadian Press

Whether the child on your Christmas list has literary tastes that lean to fiction, history or sports, there are several Canadian books to take into consideration.

A young writer, Nadia Cerburn, and artist Emma Hesse have collaborated on a vividly colorful account of the history of Ottawa as the Canadian capital.

Entitled How Canada Got Its Capital, the textbook with a foreword by Prime Minister Trudeau was published in association with the National Capitals Commission and McClelland and Stewart Ltd.

It takes a child on an explicit and well-documented tour through the history of the region—exploration by Champlain, the sometimes bitter experiences of the early settlers and the development of the Rideau Canal.

Young readers learn how Bytown, the original name for the capital, was changed to Ottawa and the reason why it became the national government.

Author Cerkum sums up her particular feeling for Ottawa when she writes: "If you come when Parliament is in session (during the fall, winter and spring months, except for Christmas and Easter recesses), go to the Green Chamber to watch the men and women who make our nation's laws discuss and plan what is best for our country. Don't be shy—they would like you to visit!"

How Canada Got Its Capital; Text by Nadia Cerkum, Illustrations by Emma Hesse; 46 Pages; $4.95; McClelland and Stewart.

Urban children will like the collection of books on life in the city. However, rural youngsters too might find fascination in what it is like for a child to dwell in an apartment building.

Kids Can Press, a small but vital publishing house in Toronto run by young authors and publicists on a federal government grant, has put out a couple of books along those lines.

Sara and the Apartment Building by Yvonne Singer, illustrated by Ann Powell, is all about a little girl who, to get into her home, must press a button on a wall filled with other buttons and numbers.

She takes her friends home one day and from Sara's apartment building the pair can see the CN tower, other tall buildings and a traffic jam.

It is a positive look at a child's life in a high-rise—after so much has been said and written by experts on how detrimental it is for children to be raised in apartments. Sara doesn't think so.

This little book, along with The Sandwich, about life in an ethnic neighborhood, would make marvellous stocking stuffers.

Sara and the Apartment Yvonne Singer; $1.95; 32 pages; Illustrated by Ann Powell; The Sandwich by Ian Wallace and Janetta Wood; $2.25; 32 pages; both published by Kids Can Press, Toronto.

Crafts Council Finds Home

LONDON (CP) — It scarcely seemed to fit in with the season of peace on earth and goodwill to all men when the father of two young children wrote to The Times newspaper in London a few years ago suggesting the formation of an anti-Christmas League.

He said it was not an anti-religious gesture but a protest against the commercial aspects of the season.

The attempt may have been well intentioned but fortunately for millions of Britons to whom Christmas is the high spot of winter, it failed, said writer Ruth Elliott.

"It is not necessarily irreligious to see the real miracle of the season in the spirit of giving," she said, "the activity often best personified in the round and jolly figure of Father Christmas."

The origins of Santa Claus as he is better known, are somewhat vague.

Said Miss Elliott: "It is not so much a matter of religion as a kind of magic, all the better for being so accessibly domestic, and happening practically on the children's own hearth."

Even if there is no chimney for Santa's descent, some mothers will explain that he uses a balcony or comes in through a window, carefully left open and said.

In Britain, Santa Claus is heightwought up-to-date in other respects. He now has a telephone number, made available by the post office. Over 1 million children rang him during the two weeks preceding Christmas last year.

Tom Vernon, the British Broadcasting Corporation producer who plays this role takes great care the recordings they prepare keep the illusion of speaking to Santa Claus at the other end of the line.

They start off with non-committal questions such as: "Have you decided what you want for Christmas yet?" and leave pauses for the child's reply.

Then they continue their scripts for a few minutes, producing short playets as though busy Santa had been interrupted having his bath, going to a party, considering the purchase of a new sleigh, or resisting a takeover bid for the Reindeer Supermarket.

"We try to relate it to the life the children know about," explained Vernon.

Chairs Removed

KNOTTINGLEY, England (CP) — Four men, each carrying a chair through the town centre late at night, told a policeman they were taking them to a pub because they could never get a seat. He let them go. Later the landlord of an area inn reported the theft of four chairs.

B.C. Resumes Oil and Gas Exploration

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oil and natural gas exploration has resumed in northeastern British Columbia.

Despite complaints of the drilling industry about the new Democratic Party government which was defeated last Thursday, the impetus for the resumption came before Social Credit's victory.

Operations got under way again following two idle winters after a natural gas deal with the B.C. Petroleum Corp. and introduction of new royalty regulations, producing a better net return on oil.

The moves were made in the fall under the NDP government.

This winter's program, in addition to the search for new pools of gas, will involve connecting capped wells with the transmission system, which will improve the supply.

Stan Jones, manager of the Calgary-based Olwell Drilling Contractors, says 30 rigs were other working or committed in B.C. Five more were reported to be moving in before February and there was a possibility that one or two shallow well rigs—capable of 2,500 feet—would move in.

"The work is in muskeg country and must be done during the winter while the muskeg is frozen solid. Because they must get to the site, drill the well and move off within a season is frozen, transportation is a vital and limiting factor.

"The access roads frequently cost 3c more than drilling the well," said Mr. Jones, adding that the provincial government should provide access roads.

"The government of B.C. has a large stake in the petroleum industry," he notes. "It makes oil land; as much out of it as the individual or company. We have as little as 180 days (or a drilling season—the most favorable parts of the world they have 300 days."

Regional Government Will Spur Housing

TORONTO (CP) — Introduction of regional government in Ontario in the early 1970s has produced temporary housing shortages but will be the means of stimulating housing in the long run, according to a study by A. E. LePage Limited Realtor.

The study said regional government added another level of bureaucracy in approving housing projects, and delays in phasing in the regional program created costly time lags.

One result was temporary increases in housing lotteries in Ontario and higher costs for housing.

However, the study said that once the basic regional problems are resolved, and growth priorities allotted to appropriate areas, "Ontario's housing program will accelerate through the latter 1970s."

The study predicts a major shift in growth away from metropolitan Toronto to Peel and Durham on the west and east of the Metro area. Metro, now the greatest growth area, will drop to third position by the year 2001 as vacant land becomes depleted.

Due Loans Total About $18.264 Billion

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer loans outstanding on the books of institutions reporting monthly totalled $18.264 billion at the end of October, up 13.3 per cent from October, 1974, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Credit outstanding included: Chartered bank personal loans, up 21.6 per cent to $12.9 billion; life insurance company policy loans, up 18.3 per cent to $1.135 billion; sales finance companies, down 14.4 per cent to $349 million in small loans but up four-tenths of one per cent to $1.598 billion in large loans; department and furniture stores, up 8.4 per cent to $1.271 billion.

Combined with other quarterly-reporting institutions, such as credit unions and insurance and loan companies, the total consumer credit outstanding at the end of September was $22.36 billion, up 14 per cent from a year earlier.

PM Cuts $1.5 Billion from Budget

Trudeau Scraps Youth Programs

OTTAWA (CP) — Th young, and the thousands they helped through federally funded service projects, took a battering in Thursday night's federal spending restraints.

Only the Local Initiatives Program (LIP) will continue to receive federal funds next year. But LIP will be reshaped and restricted to areas of high unemployment.

The Opportunities for Youth program, through which 30,700 jobs were funded last summer, is gone after four years. There will be none next summer.

The Company of Young Canadians no longer will receive federal funds after March 31 next Prime Minister Trudeau said he felt a "sense of personal tenderness" about it. The act that created it in 1966 may be repealed unless the company wants to continue as a "charitable organization" relying solely on support from private sources, officials said.

The Canada Manpower Young Canadians employs about 450 persons, mainly field volunteers working in 175 communities with people in need. CYC projects include work in the blind, for the deserted, the elderly, the poor and the unemployed.

Government estimated that $36 million will be saved by ending the OFY program and $6.1 million will be saved in money that would have gone to the company.

"The people must hurt by inflation are those most hurt by the anti-inflation measures," he CTV official said in an interview reaction in the news, which was expected.

The current LIP program for Canada-Ontario projects will survive, with about $150 million for 5,500 projects across Canada. Another $125 million was allocated last June for the 1976-77 period but the government indicated that $30 million would be deducted from this next year.

Another victim of austerity was the "travel and exchange" program started in the mid-1960s to give youth a look at another part of the country. About $3 million was cheaped from this program, the full federal contribution.

Baby Bonus Increases Frozen for One Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Thursday announced its bold down the rise in its spending by freezing salaries, eliminating some spending programs and cutting others in the financial year starting April 1.

More than $1.5 billion will be slashed from spending plans, Jean Chretien, treasury board president, told the Commons. But government spending "will still grow by several billion dollars" next year.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield called the government statement a "public relations exercise designed to restore some credibility to its stumbling anti-inflation policy." New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent said it will add to the national jobless rate.

A detailed breakdown of the federal restraints shows that only $448.2 million is being cut from existing spending programs. The balance represents likely reduced spending plans—cuts from what might have been expected.

The biggest, most controversial item is the $221 million that is being cut from the welfare department's budget by cancelling cost-of-living adjustments to family allowances in January. This is to last for one year.

Here is a lot of convincing that there aren't ways the government could save money without cutting mothers' allowances," Mr. Stanfield contended.

But Mr. Chretien said there is "very little, almost nothing, that can be cut without hurting someone." The saving per child by refusing the cost-of-living adjustment for a year is about $27.

Mr. Chretien refused to estimate what government spending will be in the financial year starting on April. That will have to wait for the main estimates to be published in February.

However, spending in the current year is expected to rise by about 18 per cent from last year to about $52.2 billion. A similar increase next year—Mr. Chretien said the government "hopes to do a little better"—would put spending at about $27 billion.

In a surprise announcement shortly before journalists had a hot-lock-up preview of the spending restraints, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald announced a special one-year 10-per-cent surtax on that part of taxable income over $30,000.

He said later the government felt it had to move against high-income earners because its spending reductions affected mainly programs that serve low-and middle-income Canadians.

The temporary tax would add $300 to income taxes paid by a married taxpayer with two dependents earning $35,000 annually.

Mr. Macdonald said the government chose a 10-per-cent surtax because it "felt that would not have a severe effort."

Many of the measures in the program package were expected and had been reported previously.

For example, one-year freezes are being imposed on salaries for MPs and senators, which means they forego a scheduled Jan. 1 cost-of-living pay award.

Also frozen are salaries for senior civil servants earning more than $28,845 weekly. Separate federal and provincial superior court judges. The number of job openings for civil servants in the $377-a-week and up category also has been frozen.

The treasury board estimates the freeze on civil servants' salaries—about 5,500 of them—will save taxpayers $13.5 million next year.

Cut entirely were programs including the Company of Young Canadians for a $6 million saving Opportunities for Youth for a $36 million saving, Canada Council, $6 million and the secretary of state's travel and exchanges program, $3 mil'on.

Surtax Proposal Hits 170,000 Taxpayers

OTTAWA (CP) — Here is a summary of the surtax proposal announced in the budget by finance Minister Donald Macdonald for the 1976 tax year.

—Proposed only on taxpayers with taxable income in excess of $29,000 in 1976.

—Affects only federal taxes, with provincial taxes unchanged.

—Calculated to apply to 170,000 taxpayers and yield $115 million.

—Calculated as 10 per cent of federal tax payable over and above a surtax threshold—that is, above $8,000, which is approximately the federal tax payable on taxable incomes of $29,000.

Surtax Calculation

Married taxpayer with two children under 16 earnings of $10,000

Earnings $10,000
Taxable income $40,250
Federal tax before surtax $11,857
Less surtax threshold $ 8,000

Amount subject to surtax 3,857
Surtax $ 386

To ensure that surtax liabilities of Quebec residents are the same as those of the residents of other provinces, the surtax will be computed without reference to the 24-per-cent abatement for Quebec.

Surtax payable at various gross income levels by a married taxpayer with two children under 16:

Gross income in $	Surtax in $
29,000	0
30,000	10
40,000	200
50,000	700
60,000	1,200
70,000	1,628
100,000	2,700

—Taxpayers in above examples in second column would be required to receive wage and salary income. Family allowances, subject to 1975 rates, are added to income in computing tax. Taxpayer is assumed to take the standard deduction of $150 in respect of medical expenses and charitable contributions, in addition to personal exemptions, the employment expense allowance, three per cent of wage and salary income up to a maximum of $150 and Canada Pension Plan contributions, calculated at current rates, are deducted from income in computing tax.

Ottawa to Spend More Despite Government Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of government anti-inflation announcements Thursday:

Government spending next fiscal year scaled down by $1.5 billion from the original, severe projections, although total outlays to rise by "several billions of dollars."

January cost-of-living increase in family allowances withdrawn.

Demise of Young Canadians assed, Opportunities for Youth program cancelled next summer, Local Initiative Program reduced next winter.

Information Canada abolished.

Surtax imposed on the 1976 tax level against personal taxable income above $30,000 a year.

MPs and senators to forego scheduled pay increases and top public servants subjected to pay freeze for one year.

Big building projects to be exempt from pay and price controls under regulations.

Percentage fees charged by architects and real-estate lawyers geared to decline gradually in next three years.

Companies limited in no more than four cost-justified price increases a year.

Federal advertising bill reduced by almost $4 million a year from $25 million after a $500,000 ad campaign launching spending restraints.

Hospital Increases Restricted

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario hospitals face a reduction of 1,000 beds and staff cuts of up to 1,500 persons in the next fiscal year, Health Minister Frank Miller said today.

Addressing a group of hospital administrators from across the province, Mr. Miller said budget restraints in 1976-77 will mean that his ministry can offer an increase of only 11 per cent over the $3.029 billion spent on health care this year.

The hospitals have estimated they will need a 20-per-cent increase to maintain the present level of service during 1976.

Mr. Miller said he expects the health authority to get an increase of more than $300 million in the next fiscal year but not even then, hospitals will have to shave the million off their present budgets.

Moluccan Gunmen Surrender

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Seven South Moluccan gunmen seeking an independent Asian homeland released 25 hostages unharmed from the Indonesian consulate today, peacefully ending a 16-day siege that began in a hail of gunfire and apparently getting nothing in return.

The "red beret" commandos holding 19 women—smiled and waved and joyful residents danced in the streets under fluttering Dutch flags.

The surrender came hours after the gunmen threw a birthday party for one of their hostages, and five days after six other South Moluccans freed 23 hostages from a hijacked train to relieve sway, ending a 15-day ordeal in which three persons had been killed. Those gunmen left got no concessions.

One person an Indonesian official, died in the consulate siege, from injuries sustained jumping from a window trying to escape.

The gunmen at the consulate especially revered their own flag from the building shortly before 1:30 p.m. local time, filed out at intervals and were driven off in three police patrol wagons.

Trustee Objects to Executive Salary Hikes Above Guidelines

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

At the insistence of Belleville separate school trustee Paul Fleming the Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board is sending three executive salary increases to the board's anti-inflation review board for approval.

Mr. Fleming, one of four trustees who opposed the increases, said he believes that three of the five executive salary increases are above the 12 per cent guidelines.

The Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board went behind closed doors Tuesday night and approved new contracts for non-teaching personnel, including custodians, secretaries and the administration staff.

Mr. Fleming, a city chartered accountant, said he had no objection to the two salary agreement which gave about 28 secretaries and 20 custodians general increases of 12 per cent.

Concerning the administration increases, Mr. Fleming and fellow trustees Joe Chapelle, John Granville and the board's chairman Austin Scott opposed the increases. Trustees Herbert Brown, Hector Collins, Bert Garrett, Frank Hyland, Angus Vertz, Leonard O'Leary, Lillian O'Connor, Rev. L. P. Casselli and Monsignor J. P. Sullivan favored the increases.

The three contentious salaries include that of the board's superintendent of education, Del O'Sullivan, who received $4,500 to bring his salary to $21,000 from $28,500 a hike of 17 per cent.

Superintendent of business, Ed Fleming received a $5,000 increase, to $30,500 from $25,500, a hike of 20 per cent. Their own salary, that of director of education Ed Neville was raised $4,000 to $32,000 from $33,000 a hike of 12.5 per cent.

The other two salaries reportedly increases slightly under 12 per cent.

In handing down the agreement, Wednesday night Mr. Neville argued that these increases are for the administration staff also, involve qualification improvements and that the percentage increase includes three additional increments. He said the actual figures are closer to 10 per cent.

Mr. Fleming said he believes trustees who voted in favor of the increases did so in good faith and that they acted upon their own conscience.

However, he said these increases above the guidelines will place the board in an awkward position next year during future contract talks.

He also said the current salaries were adequate and in view of the recently announced eight per cent provincial grant ceilings the board may have to curtail some academic programs.

Mr. Fleming added that comparison of percentage increases can be misleading because a percentage increase on high salaries means a lot more money than on increases in low salary ranges. Despite his criticism Mr. Fleming said the four administration personnel are doing a good job for the board.

LIP Leaders Here Were Prepared for Program Cuts

BY AL EABAS
Staff Reporter

Slashes in federal government spending are unlikely to affect the future of Local Initiative Programs now underway locally.

The reason is simple: few had expected to reapply for funding next year or seek grant extensions this year, a sampling of LIP officials revealed Tuesday.

Instead, some had been actively discouraged by government officials from considering re-application.

Enid DeSmidt, co-ordinator of Belleville Services for Handicapped and Senior Citizens, said Tuesday: "They have made me understand they didn't encourage this."

Jack Frame, administrator of a youth community recreation program, said he understood "there was no chance of an extension."

In the past, some LIP projects have been given additional money to complete operations past the expiry date of the initial grant. Others have been given new grants for the same basic project.

In Belleville, Miriam Bishop, chairman of the board of First Adventure Child Development Centre, said Tuesday her board has not discussed other financial provisions for supplying the custodial and transportation service made possible by a $9,000 LIP grant.

She said she had h[illegible] of day care or nursery fac[illegible] who have opened the doors[illegible] several years."

But Mrs. Bishop said that "eyes when we applied," originally we didn't talk about reapplication.

The centre looks to the community to share the cost of the innovative nursery school, some thing already done partly by the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund Men. Bishop said "Without them, we couldn't have opened the doors."

Mrs. DeSmidt, who operates under a $27,000 LIP grant, chauffers about 100 handicapped people a week around the city. She said she has been actively seeking funds to continue the program.

In Bancroft, village clerk-treasurer said Tuesday he does not expect to need more than the $20,000 already granted to refurbish the municipal hall and related buildings.

After the expected cuts, and "if its still possible, and we do have a project that is applicable, certainly we'll try for it a grant," he said.

Holiday Mail Volume Down Sharply

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

People in Belleville haven't been licking stamps and dropping Christmas cards in at the post office in the same quantities this year as in 1974.

City postmaster Roy Wainwright made the observation Thursday in saying he has noted about a 50 per cent drop in mail volume this year over last.

"Either people are waiting to mail or they're not mailing as the have in other years," he says.

The apparent decrease in Christmas volume in Belleville is in line with 32 smaller post offices that fall under city jurisdiction.

But precisely how great the drop will be is still unknown, Mr. Wainwright says a truer picture will be available at the end of December.

However, he said he does not expect mail volume this month to match the 2,000,000 pieces processed in December, 1974.

One reason for the unusual drop is the recent strike by inside workers says the postmaster.

"I think a lot of people have said to heck with it — the postal services," he says.

Whatever the cause, if you expect to get any cards out to friends anywhere — even out of town, or overseas — it's to late. Deadlines for posting mail are past.

The postmaster says postal workers are going their best effort but he offers no guarantees of pre-Christmas delivery.

And that "best effort" is what has allowed the busy post office to get ahead of the mail processing game: "We're waiting for mail to come in," says Mr. Wainwright.

He praises the postal workers for quickly digging out from under the backlog of mail created by the seven-week strike in addition to handling a heavier-than-normal load created by Christmas mail.

Oddly, he says, "It's been harder getting the backlog out from the strike than getting over the Christmas mail."

The city post office had hired about 103 extra part-time persons to handle the heavier load — down from the originally expected 150 additional workers.

And despite giving regular staff extra hours, nothing but the lower than expected mail volume accounts for the smaller number of additional seasonal help.

"It hasn't been hectic," says the postmaster.

Art Association Elects New Slate of Officers

Belleville Art Association elected a new slate of officers at a recent year end meeting.

Marjorie Rinnerson was elected as president, Jack Tooth as vice-president, Peg Kearney as treasurer, Judy Stoll as bulletin editor and Sonja Blecha taken on publicity.

Jo Cooper was elected as social convenor, Marg Rickaby is in charge of membership and Lillian Feddie is representative to Quinte Arts Council and art librarian Exhibit convenor is Florence Lenoe. Ben Williamson is in charge of special events.

Association activities resume in January with a trip to Kingston to view the exhibit, Women's Year International Show - Past and Present, at the Eglington Gallery. Interested persons may accompany members by contacting Sea Williamson.

Yardmen Help Buy Bushland

CANNIFTON — The Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund has been put on the map — literally.

The group's latest community gesture has been to underwrite local costs of acquiring a unique conservation site in the northern Quinte bushland.

The Moira River Conservation Authority was told Thursday the Yardmen will donate $40,000 towards acquisition of an 1,150-acre bushland site in Sheffield Township, south of Kaladar.

A feature of the area is that — the furthest north the species has been documented in Ontario's outdoors.

The donation will cover the authority's 25 per cent share of the purchase. The rest is covered by provincial government grant.

Authority members not only applauded the gesture announced by Belleville city councillor, Stu Meeks, but said they will name the new conservation area after their benefactors.

More than that. They agreed with Ald. Meeks to seek federal government permission to have one of the area's five lakes named Yardmen Lake.

"The benefits this area is receiving from this group of working men who set up the fund is unlimited," said Ald. Meeks.

There will be little development of the authority's newest conservation area. Plans are to maintain it in a wilderness state with, possibly, a walking trails connecting its lakes, said Guy Hughes, authority chairman.

Building Boosts Levies

CANNIFTON — The $229,000 budget recommended for its 1976 operations by the Moira River Conservation Authority Thursday adds one cent old the per capital general levies to be paid by member municipalities.

However, construction of a new authority administration building would add another 36-cent special levy.

The 1976 general levy would be $1.08 compared to $1.07 this year. But the special levy for the $100,000 building would create an over-all per capita payment $1.40.

Belleville, as the largest population centre in the Moira watershed would pay $40,898 and $18,422 on the special levy.

Levies for Thurlow Township would be $7,415 and $3,979. Sidney Township would pay $4,252 and $1,700.

Site of the new building is still being negotiated between the MRCA and Belleville's parks board.

Leading the Band

The mood of the season was in the air last night as the Trenton Citizens Band performed it 11th Annual Christmas Concert, under the direction of Ted Snider. One of the features of the night was Lead the Band. During this time, the younger members of the audience were asked to conduct the band playing Jingle Bells or Jolly Old Saint Nicholas.

Christmas Concert Hit with Children

TRENTON — A near capacity crowd listened to Trenton Citizens Band here Tuesday night at the band's annual Christmas Concert.

Songs from the Christmas season and other crowd pleasing favorites were played by the band's regular 51 member. Also sitting in during the annual engagement were four graduates of the band currently attending universities in the provinces.

The mood of the night was relaxed as the members started off with Step Along With Santa and followed with Toyland.

Following the Syncopated Clock, Gayle D'Eon sang Climb Every Mountain.

One of the highlights of the evening, was the Lead The Band segment. This part of the show allowed the younger members of the audience to come on stage and direct the band with little or no help from Ted Snider, band master.

One by one, about fifteen children from the ages of 4 to 7 went on stage and lead the band in the renditions of Jingle Bells and Jolly Old Saint Nicholas.

Under the direction of Rob Young Initially and later Ray Williams the Trentones (The Trent Chapter of the Barbershop Chorus) sang songs ranging from Al Jolson, hits to Christmas favorites.

The show lasted about two and a half hours, with return engagements in the second half of the show by the Trentones and Gayle D'Eon.

During the first half of the show, the town of Trenton presented a plaque to Ted Snider, director of the band for his contribution to the band which has been a great part of community for the last 11 years.

The Trenton Citizen's Band and the Trentones have 51 and 53 members respectively.

Picton Post Office Reports Sharp Drop in Seasonal Mail

By MARG BAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Christmas mail at the Picton post office Wednesday was reported as "a steady flow with no surges" by postmaster Robert Carter, who added that the volume of holiday letter mail is down substantially this year.

To date, records show volume is down by 46,000 pieces of letter mail in comparison with 1974 figures for the corresponding period.

Letter mail includes Christmas cards and regular mail.

The postmaster added he expects final figures will show a total decrease of approximately 100,000 pieces of letter mail in contrast with other years.

Mr. Carter said that this year extra staff to assist with Christmas mail has been hired for just 85 hours to date, in comparison with more than 250 hours in 1974. He said he expects that fewer than 80 hours of additional help will be necessary to handle this year's holiday mail.

Although there is no piece count for this year's parcel post Mr. Carter noted that it is "definitely down" from other years.

"The postal strike had quite an impact on Christmas," said Mr. Carter, discussing the decreased volume of holiday mail.

He added, however, that other factors may have contributed to the slow down of Christmas mail.

He suggested many young couples have dropped the tradition of mailing Christmas cards to friends and often use the telephone to exchange greetings.

Also, more and more people are visiting friends and relatives in other countries and there is no longer the same importance attached to an annual Christmas letter.

We Get Letters

Christmas mail at the Picton post office is arriving in a steady flow with no "surges" says postmaster Robert Carter. Postal worker James Hedges Thursday was busy sorting the cards and letters that have arrived.

Horse Killed In Mishap

BLOOMFIELD — A Bloomfield area man was treated at Belleville General Hospital for cuts and bruises Thursday night after his pickup truck struck and killed a horse on Christian St., one mile west of Highway 14.

Injured was Douglas Snider, 22, of RR 1 Bloomfield.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Snider was westbound on Christian St. when a horse owned by Kevin Gilbert of RR 1 Bloomfield, ran onto the road colliding with a truck.

The vehicle left the road, entered a ditch, struck two fences and hit a tree.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,500. Damage to the fences was estimated at $200.

The accident occured at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two Cars Collide

PICTON — Two Picton motorists escaped injury Thursday morning in a two-car collision at the intersection of King and Elizabeth Street.

Picton Police Chief Charles Fletcher said Garth Smith 20, of Picton was eastbound on King St., and preceding with a green light when his vehicle was in collision with a car driven by George Jones, 44, of Barker St., Picton.

Damage to the Smith car was estimated at $800, while damage to the Jones vehicle was set at $50.

Blunt-speaking U.S. Ambassador Transfers from Ottawa to Saudi Arabia

By JOHN D. HARRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

American ambassadors are still being replaced for talking out-of-turn, no matter how well-intentioned their personal opinions in public.

The immensely competent United States diplomat James Akins, both a physicist and an Arabist surely the optimum choice for his ambassador's job in Saudi Arabia, is coming home.

The articulate vet cutting Akins disagrees with many of the hard-hitting statements of his boss Secretary of State Henry Kissinger about oil-producing countries striking more at the blame for current inflation. And he has said so publicly.

Or what he has said has become public information. As White House adviser on energy matters in 1973, the Soviet Akins frequently briefed the American and foreign press in outspoken language.

During such a Washington briefing, I heard him define Saudi-Arabian foreign policy in about as succinct a way as it can be done. "To King Faisal," he told us, "Zionism is the matter of Communism as the cancer of Socialism."

We were then warned by him to watch out for a Saudi-Arabian future without the bought-minded and presumably pro-American King Faisal.

Well, he has gone, felled by an angry nephew's bullet but the Saudis seem to be acting about the same with the new king.

Former Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs Nathaniel Davis has been bolsted out of his job for speaking out against any American arms involvement whatsoever in Angola. Mr. Davis who knows all about U.S. involvement from his time as U.S. Ambassador in Chile during the brief Allende years, sees strongly Angola is a purely African affair and should be left that way.

You will recall much of the alleged CIA activity inside Chile to unseat the unwanted (in Washington) Allende Marxist regime which took place while Davis was in charge of the U.S. Embassy in Santiago.

And now another strong American ambassador William Porter—is leaving Ottawa where he has been during the last four years of rising Canadian nationalism and the period of the reduction of Canadian oil and gas exports to the United States.

His departure sounds verbal ominous when we are told he is off to Riyad (capital of Saudi Arabia) to replace the talkative Akins.

The other day Porter sat down with the Ottawa press corps, many of whom "strong," that is write freelance for influential U.S. and European newspapers, and talked openly about the falling away of the once easy Canadian-American relationship.

And he had quite a catalogue of them to refer to. Other than the now much-publicized Canadian cutback in oil and gas exports to the U.S. with all to be completely cut off by 1980, there is the current legislation forcing Time magazine's Canadian edition to close down by next Jan. 1, the take-over of mainly U.S.-owned trucking companies by the Saskatchewan provincial government, a new government and a nasty "border war" all about humbled U.S. commercials on Canadian cable television systems.

Well, like the earlier comments of Messrs. Akins and Davis, outgoing Ambassador Porter's comments were published in the press and angered among others, Prime Minister Trudeau.

He said in reply, that the ambassador's comments had strayed "... beyond the acceptable bounds within which as ambassador should stay ..."

But the difference between Porter and the others is that he is leaving with the state department's best wishes—precisely one which was given to say what he did about Canada in public.

'Distress Sales' Up

The pressures of these inflationary times are reflected in a rise in "distress sales" of large commercial buildings.

The Globe and Mail notes this has been brought on by overbuilding and the continuing slow pace of business expansion.

Writer Patrick Howe says although the situation is well short of the so-called Manhatten syndrome that struck New York recently, many small investors are in financial difficulty with buildings that are empty and with no prospective tenants. Toronto, Hamilton, London and Halifax are among the centres affected. In Toronto for instance a bank has several notices it will exercise its power of sale privileges for the Courtot Building on Bloor Street because of default on mortgage payments by the owner.

Behind such evidence of business failure is the human element — the work of men who put perhaps all they had got into a venture only to find the odds and the times were against them. It may be asked, in the case of small businessmen game enough to risk their all if there is enough encouragement and assistance from government?

The bigger concerns can usually ride the storms. As writer Patrick Howe observes there is a growing tendency for commercial developers to be well financed and insulated from gyrations in the business cycle.

The smaller people are not that lucky.

The Human Touch

The human aspect of government and bureaucracy. It does exist; and newspaper offices are afforded glimpses of it from the information bulletins and brochures of government departments.

In a recent issue of the Ministry of Correctional Services' "Update" there is a picture of retired cabinet minister Dr. Richard Potter putting in some time fishing. The scene is eloquent of the "far-from-the-madding crowd" ideal and certainly far from the former Quinte member's often stormy career in politics.

Dr. Potter's successor is John Smith, MPP for Hamilton South. A 35-year-old bachelor, Mr. Smith packs a degree of experience that belies his years; he began working on election campaigns at the age of 14 and has been a member of the legislature since 1967.

There is a touch of the adventurer in Mr. Smith who has spent a lot of time in the north among Indian communities and has spent several vacations in a remote Eskimo settlement in northern Quebec. He says he has been strongly influenced by the Eskimos' basic belief in brotherhood and their respect for individuality.

The growing role of women in Corrections and in the public life is acknowledged by the minister. He predicts that within a decade half the members of the legislature will be women — and concedes this could be to his personal advantage. There's been little opportunity away from his duties to meet any eligible women — and, he adds, "I'm looking for a wife."

It would be an advantage if the lady of his choice is interested in gardening, for Mr. Smith's wide-ranging interests include horticulture. Indeed, he is a past-president of the Ontario Horticultural Association.

Other government publications in the mail include the Energy, Mines and Resources quarterly, complete with color pictures and information on the department's extensive educational program of energy conservation for government and public alike.

It's a timely subject and one, ironically, of, compelling interest to the people who work for government information services. Information Canada, into which category some publications from Ottawa fall, is slated for elimination under current economy moves.

Long Hours and Hard Work For Members of Legislature

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — As they lock their office drawers for now, let a word be said for the members of the house.

They are a sincere, dedicated and hard-working group of men and women who generally are not appreciated nearly enough.

Traditionally it has been a widespread public habit to be cynical about politicians.

And at one time, there possibly was some justification for this.

Not so many years ago the job of an elected member here was a fairly restful chore.

The sessions were short and the work details light.

There was plenty of time for hours at the Royal York bard in various revelries.

And the ridicg cose-load was light.

A member could easily do his job from a desk in the house with the services of a casual secretary.

But no more.

Being a member here today means long hours, many hours. Many of them dull, perhaps in the work-shop of a committee room.

Then other long periods in the office taking care of the interminable riding work.

Workmen's compensation board cases, mothers allowance claims, the list of local problems that now come before a member is endless.

And all carry out their duties without complaint.

Except for the occasional hubo and the satisfaction of having straightened out a problem there is little reward for a private member.

Yet, I have never heard one complain about the work load—only that there isn't time to get more done.

These members are an exceptional group of public servants and deserve more acclaim than they get.

And a special word for cabinet ministers.

Just how they get through their workload has in recent years been a mystery to me.

Their days are long—the best time to catch one is at eight in the morning. The detail they have to handle is enormous.

They must constantly answer for their departments.

And yet they somehow survive, and mainly keep their health.

They carry a load which compares with that of people in private industry, any way you want to look at it.

Excise Tax Refund Entitlement for Commercial Users

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs

Analyst

Thomson News Service

Starting Dec. 31, anyone who used fuels for commercial purposes is entitled to collect a refund of excise tax.

The levy, 10 cents a gallon, was introduced largely to help stabilize prices across the country, in the face of the rising cost of crude oil imported from the giant cartel—the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Until now, the only refund claims being accepted were those of big users with substantial amounts involved.

Now, claims under $200 may be submitted as of Dec. 31, and at six-month intervals from then on.

A surprisingly small number of $200-plus claims have been submitted. Commercial drivers may be tempted to ignore the refund process, thinking that the amount involved isn't worth the paperwork.

That's a temptation that should be avoided. Paying unnecessary taxes doesn't make sense at any time—and the documentation in this case has been kept to a minimum.

Anyone is eligible who buys gasoline for commercial or business purposes. That includes business and professional people, the self-employed, farm operators, commercial fishermen, hunters and trappers—and the three levels of government.

In addition, refunds are available to a broad range of groups, agencies and institutions such as non-profit organizations—but not to their individual members.

The gasoline tax is recoverable in the same proportion that the activity is deductible as a business expense for income tax purposes, says Revenue Canada.

In the typical case where an employer pays the expenses of his employees who use their cars on company business, it's the employer who claims the refund.

The company may claim either the usual 10 cents a gallon, or it may claim a refund of five-eighths of a cent for each mile travelled by the employee.

Commercials, salesmen and others who are not compensated by their employers are considered to be self-employed. They may claim the refund directly for themselves.

When income-tax time comes, the recipient of a refund must either claim the net amount of automobile expenses that is, the actual amount paid for gasoline less the subsequent refund, or claim the gross amount but add the refund to taxable income.

Remember that your entitlement to a refund runs out two years after you bought the gasoline.

Refund application forms (the number is XE31 and pre-addressed envelopes may be obtained at post offices, taxation offices, customs offices and excise offices.

The claims are handled on what might be called the honor system. You aren't required to attach invoices, receipts or vouchers, nor proof of business use—but are expected to keep that kind of documentation on hand in case the tax collector decides to check.

Refund claims are processed by computer, so it's doubly important to answer all questions on the form—such as the employer number or Social Insurance number.

Claims should be sent to Revenue Canada, Excise Gasoline Tax Division, Ottawa, Ont., K1A 0Y7.

For further information and clarification, there's a different address—Excise Gasoline Tax Division, Box 345, Ottawa, Ont., K1N 2V1.

Questions can also be addressed to any local office of Excise. Telephone numbers are listed on the refund application form.

Chloroform Water Count Especially High Locally

Editor,
The Intelligencer;

Belleville with a chloroform count of 68 parts per billion gallons of water has the highest recording in Ontario (the average is 11) and one of the highs for North America.

The full story which should be of interest to civic leaders and every man, woman and child of Trenton-Belleville appears on page 56 in the December 15 issue of MacLean's Newsmagazine.

The article explains that chlorine (which is used generously here) reacts with human excrement to produce a family of chemical compounds which have been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

The sources of excess quantities of human excrement are derived from incompletely treated sewage and thousands of contributors who are those which dot both sides of the Moira-Trent rivers and the local shores of the Bay of Quinte.

In spring time particularly, many septic beds along the river banks are completely flooded under the swollen waters contributing the entire liquid contents of the bed laden with the germs of excrement.

Many such undersize and antiquated beds are in close proximity to the water filtration plant itself.

Health authorities admit this situation but say they are powerless to take any action which would place a heavy obligation on the owners of established river and Bay homes — many of which were built long before modern sanitary standards became applicable.

Since this situation has been known for years and appears to be locally insoluble, people wishing to minimize the chances of cancer for themselves and their children will be well advised to follow the example of other citizens who are drawing all their drinking water from nearby wells.

CONCERNED

The Canine Population

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The following is the text of a letter addressed to Mayor Clarke.

There has been a great deal of concern lately about the canine population in the Quinte area, especially when an increase in the licence fee was proposed.

In this age of rising prices it was inevitable that inflation would sooner or later raise its ugly head — but why discriminate against the dog — what about other household pets — should they not be entitled to equal status as the dog when it comes to cards and fees?

I do not feel that the real issue is one of an increase in the licence fee as much as a question of control of and service to the canine population.

Let's discuss these one at a time; should the dog — the fees collected — no different than the basic service expected in return for Municipal Taxes.

Council has in the past legislated restrictive by-laws when it comes to dogs; it is about time you took a closer look at what facilities might help reduce the canine problem. Dog welfare yet maintained control as explained above.

The problem of surplus cats and dogs are long-the best time to catch one is at eight in the morning. The detail they have to handle is enormous.

They must constantly answer for their departments.

And yet they somehow survive, and mainly keep their health.

They carry a load which compares with that of people in private industry, any way you want to look at it.

to continue spending such a tremendous amount on rounding up and killing, especially with spiralling costs today, when lowcost spay or neuter municipal clinics could gradually reduce the problem entirely.

It can be done, as Los Angeles has proved, so why are we so backward and inhumane here?

The impound and kill system should have become obsolete many years ago, so let's start looking for our problems are tried in another wasted year.

Consideration should be given to designating an area where dogs could do their thing—room and exercise with their owners — providing sufficient restrictions were imposed so that the area does not turn into a cesspool or a breeding area of disease.

November dogs like humans require a certain amount of controlled freedom.

'Mayhem On Highways

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

On reading the letter by Mr. Scott Beale Dec. 11 and the invective he delivers against the our minister of highways who has had the audacity to attempt to curb motor mayhem on the roads with a reduced speed limit, I am reminded of the old saying "the most unreliable thing on a motorcycle is the nut that holds the steering wheel."

Social Service Budgets Restricted by Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial children's aid societies, municipal social-service departments and homes for the aged will be allowed to increase their budgets by only 8.5 per cent for the fiscal year 1976-77, the Ontario minister of correctional and social services said Thursday.

James Taylor told a meeting of Ontario children's aid societies that the additional expenditure follows the government's policy of restraint.

"It is apparent that in curtailing the growth of expenditures per child massive cuts in order to preserve the present level of service to clients," he said.

"Rather than spelling out specific detailed instructions for budget cuts I feel that we should ensure that each decision is taking into account local needs."

The minister said he will not approve any new capital construction, debt retirement, new programs or special projects, except for programs for the mentally-retarded. These projects already given approval will be completed, however.

A text of the speech was released in advance of delivery.

Information Canada Will Be Disbanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Information Canada will be disbanded March 31 but the saving to the federal government will be only about $2 million a year, a senior federal official said Thursday.

Government book stores, however, will remain open.

Mr. Gillis said the embattled information agency, established five years ago amid charges it was a propaganda tool for the Liberal government, has been given the deadline to wind up programs across the country and clear out of downtown Ottawa offices.

Word of the disbandment came as the government unveiled a series of cost-saving measures in its anti-inflation program.

The official said inquiry centres, mobile information offices and other services will be scrapped by March 31.

The agency's six book stores and its exposition branch will be spaced and transferred to another department.

The exposition branch produces displays for trade fairs and exhibitions.

The 677 Information Canada employees have been all but guaranteed government jobs, he said.

About 300 book store and exposition branch workers will retain their present jobs and the Public Service Commission, the federal hiring agency, will give priority to the remainder in filling vacancies in other departments.

The official said about $3 million of the $9.5-million budget is for salaries while another $2.5 million is for the book stores and exposition branch. He said the net saving will be about $2 million.

NDP Help Defeat Vote of Non-confidence

TORONTO (CP) — New Democrats in the legislature said Thursday there is still much work to be done as they joined the Conservative government in defeating a vote of non-confidence in the speech from the throne.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon (L—Brant) said the NDP—Hamilton Westworth), speaking against the Liberal motion, said he did not quarrel with the amendment in itself but said "this is not a time for posturing, for petty political gain or for economic one-upmanship."

The combined NDP and Conservative vote defeated the motion 78 to 36.

The vote was the first of its kind to be faced by the minority Conservative government since the 30th session of the legislature opened Oct. 28.

The Liberal amendment criticized the government for beginning part of the federal anti-inflation program and urged it to set up its own review board.

Mr. Nixon warned the government it will have to shape up if it expects NDP support during the next session.

Westworth said the people of Ontario expect the government to answer relevant questions.

He told Attorney-General Roy McMurtry that he should spend more time before the legislature and less before the cameras.

"You must re-impose the freeze on gasoline and oil, do something about an income tax-sharing program for farmers and look into matters of safety and health."

He charged that all the over-expenditures and frills causing so much trouble now were brought on by the Conservatives themselves.

Pat Reid (L—Rainy River) spoke first in support of the amendment.

He said the provincial government had abrogated its authority in joining with the federal anti-inflation program where it concerned the public sector.

"I don't blame them for jumping into bed with the federal government," he said.

"But I predict we will have our own anti-inflation board within six months."

Health Minister Frank Miller replied for the government and said the session which wound up Thursday was an historic one.

Feb. 1 Set for New Speed Limits: Snow

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's 18 million annual commercial vehicles will be reduced speed limits take effect [illegible] next Feb. 1, James Snow, minister of transportation and communications, said Thursday.

"I am assured the changeover can be effected within two or three days," the minister told the legislature.

During the changeover period the speed limits will be reflected according to the posted limit.

The government announced previously that it intended to reduce speed limits to 60 miles an hour from 70 on most of the major highways and to 50 miles an hour from 60 on other provincial highways.

Mr. Snow announced two exceptions to the government's original intentions.

On the Trans-Canada Highway 17 link between the Manitoba and Quebec borders, the speed limit for both passenger cars and commercial vehicles will be 55 miles an hour and the speed limit on Highway 11 from North Bay north and west to Rainy River will also be 55 miles an hour.

The minister said such regulations would conform to similar legislation expected in other provinces.

The changing of speed limit signs begin Feb. 1.

Retail Phone Store Allows Some Choice

MONTREAL (CP) — Bell Canada has introduced a new kind of telephone-installation service in suburban Longueuil which allows customers to choose their telephones from a "telephone store."

A company spokesman said the service, called Telebouticque, was introduced on a trial basis last year. Keith Morgan, Telebouticque manager in Longueuil, said 98 per cent of new telephone customers in his area have used the service.

The cities of Sherbrooke, Que., and Guelph, Ont., converted to the Telebouticque system at the same time as Longueuil. Mr. Morgan said in an interview this is the first time the system has been utilized on a large scale.

The new system requires a simple re-wiring of each residence with the addition of jacks similar to electrical outlets. Customers can have as many as five installed at no cost and can move their telephone to any room in the house where jacks are located.

More important, however, is the fact that a new tenant moving into a building equipped with jacks can have telephone service in a matter of hours instead of having to wait days for a service man to arrive.

The new telephone subscriber visits a Telebouticque store and chooses a telephone from the selection Bell offers. At the same time, he is assigned a telephone number. The whole operation takes less than half an hour.

Within two hours the phone may be plugged in and used. The customer is billed the normal rate for initiation of telephone service, which is fixed by the Canadian transport commission, for permission to reduce rates for subscribers taking advantage of Telebouticque services.

From Bell Canada's point of view, the Telebouticque system cuts service costs by eliminating the need for a technician to connect new residential phones. Moreover, because installation service is still available for those who want it.

Telebouticque also represents a more aggressive attitude to merchandising in a business where the market is virtually saturated. Since nearly every home has a telephone, Bell plans to sell a wide variety of services and equipment.

In addition to the 98,000 residences in Longueuil equipped with Bell's new service, the

Black Lion Trainer Prepares for Toronto

BILLESBURGH, Ont. (CP) — It was incongruous to say the least.

A four-wheel-drive passenger truck wended its way through blinding snowsqualls in rural Ontario about 40 miles northeast of Kitchener.

Hardly the setting for shooting a Tarzan movie or an episode of Born Free. Yet, nearby in a barn were eight almost-grown lions, two tiger cubs, a black lion-tamer and his two assistants.

The truck was carrying a reporter, a photographer, a circus publicity agent and his curious brother on their way to see where a Canadian circus—described by its owners as Canada's only circus—keeps its lions in winter.

The lion-tamer is Manuel (Junior) Ruffin, a 27-year-old native of Los Angeles who says he is North America's only black lion trainer.

The lions are Rex, Caesar, Bongo, Casey, Sampson, Nero, Nickey and Mitch. They are between three and five years old and not quite fully grown, lacking the full mane that gives the big cats their regal appearance.

Ruffin is polishing a fine act that he must have ready to go on the road with the Toronto-based Garden Brothers Circus by March.

The lions are all males.

"The males look a bell of a lot better when their manes are full-grown although the females are easier to train," says Ruffin, who joined his first circus in 1969 at the age of 11.

His first job was with the legendary Clyde Beatty. He cleaned cages, fed the lions and did other chores.

One of nine children from a broken family, Ruffin joined the circus because "it was something exciting, something different."

Since then he has trained elephants, trained horses, been a mechanic and "put up the big top," as supervisor of the tent crew.

He will have his own lion act when Garden Brothers circus goes on the road in March, travelling across the North American continent several times between then and the fall.

He has been working with the lions since September and, judging by a demonstration-work on for the reporter and photographer, has made good progress.

He said the lions were partially trained when he got them but, since his act is different from the one they were being trained for originally, he had to start almost at the beginning.

"The act still has a few rough edges. The demonstration began with all the lions lying in front of the trainer. The second part was to feature one lion lying on his back in front of Ruffin while the others perched on stands around the cage.

One of the lions missed his cue. When the star of the act jumped off his perch and sprawled in front of the trainer, the second lion thought they were still practising the first bits and lay down beside the first animal.

All in all, Ruffin was satisfied with the day's work.

"Today I had no trouble getting them to lie down in a row," he said. "Yesterday I had as much trouble with this.

"We still have plenty of time to get the act polished up and when it's ready it will be an exciting show."

The circus life is a good one for both the big cats and their trainer, Ruffin said. The cats get all the harassment they need and all the exercise they need by performing each day.

He said he doesn't mind the travelling. "It's staying in one place like this that bothers me."

He picked up his share of scratches from lions over the years, he said, mostly as the result of carelessness.

"I think circuses are on the upswing now. Ten or 15 years ago people just wanted to watch television and have everything handed to them. Now they want to get out more and do things like going to circuses.

"It's an interesting life and I'd do the same thing again. One day everything's smooth, the next it blows up. But there's a great demand now for animal trainers and circus performers."

Cyclist Is Cheeky

WORTHING, England (CP) — A high-speed fiction-pincher riding a racing bicycle swooped on four women and then dashed off, pedalling furiously. Sussex police say that they "want to find this lad for his own good as well as for the protection of the rights in the form." The women involved say he is between 11 and 14 years old and has a flushed face.

Guidelines Cause Deluge Of Paper Work for Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal anti-inflation program will mean a deluge of paper work for thousands of companies required to make detailed calculations of the wages and benefits received by their employees.

A government source said Tuesday the onus will be on employers to determine the hourly value of both wages and all other benefits by filling out anti-inflation board forms.

The hourly value will be used in determining percentage pay increases allowed under the program.

The requirement for filling out the forms will be included in 10 pages of regulations to be published Thursday night containing details of how the program of selective pay and price controls is to be administered.

The government plans to distribute 300,000 copies of explanation kit explaining details of the nine-week-old program.

The pay increases allowed under the program include a basic percentage—eight per cent in the first year—as protection against inflation. The government sources said the regulations would reduce the inflation-protection factor allowed in future years for workers benefiting from a cost-of-living clause in their contracts in excess of eight per cent in the first year.

The regulations also will include detailed definitions of the possible exemptions which could allow workers to receive larger pay increases. However, the anti-inflation board has the discretionary power of deciding when a group of workers is eligible for exemption.

One method of exemption is to allow larger pay increases when they are required to maintain a historical relationship between two groups of workers.

An official said the regulations define historical relationships as existing under either of two circumstances:

—Where there is a demonstrable relationship between the level of pay and the timing and rate of increases for two different groups of workers for more than two years prior to Oct. 14; or,

—Where the two groups work for the same employer, are employed in the same industry and same local labor market and perform work related to the same product, process or service.

The anti-inflation board already has made clear in a number of rulings, however, that it will reject proposed wage increases meeting these criteria when it decides the increases required are too large or would do damage to the program it said.

The government's policy paper introducing the program also said the board may allow larger pay increases for workers whose previous contract had been signed prior to Jan. 1, 1974, because these workers will not had the chance to bargain since the inflation rate accelerated.

The regulations say that this provision would only apply if the previous contract had also expired prior to Oct. 14 and negotiation had begun on a new contract before that date, the official said.

The regulations will spell out in detail what the anti-inflation board already has made clear in a number of rulings, however, that it will reject proposed wage increases meeting these criteria when it decides the increases required are too large or would do damage to the program it said.

COINS LACING

Due to the shortage of silver coins in 1878 and because paper currency could be printed quickly, the Canadian government issued 25-cent notes, popularly called shin-plasters.

Franco Yielded Power Only in Face of Death

The Canadian Press

Francisco Paulino Hermenegildo Teodulo Franco y Bahamonde ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years. He yielded power only to death and he fought that as stubbornly as he ever fought his political enemies.

The generalissimo became master of his country in 1939 with the help of fellow-dictators Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini after one of history's bloodiest civil wars. He imposed a measure of stability upon a troubled nation at the expense of fundamental human rights.

When he died Nov. 19 at the age of 82 it was after an illness that lasted 29 days during which he survived a series of major operations that attested to his stamina.

The rest of the world took little notice when his designated successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, 37, chosen by him four years before, became Spain's first king in 47 years.

Another world figure died in 1975, in relative obscurity. He was Haile Selassie, 83, former emperor of Ethiopia, the Lion of Judah and King of Kings who had been deposed and forced to give up a personal fortune of more than $1 billion. Death came in Addis Ababa Aug. 27.

Death struck down other political greats of past years, among them Chiang Kai-shek, 87, president of Nationalist China, in Taipeh April 5; Nikolai Bulganin, 79, former premier of Soviet Russia, in Moscow Feb. 24, and Ramon de Valera, the fiery Irish rebel who became the revered president of the Republic of Ireland, in Dublin Aug. 29 at the age of 92.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, 68, fell before an assassin's bullet in the palace in Riyadh March 25. The gunman was Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, the king's nephew. He was beheaded with a golden sword as thousands cheered. He was the first member of the Saudi Arabian royal family to be executed in public.

Almost last sight of it in a troubled year that recorded the deaths of many prominent people was Col. Richard Ratcliffe-Brown, president of the Malagasy Republic, by assassination, Feb. 11, and the Duke of Norfolk, 66, Britain's Premier Duke and Earl Marshal, in London Feb. 7 of natural causes.

The world of sports was shaken as it had seldom been before when Graham Hill, 46, twice winner of the world motor-car racing championship and Britain's "elder statesman" in that dangerous sport, was killed in an airplane crash Nov. 29 just outside London, as he rolled from his home. With him died five members of his racing team.

Hill was the only man to win the Le Mans 24 Hour—the Grand Prix world championship, twice, the Indianapolis 500 (1966) and Le Mans 24-hour endurance test.

For 20 years he drove the powerful Formula I cars on the world's major racing circuits without an accident. He retired from racing last July to concentrate on building and sponsoring racing cars and was flying home in his own plane from Marseilles, after testing a new car on the Riviera, when he crashed in thick fog two miles from his landing point.

Two days before Hill was killed, Britain and the rest of the Western world were shocked by the murder of Ross McWhirter, co-editor with his twin brother, Norris, of the Guinness Book of Records, gunned down at the door of his suburban London home by assassins of the Irish Republican Army.

McWhirter had launched a "Beat the Bombers campaign," offering a $100,000 reward for the arrest of IRA terrorists who had killed eight persons and wounded scores in London in the previous few months.

If ever a man loved sport, sport without a price tag, it was Avery Brundage.

The Chicago tycoon was president of the International Olympic Committee for more years (1952-72) than his detractors cared to remember, but when he died in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, West Germany, at 87, May 8, he was recognized as Mr. Amateur Sport.

He threw Eleanor Holm off the United States Olympic swimming team in 1936 because she took a drink of champagne aboard ship while crossing the Atlantic. She said: "He's a jerk."

Canada's ice-skating darling, Barbara Ann Scott, said "thanks" after he told her to return to the donor the convertible given to her when she won the Olympic skating championship in 1947.

Never again will the fictional detective, Nero Wolfe, dine his 19-stone (266 pounds) bulk into his specially-built chair and call for beer after tending his orchids on the top floor of the 454-foot brownstone house-that-never-was in downtown Manhattan. His creator, author Rex Stout, 89, died in Danbury, Conn., Oct. 27.

Aristotle Onassis, the 69-year-old Greek shipping magnate, died in Paris March 15. He was the second husband of Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the slain United States president.

The death list of prominent persons in 1975 was lengthy. Among others in it were:

Jan. 11, the French boxer who was world light heavyweight champion in 1930 and who lost to Jack Dempsey in a historic heavyweight championship fight in 1921, in Paris, Oct. 27; Edgard Charles, 85, former world heavyweight boxing champion, in Chicago, May 29; Casey Stengel, 85, major league baseball manager who won more World Series victories than any other Arts and letters: Thomas manager, Glendale, Calif., Sept. 30; Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, 75, star pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1920s and '30s, May 22.

Hart Benton, 83, painter, in Kansas City, Jan. 19; Sir Arthur Bliss, 84, composer and Master of the Queen's Musick, London, March 27;

In Appreciation

I wish to thank all my friends for the help and kindness which was shown concerning my new project at the Y.M.C.A.

Best wishes to all. Thanks Kindly.

Bail Reduced

Wendy Yoshimura, the 22-year-old underground companion of Patty Hearst, arrives at the Alameda County court house on Wednesday where Judge Lionel Wilson reduced her bail from $100,000 to $25,000. Judge Wilson impressed on Miss Yoshimura that strong support from the Japanese-American community prompted him to reduce bail.

Volunteer Work Helps Build Cuba

HAVANA (Reuter) — For the Cubans packed in open trucks on their way to the fields or the construction sites, Sunday is just a normal working day—except that they do not get paid.

Many of them exhibit in their hearts a diploma rewarding hundreds of hours of voluntary work, signed by one of the two men who started the scheme when economic hardship made it necessary—Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

Together with Premier Fidel Castro, the late guerrilla leader went out into the fields to cut sugar cane as an example to the masses.

In those days, the early 1960s, the voluntary work scheme was needed to overcome labor shortages, step up production and develop a socialist conscience.

It developed in an atmosphere of enthusiasm and confusion with crowds leaving their normal jobs behind to go out to the sugar fields.

Students, women, office clerks wielded machetes under a scorching sun for long hours with plenty of good will—but with poor skill and to little result.

Next: mobilization for the unsuccessful harvest of "the 10 million tons" of sugar in 1970 signalled the end of this first period after it caused near chaos in other economic sectors, which had become deserted.

Volunteer work now has become more productive as volunteers are asked to display their revolutionary zeal where they are most efficient, in their own trades.

More Married Women Are Deciding to Keep Their Own Surnames

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Traditionally, when a woman married, along with the white gown, confetti and wedding gifts, she got a new name.

Nowadays, however, if she chooses to marry, she may well do without the long dress, the gift-bearing guests and the rest of the centuries-old marriage customs. More importantly, she may decide to keep her own name instead of changing to her husband's.

But can she do that? Is it legal?

Absolutely.

The name change accompanying marriage takes place only through custom, not through law. Although the husband's name becomes the wife's name legally, it is only through usage that this occurs. In other words, once the woman starts using the name, it becomes hers.

It is convention, not law, that causes a woman to take her husband's name. But this convention is now being questioned, and with good reason.

In the past, the law took the view that upon marriage a woman lost her separate legal personality, that then became merged with her husband's. The name change simply made this concept visible.

Gradually, however, the courts have begun to recognize marriage as a partnership of equal members, and family law is presently being reformed to provide fairer, more equal property rights for women. Perhaps this partnership approach is partially responsible for the growing number of women who wish to retain their personal names at marriage, or to revert to those names after years of using their husband's names.

For some, this may seem a minor, even trivial issue. For many, the idea that a woman might not wish to be called "Mrs." is a social heresy, a symptom of weaker marital loyalty, even a cause of eventual family disintegration.

Nevertheless, more women are choosing to take this action. The Ontario Law Reform Commission is currently studying the situation, and the problems that spring up when custom is defied. A study paper — A Woman's Name — is now available to the public in order to air comments and suggestions for solutions.

And what are the problems?

There are the practical consequences of keeping track of families in police records, banks and credit companies, insurance policies and employers' accounts. There is the impact on society's structure, the possible lack of family continuity and identity.

Although there is no law requiring a woman to change her name, it is often difficult for her to carry her own and still be able to prove her marital status to stores, companies, government agencies or banks. This could only change if many women decide to retain their birth names.

Women who retain their birth names in a professional capacity and who use their husband's names socially still must use only one of these legally, for public record.

If a married woman wants to return to the use of her own name she must file an application to the county or district court stating the reasons for the change. Under the Change of Name Act she may "take back her own name for public usage, after a formal fallbough and a brief court hearing.

The Law Reform Commission is currently examining several proposals regarding the name-change situation. One suggestion is that a woman should have to use either her own or her husband's name, as she prefers. But this practice would be more confusing than the present system, requiring elaborate cross-indexing under both names.

Another proposal is the use of hyphens, so that both the husband's and wife's names are used to make an entirely new name at the time of marriage. This custom is popular in many European and South American countries, but rare in Ontario. Although the lengthening of surnames by hyphenation would present troubles for computer-filing, the practice would proclaim a marriage of equals, linking family members to both their paternal and maternal ancestors.

Unfortunately, this unconventional alternative would probably lead to further difficulties here because there is no established pattern for dealing with hyphenation. The system works best in countries where most surnames have a common language root, and where a cultural approach to marriage bears it out.

Some of the questions raised in the Commission's study search into the very heart of our attitudes to the family.

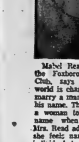
Should the law continue to require that children of wedlock be given their father's surname? Should a couple be able to give a child the mother's name as its surname? Or a hyphenated surname combining both parents' names? Or a totally different name from its parents?

Solutions to these and other questions are still far from being found. And in the process of the Commission's study, the symbolic, emotional and practical implications of name choice are being examined before any new names are made.

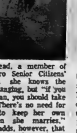
If you would like a copy of the booklet A Woman's Name, or have opinions you'd like known, write to the Ontario Law Reform Commission, 18th Floor, 18 King Street East, Toronto, M5C 1C5, before January 31, 1976.

It May Be Legal, But It's Still Not Popular in Belleville

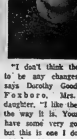
A survey of shoppers in the Quinte Mall this week brought various responses to the question "Do you think women should keep their own birth names when they marry, instead of taking their husbands' names?"



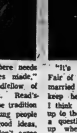
Mabel Read, a member of the Tuttoro Senior Citizens' Club, says she knows the world is changing but "if you marry a man, you should take his name. There's no need for a woman to keep her own name when she marries." Mrs. Read adds, however, that she feels name change is an individual decision. Her women of her acquaintance have made this choice.



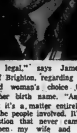
"I don't think there needs to be any changes made," says Dorothy Goodfellow of Foxboro. Mrs. Read's daughter. "I like the tradition the way it is. Young people have some very good ideas, but this is one I don't agree with. I think women should take their husband's names."



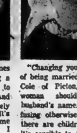
"It's legal," says James Fair of Brighton, regarding a married woman's choice to keep her birth name. "And I think it's a matter entirely up to the people involved. It's a question that never came up when my wife and I married, but if she wanted to change her name back, she could. She's a free agent, after all."



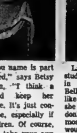
"Changing your name is part of being married," says Betsy Cole of Picton. "I think a woman should keep her husband's name. It's just confusing otherwise, especially if there are children. Of course, it's sensible to take your own name back after separation, but that's a different matter."



Laura Totten, a first-year student at Carleton University in Ottawa, is home in Belleville for the holidays. "I like the old-fashioned way," she says, "and I guess I just don't like changes. I think most of my acquaintances would prefer the old way too, where a woman changes her name to her husband's. I don't even go for the Applebaum idea."



Peter Charles Andrew Tupper, of Foxboro says "I imagine it's up to the individual," whether to keep or change a name. He recalls that when he got married, both he and his wife got equally new names because the preacher mispelled "Tupper" as "Tube", a mistake that was finally corrected after three months.



Personal Identity: More Valuable Than Tradition?

"Marriage has room for two individuals."

Donna Whalen and Joe Hiscott believe this firmly. As a token of that belief, when they were married in July, 1974, Donna chose to retain her own name.

But she is quick to point out that her husband was "absolutely supportive", and that he has continued to feel, as she does, that keeping her name is her right.

Although in doing so Donna Whalen is defying centuries of custom her intentions are not "revolutionary". She simply says that her name was a part of her that she couldn't give up.

"I've always been known as Donna Whalen," she says. "I think a name is a symbol. It stands for who you are. And my name is very much tied up with who I am.

"I've always felt this way. When I was 20 or 21 I decided that life would be what I wanted it to be, and that if I ever married, marriage wouldn't change my identity."

She prefers Ms. Whalen to Miss Whalen, and admits that she often gets called Mrs. Whalen by strangers who see her wedding rings and get confused. But it doesn't bother or upset her.

"You see, I don't really care if the general public knows my marital status. I don't believe it's important in a public sense. Anyway, the people who know Joe and me know that we're married," she says.

"My married status is very important to me personally. Keeping my own name has nothing to do with appearing "unmarried" or flirting around'. I have no objection to wearing a ring, for example."

Ms. Whalen adds that her earlier career in real estate was not a factor in her decision to keep her name. "But in terms of the career I hope to have as a writer, I've always intended to use my own name and maintain a permanent identity."

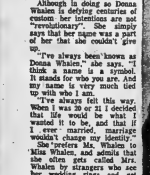
Now working at home, pursuing that writing career, Ms. Whalen has her own listing in the telephone book, in the manner that any two people with identical names sharing a phone would have. Because of this, none of her friends who want to get in touch have to remember "who Donna married" in order to find her, in fact, keeping her own name has presented Ms. Whalen with few problems.

There have been a couple of bouts with an insurance company computer that balked at the idea, but computers are notoriously reactionary and slow to catch on.

And then there's the OHIP form that Mr. Hiscott fills out where his wife must be listed as his child because her name is different. However, these difficulties are small ones.

"I've found most people very tolerant.

"I really haven't had a hard time," says Donna Whalen. And although his friends have teased Joe a little, he's got enough self-assurance to not be bothered."



Husband and wife, Joe Hiscott and Donna Whalen.

Fox — Fox

St. Joseph's Church was the setting for the fall wedding of Susan Deborah Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fox, and Richard Keith Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox of RR 1, Bloomfield.

Rt. Rev. J.A. Carley performed the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk taffeta under organza, featuring a fitted bodice and a neckline of French lace. A centre panel at the back accented the skirt in a long train ending in French lace. The bride's long veil of silk illusion tulle was gathered to a crown of daisies and lace, and she carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses.

Laura Lee Fox, the bride's sister, was maid of honor in a gown of dusty rose fitted at the waist with bolero jacket, worn with a crepe jacket with scalloped sleeves and ties. She carried a cascade of white daisies.

Carolyn Morris, the bride's sister, Cathy Fox, the groom's sister, and Pat Reid were bridesmaids in gowns identical to the maid of honor's, also carrying bouquets of daisies.

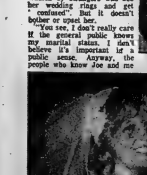
Laurie Fox, the groom's nephew, was flower girl in a princess line gown of rusty red, carrying a basket of daisies.

Rogers was accompanied by Christopher Fox, the bride's nephew, as ring bearer.

Roger Elliott was the groom's best man. Ushers were Roger Townsend, the bride's brother Tony Fox, and the groom's brother Gordon Fox.

A dinner and dance was held in the 82's Hall following the wedding.

After a trip to Florida, the newly-married couple made their home at RR 1, Bloomfield.



Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fox

No Name Change Here!

When Susan and Richard Fox decided to marry, there was one question that never came up — Susan didn't have to consider whether or not she wanted to change her name. For Susan was, already named Fox.

"We're not related at all," she says. "And we didn't meet because of our names being together on a list or anything like that. We simply met through friends. Oddly enough, we had many of the same friends."

However, Mrs. Fox has had to go through the changing of her marital status on her driving license, social insurance and other records. "They're pretty funny about whether you're married or single," she says.

And, she adds, she and her husband are used to being teased about their unusual situation. "We got a lot of kidding," she says.

Ann Landers Deathbed Cries Break Hearts

Dear Ann Landers: I was infuriated by the letter signed "The Other Woman" who was sick at heart because the man she had been sneaking around with for 11 years was dying of cancer. She bemoaned the fact that even though she was "first in his life" she would have to sit in the back of the church at the funeral while his wife sat in front, getting all the sympathy due a perfect wife.

As an R.N. who has seen more than one wife at the bedside of a delirious (or dying) husband and listened to him call The Other Woman's name in his delirium, I can tell you it is a heartbreaking thing to watch—especially if children are present, and they often are.

Most wives know about The Other Woman and do their best to hold their heads up while keeping one eye and one ear shut. Too bad someone can't put a gag in the mouth of a cheating husband or tie his tongue up so his last days aren't hell on his long-suffering wife.—On The Other Side.

Dear O.S.: Nobody can say this column doesn't give equal time to both sides. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for at least 15 years. As a former English teacher, I would give you no better than a C for grammar.

I can't figure out if your strange and often unconventional use of the subject is a result of the area where you grew up (Iowa, ugh) or were you pouty educated?

In the last month you used the word "ain't" twice. I realize "ain't" is in the dictionary but it's considered improper usage by respected authorities. Will you respond to this in print, please?—Observer In Waltham, Mass.

Dear Wally: A lot of those respected authorities who wouldn't dream of saying "ain't"—don't eatin', as Will Rogers said.

As for "Iowa—ugh," did you know that Iowa has a 98-per-cent literacy rate? The highest of the 50 states? I accept your apologies.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter and help a lot of people.

You are my father, You work like a dog and bring home a paycheque pitied to poverty by taxes. You can't love my mother what she deserves. Every day means another line of worry on your face. My heart aches whenever you light a cigarette. I would gladly trade my lungs for yours if you would stop. You've hardly smile. Your eyes are always sad. You never tell me what's bothering you.

You are my mother. You don't have the nice things other wives have. Our home is intolerable. You've worked like a slave for as long as I can remember. Your parents never gave you anything but aggravation.

You never go anywhere, waiting for your husband to come home. He's always too tired for anything but falling asleep on the couch. I know how lonely you must be.

You think I only care about my friends, but you're wrong. They don't make me cry at night. Every time you and dad fight I die a little inside. I love you both. I only wish I could help.—Your Child.

Dear Child: I wish I could help, too, but neither of us can. It's up to your parents to seek help. All we can do is hope they will—and soon.

Smarten Up To Be Equal

TORONTO (CP) — If women want to be equal with men, they should smarten up, several members of the Ontario Status of Women Council said Thursday.

Ruth Cunningham of Thunder Bay said men will remain in school and upgrade themselves, but women, after what they need and disappear into low-paying jobs or marriage and children.

She was speaking during presentation of briefs on the status of women in Ontario's 22 community colleges.

Laura Sabia, chairman, said that when she talks about women's rights, she is dismayed at the apathetic I'm-all-right-Jack-married attitude of many women.

"Some women automatically assume that to be married is an automatic life insurance policy."

Mrs. Sabia said answers from girls at secondary schools are particularly shocking.

"I ask them what they plan to do when they graduate and invariably they'll answer that they want to get married.

The Attack on Inflation

Inflation is the most serious problem we have in Canada. That makes the Attack on Inflation the most serious and important program in front of us today. And success in this program becomes our most important national objective.

The evils that inflation brings are painfully clear. Soaring prices that hurt us at home every day and make our products less competitive in international markets. Special hardships for anyone with a fixed income. Frustrating difficulties in all family budgeting and planning. Bitterness and fear of compromise in union-management relations.

Controlling and correcting these evils is the purpose of the anti-inflation legislation that has just been passed by Parliament.

The law establishes Guidelines and Regulations which are designed to create a fair and livable economic climate. They make it possible for all of us to attack inflation together. For the good of Canada and for the good of each Canadian.

A working explanation

What we will do

The Anti-Inflation Guidelines apply to everyone and all Canadians are expected to comply with them. The Guidelines will keep price increases within strict limits. They will also control profits, incomes, dividends and professional fees. While many Canadians are simply asked to comply with the Guidelines, five groups are required by law to do so.

1. Businesses with more than 500 employees.
2. Construction firms with more than 20 employees.
3. The Federal Government.
4. Participating Provincial Governments and municipal institutions.
5. Professional individuals or firms.

The Anti-Inflation Board will apply the Guidelines evenly and fairly to everyone covered by the law, including the Government of Canada. The Government is making major cuts in costs and spending and will abide by the Guidelines.

Price control

To make price control really work on a lot of the things we need and use every day, a number of rules will be enforced. For example, over 100 of the biggest companies in Canada, making or selling over 2000 kinds of goods, have to notify the Anti-Inflation Board 30 days in advance of any planned important price increase. Even then, these companies and all others covered by the legislation can only raise their prices to cover an increase in costs. They will have to prove that their real costs have gone up and not all claims of cost increases will be accepted.

Profit control will also be used to hold down prices. Some companies can't tell how much it costs to make a single item. They will have to price their products so that their overall profit margin is no more than 95% of what it was on average over the last five years. This Regulation will help keep price increases to a bare minimum. It will also result in a drop in prices if the companies' costs go down. All companies are expected to pass on cost savings to you, the consumer.

Salary and Wage Control

Now that the law restrains price increases, it is fair and reasonable to expect restraint in incomes. The Guidelines limit increases in income to an average of 10%. If an employee group has had lower than normal increases in the last few years, this limit can go up to 12%. The limit on wage and salary increases can also drop to 8% for groups that have enjoyed above normal gains. The highest average increase for any group is $2400.

An exception is made for someone earning a very low income. Under the Guidelines, these people are entitled to try for an increase of $600 a year or whatever it takes to bring their earnings to $3.50 an hour, whichever amount is greater.

The Guidelines are designed to let you keep a little ahead of the allowed price increases. As a result, wage and salary control need not be a special hardship for anyone.

What you can do

There are many things you can do to fight inflation and to protect yourself against price increases. As a start, look out for price changes. If you don't like a price increase, taking your money elsewhere is the best protest there is. Or, if you suspect that a price change is breaking the Guidelines, ask questions. Ask the store. Ask the company that makes the stove or suit or car or pair of shoes. And if you're not satisfied, tell the Anti-Inflation Board about it. One of the roles of the Anti-Inflation Board is to give new help to you the consumer in the battle against rising prices.

This kind of participation, as well as your personal support of the Guidelines will help the Attack on Inflation succeed and succeed as quickly as possible. Canada's wealth and resources are far from unlimited and it is very important to the anti-inflation effort that we try hard as individuals and as a nation to produce our goods more efficiently and to live within our means. Your attitude of restraint, common sense and commitment will be as effective as any legislation in beating inflation.

What the Anti-Inflation Board is and how to use it

The Board has two major roles to play in the Attack on Inflation. First of all, it is the working arm of the anti-inflation legislation. The Board will keep a close check on prices and profits and will review salary increases and wage settlements. The Anti-Inflation Board will make the Guidelines stick.

The Anti-Inflation Board will also work with you and for you, answering your questions and complaints, and hearing your suggestions. If you are aware of any Guideline violations, such as an unjustified price increase that has affected you personally, the Board wants to know.

Lalonde Says Ottawa To Study Child Abuse

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is prepared to spend money and time on research to define child abuse and prevent it from spreading, Health Minister Mme Lalonde and Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said Tuesday.

But before any definite pledges are made, they said, the facts have to be gathered.

Both Mr. Allmand and Mr. Lalonde told the Commons health and welfare committee they have some possible answers but each cited contradictory studies, inadequate research and the fear and ignorance of the psodic ac major obstacles to overcome.

Saying it is difficult to define child abuse and separate it from child neglect, Mme Lalonde said that 68,000 children in the custody of welfare officials in Canada as of June, 1973 were victims of neglect—wilful or unintentional maltreatment.

He said that in 1973-74, the number of abused or battered children in Canada totaled 1,985, in legal terms abuse usually includes physical attack, severe discipline such as lengthy solitary confinement, the deprivation of basic needs like food, or any other action that could cause physical or mental damage to a child.

Battering usually means intentional physical harm, he said.

Mr. Allmand expanded those definitions to include sexual abuse and noted that Mr. Lalonde's figures included only reported cases.

"Conservative estimates of the actual number of cases in Canada put the figure between 2,000 and 4,000 per year," he said.

Both cited the need for a strong reporting system under which people would not be afraid to report cases of child abuse.

In most provinces, such reporting is mandatory. But people still usually fear legal reprisals, unpleasant involvement in legal action or damaging personal or professional relationships, he said.

"Child abuse is a criminal act by anybody's definition," Mr. Allmand said in a brief to the committee, but both ministers said changes to the Criminal Code would not put an end to it.

Mr. Allmand cited section 43 of the Criminal Code which allows schoolteachers, parents or persons replacing parents to use force to discipline a child "if the force does not exceed what is reasonable under the circumstances."

Mr. Allmand said up to Nov. 30 of this year, 580 such acts "beyond reasonable force" were committed in Ontario alone and eight of those resulted in the death of the child.

Both ministers agreed that need for co-ordination among diagnosis and treatment of child abuse is of secondary importance to its prevention.

Mr. Allmand said a number of experimental projects, including family-based treatment units and crisis centres where families, parents or children can retreat temporarily, are in their early stages. Budgetary outbacks in some social service ministries, such as in Ontario, have forced a shutdown of some of these projects, he added.

But Mr. Lalonde said money could be found to identify potential problems and to provide self-help, or child care courses, and improved social services under provisions of the proposed social services act. The act will extend federal-provincial cost-sharing plans to community-based programs.

Both ministers stressed, a need for co-ordination among social agencies and professionals including police, nurses, doctors and social workers.

In a multi-service centre, Mr. Lalonde said, a parent might come for help for alcoholism or mental illness, then be or she reveals that he or she is an abusive parent.

One current problem he said, is the "prejudice between police officers and social workers." Social workers don't want to involve the police because parents accuse them of "selling out in the cops."

Kalaupapa - an Eden For Small Population

KALAUPAPA, Hawaii (AP) — Once a purgatory for society's outcasts, this isolated, tranquil peninsula has become a freely chosen Eden for its dwindling dozens of residents.

Those who lived here were once cut off from society by law. Those who remain today still are set apart, not only by geography but also by the ignorance and prejudice that surround their common affliction—leprosy.

Thanks to modern science, there is no medical reason for lepers to live in this 139-year-old settlement. The government is thinking about closing it.

But for the 140 lepers who call this home, the biggest fear is not being allowed to live out their lives here.

"I don't want to leave," said John Cachero, who has spent 32 of his 71 years in this four-square-mile tongue of land jutting from the rugged north face of the island of Molokai. He recalls the day he was exiled to Kalaupapa as the saddest of his life, but says he found contentment here.

"This is the life I wanted," he said. "I wouldn't change it."

Living is easy, quiet and slow, with the restless Pacific on three sides and a spectacular verdant backdrop of 2,000-foot-high mountains.

The settlement has dwindled from a high of 1,213 patients in 1890. Only 775 patients have been admitted since 1949, when the government stopped requiring lepers to be isolated here. No patients have been admitted since 1970, and last year the state government announced that all new leprosy cases would be treated on an outpatient basis.

Sulfone drugs have made 90 per cent of leprosy cases curable. More recently, rifampin and clofazimne have virtually eliminated the possibility of contagion.

A recent state report recommended closing the settlement in 10 years but also noted that most patients prefer to stay but claimed they may feel ill equipped for the pace of life outside and the prejudice of outsiders.

Some patients are unmarked but others, particularly those who contracte the disease before the advent of modern drugs, are ravaged.

The state provides separate cottages for three-quarters of the residents. The rest live in an antiquated hospital or a dormitory home. Residents receive free medical care plus allowances for food, clothing, incidentals and utilities.

Aside from the civil-service workers, the only non-lepers are the handful of visitors who come by plane or made trait.

Free to come and go, the leprosy patients sometimes travel so far as the United States mainland on vacation—a striking contrast to a century ago. When leprosy erupted in an epidemic among native Hawaiians in the 19th century, forced isolation was the only answer. Countless crumbling grave mm.ters attest to leprosy's horrors.

The disease attacks the nerves, often leading to a loss of feeling in hands and feet. Small blisters can become ulcerate' sores.

Passengers Lucky In Near Air Mishap

BONN (Reuter) When two fighter planes strayed into the airspace straight ahead of his Boeing 727, Captain Manfred Meier saw only one way out.

Passengers catapulted from their seats as he threw the 60-ton plane in to a dive. Several were slightly hurt, but the 91 people on board were lucky—it was only a "near miss."

Airline pilots and air controllers are wondering how long West Germany's luck will hold. In its crowded airspace, a near miss is reported virtually every day.

Since 1970 nearly 2,000 have been recorded over West Germany, where planes from eight air forces of the North Atlantic alliance share the airspace with airliners criss-crossing Europe.

West German air traffic controllers recall that one of the worst air disasters in history occurred in mid-air when a fighter plane and an airliner collided over Japan in 1971, killing 162 people.

The federal air safety agency says military planes are involved in seven out of 10 near misses.

The recent incident with the two West German Flat G-91 fighters prompted West Germany's Lufthansa airline, whose Boeings are involved, to appeal for action by the transport ministry.

One of the main points Lufthansa made was that co-ordinated air traffic control was needed for all flights over West Germany, whether military or civilian.

At present, the 370,000 airliner flights each year are guided by civilian traffic controllers while air force controllers watch military flights on their own radar screens.

Network of Paths Suggested in Report

CANNIFTON — Scenic cycling and hiking could be available in the Belleville area, if the Quinte Bayfront Plan conception becomes a future reality.

A continuous network of pedestrian and cycling pathways along 18 miles of shoreline centred on the city is a major suggestion of the study presented to the Moira River Conservation Authority Tuesday.

These are the suggested routes:

Starting at Montrose Blvd. in Sidney Township, a pathway, also suitable for bicycles could be created south of Highway 2, between the roadside ditch and property lines. It could follow the highway as far as the Canadian Pacific overpass near the Belleville cemeteries, to parkland at Avondale Rd.

From the Quinte Conservation Area (formerly the Potter Property) a separate pathway could follow the shoreline to Avondale.

Through parkland Belleville both pedestrians and cyclists could follow the shoreline around the city filtration plant to West Zwicks Park, under the Highway 14 bridge to the Moira River. Crossing the river would call for extending the pathways on existing piers beside the CPR bridge that once carried the old Canadian Northern Railway across the Moira.

The pathways would then head east from South Front St., along existing roadways where the park strip now ends, the path would follow the Canadian Northern right-of-way to the Highway 2 and follow the road for a half-mile.

From there the pathways will head into a proposed Point Anne Nature Sanctuary area. The route would follow railroad embankment around the sanctuary — a stretch requiring several bridges, including two over Blessington Creek.

Through the rest of Point Anne, the pathways generally would follow the road system.

A similar system is proposed along the Moira River to link up with greenbelt and routes already planned by the new parks department.

Also in the study, walkways should take precedence over bicycle paths. It could be possible to construct a pathway along the east river wall and cantilevered over the water.

Meeks Says Government Ignored Fish Quality Report

CANNIFTON — In 1976 the Moira River Conservation Authority should:

(1) Press provincial resources authorities...for a pickerel-stocking program.

(2) Undertake a study of Moira River sediment, the species of predatory responsible—whether walleye, coyotes, dogs, or hydro.

The suggestions came from Stu Meeks, city council's representative on the MRCA and chairman of the aquaculture's fish and wildlife committee.

Ald. Meeks called 1975 a "frustrating year" in attempts to prompt response from provincial authorities on fish stocking programs and possible fish contamination.

"You're just knocking your head against a stone wall," he commented.

He said requested report on the quality of fish being used to stock waterways was never answered by provincial authorities. It was sought after a rehoe salmon caught locally showed arsenic content 20 times the permitted level of safety for human consumption.

Meanwhile, attempts to have coho stocked in the Bay of Quinte was turned down because the waterway is part of a long — term study to measure environment benefit of anil — pollution programs.

Coho stocking was ruled out since it is not a native Quinte species.

But the pickerel is a local fish and a delegation should be sent to Queen's Park in 1976 to urge a federal — stocking program, said Ald. Meeks.

BGH Self-care Unit Move May Leave Some Patients Without Beds

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The possible move of the Queen's Self-care Unit from cramped quarters in the Edith Cavell Block and a threatened provincial government health ceiling on the number of beds which can be billeted in 1976 might force a decrease in patient care at Belleville General Hospital, hospital board of governors learned Thursday.

The board has been notified by the ministry refuses to renew the five-year lease on the former Queen's Motel on East Dundas St. as part of government spending restraints next year.

It means the 70-bed unit will close when the lease expires at the end of next year to spelling an end to the pilot project which began in 1971, The unit was designed to ease pressure on BGH bed space by providing a less-costly centre for patients not in need of active hospital care.

However, the board has been told the ministry will negotiate a scaled-down version in the Cavell Block of the former residence and a former nurses' teaching centre — can be converted at a reasonable cost.

Gerry Joyce, chairman of the board's planning and property committee, said renovations would be for dining room facilities and the transportation of food through the tunnel from the BGH complex on some sort of motorized cart system.

Mr. Joyce said costs for physical changes of two floors in the Cavell Block — to accommodate upwards to 60 - 50 beds - are not expected to be high.

He pointed out the ministry will require projected funding of the new unit's physical operation in 1977 on a recommendation to be provided by BGH administrators.

"Some patients may not be accommodated there (Cavell Block) who were accommodated at the self-care," he commented.

Phillip Rickard, BGH executive director, said the ministry has informed Ontario hospitals it will not be a maximum number of beds each hospital will be allowed to open's next year.

Bayfront Study Details Broad Redevelopment

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Development of big boating centre near the mouth of the Moira River in Belleville is a major proposal of the Quinte Bayfront Plan.

The study, a long - range conceptual plan for increasing public access and usage along the Bay of Quinte shoreline in the Belleville was presented to the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) Thursday.

The marine centre should be sited east of the federal government wharf, the study proposes. It would include a yacht basin with an adjacent small-boat harbor and launching facilities at the east of George St.

Landfill could be used to create protective promontories which, in turn, would include a beach, suggests the study.

The projects could be a key improvement to the redevelopment of the entire South Front St. area" from shoe shops boutiques, restaurants and cafes should be part of as" over-all scheme to make Belleville a waterfront city as "interesting and lively" core of the Bayfront.

"I wouldn't say everybody is going to agree with our recommendations," said Toronto consultant Ralph Crysler, as he outlined details of his year-long study to a special MRCA meeting. "I hope everybody is going to agree with some of them. We had to decide the best way the Bayfront could be developed."

Other highlights in the conceptual plan include:

— Creation of a 300-acre wildlife sanctuary at Point Anne, with an interpretive centre for visitors.

— An unbroken network of bicycle and pedestrian pathways along the 16 miles of shoreline from Montroe Rd. east of Bayside to Point Anne. Similar paths along the Moira would link the city's northern riverside parks to the Bayfront.

— Two new shoreline-area parks in west Belleville: (1) between Avondale Rd. and Sidney St., and (2) On unused land between the Bell and Whitney School for the deaf.

— Cutting a channel so that the Victoria Park barber area resorts is on an island, with proper water and sewage services.

— Enlivening Belleville's Footbridge Lake by encouraging location of craft shops and boutiques.

— The Quinte Conservation Area (formerly the Potter Property), west of Belleville, be a day-use area south of Highway 2 with a launching ramp.

— Launching ramps at Foster and Herchimer avenues.

— Building a pond area flanking eastward waterfront parks to protect a small marsh area now used for outdoor educational purposes.

— Designating a 25-acre wetland west of the Union Carbide plant as a Little Marsh area.

The consultant, estimates the total cost of implementing all his suggestions along the shoreline and river at close to $2.5 million.

Cost of the marina development alone is projected at $740,000. It could be a project of private enterprise or the city, the MRCA, Belleville Harbor Commission, or all three.

Mr. Crysler's suggestion for the big marina facility notes a present need for more pleasure boat facilities caused by an upsurge in boating. As a result he is "obviously in need for more dockage and service facilities" the reports says.

But there are some significant qualifying conditions, including a major caution about investing public funds in projects that could compete with private enterprise.

Current or contemplated development includes expansion of boating services on the North Industries site on the east bank of the Moira River-mouth. There also is a proposed 232 - slip marina — boasting to be the waterfront's largest marina — housing scheme for the same area as his proposed yacht and small - craft basins.

"Dock space created with public funds should not compete unfairly, or automatically, with tax — paying private enterprise," warns Mr. Crysler.

A public facility should be developed only as demand increases and not be "unfair competition" to private business.

The proposed hotel-urban scheme would encourage redevelopment of the South Front area, but there is "always the danger" such a project could crowd out public recreational use of this central waterfront asset.

If the city's official plan is amended to permit the development, the change should require the public "have adequate and unimpeded access along the waterfront," the report says.

Victoria Park, once on island, could be connected to the former state by re-opening a canal at the northend. A bridge would give access to the island.

Victoria facilities now involve several inconveniences — the harbor commission, the city's "park department and its harbor improvement committee. The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club holds a 25-year lease on the park's south end.

To simplify operations, Mr. Crysler suggests the city and commission could hire the yacht club to operate and maintain all facilities. Present rights of boaters and the public would be maintained.

Estimate Uncertain

If all recommendations in the Quinte Bayfront Study were implemented it could cost $3.9 million.

But that estimate, emphasizes Ralph Crysler, "is very preliminary indeed."

First, until the extent of facilities suggested in the study are agreed on "any cost estimate is really only hypothetical."

Too completed study was presented Thursday to the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA).

Mr. Crysler said he aimed at "realistic" estimates, based on good, "but not extravagant" design standards for projects that range from parks to pathways to a major marina development in Belleville.

Inflation even makes escalation provisions "seldom accurate, or even close."

Funding the recommendations would involve several sources including local government levies, and federal and provincial subsidies under various senior government programs.

Capital could also be raised through public participation, he suggested.

To his report Mr. Crysler includes these cost breakdowns for projects within the three municipalities in the study area:

Belleville — $1,580,500 of 10 projects (pathing a marina, pathways and a new wetland Bayshore park.

Sidney — $234,000, including pathways and a conservation area.

Thurlow — $975,000 for a Point Anne sanctuary an interpretive centre at the sanctuary and pathways.

Transit Commission Makes Wage Offer

The Belleville Transit Commission placed its wage offer before representatives of its employees Thursday, as contract talks resumed and both sides met for the third time.

BTC chairman Marylee North said Thursday "We talked money this time", but refused to reveal amounts, sticking to an agreement with the union to withhold news about negotiations.

But the chairman did say the commission's offer was "substantially lower than their demands."

Based on rough calculations, he estimated the BTC wage package as 75 per cent lower over the two years the contract would be in force.

Hugh Kerr, member of the negotiating team and president of local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, would make no comment.

Mr. Kerr said the union will have to study the wage offer.

The union was also on Thursday's meeting, he said.

Mrs. North said she didn't feel "we are all that far apart to settle" at this point.

Mr. Kerr said he felt the one, and possibly two meetings to be held in January "should be fairly productive." The current contract — expires Dec. 31 — was negotiated for two years and a settlement was finally reached after a two-week strike. Driver agreed to return to work after receiving a 21.2 increase over one year.

Kampus Kapers Date Changed

The dates March 5-6 for the 30th annual Kampus Kapers — has been changed for the third time. The new date is Feb. 29-31.

Executive director David Handley said the variety show was changed because of a conflict with the Rotary Music Festival.

The show is performed by students and staff of Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Candlelight Rehearsal

Robert Reid, director of Bridge Street United Church junior and senior choirs, leads rehearsals Thursday in preparation for candlelight service to be held at the church Sunday at 7, p.m. About 50 choir members will take part in the annual service. S. Alec Gordon plays organ.

Bridge to Cost $12.9 Million

Impact on environment and navigation must be known before a firm recommendation is made on location of a new Bay Bridge link joining Belleville and Roslamore.

That's the word today from Hurvy Vander Kooi, supervisor of the provincial government design team in charge of the project.

A suggestion aired in Picton that this week with local municipal technical staffs, supported a new bay-level facility locate just east of the 7 years-old swing bridge-causeway which now routes Highway 14 across the bay.

Mr. Vander Kooi indicated a recommendation was planned for meetings with local government politicians last Monday. That meeting was cancelled.

The reason? The transportation and communications ministry team represented K still had to receive clearance from federal transport authorities on boat-channel depths. A decision on redlimentation reaction also is awaited from the provincial environment ministry.

Cost of the proposed 50-foot level bridge is estimated at $12.9 million. But, said Mr. Vander Kooi, this is not the final, fixed estimate. The total can only a planning estimate, based on 1974 costs.

When the federal and environment decisions are known the team will meet with municipal representatives,and later the public.

Ambulance Operators Meeting with Ministry

Ambulance operators from across the Quinte area were to meet today with provincial ministry of health today to discuss the financial future of their operations.

During recent weeks, the operators from Belleville, Picton and Trenton have been studying a provincial government proposal that would reduce the level of service in the area.

Approximately one year ago, ministry officials with the department of ambulance services in Belleville to "high cost area" and began a study that would recommend cuts that could be trimmed.

Although the complete study yet to be made public, the ministry has acted on one its recommendations which called for central radio dispatch of all area ambulances.

The central system located at Belleville General Hospital — would erase the need for several of the area companies operating here to have its own radio bay station and operator.

Last week, the operators opposition to the Picton Ambulance. Trenton's Ambulance, Ambulance de LaSalle and City Ambulance of Belleville met to discuss the ministry proposal.

Operators planned to connect on that meeting saying a press release would be available the following today's meeting.

Unofficial sources from the meeting last week said if the government's proposal was accepted completely, staffing levels in area would be reduced by 30 per cent. Operators, in a united statement, said they agree to work within the ministry guidelines with some modifications.

BGH Board Chairman Offers to Run Again

Restraints on government spending will have no effect on the hospital board's plans to build a new wing for the board's 1976 executive.

Phillip Rickard, hospital's supply processing and distribution system has benefited from record's use of Loyalist College's computer, says Belleville Mayor Ben Corke, chairman of the BGH board of governors finance and audit committee.

Mayor Corke told the board Thursday the computer is being used at a nominal cost and is a boon to BGH administration due to better control of items.

start of an impending finance campaign. Mr. Bateman said he will throw his hat into the ring for the chair for the board's 1976 executive.

Meanwhile, the hospital's supply processing and distribution system has benefited from record's use of Loyalist College's computer, says Belleville Mayor Ben Corke, chairman of the BGH board of governors finance and audit committee.

Mayor Corke told the board Thursday the computer is being used at a nominal cost and is a boon to BGH administration due to better control of items.

Land Acquisition First Priority

Acquisition of private lands required to implement any of the recommendations in the Quinte Bayfront Study should be given top priority.

The emphasis is made in the document by Ralph Crysler. He costs consultant Ralph Crysler.

Shoreline lands in the study area — a 16-mile strip from cities to Bayside to east of Point Anne — are in a variety of ownerships; Private, public and institutional, says Mr. Crysler.

Where private land is vacant, private development could frustrate the Bayfront plan, warns the study. Speculation could increase costs "unreasonably."

Therefore it seems "imperative" that where private land is required, acquisition "must have top priority."

Such areas include land parts between Avondale Rd. and Sidney St., in Belleville, where a park is proposed; a strip east of Herchimer Ave. — suggested as a marshland preserve; parts of Point Anne, where creation of a 300-acre wildlife sanctuary is proposed.

Once these key parcels are obtained, actual development can occur "piecemeal and in any sequence," says Mr. Crysler.

Implementation priorities may also be complicated by the fact that land parcels three municipalities — Belleville, and Sidney and Thurlow township — straddle study area.

Acquisition and budget factors are being worked out — estimated cost of all recommendations in the study is almost $2.9 million — work can start on some projects.

In Belleville these include:

— Land acquisition at the end of Foster Ave. since there is "no alternative need" for more such facilities.

— A start on parts of a pathway system on the Moira River which eventually would link northern riverside parks to the Bayfront.

Sidney — the major project is creation and development of a nature sanctuary at Point Anne with visitor and recording of historic industrial and agricultural life in the early days of cement quarrying and production.

In Sidney, there is need for one or more shoreline parks. Property acquisition for such development should have top priority "since land development alienates all the shoreline to other uses."

Authority Unhappy With Budget Cuts

CANNIFTON — Eastern Ontario in the poor cousin of provincial government conservation funding, the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) was told Thursday.

The criticism was levelled at the MRCA's last general meeting of the year here as it contemplated a 1976 budget sharply pared down to $888,800 by provincial review officials.

J.H. Mc Leod, MRCA secretary - treasurer, said that the original estimates submitted totalled $2 million.

The cuts last week prompted a delegation to Queen's Park to plead for funding of two ice control dams in Belleville — a project planned for next year but hit by provincial austerity.

Stu Meeks, city council's MRCA representative said he care away from that meeting with the impression "we were the poor cousin to the east.

"We've been dead keep hammering and hammering away at the provincial government," said Ad. Meeks. "We should be standing up and telling them we want some more money in eastern Ontario.

"I agree with you entirely," said Coy Hughes, MRCA chairman. "We're poor eastern cousins."

Among recommendations spared by the ministry was one curbing for sufficient government funds to build the dams — sited near College St. and Cannifton downstream at Reid St.

The result of the Toronto cuts, he said, said the MRCA will now prepare a submission to have the dams built as a special project, said Mr. McLeod.

Roots Run Deep

CANNIFTON — The Moira River Conservation Authority has put down plenty of roots in its watershed over the years.

It now has 16,900 acres under forest management, James Spry, of Rawdon, chairman of the MRCA's forestry committee, reported Thursday

In the past year 98,000 trees were planted, he told the authority's general meeting.

The total number of trees planted in MRCA forestmanagement lots now is estimated at 2,857,400, said Mr. Spry.

United Way Goal Nears As Directors Discuss Drive

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

United Community Services (UCS) directors can "cry out from the roof tops" to announce the comparative success of the Belleville United Way campaign, executive director Gordon Melville said Thursday.

The campaign has achieved 85 per cent of its $140,000 goal, with another $3,000 expected shortly, thereby bringing the final sum to 92.5 per cent.

"No matter how you slice it," said Mr. Mullin, "it looks good."

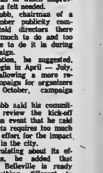
The executive director of the UCS, the United Way's administrative body, outlined some success of this year's campaign over that of 1974.

— About $135,000 is expected to gross receipts, about $15,000 more than last year.

— To date, just less than $132,000 is in the bank, whereas last year at this time the bank accounted for $111,000.

— Over-all, the percentage of goal reached is expected to be higher. Last year 87 per cent of the $140,000 goal was reached.

—Agencies funded by the United Way must learn to divide among themselves. The 15 will split about $177,000 compared to $165,00 in 1974.



JIM GUBB

— Jim Gubb, chairman of a three-member publicity committee, told directors there was no time to be lost in the little time to do it in during the campaign.

Preparation, he suggested, should begin in August — July thereby allowing a more relaxed campaign for organizers to vote for additional workers.

Mr. Gubb said his committee will review the kick-off parade, an event which he said he suspects requires too much time and effort for the impact it makes in the city.

He speculated about its effectiveness, he added that "perhaps Belleville is ready for something different to spotlight the campaign."

Anti-inflation Measures Unimpressive Says Ellis

OTTAWA — "Skepticism". That's the reaction of Reid Canadians to Thursday night's announced federal government spending restraints, predicts Jack Ellis, MP Hastings.

Despite the cuts, freezes and new taxes, the next federal budget will still run way ahead of the national inflation rate, Mr. Ellis said in a telephone interview from here shortly after the government's plans were defined in the Commons.

"What's going to happen is that the Canadian people are going to greet this with a great deal of scepticism," he said.

Some cuts-abolition of Opportunities For Youth and a reduced Local Initiatives Program could have been made earlier, he said.

The 10 per cent reduction in bondsmanship defence staff comes from a government that "is anti-defence."

A $75 million reduction to Canadian National Railways only means CN will have to cut and borrow on the public market."

Islanders Gain 4-2 Win

Harris Calls Shot on Leafs

Harris – Pressure Works

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forward Billy Harris of New York Islander says a little pressure on Toronto's defence is all it takes to get the Maple Leafs on the run.

Harris and the rest of the Islanders pressed the Leaf defence Thursday night and their approach paid off in a 4-2 win in their National Hockey League game.

"If you get on that defence, they'll cough the puck up," says Harris. "They'll move the puck out of their own end in a way that is hazardous.

"If you can jump on them they'll make a mistake."

Toronto coach Red Kelly, one of the best puck-carrying defencemen in NHL history, agreed with Harris' analysis, at least for Thursday's game.

"They put pressure on us," said Kelly. "We were slowed down to a walk and our guys were caught standing around."

In Thursday's only other game, three goals by Richard Martin sparked Buffalo Sabres to a 5-2 win over Minnesota North Stars.

The Leafs held their own in the first period of the game at Uniondale N.Y., but by the second period the Islanders were in charge and only the goaltending of Wayne Thomas kept the score respectable.

Garry Howatt of the Islanders broke a 2-2 tie when he scored midway in the second period. Andre St. Laurent, Clark Gillies and J. P. Parise had the other New York goals.

New York goalie Billy Smith kicked in Toronto's first goal, credited to Stan Weir, and the second, awarded to Leaf rookie Pat Boutette, bounced off Smith's glove, chest and shoulder and into the net.

Toronto lost left winger Lanny McDonald with a bruised shoulder when he was checked by New York defenceman Bert Marshall in the second period.

The Sabres halted a four-game winless streak with their win and regained sole possession of top spot in the Adams Division: two points ahead of Boston Bruins.

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith said the win, only the third in 11 games for Buffalo was hardly needed and added: "We've had to work hard for it after it looked like it might be an easy one."

Martin, an all-star left winger for two years, was moved to right wing-on a line with Peter McNab and Brian Spencer, a combination that quickly proved its effectiveness.

Spitfires Hold Wolves to Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three goals by Randy Pierce—highest scorer in Thursday's action in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series—lifted Sudbury Wolves to a 7-7 tie with Windsor Spitfires.

In other games, Hamilton Fincups downed Peterborough Peps 6-3 and St. Catharines Black Hawks dumped Oshawa Generals 7-5.

Leaders in action resumes tonight with St. Catharines visiting Kitchener Rangers, Toronto Marlboro playing the 'Cats in Ottawa Sudbury meeting the Knights in London and Hamilton travelling to meet Kingston Canadians.

Playing in Windsor, Pierce scored his third goal with less than four minutes remaining to play to earn the tie for the Wolves.

Windsor trailed 6-5 earlier in the period but scored twice in 54 seconds to take the lead.

Other Sudbury goals went to Alex McKendry, with two, Rod Schutt and John Walker.

Scott Miller and Jack Anderson each scored twice for Windsor.

The puck bounced and as Jordan scored to enter the Quebec bench he saw the red light flash signalling his second goal of the season that gave the Nordiques a 5-4 win over Winnipeg in one a three games played.

In other action, Phoenix Roadrunners smashed Indianapolis Racers 7-1 and in San Diego, the hometown Mariners topped Cincinnati Stingers 7-3.

"I don't know how it went in," said Jordan of the shot that eluded Jet netminder Joe Daley.

The goal gave the Nordiques their first win in three home-ice appearances against the Jets and brought their over-all record against Winnipeg to 3-2. It also moved Quebec to within two points of the Jets, who lead the Canadian Division with 46 points to 33 games.

Winnipeg outshot Quebec 40-31 and at 33 seconds of the opening period gave Quebec an early lead but the Jets scored three times in a span of three minutes and one second to take a 3-1 lead at the middle period.

Pete Sullivan, Lars Sjoberg and Andres Hedberg scored for Winnipeg in the first period while Bill Lenuk added a goal.

But Christian Bordeleau and Michel Parizeau scored before Sullivan and Marc Tardif's 20th goal of the year at 6:35 of the third period on a Quebec power play tied the score.

Card Callant of the Nordiques suffered a dislocated left shoulder during a second-period fight with Perry Miller just after Parizeau had scored Quebec's third goal.

In Phoenix, a pair of power-play goals from Del Hall paced the Roadrunners to their victory. The seven goals were the most scored in a game by the Roadrunners this season.

Rob Flarek, Barry Dean, Jim Clarke, Gary Veneruzzo and Dave Gorman also scored for Phoenix with Bob Fitchner repeating for the Racers.

The Racers managed only 11 shots, a league record. The previous low was 12 by Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Defenceman Kevin Morrison scored two goals and added two assists in the lead the Mariners past Cincinnati.

Barrie Goalie a Standout As Marlies Down Selects

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros got outstanding goaltending from import Grant Cole to hand Moncton Selects a 5-3 defeat Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game before 6,370 fans.

Cole, borrowed from Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, allowed one goal in the first period and two in the second before shutting out the Russians in the third period.

John Anderson's goal at 16:52 of the second period broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Marlboros an Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A team, the lead for the first time in the game.

Mike McDevitt's power-play goal for the Marlboros was the only goal of the third period.

Mark Murphy, Lynn Jorgenson and Gary Dillon scored the other Toronto goals. Vladimir Repney, Vladimir Popov and Vladimir Shivetsov scored the Russian goals.

The loss was the Selects second in seven games on their Canadian tour. Their first loss was a 5-4 decision Monday night to Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Repney, a member of the Soviet Wings team that will play four National Hockey League teams in two weeks, put the Selects in front 1-0 at 8:35 of the opening period.

Dillon, younger brother of Wayne Dillon of New York Rangers of the NHL, scored the only other goal of the first period at 18:18, beating Selects goalie Mikhail Vasilenok with a shot that trickled over the goal-line.

Popov, a veteran of the 1974 series against the World Hockey Association's Team Canada, put the Selects ahead 2-1 at the 54-second mark of the second period, but Murphy tied it for the Marlboros at 3:35.

The Selects went ahead 3-2 at 5:17 on Shvortsov's goal but Jorgenson beat Vasilenok from back of the net at 6:34 to tie the game 3-3.

The Marlboros had a two-man advantage at the midway point of the second period when Vladimir Krikunov and Alexei Kochenkov went off 28 seconds apart for minor penalties but the Canadians failed to score.

With a minute left in Vasilenkov's minor, Trevor Johannsen picked up major penalty for boarding the Selects Alexander Kolkey. The Marlboros killed the penalty without the Selects getting a major scoring chance and seemed to turn the game around in their favor.

Anderson beat Vasilenok with a slow wrist shot on which the Russian goalie was heavily screened.

McEwen's goal came on a power play at 3:34 of the final period.

Cole stopped 46 shots, 17 of them in the second period, while Vasilenok handled 27 Toronto shots. The Marlboros added four other players to the roster for their game—defenceman Rick Green of London Knights, and Kingston Canadiens' high-scoring line of Brad Rhines, Mike Cromheen and Tom McKegney.

New Oakland Manager, Tanner Has 2 Paydays

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Finley, owner of Oakland A's, announced Thursday he has hired Chuck Tanner as the new manager of his American League baseball team.

Tanner's salary will be partially paid by Bill Veeck, new owner of Chicago White Sox who competes with the A's in the American League's West Division.

Finley made the announcement less than 24 hours after Veeck gave Tanner the axe as field manager of the White Sox.

Details of Tanner's three-year pact were not disclosed, but Tanner is still in the last three years of a multi-year contract with the White Sox, one that would pay him $80,000 annually.

Tanner said: "Both men (Finley and Veeck) are paying me but I'm working for Charlie. This a really something."

Finley, who was reported to have voiced against Veeck's purchase of the White Sox at last week's winter baseball meetings, also rehired in discloss contract details.

Veeck, who invited Tanner to stay with the White Sox in any other capacity after hiring Paul Richards as his manager Wednesday, was not immediately available for comment.

CHUCK TANNER

Tanner, 47, piloted the White Sox for five seasons and was named Manager of the Year in 1972, after taking over the club with the worst baseball record in 1970. He succeeds Alvin Dark as manager of the A's. Finley fired Dark after his three-year World Series managers lost to Boston in three straight games in the AL playoffs.

Tanner said he plans to take along coaches Al Monchak and Joe Lonnett, who were with him at the White Sox. Tanner's pitching coach, Johnny Sain, is not mentioned, since Finley has already rehired Wes Stock as the A's pitching coach.

Tanner, who managed several minor league teams before becoming pilot of the White Sox in 1971, became embroiled in controversy in Chicago with his reported treatment of slugger Dick Allen, who was allowed to skip batting practice and spring training.

The controversy came to a head before the 1975 season when the White Sox sold Allen for $3 000

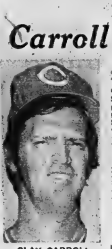
Carroll Accepts Deal



CLAY CARROLL

CINCINNATI (AP) — Veteran pitcher Clay Carroll was relieved Thursday of his contract with Chicago White Sox believed to be worth more than $100 000. Carroll, 34, was traded last Friday to the White Sox by Cincinnati Reds but had withheld approval of the trade until contract talks with the Sox special assistant Bill Veeck were completed.

Carroll, who has been a key member of the Cincinnati bullpen for the past three seasons and assisted in the Reds' World Series victories in 1975 and 1976, was 10-9 with a 2.09 earned run average last season.

Meagre Payoff A Record

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A record for the lowest paying daily double at Windsor Raceway was set Thursday when the combination of Meddlesome and Happy Heels paid $3.

Attendance was about 2,000 but 5,756 tickets were sold on the combination.

"The previous low for a daily double at the track was $5.60, paid by the combination of Happy Creul and Cola's Duke on Jan. 12, 1967.

Meddlesome, a two-year-old colt driven by Greg Wright, returned $2.70, $2.30 and $2.40.

Ken Hardy drove three-year-old Happy Heels to victory, returning $3.10, $2.70 and $2.40.

Driver Bill Gale led four horses to victory to increase his wins during the meet to 56 and to retain the lead in standings.

In the featured claiming pace, Shootout, driven by Chet Dewitte, gained his ninth victory of the year and was claimed for $10,000 by Larry Gald of Ancaster, Ont., from Harry Magulis of Ashville, Ohio.

The trigector of Dodgers Impact Marks Guy and Worthy Pick in the fourth race pick 3877.80. In the 10th race, the trigector of Ravallee Mark, Clerkie and Shadow Ranger returned $230.60.

A crowd of 3,540 wagered $350,502.

CIAU Denied Permission to Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union (CIAU) has been refused permission to appeal a decision by the Supreme Court of Ontario involving its eligibility rules.

Mr. Justice Robert F. Reid denied leave to appeal the decision, which overthrew the CIAU suspension of University of Windsor's football team for using a player, quarterback Dave Pickett, who was ineligible to play under CIAU regulations.

Mr. Justice Reid's decision means the CIAU only from appealing an injunction granted by Mr. Justice John O'Driscoll have no tangible effect unless the necessary two-thirds vote approving the rules is not solicited.

Robert Pugh, executive director of the CIAU, says he does not expect his organization to pursue to trial the issue of the rules themselves though it is so entitled.

Windsor had used Pickett in six regular season games because he was eligible under Ontario Universities Athletic Association (OUAA) rules, which were at odds with CIAU rules.

The OUAA voted last week to bring its rules into line with those of the CIAU.

Trotter Savoir Gets Nod as Horse of Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Savoir, richest American-owned trotter of all time, edged pacing filly sensation Silk Stockings by one point Thursday for the honor as the Horse of the Year in the United States.

The U.S. Trotting Association announced the seven-year-old gelding earned 28 first-place votes to 49 for Silk Stockings in balloting by the U.S. Harness Writers Association.

Nero, the early three-year-old pacing standout this year, was chosen on 29 ballots for third place. Hambletonian winner Bonefish, partly owned by Mac Daddy of Strathroy, Ont., was fourth with 21.

Savoir was owned by Allwood Stables of Far Hills, N.J., won $1,363,385 with 16 victories in 21 starts, coupled with five seconds and three thirds. That gelding earned the first-place votes in 49 for Silk Stockings in balloting by the U.S. Harness Writers Association.

Only 264 Watch Flyers Post Win

BARRIE (CP) — Paul Regan scored three goals to lead Barrie Flyers to a 9-3 win over Nanaime Comets in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action Thursday night.

Regan scored twice in the first period and once in the second for Barrie which took period lead of 3-1 and 6-2 before 264 spectators.

Don Fagnelli and John MacMillan each added a pair for Barrie with Cedric Adams and Gary Lyte getting the others.

Bob Ferguson, Tom Goodfellow and Mike Flanigan replied for Nanaime.

After a second-period fight between Nanaime's Ron Swan and MacMillan, both players received fighting majors and MacMillan was assessed a match misconduct.

The game between Lindsay Lancers and Whitby Warriors scheduled for Thursday was postponed and another date has been announced.

League action resumes tonight with Cambridge Hornets travelling to meet Orillia Terriers.

Record for Receptions

CFL Missed a Catch But McGowan Didn't

TORONTO (CP) — To say though two receptions were Georgie McGowan has the memory of an elephant wouldn't overestimate his powers of recall.

The veteran Edmonton Eskimos receiver, told that his final catch of the year broke the long-standing Canadian Football League record for receptions in a season, said the information was wrong.

Pass catch No. 97 for 1975 was posted Nov. 1 in the Eskimos' season finale against British Columbia Lions at Vancouver, a quick toss to the fall that went for no gain.

"But that shouldn't have been the record catch," the 30-year-old from the University of Kansas — registered. "Somehow I didn't pat credit for a catch I made in our first game of the season against Winnipeg. I've been running back nonsense about that but I never got around to it."

McGowan had been credited with six receptions for 105 yards against the Blue Bombers, but a check of the play-by-play report of the game and subsequent checks of game film confirmed a seventh catch for 39 more yards was indeed passed over.

Then, more than a month after the season ended, the five-year Eskimos veteran was credited Thursday by the CFL with 98 receptions, breaking the old mark of 96 set by Terry Evanshen, then of the Ottawa Stampeders, in 1967.

The record books also were important to the CFL's outstanding player in 1967 — Evanshen, who was the premier receiver of the 1974 season with a nervous hamstring injury. It increased his total for the year to 1,472—third highest one-season yield in CFL history behind Hal Patterson's 1,916 (1963) and Evanshen's own (1967).

And instead of his record catch going for no gain, No. 97 became the 11th touchdown that preceded team-mate Dave Cutler's record 4th field goal of the season.

In that final game, quarterback Bruce Claridge completed 17 passes in McGowan's area. Three were caught, two of which were knocked down, one was dropped and he caught 11, although two receptions were wiped out by penalties.

"I can't remember dropping one," McGowan responded in a post-game interview when the subject of the pass he failed to get credit for in the season opener was first disclosed.

Evanshen, now with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, commented little on McGowan's record-smashing efforts which removed his name from one page of the CFL record book.

The scrappy little wide receiver is in the process of setting a league mark of his own, handing in 11 touchdown passes for a career total of 76 while moving past Bobby Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders (65) Patterson (66 with Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton) and Tommy Joe Coffey (63 with Edmonton and Hamilton).

Evanshen, who also played with Montreal (3 years), Hamilton (4 years) and Calgary (4 years), moved into second place for career receptions with 520—exactly 100 behind record-holder Coffey—and dislodged Bobby Taylor as the all-time leader among Canadian-bred players in receiving yardage with a total of 8,293 yards.

Taylor ended a 14-year career with 521 catches and 8,293 yards.

Rhett Dawson of Saskatchewan Roughriders was rumored to be McGowan for reception in the Western Conference with 69 for 1,191 yards. Tony Gabriel of Ottawa led Eastern Conference pass catchers with 65 for 1,113 yards.

Gabriel caught eight passes in the last game of the season to sneak by Toronto's Mike Eben, limited to one reception in the Argonauts' final game.

Flyers Rolling

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Newmarket Flyers defeated Markham Waxers 10-4 Thursday to extend their Tuesday streak to three games in Ontario Hockey Association Provincial Junior A action.

In other games, the Trappers defeated Aurora Tigers 6-4 at North Bay, Toronto Nationals and visiting North York Rangers played to a 5-5 tie and Kenh Hill Flyers and Weston Dodgers tied 3-3 at Ajax.

Playing at home, Rick Homes led the Newmarket Flyers with three goals with Jim Massin and Rick Vince adding two goals each. Rod Stammler scored twice to lead North Bay.

Ten players shared the scoring in Nationals-North York contest.

Ken Moodie scored at 19:34 of the third period to gain the tie for Ajax but Milroy led Weston with two goals.

Royals Earn Tie

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — A power-play goal by Bill Wells with 2:34 remaining in the third period gave Cornwall Royals a 4-4 tie with Quebec Remparts Thursday night in Quebec Major Junior A hockey action.

The goal, the second of the night for Wells, came when Eddy Godin in the penalty box was awarded a pusted by Quebec coach Ron Racette which resulted in his ejection from the game by referee Jean-Claude Clavel.

Pierre Brassard and Dan Geoffrion were the other Cornwall goal scorers. Dan Lavis, Cory Haworth scored twice for Quebec with Michel Fournette and Chris Brierley getting the others.

Clavel accessed of 42 minutes in penalties, including two fighting majors to each club and Racette's game misconduct.

Cornwall outshot Quebec 38-30.

League play resumes tonight with four games.

Let's Get Games Straight, Okay?

MONTREAL (CP) — Former hockey star Syl Apps Sr. is among 11 persons to be inducted in January into the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame, it was announced Wednesday.

Apps, who won a gold medal in the pole vault in the 1936 British Empire Games, is being honored along with sprinter Bobby Viteppnick of Hamilton and six other athletes, and builders.

The Canadian Press dictated an erroneous report Wednesday that Apps had won his gold medal in Pan American Games competition, and incorrectly identified Fitzpatrick also Fitzgerald.

Fitzpatrick competed for Canada in the 1600 Olympics. He also won a gold medal in the 440-yard relay in the 1930 British Empire Games, as well as a bronze in the 100-yard dash and a silver in the 220-yard race.

Hawks Whip Lakers

ATLANTA (AP) — Dwight Jones, Bill Willoughby and John Drew combined for 78 points in a fourth-quarter flurry Thursday night as Atlanta Hawks defeated Los Angeles Lakers 106-98 in a National Basketball Association game.

Jones scored six of his 30 points early in the quarter as the Hawks pulled out to a 84-76 lead and were never threatened the rest of the way.

Tom Henderson led the Hawks' balanced scoring with 21 points and Drew added 20. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was Jones's leading scorer with 32 points for the Lakers.

The game was Thursday's only scheduled NBA contest. In the American Basketball Association game, Virginia Squires upset New York Nets 94-90 and San Antonio Spurs downed Kentucky Colonels 115-102.

Lacrosse League Expands

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A League will expand to 10 teams for the 1976 season, Jack Christie, executive director, said Thursday.

He said the league's board of governors' management council have decided to admit Kitchener Rivers and Hamilton Bengals into the league.

Other teams are Brampton Flyers, Lakeshore Maple Leafs, Mississauga Chiefs, Niagara Falls Warriors, Oshawa Green Gaels, St. Catharines Legionaires, Scarborough Grey Mounos and Whitby Builders.

Paris Favorite, Roquepine Dead

CAEN, France (Reuter) — Trotting champion Roquepine, triple winner of the Prix de l'Amerique and one of the all-time favourites of Paris racegoers, last died at aged 14.

The mare, who also won a world trotting championship in the United States, died of a heamorrhage after undergoing an abortion at the Beauville stud near here Wednesday night.

She won more than $1 million for M. Henri Levesque, who owned, trained and drove the mare.

WANTS WALL BUILT

LONDON (AP) — The English Football Association is peeved with Manchester United on Monday to build a wall at one end of its Old Trafford Park Stadium to keep fans off the field. The instruction, without precedent in British soccer, came after a commission investigation of trouble at Upton Park last Oct. 25, when spectators invaded the field and held up play for 20 minutes in a league game between West Ham and Manchester United.

Nicks Giving Nothing Away

Nicholson Catholic College gave basketball teams from Trenton High School a warm welcome in Bay of Quinte High School League A play, Thursday. The Belleville school swept all three games, senior, junior, midget, from the visiting Tigers.

The senior Nicks made it four wins in as many starts by posting a convincing 77-41 win while the juniors were just as demonstrative in their victory, outscoring Tigers 36 and the home team midgets scored a 46-40 win.

In the senior match, the pace was set early as Nicks rounded in front 20-10 in the first quarter. The winners put together two more 20-point quarters and finished up with a 13-point lead.

Dale Wilmes topped all scorers in the game, leading Nicks with 23 points. Jeff Boyle hit for 16. Others in double figures were Danny Braunwell and Mark Soule with 10 each. Bruce Collins and Dave Holland were big in the playmaking department.

Blaine Rittinger led Tigers with 11 points. Paul Yates was good for 10.

Nicks have a two-point edge over Belleville Collegiate Institute in the battle for first place in the standings.

The Nicholson team will be in Waterloo during the holidays across to participate in the Waterloo Senior Basketball Tournament.

Nicholson Juniors were powered to their victory by the 24-point performance of Brian Rainbow. Steve Dolan checked in with 12 points while Brenda Trumpour had 13 and Frank Mosoche, nine.

Rob Campbell and Paul Hywerniak, with 10 and seven points respectively, were tops for the visitors.

It was Mark Crawford who proved to be Trenton Midgets' biggest menace. The Nicholson sharpshooter hit for 19 points.

Tim Coates was next in line with 16.

The man for the losers was Terry Scuccato with 18 points.

Jim's Blanks Oshawa

OSHAWA (Special) — Something about Oshawa brings out the best in Belleville Jim's Pizzeria Juveniles.

Producing a solid overall performance in an Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA match here, Wednesday, the Belleville skaters blanked the home side 5-0. It was the second for Belleville win in two meetings between the two clubs this season.

According to team manager Bill Theodosiou, "we had everything working in this game, especially the defence."

Thompson praised goalie Allan Portt's shutout performance while observing that the defence "played super hockey."

Manning the blueline positions for the visitors were Roger Chapman, Paul Swallow, Ron Belch, Dave Giddings, Mike Willman and Mark Hamilton.

It was win No. 20 for Jim's. The team has also won both times by a margin of one goal) and has two ties.

Jamie Mabe keyed the Belleville attack, counting a pair of goals. His line mate Jeff Shaw was Ray Skelly who scored once and earned three assists. The other goals were by Mark Fitzgerald and Bill Lynch.

Today at home, the Belleville team will be shooting for its third win over Oshawa in a 7.30 p.m. game at Memorial Arena.

These Books Made for Giving

Every year at this time, a new selection of sports books hits the shelves in the stores. The timing is excellent. And many of the books are, as well.

Many of the books offered in time for Christmas giving, deal with sports instruction.

Two promising titles from Prentice-Hall of Canada are among the list of instructional stuffers. Both offer instruction from knowledgeable authors. And each carries a price tag of $4.95.

Alpine Skiing comes from the husband and wife team of Al and Nancy (Greene) Raine.

Al, former Canadian National Ski Team coach and now Ski Development Co-ordinator with the Government of British Columbia certainly has the credentials to put an effort of this type together.

Nancy, on the other hand, has a wealth of experience with Nancy's abilities in this direction?

Remember her Gold Medal performance at Grenoble in the final slalom at the 1968 Olympics?

A member of the National Sports Hall of Fame, Nancy is now engaged in coaching with husband Al.

The Raines cover everything from equipment and conditioning . . . to the mechanics of the sport and there are suggestions for beginners, novices, intermediates and experts.

Based on their experiences in ski racing, the book, instead of dwelling on that part of the sport, puts the focus on basic technique.

Technical illustrations are action shots of the world's top racers.

These well presented tips "from the top should be well received by the skiing fraternity, whether neophyte or veteran.

And for hockey players and coaches, Hindy Meeker is back with More Hockey Basics.

The effervescent Meeker, not every one's cup of tea, definitely has the knack to get these efforts on his favorite subject across.

The former pro (player and coach) — Hockey Canada, Canada analyst turned author, admits that he is hot sure his system is going to turn out winning teams but is convinced it will produce highly skilled youngsters who can learn to play the game for fun and, or profit.

"What I do know," offers Meeker, "is there is not a minor hockey team in Canada which is ready for this book". He says that in the last two years during his clinics, he has yet to meet one 12 or 13-year-old who was ready to be taught how to play the game.

The boning of hockey skills should come before game strategies and philosophy, in Meeker's opinion.

Featured in this photo-filled hockey manual is a 48-page section on goaltending.

Marmora, Ottawa Teams Meet in Exhibition

MARMORA — The hockey game Saturday night between the Ottawa Old Stars and the Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers promises to be a good one.

The game is being held in conjunction with the official ceremonies marking the reopening of the Marmora Arena after its renovation project.

Many of the Ottawa players are former pros and they have a proud record as a team.

The Old Stars are goalies, Jack Gervais, Guy Renaud and Gerard Brien; defence, John Kosak, Rocky Graham, Gus Vivelle, Bob O'Neill, Charles Putnam, Bob Lowery, Al Nordahl, and forwards — V. Johnson, Guy Beauregard, Norm Johnson, Rudy Costantini, Ken Wingate, Andy Rochon, Bob Johnston, Jim Given, Ray Gregolec, George Greene, Bill Kings and Ken McFarlane.

Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers team consists of players from Marmora, Havelock, Hastings and Campbellford. Many of them played in the Trent Valley Hockey League as far back as the 1940s.

The team participated in the National Oldtimers Hockey Tournament held in Peterborough earlier this year and have been accepted for the National Tournament in February at Lethbridge, Alta.

A number of money raising events have been held during the year to help the team with expenses which are expected to run about $10,000 for the trip there and the three-day tournament. All the receipts from Saturday night's game will go to the team.

The team has been reduced to 25 members to cut expenses. Each one of the members has paid $100 to join the club, and the players pay their own practice time and will be expected to pay for their share of their own travel expenses. It has been estimated that the trip will cost $300 per player. They leave February 13.

Belvedere Upsetting

Jason Morris led the way as centre dueling Belvedere Hotel rose up to hand off league leading Reid's Dairy 5-4 on Thursday night Quinte Hockey League play at Memorial Arena.

Morris scored twice and picked up an assist as Belvedere surprised the Dairymen who were saddled with their third loss of the season.

Jim Dreverman, Ken Just and Ron Pointer clicked for the other Belvedere goals. Just's effort proved the winner.

Sweeping the firepower for Reid's were Hunter, Earl Brownbower, Al Ray and Rick Marshall. Brownbower and Hunter also earned two assists each.

Reid's made a last ditch effort to pull it out of the fire and salvage at least a tie, removing goalie Warren Hay and icing an extra attacker with the turnoff in Belvedere's favour. 27 seconds to play, and the opposition attempting to kill off a penalty.

The blueliners held on, clearing the puck the length of the ice from the faceoff and hocking up the win.

In other league action, Belvedere Combines edged Cable Steel 3-2 with Frank Pinder potting the winning goal midway through the final period.

Dave Jodoin and Wayne Andrews were the other marksmen for the winners.

Counting the O'Brien goals were Terry McEleavy and and Tim Yoke.

In Memoriam

ROBERTS — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Colin Roberts, who passed away December 13, 1967.
To see us well served forget,
His absence is to be a nerve,
His like we will always regret,
Until we meet and serve Him and Jacob, Vicky and Cheryl.

BROWN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Robert F. Brown, who passed away December 13, 1970.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory it has not the power to take,
Gone, but not forgotten,
Sadly remembered by Marlene and Christopher.

DURAND — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Al Durand, who passed away December 13, 1967.
What one we loved was called away,
God took him home — it was His will,
But in our hearts he will always stay,
Sadly but fondly remembered by Mrs. Fred and Wayne, and Colleen and Family.

CLARKE — In loving memory of a dear brother George Leslie Clarke, who passed away at Kingston, Dec. 13, 1961.
Just a prayer from those who loved you,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just to show we still remember,
Because we think of you.
— Sadly missed by Lilyan, Ethel, Ernest and Family.

BROWN — In loving memory of a dear son Robert Allan Brown (Bert) (Bob) who passed away Dec. 13, 1971.
No matter things have been or will since you were called away,
In many ways we grow with you,
And you best left to stay.
Dear Bert, we miss you more than ever,
Though almost you are very near,
Still missed, remembered always — Sadly missed by brother-in-law Ernest and Family, Mrs. Fred and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends, relatives and the staff of 4 West, Belleville General Hospital, for the cards, flowers and visits during my stay there. Also special thanks to Drs. MacLennan and Tennant. And to those who were so kind.
— Morley Pascoe.

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock, R.R. 2, Trenton, wish to thank all their friends and relatives on Sunday, December 15, from 2 to 5 p.m. for the afternoon tea, in honour of their 50th Golden Wedding Anniversary. Best wishes and regrets.

And Over There

Thanksgiving Day 1975 Will Always Be Remembered

By E.J. ANDERSON,
The Canadian Press

It was Thanksgiving night and Canadians were counting their blessings when, Prime Minister Trudeau pre-empted national radio and television to say, in effect, "enough is enough." He announced imposition o the toughest prices and wages restraints since the Second World War.

They were not full controls and fell short of the freeze or rollback urged in some circles concerned with Canada's No. 1 problem: inflation.

But they were stiff and reaction to the Oct. 13 announcement was swift and largely critical.

Labor balked. Business was not happy but accepted the anti-inflation measures as necessary. Conservative leader Robert Stanfield groused. He had lost an election a year before for advocating the same thing.

Seventeen leading economists and academics told the government that controls will not work. They blamed federal spending for the country's financial troubles that by November had led to the highest unemployment rate in 14 years—8.3 per cent of the working force.

The enabling legislation for the controls was tabled in the House Dec. 10 after a stormy passage. Progressive Conservative Leader Stanfield said they should last no longer than 18 months, not for the indefinite period—at least three years—proposed by the Liberal government.

Indicative of labor unrest at a time when ever-increasing prices seem almost to remain ahead of prevailing wage levels was the Canal Postal strike, longest in Canada's history. Throughout months-long contract negotiations Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey denied any firm. The strike ended Dec. 1 when the 25,000 locked-out workers narrowly voted to accept Mr. Mackasey's terms: an increase of $1.70 an hour over a basic wage of $3.36 an hour for a month of unchanged work-week of 40 hours. They originally were after an increase of 71 per cent and a 30-hour week.

That seemed to bring peace to a long-troubled labor front but the anti-inflation board said the terms violated the government's wage guidelines. But the federal cabinet over-ruled the board.

Financial issues to the business community as a result of cessation of postal service were in the millions. Most of the population suffered inconvenience.

Still, when Canadians took time out from their own affairs to look at the world around them, they counted themselves well off.

They saw turmoil almost everywhere. Political terrorists used bombs and guns and hostages and murder as a means of achieving their ends. The "Irish situation" remained just that—a situation in which there seemed no solution—as Protestants and Roman Catholics bled each other in Northern Ireland, as they had done for almost a decade. The Middle East was uneasy—and many countries elsewhere were in an uproar.

A woman in International Women's Year showed she was undisputed mistress of India.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi didn't like it when a court June 11 convicted her of wrongfully using government officials in a parliamentary election campaign and barred her from office for six years.

India's Supreme Court, not unaware of things political, voided the conviction but said it wasn't enough for Indira. She pushed legislation through Parliament that made everything legal, retroactively wiping out any little thing that might have been amiss. And she imposed police powers on her country that effectively stifled any opposition.

A major political upset occurred in New Zealand. The Labor government of Wallace Rowling was swept from power in a general election Nov. 29. The big winner was Robert Muldoon, National party leader.

In Australia, Labor Prime Minister Gough Whitlam was thrown out of office Nov. 11 by Governor - General Sir John Kerr, an action almost unprecedented in Commonwealth history. Whitlam was ousted when the opposition-controlled Senate blocked his budget, leaving the government without funds.

Australians said what they thought of that in a general election Dec. 13 when Whitlam was roundly defeated by Malcolm Fraser, leader of the Liberal-National-Country coalition.

In the United States, President Ford, who took over in 1974 from Richard M. Nixon, centre of the Watergate scandal, said he will seek the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1976.

Vice-president Nelson Rockefeller who, like Ford, had not been elected to office, announced Nov. 3 he wouldn't be available to run next year. In Hollywood, ex-movie actor Ronald Reagan, movie actor turned politician, who said Nov. 20 he would seek the Republican presidential nomination.

President Ford travelled widely at home and abroad and in his own country more hazardous than, for instance, China, where he was given an enthusiastic reception early in December.

On Sept. 5, in Sacramento, Calif., Lynette Fromme, 26, got within two feet of Ford with a .45-calibre pistol. She later was convicted on a charge of attempting to murder the president.

Seventeen days later, in San Francisco, Sara Jane Moore, 45, was alleged to have fired a shot at the president. Her case is before the courts.

Patty Hearst was captured in San Francisco after a year-and-a-half hide-out in several locales in Canada. The newspaper heiress faces 11 federal charges. Her kidnapping and subsequent activities, allegedly criminal, made headlines in 1974.

New York City, with an annual budget of about $4 billion, more than that of some countries, almost went broke, due to years of over-spending and mismanagement.

Twice it came close to defaulting on its obligations but in the end, Congress came through with long-term assistance of some $2 billion.

Spain became a monarchy again after 37 years when Generalissimo Franco, dictator for 36 years, died Nov. 20. Prince Juan de Bourbon, Franco's designated successor, became king. He faces problems with a Basque independence movement in the north.

Next-door Portugal was troubled by conflict between Communists and anti-Communists—the anti held away at year's end—and Lebanon, in the Middle East, was rent with religious strife. Moslems and Christians fought for control of Beirut, the capital, and the death toll was in the hundreds.

Back on the home front, the Olympic Games were a concern to many Canadians who feared they will be faced with a whopping bill.

Strikes and slowdowns on the construction site and over-all financing problems left pessimists feeling that Montreal won't be ready for the July 17, 1976, opening. Mayor Jean Drapeau pooh-poohed all that, but he was chastened Nov. 20, when the Quebec government stepped in to oversee construction and exercise general supervision.

A deficit of at least $200 million faces the Olympics organizers.

Ontario's Premier William Davis was chastened, too.

He put the record of his Progressive Conservative government on the line in an election Sept. 11 and, to his surprise, emerged with a minority government. He won only 51 of the 125 seats. The Liberal Opposition Party became the official opposition.

On the economic front, Mr. Davis provided a fillip to business by lowering the provincial sales tax to five per cent from seven—only to the end of the year — and eliminated succession duties.

In brief: The bodies of 11 persons, believed victims of gangster grudge slayings, were found in a closet in a Montreal bar Jan. 21; Margaret Thatcher, 49, became leader of the British Conservative party Feb. 11; 14 died in the crash of a London subway train Feb. 28;

Florida Still Popular With Many Canadians

OTTAWA (CP) — The rising cost of air fares, fuel, hotels and food have driven travel expenses up again this year. But more Canadians are travelling to the sunny South than ever before, say Ottawa travel agents.

A spokesman for The Travel Place Ltd. estimated Wednesday that the Caribbean is attracting 15 per cent more customers this year than last. Admiral Travel Agencies reported about a 25-per-cent jump in vacation travel despite increased costs.

Popular destinations include Jamaica, Barbados, Florida, Cuba and the Dutch Antilles. The Dutch islands have gained popularity in the last three years, local agents said.

Christmas vacationers may experience some difficulty in visiting Hawaii this season, United Airlines service from the U.S. is grounded by a strike and, as a result, most other airlines are reported fully booked for Honolulu flights.

Some travel agents have been revealing their customers from Hawaii to Jamaica and Barbados because of the strike, but most places in the Caribbean already are full for the Christmas season.

Cuba recently has gained popularity because, a spokesman for Voyageur Travel, said, the price is right. Packages to Cuba usually were all-inclusive with airfare, hotel accommodations, three meals and drinks covered in one relatively low price.

One-week tours to Cuba are more popular than two-and three-week packages because, as an Admiral Travel spokesman put it, there is not much to do in Cuba for more than one week.

The most expensive warm-weather spots are Hawaii and Mexico; the cheapest are Freeport in the Bahamas and Cuba. The travel agents said Mexico is expensive to get to and the hotels are costly, but food is described as relatively cheap.

A spokesman for Travel Cuba said Florida now is the most popular spot this year because it offers better value than the Caribbean.

Admiral Travel and other agencies noted a decline in overseas travel this Christmas season, although London shows tours were sold out.

T.T.A. Travel Agency and Admiral reported a big drop in the popularity of all-holiday packages this year. Air Canada and CP Air western ski packages remained popular, however.

More people are choosing southern cruises because they are relaxing and sometimes cheaper, some agencies said.

Cruises may seem more expensive but all meals are included in the price and the drinks are often cheaper, he added. Cruises become more popular in February when people are really anxious to escape the cold, said a Voyageur agent.

For the price-conscious tourist, the agencies recommended the Jamaica plan in the package. They said food is cheaper in Caribbean countries is expensive and a meal plan may cut costs.

A spokesman for Admiral Travel speculated that prices for Caribbean travel may drop next year if other islands follow the example Jamaica set this year.

Jamaica is extremely popular, he said, because it offers a low-price inclusive contract bulk fare. A one-week trip from Toronto to Jamaica, including airfare, meals and accomodation, is offered at under $300.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Saturday, Dec. 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't attempt to burn the candle at both ends today. Your high energy and drive have very definite limitations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Late in the day is not the time to try to resolve serious family problems. Wait till everyone has a chance to sleep on the issues.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be careful today that your remarks aren't the caustic or biting. Someone you'll put down will not forgive readily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You tend to be a shade selfish today where your self-interests and resources are concerned. You must give a little in order to get.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your resolve grows as the day lengthens. Don't give up on something important just because it doesn't come off on the first try.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is likely to be a rather busy day for you. You're apt to run out of steam rather early in the evening. Don't make it late night.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Goals that elcded you yesterday are achievable today if you're willing to exert yourself. Be industrious and you'll succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The general drift of today's events will at first appear to be working against you. Conditions will later after to your satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Have faith in yourself and your ideas today. There is a solution for each problem if you take time to think it out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Don't be afraid to bargain a bit today. If you take a firm position, the other fellow will eventually come around to your terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) You'll have the opportunity today to let a friend who has been loyal to you know that you're also an ally who can be relied upon.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be a bit of a slow starter today. But, once you set your mind to a task, you're capable of gaining desirable results regardless of obstacles.

Absent Mind Neurotic Sign?

By G.C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your professional advice on what could be a small problem. I am a 19-year-old girl who is very much afraid that what bothers me is that I DON'T want to be that way. I feel I can't seem to do anything about it.

Once I'm interrupted at doing anything I completely forget what is was and go back to doing something else. Is there anything I can do about this problem or will I have to accept being an absent-minded-professor type person? M.B.

There can be physical factors involved in memory deficiency, most of which are associated with the aging process. And if a brain dysfunction seems involved, you would report more frequent symptoms than simple forgetfulness. A complete physical examination at this point in your life would be in order, if only to establish that nothing more serious is going on.

Discounting such possibilities, the next most important factor in memory deficiency is the neurotic personality.

The neurotic type is likely to become panicky and believe that a minor problem is blown out of proportion. In younger people what is called memory deficiency can often be a lack of concentration or inattention situation span. While this is usually found in children, a certain degree can linger on through the teen years. The person who quickly acquire the label "scatter-brained."

From your letter I suspect there is nothing wrong with you that some self-discipline, maturity and responsibility wouldn't cure. For some people, the demands of life, as in marriage or business — rather quickly diminish the problem. Yet, I know respected men in business, for example, who have completely recall of the most minute details of their business transactions years ago but must grope to recall where their cars are parked.

We tend to remember things we consider important. Conversely, we tend to forget those things we consider unpleasant or unimportant. It has been that if we pronounced "everything" we would be as bad off as if we remembered nothing.

Opening lead — Q♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

North and South were experts playing together—for the first time. North thought they were playing Jump raises as individual—not forcing. South thought they were playing them as forcing. Thus, plus a little mutual optimism got them to six hearts.

South looked at the dummy with distaste. There was at least one trump loser, plus an apparent diamond loser. He couldn't do anything about the trump loser; perhaps he could take care of the diamond.

He hummed. "With a little bit of luck," and proceeded to make the contract.

He started by playing the ace of hearts. Both opponents followed and there was only one heart loser. Then he cashed the second high spade; played king of clubs and a club; small club to be ruffed. Next came the ace and king of diamonds followed by a small trump.

West won and had to lead a black card. South promptly discarded dummy's losing diamond, ruffed in his own hand and claimed the slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A Texas reader wants to know what opening bid we would make when holding:

♠ 9 8 5 4 3 ♥ 2 ♦ 9 4 3 ♣ K Q 8 5.

We open just what the books recommend — one spade. This bid has been part of standard bidding since contract was invented, it is not perfect, but little is.

Indians Undecided Over Bicentennial

The Associated Press

American Indians are divided over whether to ignore the nation's 200th birthday, oppose celebrations, or use the bicentennial to help preserve what's left of their own culture.

Of those tribes choosing to participate, some are planning such obvious tourist come-ons as singing and dancing. Many others, however, are planning events they hope will endure beyond 1976.

"Indians are on the verge of losing their history and their culture," says Wayne Chaltin, a Blackfoot. "We can use the bicentennial to get people to help us save it, all America is richer."

Chaltin is urging tribes to observe the bicentennial. He notes that state commissions have set aside more than 2 million for about 100 Indian projects.

Those supporting the bicentennial are caustic about their reasons.

"The would want to participate in the 200th year of the ripoff of our country?" asks Ernest Thorpe, a law student and legal aide in a senator.

"If the government would give us back, we'd honor all your old treaties on water and fishing rights and we'll give back land that was stolen," that would give the Indians something to celebrate," said Miss Thorpe, daughter of Jim Thorpe, famous Indian athlete. She is from the Sac and Fox tribe of Oklahoma.

Chaltin is helping tribes obtain federal matching funds for such bicentennial observances as a conference on Indian aging to determine why American Indian lives to only 45 and a national Indian rodeo. He says the rodeo, bringing together the champions of 34 Indian reservations, will be the main festival for 1976.

The bureau of Indian affairs has set no official position whether the estimated half-million Indians under government supervision should participate in the bicentennial.

Last year, the bureau furnished $250,000 directly to the tribes for projects for war varied festivals. This year, Cyclin Nahwooksy, a Cherokee, is helping the bureau put together some nationally-oriented bicentennial projects for $300,000.

Mr. Nahwooksy, who prefers that designation, now hopes the bureau can underwrite at least three programs: a travelling exhibition of some of the work, art, writing and sculpture now on display in Washington, a series of readings from Indian literature, and a series of videotapes of tribal activities.

Development Funds Will Be Cancelled For North Bay

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A total of $11 million in development funds promised for North Bay this year has been cancelled, says Dick Smith, Liberal member of the legislature for Nipissing.

He said in a telephone interview from Toronto that a letter he received Thursday from Treasurer Darcy McKeough said it is impossible to give North Bay the money during the years 1976-77.

Defers Rates

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board has decided to defer an average 35-per-cent increase in its assessment rates on industry pending completion of a review by an anti-inflation committee of the provincial cabinet.

Holiday Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Prolonged debate on proposed changes to the unemployment insurance plan could mean that Parliament will not begin its Christmas holiday today as scheduled.

Opposition Continues

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Military sources said today that air force rebels vow to continue their uprising until Isabel Peron is replaced as president of Argentina, despite government claims the crisis was under control.

The government's Belgrano radio station, seized by the rebels, broadcast rebel statements and military marches through the night after Interior Minister Angel Federico Robledo told the nation the rebellion had been checked.

Rejects Loans

HAMILTON (CP) — The federal government's General Adjustment Assistance Program has rejected an application for nearly $1.5 million in loans to Etzer Packers Ltd., a spokesman for Labor Minister John Munro said Thursday.

The federal body was presented last week with a report on the long-range viability of Etzer, forced into receivership in October. The report was reviewed by the department of industry, trade and commerce.

Students Walk Out

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Students walked out of classes at two Kent County high schools Thursday to protest the lack of a settlement in a contract dispute between the county board of education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

About 750 students demonstrated in front of Tilbury District high school, while 800 students left classes at Chatham-Kent secondary school.

Rusty Club

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — About 40 car owners in Ontario have formed the Rusty Ford Owners' Association to investigate the possibility of taking a class-action lawsuit against Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., a spokesman for the group said Wednesday.

The group is being co-ordinated by Tom Reeves of nearby Georgetown, who says his three-year-old pickup truck has rusted so badly that the box is loose.

Allow Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The ministry of health will allow nursing homes to increase their rates to $19 a day from $18.30 effective Jan. 1, it was announced Thursday. The Ontario Health Insurance Plan, which previously paid $17.88 a day, now will pay $18.85 and residents will pay a daily rate of $0.45, an increase of 25 cents.

Wells Warns Property Taxes Must Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Property taxes will have to cover more of the burden of education costs, Education Minister Thomas Wells warned Thursday.

He told 800 school board representatives from across the province that the government will increase education spending by $251 million this year, which means the per-pupil cost will rise only about eight per cent.

Mr. Wells, Premier William Davis and Treasurer Darcy McKeough all addressed the gathering, repeating the warning that Ontario is determined to cut spending, and any further money will have to come from local tax increases.

Mr. Wells also said there will be no capital projects approved in the next fiscal year.

Mr. Wells said $125 million in capital projects were approved in 1975, with most of the financing to come out of next year's budget.

However, he said, only $80 million is available for 1976-77 and that will go to high-priority projects from the 1975 budget. No new projects would be approved and low-priority projects from 1975 would be delayed pending a better financial climate.

Mr. Wells said school boards have requested $346 million in capital expenditures for next year, all of which is to be shelved.

However, he pledged that total school expansion will go ahead.

Basically, the total provincial grants to school boards will rise to $1,714 billion next year from $1,583 billion.

The grants will be $1,086 for each elementary pupil and $1,-238 for each secondary pupil and boards choosing to spend beyond those figures will not be able to get grant increases based on extra expenditures, he said.

Mr. Wells said the eight-per-cent grant increase will not cover projected increases in education costs. He said teachers' salaries alone are expected to be 27 per cent higher next year and property taxes will have to make up the difference.

Mr. Wells said he is removing the ceilings on expenditures to allow the boards to be the disciplins of the mill rate to hold down spending.

The minister also announced that money saved due to teachers' strikes—Metropolitan Toronto school boards have an extra $13 million in unpaid salaries due to the current strike by high school teachers—is to be placed in special funds to help reduce mill rate levies next year.

He said he plans amendments to the Education Act to allow the funds to be set up. The legislation will be introduced in the next session of the house and be made retroactive, he added.

Mr. Wells said he understands that property-tax increases will not be subject to federal selective wage and price controls, adding that he cannot be certain until details of the federal guidelines are examined.

Guidelines Are to Break Inflation Psychology Admits Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — While Prime Minister Trudeau says the pending restraints program is designed to show that the government "means business", his main thrust is to break the "inflation psychology" among Canadians generally.

And officials acknowledge that this was the chief reason for the carefully-orchestrated series of announcements—including a nationwide television broadcast—which launched the program with such fanfare Thursday.

Normally, a restraints program would be announced with one simple statement in the Commons. In fact, two years ago, former finance minister John Turner announced such cutbacks during an informal meeting with a group of reporters in the Parliamentary Press Gallery lounge.

But like Mr. Trudeau's dramatic Oct. 14 television broadcast, announcing the imposition of selected price and wage controls, Thursday's follow-up was pre-arranged for maximum impact.

For days in advance, reports filtered out of government that the Thursday announcement would be a bombshell, that most Canadians would be stunned by the measures. The CBC, for one, established a special "task force" of four reporters and a large back-up crew just to cover the impending event. Speculation flowed freely.

Government calls were being placed to senior opposition MPs, with word they were being briefed in advance. The prime minister even phoned former prime minister John Diefenbaker, vacationing in Barbados.

There had been nothing like this since the 1970 imposition of the War Measures Act.

Word came that reporters would be given the information in a "locked room"—that is, they would have three hours to study and write the information while being confined to a guarded room. They would be issued one with Treasury Board President Jean Chretien was ready to speak, the Commons at 8 p.m.

In the meantime, the drama had been stretched out with an unexpected announcement from Finance Minister Donald Macdonald at 3 p.m. about a new 15-per-cent surtax on taxes paid on taxable incomes over 30 per cent. And, in time, this appeared even more dramatic because the announcement indicated the surtax would be on incomes over $30,000—not just on the taxes paid on earnings over this amount.

And the finance minister issued in a warning about the announcements coming later that evening.

"Those cutbacks unavoidably will affect a great many Canadians, but particularly those of moderate incomes."

Meanwhile, the time of Mr. Trudeau's telecast to the nation as being shuffled so often that no one was quite sure when that telecast would break. It added to the excitement.

When reporters normally go into a locked room, all the confidential information is handed to them on arrival. But this time some of it was two hours late arriving, adding further to the drama.

By this time, no one would have been surprised if the government had abolished family allowances, instead of just cancelling a planned small increase.

About 300 typewriters were clacking constantly in the lockup room. Cabinet ministers' committee room along a corridor from the Commons chamber. Telephones were busy making display charts to show what was being done by the government. Television reporters were recording before the cameras, ready for later broadcasts. There was more excitement, really, than on annual budget.

And perhaps more has been written and said than for the average budget.

Whether the government achieved its desired objective of pounding the public with its message remains to be seen. But in the light of the dramatic buildup, most officials say it is not surprising that opposition MPs, and sections of the press, are cooling skeptical eyes at some of the cuts.

Sugar Price Case

Ouellet Will Appeal Refineries' Acquittal

MONTREAL (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet said Friday he will ask the federal Justice department to launch an immediate appeal of the acquittal of three sugar refiners charged with fixing prices.

Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay of Court of Queen's Bench ruled Friday the prosecution had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the companies were guilty of the offences, and any "enhancement of the price of refined sugar was not the result of a conspiracy or agreement between the accused."

In an interview in Ottawa, Mr. Ouellet called the acquittal "a complete disgrace" and adding that he could not understand the unexcusable" stand how Mr. Justice Mackay came to that decision.

But James McGrath, Progressive Conservative consumer affairs critic, said he was glad "the cloud of suspicion" has been lifted from the sugar companies.

Charged with conspiring to fix prices and lessen competition in six provinces from 1960 to 1973 were Redpath Industries Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd., and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd., the latter charged jointly with SLSR Holdings Ltd.

The trial had lasted 16 months and heard testimony from more than 80 witnesses in Europe, India, South Africa and the United States, as well as in Ottawa and Montreal.

The judgment, believed by consumer affairs officials to be one of the most important in anti-combines action in recent years, was contained in 132 pages.

Much of the Crown's case was that the three companies, the only refiners in Eastern Canada for part of the period, attempted to prevent "a fourth group, Cartier Sugar Ltd., from opening.

The Crown alleged the three companies tried this by refusing to buy from South African producers who supplied Cartier.

Eventually Cartier did open, but it was unprofitable and was taken over by Steinberg's Ltd.

Mr. Justice Mackay said in his judgment he could not gather from the evidence that there was "an actual or tacit agreement" between the three companies to cut off Cartier's supply of raw sugar, nor that it was another step in a conspiracy to prevent competition.

The judge also dismissed charges the companies conspired to set identical prices for refined sugar, saying the law "does not prohibit a member of an industry from taking into account and following his competitors' price changes, be they up or down."

Kidnappers Release Manager's Wife

HULL, Que. (CP) — A Hull bank manager and his wife were under police protection in an undisclosed location today following the woman's release Friday night by kidnappers who had demanded a $150,000 ransom.

Patricia Pelletier, 29, and her husband Robert, manager of a small branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, were reunited 24 hours after Mrs. Pelletier was kidnapped by two armed men who forced them into another Toyota at gunpoint.

The money, made up of small bills and filling two small boxes, was removed from a garbage can at the rear of a west-end Ottawa supermarket where it had been left by Mr. Pelletier on the instructions of his wife's abductors.

Mrs. Pelletier was released in downtown Ottawa shortly after 7 p.m. Friday while her husband was receiving a series of calls from one of her kidnappers at telephone booths in the downtown Ottawa area. She took a taxi home.

Mr. Pelletier had been waiting at his home for nearly 24 hours after an abortive attempt to meet the ransom demand Thursday evening when he was told shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

He was told to go to a telephone booth in central Ottawa. When he arrived, he was told to go to another and the pattern was repeated until he said he was finally told to leave the money in a black garbage can at the rear of a west-end A&P store.

He deposited the money and returned home to find his wife awaiting him. Police then recovered the money.

April 1

Minimum Wage To Rise 30 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro said Friday the federal minimum wage will increase by 30 cents on April 1 to $3.00 an hour.

Ontario Labor Minister Bette Stephenson said Thursday that she expects to announce on Monday an increase in Ontario's minimum wage, now $2.70 an hour.

Only about 13,500 of the 550,000 employees covered by the Canada Labor Code are paid the current federal minimum of $2.70 an hour, but thousands more are earning salaries between $2.80 and $2.90.

Mr. Munro said in an interview the increase will benefit over 42 industries under federal jurisdiction, including employees of government owned banks, railway workers and bank employees.

The last increase in the federal minimum wage took effect July 23, when it was raised by 20 cents a hour to $2.40 an hour from $2.40.

In a vote to Mr. Munro said the proposed increase to $3.00 an hour does not violate federal anti-inflation regulations because the government announced its program is to allow any workers to bargain for increases averaging 10 per cent per year allowed by the controls in order to bring their wages to at least $3.50 an hour.

Ontario has more than 230,000 provincially regulated employees, 20,000 more than the largest for any province.

News Briefs

Snowmobile Deaths Up

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 122 persons were killed in snowmobile accidents last winter, up from 122 the previous year, Statistics Canada reports. About 65 per cent of the deaths resulted from collisions with other snowmobiles or motor vehicles. Other causes were breaking through ice, collisions with objects such as trees, victims being thrown from the snowmobiles, collisions with trains and with fences or cables.

Food Prices Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — The anti-inflation board said Friday that food prices have been declining for the last six weeks. It said the major reason was seasonally lower prices for some items and it identified the anti-inflation program as a factor.

Governor Shot Dead

From AP-Reuter

BEIRUT (CP) — Qassem Alfaad, governor of North Lebanon, was shot dead today by three gunmen as he was leaving his home in Tripoli, it was announced here. A police spokesman said the governor's wife was seriously wounded.

Dief's Wife Suffers Stroke

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuter) — Mrs. Olive Diefenbaker, wife of former Canadian prime minister John Diefenbaker, was admitted to Queen Elizabeth Hospital after suffering a mild stroke Friday night, Mrs. Diefenbaker, 73, was taken ill at the west coast Crystal Reef Club Hotel where she is spending a month-long winter vacation with her husband. Canadian sources said Mrs. Diefenbaker had suffered cerebro-vascular embolism from the stroke but was conscious and "quite cheerful."

Belleville Contractor Killed In Accident

By RACHAEL SPENCER
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — A well-known Belleville housing contractor was killed and his brother injured when a car hit bridge guideposts on Highway 14, six miles north of here today.

Provincial police late this morning identified the victim as Michael DeMark, 36, of 4 Fernwood Gdns., R.R. 7, Belleville. His brother, Henry, A. DeMark, 35, of 9 Tracey Park Dr., driver of the car — was taken to Belleville General Hospital.

The impact caused $3,500 damage to the 1973 car.

For the past several years Mr. DeMark has been active in the Quinte Home Builders Association. He has served as a director and vice-president of the association and for two years was its president.

Last Wednesday, Mr. DeMark was presented with the National Builders Award from the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada for his work in promoting association growth.

He is survived by his wife Sandy and two children.

Miller Cuts Hospital Budget

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller told hospitals administrators Friday that they will have to pare $50 million off their budgets next year in keeping with Ontario's rigid austerity program.

The health minister said cuts next year probably will include 5,000 active-care hospital beds and up to 3,000 personnel.

City Police Purchase 17 Special Revolvers

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville police commission moved Friday to bring sidearms issued to its force in line with new weapons standards for Ontario police forces.

Most pistols now carried by the city's 41-member police force already meet the new regulations.

But Police Chief Douglas Crosbie told the commissioners 17 new pistols were required if the department's weaponry was to conform to the recently-announced regulations.

The standards — set by the Ontario Police Commission — call for all-steel revolvers to replace pistols made of lighter alloys.

A major reason is that ammunition with a stronger charge is to become standard issue. Used in the lighter weapons it could cause barrel expansion, thus reducing accuracy.

The OPC's concern with accuracy also involves safety — reducing the chances of a passerby being hit when police have to use fire.

Bullets used now had been known to ricochet off the curved and angled glass of modern automobiles. On impact with a human body they could also disintegrate, inflicting more severe wounds.

The new regulations also call for revolvers issued male officers to have a four-inch barrel and those to police women a three-inch barrel.

Use or special circumstances, a police chief can authorize possession of his force of some other firearm.

Notably, those include the unobtrusive snub-nosed pistols favored by detectives. It also is a model Chief Crosbie carries himself, he told the commissioners, after approval the purchase.

The new pistols will cost $180 each. Commissioners noted the force's gun supplier is $27 under the maximum price allowed by the cabinet.

Sniper Rifle?

A Christmas Message Of a Different Calibre

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Outwardly, there were no conscious gymnastics about the hard resilient physique of Jim Bond.

It was quietly made around a table late Friday morning in a generous shirt conversation.

It's a community more customarily found in offices and screeching tires: a family fight, a weekend drinking binge, maybe even a torn police shirt and the other violences it reads about — or witnesses on television.

Around this table was the mayor, a local judge, a businessman and a police chief.

The chief was talking about a sniper's rifle for his force.

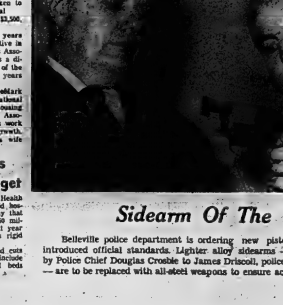
"We have one," he said, "and we feel we need another."

The mayor seemed receptive for the public purse — and knew much.

The chief said $700.

The mayor mused aloud about happening elsewhere of hostages held at gunpoint. He indicated it was hard to imagine such an incident in his community. (At last count the census was 28,000).

Nonetheless: "This has come to be a crazy-world," he admitted.



Sidearm Of The Law

Belleville police department is ordering new pistols to meet recently-introduced official standards. Lighter alloy sidearms — like revolver shown by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie to James Driscoll, police commission chairman — are to be replaced with all-steel weapons to ensure accuracy and safety.

The Weather

Synopsis: A clear or cloudy crossing south of the lower lakes today will dump an additional 10 to 15 centimetres of snow on southern Ontario areas and five to 10 cms. elsewhere. Following this system, temperatures will rise to near normal today but another cold spell on Sunday will bring back the below-normal temperatures under generally calm skies.

Town Employees Look for Santa

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The Picton Merchants' Association is urging Prince Edward County residents to shop locally but customers who comply this winter literally run the risk of becoming "fall guys."

The potential hazard surfaced following the first major snowstorm of the season when over 11 inches of the white stuff was dumped on Picton streets.

A number of merchants neglected to properly clear away the ice and snow and, consequently, much of Main Street was glare ice. Only a handful of store owners seemed concerned with removing the slush before it froze to create a hazard for shoppers.

Stretches of sidewalk above the Adanac Mall and on Bond Street were particularly icy following the storm.

Although Main Street had been transformed to a miniature rink there was no sign of sand sprinkled over the ice to reduce the danger to pedestrians.

An advertisement inserted in the local press by the Picton Merchants' Association this week states, "The merchants of the town of Picton have searched far and wide for the best possible selection of goods and merchandise available. Why not take advantage of this selection by shopping in downtown Picton?"

Apparently broken legs, sprained wrist and fractured knees will be tossed in free to courageous customers who tackle Main Street following a storm.

If Picton merchants sincerely wish to woo the shopper who visits merry malls to make purchases then every consideration should be offered toward customer comfort.

Senior citizens have no reason to worry about falling and broken bones while shopping indoors at a mall or even downtown in roadway communities where sidewalks are sand shovelled and properly sanded.

Similarly, young persons may enjoy firmer footing in a mall where they may tread from store to store is convenient.

Obviously, if Picton merchants expect local residents to patronize them they must expect to offer properly cleared entrances to their shops.

Should the town's public works department seem remiss in supplying sand for icy walks then merchants should band together to request better service in this respect.

Picton's stores this year are attractively decorated, and well stocked to serve the Christmas shopper but merchants can scarcely expect customers to break their necks in grabbing local bargains.

Fjrm Changes Hands

PICTON — Roger's Tire and Battery, in operation here since 1947, has been sold to Tom Mills of Peterborough, a former Picton native.

Roger Blanchard, owner of the service centre and his sister, Thelma, who has worked in the business since 1940, sold they plan to retire.

New owners Tom Mills recently worked as manager of a Firestone tire store.

Trenton Bureau

Snow Creates Shopping Hazard

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

Trenton's municipal workers have become so caught up in the holiday spirit they now think the town is Santa Claus.

Wage demands being made by various municipal employee groups have been so incredibly high it is surprising that lines of people are not forming in the town offices to submit applications for employment with the indoor-outdoor maintenance workers, fire department and police force.

Town officials have expressed concern that the exorbitant demands would effect other municipal contract negotiations.

Aubrey Sharp, town clerk and administrator for the past year, must be wondering if life is a dream or an intensive study course in labor negotiations and arbitration hearings for municipal officials.

The firefighters say their overtime is undermanned and they deserve more money but some people are wondering if they warrent more money than the town treasurer who is responsible for millions of dollars or the town engineer who has been with the municipality for more than 25 years.

Most people acknowledge the police have a dangerous job, which they do well, but accordiject to press releases issued by the detective squad there is never any crime in Trenton.

The indoor-outdoor workers of CUPE suggest they are entitled to a 30 per cent increase because their department saves the town almost $100,000 but say they will have to vote on whether they will agree to accept a wage cut if it lowers money next year.

The town is crying poverty, complaining they could not possibly meet all the demands, acting the part of Scrooge in this Christmas comedy, trying to hide the budget surplus from the poor municipal employees.

The only ones apparently benefiting from the constant confusion is the taxpayer, who for the first time in many months can sit back and be entertained by good, old-fashioned, family-comedy entertainment.

Yes Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

Water Plants With Care

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

We get phone calls. And letters. And people bringing ailing house plants to us at Ventura Farms. And I don't think I'm exaggerating when I say 75 per cent of those ailments are centred around moisture — either an excess or a deficiency. An excess in the pot and a deficiency in the air. In short — overwatering or a lack of humidity.

A lack of humidity in the air is part of the natural climate profile of a room or a portion of a room, such as cedar or over a heat source. Over-watering is of course an imposed activity.

A lack of humidity can be overcome a number of ways:

1) Buy plants with low humidity requirements.

2) Add a humidifying device to the room over and above the furnace humidifier.

3) Move plants away from the heat source.

4) Set pots on a saucer of pebbles, filled with water.

5) Mist plants daily with an atomizer.

6) Group plants so they set up their own humidity pr0file, transferring moisture to and from each other.

Watering presents a different set of problems. And if you're in the habit of saying to yourself "Today I'll water my plants", then that is the first problem. Because you're treating all of your house plants as though they all had the same watering requirements. And chances are they don't.

And so, unconsciously, you continually overwater two or three plants. And they start to look sickly. And so you figure that watering might help. And you compound the problem. And they get worse. And you water some more and so ad fatium.

How much better that you should learn the watering requirements of each plant you own or are planning to own and treat them accordingly.

Some plants' watering requirements are similar and others are widely divergent. And such factors as type of pot, (clay or plastic), air, humidity, all play a role.

But most house plants fall somewhere in the following categories of soil moisture requirements.

1) Wet — a rare requirement, for houseplant soils except for a few of the swamp plants such as the venus fly trap or the umbrella plant.

2) Damp — damp to the touch at all times and never allowed to dry dry — a condition loved by ferns, zebra plants, violets, cyclamen, azalea and thousands of other.

3) Damp-dry — where the soil is allowed to go dry between heavy waterings. A must for peperomias, jade plants (and most succulents), crotons, chinese evergreens, poinsettias and a multitude of others.

4) Seasonal — watering during the growing season and a minimum or no water during dormancy. A requirement for all cactii and many of the tuberous, or bulb originating plants such as gloxinia and amaryllis.

Newman Suggests Tool Co-op

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Newman said Wednesday he is willing to meet farmers and equipment manufacturers in an attempt to set up regional equipment pools for peak periods.

"I'd do anything to help the farmers," the minister told the legislature.

Ed Philip (NDP—Toronto, Etobicoke) asked whether pools could be established, especially at peak times such as planting and harvesting, because of difficulty in obtaining equipment.

On another matter, Mr. Newman said the government's payments to the Ontario hog price stabilization program this year are much higher than anticipated.

Livestock Sales

Receipts were lighter on most classes of cattle and calves at Belleville Livestock Sales Tuesday. Prices were generally steady on good steers and heifers and cows were strong. Good stocker cattle sold steady. Good and choice steer and heifer calves sold strong. Good dairy cows and heifers were in strong demand at steady prices. Weaned pigs and sheats were lower.

Choice steers .39 to .45; Good heifers .37 to .38; common and medium .34 to .37; good cows .28 to .32; top of .36; medium .16 to .26; common .14 to .18.

Good heavy bologna bulls .34 to .35; medium .32 to .34; common .18 to .22.

Choice heavy stocker cattle — 750 to 900 lbs. — .38 to .40; good stock steer calves .35 to .38; good stock heifer calves .25 to .32; choice veal calves .30 to .38; common and medium .16 to .30; bob calves $5 to $25.

Lambs .30 to .40; sheep .18 to .30.

Feeder hogs .38 to .41 on live-weight basis; light sows .36 to .37; heavy sows .42 to .46; sheats .40 to .45; weaned pigs $40 to $55.

Good springers $500 to $720 each; good heifers $250 to $500 each.

It took less than a minute to peel the fleece from this sheep during demonstration by Dr. Alan Downes of the Australian Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization. Though the fleece from the chemically-treated sheep tumbled to the ground at the shearer's touch, the procedure is not yet ready for commercial application. Present treatments are administered as iafusions to the jugular vein, but considerable necessary will allow chemicals to be given as a drench or by injection.

Trade and Raw Materials Parley One Of Many Touching Lives Of Everyone

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

This has been a year of many international conferences dealing with the relations between the rich and the poor countries.

You may have forgotten about most of them, though they all have been reported in your paper and commented about in this column.

Equally important, you may think they have had no direct repercussion on your life-style with the likes of Henry Kissinger, Harold Wilson, Pierre Trudeau, President Ford in attendance.

The fact is that the international meetings of 1973 concluding with the International Conference on Trade and Raw Materials which has just ended in France, have had greater impact on all of us than the many earlier ones dealing mainly with political issues.

This is because all these summit events have discussed a future world where inflation will continue to remain high, where in the rich countries, with 17 million out-of-work in Canada, Europe and the U.S. must still continue to bear some of the burden for bringing along the many, many poor countries in our world.

What the representatives of the 77 rich and poor countries in Paris said out loud about the availability of oil will ultimately affect us.

The poor, Third World nations have won strong bargaining position, that is those ones who are sources of needed raw materials. They are forming tough-minded commodity cartels through which they, not the user-nations like Canada, will set future prices.

This is not a trend coming in the future. Commodity cartels, were formed last year in bauxite and continued during 1973.

During 1975 we have seen the following conferences dealing with this vital question of relations between the world's many nations on economic matters:

There was the United Nations special session in early September on the priorities of the poor nations, the meeting in August of 25 so-called non-aligned nations in Lima, Peru, the annual meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund also concentrating on financing the economic development of poor nations, an economic summit in Paris last month which excluded Canada, and now the Paris cation conference just concluded in Paris.

A very jarring note was the resolution passed by the United Nations General Assembly last month defining Zionism as a form of racism. It did no good whatsoever to the important one-to-one activities of the other meetings I have mentioned.

The other day in the same UN assembly, the contentious U.S. ambassador, Daniel Moynihan, called the year's activities in that body, "the theatre of the absurd."

Both he and his boss, Henry Kissinger, have strongly opposed the activities of the PLO in the and beyond the UN premises and the stimulus their cause has received from many countries receiving United States aid or technical assistance.

On the other hand, one must wonder about the fact that the amount of aid Israel is requesting from the U.S. represents almost half the total American aid budget for next year.

Given that bitter and destructive two-nation agitation, Zionism, the international meetings held this year were as the economists say on balance more positive than negative.

As our world becomes increasingly more complex to live and work in we must talk to each other more and in more places as possible, the international conference remaining a vital one of these.

Doubts About Detente

Whither detente? The high point of contemporary U.S.-Soviet relationships seems to have passed with the visit of President Ford a while back.

Mr. Ford has said any return visit by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev will have to await further progress in arms limitation talks.

A startling reminder, meanwhile, of the fundamental differences between the two societies and political systems had been provided by film smuggled to the west and shown by television networks in recent days.

Taken by a Russian, or so we are told, the purports to show a prison camp outside Riga, capital of Latvia. Some prisoners are shown on trucks, but there is no overt evidence of mistreatment. On the other hand there are guards with dogs and the film is said to have provoked a sharply critical reaction from the French Communist party as to the conditions within.

Interestingly, the camp is called a "gulag" which forms part of the title of exiled author Alexander Solzhenitsyn's book on Soviet prison life, "Gulag Archipelago."

Solzhenitsyn's views on the Soviet system, from first-hand experience, are uncompromising. Since establishing residency in the West he has warned repeatedly of the dangers of pursuing detente — a viewpoint with which the Chinese, incidentally concur.

How much credence should be given to the warnings of Solzhenitsyn and others? Plenty! In the second of two addresses delivered in New York last July, under the auspices of the AFL-CIO, and quoted in part in this month's Reader's Digest, the Soviet author gives an answer to the premise held by many that "it will never happen here." He quotes a Russian proverb which says: "When it happens to you, you'll know it's true," and adds: "Do we have to wait until the knife is at our throat?" He cites reasons, political and military — not least the fact that Soviet nuclear strength is now ahead of that of the United States.

There are other straws in the wind — for example, grain and cotton involvement in the volatile situation in Angola . . . and evidence of U.S. aid too, to opposing factions.

A Paris news agency article notes that Christianity has not died in modern Russia, but the October issue of the Los Angeles-based publication, Underground Evangelism, claims Christian children suffer mental and physical abuse in Soviet schools.

The moral may well be, if the West, and the U.S. in particular, is to pursue detente, it should continue to do so only from a position of strength.

Upward Spiral

The cost of living continues to make increasing claims on citizens and government at every level.

On the positive side it is good to be informed that the Quinte Mall generates about $250,000 or more in city taxes. The city can also expect more from the scheduled Mall expansion and from the new Century Place complex nearing completion downtown.

While healthy tax picture however there are parallel increases in municipal costs. As city council learned Monday major wage programs have been hit by inflation and sewage disposal costs are up.

The government's anti-inflation program notwithstanding, some increases have been building up for some time and these are reflected in the figures released in recent days.

Auto Thefts Mounting

Motorists are all too familiar these days with the high cost of keeping a car on the road.

The cost of gas . . . and insurance. All but out of sight.

Add to this, insurance losses from automobile theft and the figures are staggering. Losses from theft alone are expected to reach a record $40 million this year, up from $34.5 million in 1974, according to the Insurance Crime Prevention Bureau. Compare these statistics also with the 1973 monetary loss of a mere $25 million and we have some idea of the escalating problem.

Bureau statistics show that car thefts across Canada in 1974 totalled 80,736, up from 69,838 in 1973. Quebec led the dollar loss last year with more than $16 million compared with Ontario's $9 million plus and British Columbia in excess of $5 million.

But even these figures pail when set against automobile insurance-related crime which bureau president J. M. McFayden notes at $100 million a year in losses "and growing at a frightening pace."

And this is but one facet of our high-priced economy in which waste, conspicuous waste now to an increasing degree, crime, are intertwined.

Commodity Group Seeks Meeting on Marketing

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Consumer affairs analyst, Vincent Egan, has added his weighty support to the "bunch" of Lone-Line People that there is something wrong with farm product marketing boards.

The service provided by Mr. Egan to illustrate the basis for his concern include the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Agricultural Stabilization Board, and the Grain and Oilseeds Program, yet not one of these is a farm products marketing board.

Unhappily many comments will by this time have reached the "bunch" of the chairman of the Anti-Inflation Board, echoed by Mr. Egan, without having any opportunity to assess the facts of the matter for themselves.

Readers have requested Mr. Pepin to meet with us so that we may discuss the marketing boards system and the ways in which it provides direct benefits to producer and to consumers. We have nothing to hide.

Marketing boards operate under provincial legislation, with their operations and policies being strictly monitored. The watchdog board overseeing these operations in Ontario includes senior civil servants and the chairperson for the Ontario chapter of the Canadian Consumers Association. This emphasizes that the interests of consumers are being well respected. Marketing boards have no secret. Shh this at all.

In our highly urbanized society few consumers have any contact with basic food production and as a result they have not been able to develop an understanding of agriculture.

Canadian farmers rank with the world's most efficient and least protected and these are points of established record.

The 30 farm product marketing boards operating in Ontario have responsibility for 40 farm commodities. In exactly five cases production quotas are imposed to balance production with market demand. In seven cases prices are set by the boards, but these products must compete for price and quality with imported product which customarily enters our markets ahead of domestic product.

The Ontario Commodity Council now recognizes that farmers have failed to keep the public informed about their industry, which stands as the most valuable contributor to Canada's economy. We would welcome queries from your readers about marketing boards, and these should be directed to Ontario Commodity Council, 357 Bloor Street East, Toronto, M4W 1H9.

KEN McLEOD,
Chairman,
Ontario Commodity Council.

Olympics Trusteeship

Montreal-Matin: The provincial government takeover of the Olympics has given the Liberals some much-needed political capital.

What better way to demonstrate the abilities of a team of "young and competent administrators" than to perform a last-minute salvage of the Games that extravagance had imperilled, but that 62 per cent of society wanted. . . .

It should be said that the Olympics installation board and minister Victor Goldbloom's involvement appear to be good signs. Montreal now can be treated to realism where they once kept the songs of spectacular triumph from Mayor Jean Drapeau. . . .

The provincial government's involvement comes as a psychological treatment for Montrealers. After Mr. Goldbloom's announcement of a $75-million savings, through cuts, on a $600-million deficit, it is hardly enough. . . .

The psychological treatment should also have some effect on workers at games construction sites. The workers have been under enormous pressure, some of them working as many as seven days a week.

"From now on, they'll get holidays and vacations, and their work week will be limited to six days and 66 hours from the current . . . 84 hours and 84 hours. . . .

Another victory for the installations board is its decision to be more open and to grant more information on progress of Games construction. . . .

But let's try to be as realistic as Mr. Goldbloom. The Olympics remain in opposition to the primary needs of Montrealers. The Games are an administrative mess and a nest of petroleum.

The board remains our only hope of cutting our losses.

Foreign Programs

Ottawa Journal

With respect to TV, Ireland lies in a position something like that of Canada. Both countries lie under the umbrella of a larger neighbor more prolific in quantity of its TV show windows. Both countries, in terms of their industrial resources, find it easier to reproduce foreign programs than to create their own new programs; though both feel the desire and need for more programs originating at home.

But Ireland has access to less variety than Canada. For the northwest and midlands of the Irish Republic, only one channel is available; that of Radio Telefis Eireann (RTE), the national broadcasting organization. This carries some programs with Irish content and some in the Gaelic language but also BBC and continental programs and — horrible to relate! — even some of the Canada U.S. soap operas. The east coast of Ireland can pick up English TV channels and some of these are brought by cablevision into homes in the Dublin area. Those living near Northern Ireland can get British TV as boosted in Ulster.)

Upward Spiral

The cost of living continues to make increasing claims on citizens and government at every level.

On the positive side it is good to be informed that the Quinte Mall generates about $250,000 or more in city taxes. The city can also expect more from the scheduled Mall expansion and from the new Century Place complex nearing completion downtown.

While healthy tax picture however there are parallel increases in municipal costs. As city council learned Monday major wage programs have been hit by inflation and sewage disposal costs are up.

The government's anti-inflation program notwithstanding, some increases have been building up for some time and these are reflected in the figures released in recent days.

A Swing to the Right in Canada?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The ranks of organized labor in Canada are truly aroused by the power today. In British Columbia the NDP government of Dave Barrett lies in ruin. Probably the best and most progressive government the people of BC ever had.

Taken advantage of the pro-labor leanings of the NDP, organized labor embarked on a calculated program of strikes, civil disobedience which could only end one way — by totally discrediting the most powerful group in the country, unorganized average voter.

Barrett recognized too late the mood of the people when he sent the strikers that were paralyzing the province back to work. Too many had been out of work for too great a cost to the rest of the people. Now, they will pay — every time they go to the polls — because government has its back to the wall. Now, the province is under the Social Credit hit.

At the federal level - the Trudeau government has also felt the goons with the decision to over-rule the Anti-Inflation Board on the postal issue. Now, other groups will all want to be in the same act.

I feel the country will be ripe for the right in the coming months as the feeling of fear on the part of the unpolitical and unorganized manifests itself in a vote toward the Conservative party.

We will then endure a period of long kitchens. Good sense and country before a massive swing the other way. How far we go will depend on the level of apathy among the unorganized man and woman. If they are sufficiently fed up with being the victims of the goons with and big labor, we may end up with something truly representative. If they don't show an interest we will be calling each other "comrade" and it will have been our own disinterest and non-involvement that did it.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY,
Oakville.

Auto Thefts Mounting

Motorists are all too familiar these days with the high cost of keeping a car on the road.

The cost of gas . . . and insurance. All but out of sight.

Add to this, insurance losses from automobile theft and the figures are staggering. Losses from theft alone are expected to reach a record $40 million this year, up from $34.5 million in 1974, according to the Insurance Crime Prevention Bureau. Compare these statistics also with the 1973 monetary loss of a mere $25 million and we have some idea of the escalating problem.

Bureau statistics show that car thefts across Canada in 1974 totalled 80,736, up from 69,838 in 1973. Quebec led the dollar loss last year with more than $16 million compared with Ontario's $9 million plus and British Columbia in excess of $5 million.

But even these figures pail when set against automobile insurance-related crime which bureau president J. M. McFayden notes at $100 million a year in losses "and growing at a frightening pace."

And this is but one facet of our high-priced economy in which waste, conspicuous waste now to an increasing degree, crime, are intertwined.

Former Davis Aide Is Now Industry and Tourism Deputy

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Jim Fleck has been picked again at the man for the spot.

Since Premier Davis took power in 1971 James Fleck has been the province's number one civil servant.

After two years he was made secretary to the cabinet. Just recently he was put in charge of the province's anti-inflation program.

And now he has been made deputy minister of the ministry of industry and tourism.

Fleck has been a controversial figure from the start. A combination entrepreneur and academic, he is a self-made millionaire, a graduate of the Harvard School of Business and a professor of business administration, including a spell in the Orient.

But he has no political background, and without this, represents the ideal bureaucrat.

There are those who believe that the mandarins that you can administer government without political background. That the systems and theories of the universities and industry are sufficient for it.

Then there are those who believe that the final function of government is public service and that it can't be administered well or properly without a full appreciation of this and the obligations and responsibilities involved.

The gentlemen that have been made of Jim Fleck have been that thought he had a good administrator (some say superb) he doesn't have a political soul.

And without it he has been unable to effectively judge the public issues which have, come before him.

Whether this thinking is right is an emotional controversy to which time probably is a resolution.

In any event in his new position, Fleck is taking on a job to which he is admirably suited.

Industry and tourism has a high involvement with management and the economy.

The future of industry section has the key job, one becoming always more important, of stimulating and guiding the economy.

The direction of such a program is right in the Fleck niche. And incidentally, in spiraling him, the premier is making it possible to take this a show-case ministry—near the top in the government.

Faulkner Will Press Advertising Legislation

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Hugh Faulkner said Friday he is determined to press on with controversial tax legislation affecting advertisers in Canadian editions of Time magazine and Reader's Digest.

He refused to accept appeals from some members of Parliament, including several Liberals, for delays and modifications in the bill. He said in an interview he stands by an earlier offer to give Reader's Digest time to become 75 per cent Canadian-owned.

Mr. Faulkner said a further delay until late January in giving the legislation final reading will bring the government under strong new pressure to back down.

Defends Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Friday he does not believe the proposed 10-per-cent limit on prices of exports exceeding the anti-inflation guides will have a serious detrimental effect.

He was replying in the Commons to Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, who said the 10-per-cent limit, announced Thursday, may discourage multinational corporations to shift export production from Canada.

Partridge Dies

TORONTO (CP) — John A. Partridge, 58, national vice-president and honorary secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Red Cross Society, died Tuesday of a heart attack while vacationing in Naples, Fla.

Mr. Partridge held several offices in the Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society before he served as national president of the society from May, 1967, to May, 1969.

Mr. Partridge, a chartered accountant who lived in Kingston, Ont., also was a member of the board of governors of Kingston General Hospital.

Increase Rates

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro will increase its wholesale power rates by 22 per cent effective Jan. 1, Robert Taylor, chairman of the Hydro board of directors, announced Friday.

The 22-per-cent increase was recommended last week by a three-man legislative committee on Hydro rates. Hydro had asked for a 25-per-cent increase.

Receives Grant

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A Kingston senior citizens' club has received a $7,813 federal grant to play shuffleboard despite the government's attempts to reduce expenditure, it has been announced.

Lay Off 295

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — A production slowdown next month at the General Motors of Canada automobile plant here will result in the indefinite layoff of 295 of the plant's 3,000 employees, the company announced Friday. Effective Jan. 5, production is to be reduced to 46 units an hour from 45 units an hour at the Montreal-area plant.

Blocks Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, with assurances of President Ford's support, approved Friday a compromise bill to block an income tax increase scheduled Jan. 1.

Approval was a step toward resolving a tax-and-spending dispute that threatens to increase average income taxes as much as $6 a week.

MPs to Get Tax-free Raise Despite Freeze

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament will get a raise in tax-free income starting Jan. 1 despite a government pay freeze presented Thursday as part of his anti-inflation program.

Senators also will benefit under a small-print exception to the promised pay freeze. The exception went generally unnoticed—and prompted not a word of public comment in the House of Commons or Senate.

The 263 MPs, including cabinet ministers, will get an increase in tax-free allowances to $11,300 a year from the present $10,000. The 93 senators received a raise to $5,000 from $3,300 in tax-free income.

"At our level of income and tax brackets, the $700 extra in tax-free money is equivalent to almost twice that much if it were an ordinary, taxable pay increase," Stanley Knowles said in an interview Friday.

"The government is trying to give the impression that it is freezing our incomes, but it is not. We're supposed to be setting an example but we're going to get this nice little extra."

The veteran MP added that revelation that the pay freeze is only partial comes when the government is trying to push through legislation before Christmas that, among other things, will sweeten future pensions of MPs—by about one-third.

Mr. Knowles said he will fight passage of the pensions bill at an extraordinary Saturday sitting of the Commons, called to get the bill through.

MPs voted themselves pay increases of 23 1-3 per cent last spring, to a taxable salary of $24,000 plus $10,000 a year tax-free allowance, along with a cost-of-living escalator boost both by a maximum of about seven per cent each Jan. 1.

Senators get $14,000 plus $5,300 in tax-free allowances.

Ministers, parliamentary secretaries and some other officers—about 65 MPs in all—get

Postpones Plant

MONTREAL (CP) — Alcan Aluminium Ltd. and its partners in Alcan Ireland Ltd. have announced they will postpone the start of construction on a proposed alumina extraction plant in the Republic of Ireland. A statement issued Friday said construction was being put off because of the "slow economic recovery in most countries and in the aluminum industry." The decision will be reconsidered in 12 to 18 months, the statement said. The plant would process bauxite, mainly from West Africa.

U.S. Price Index Shows Lower Prices for Gas, Sugar

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest U.S. government report on consumer prices, issued last week, produced a little bit of cheer but just as many unpleasant surprises.

For a change, the month of November saw gasoline prices go down 8-10 of a per cent. Sugar prices were more than 10 per cent lower and other food prices, including beef and pork also declined.

But while inflation seemed to Teachers Settle

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — An eight-month contract agreement has been reached between the Dufferin-Peel Roman Catholic Separate School Board and its 300 teachers, board negotiator Doug Stanley said Friday.

He said the agreement, which gives teachers a 29-per-cent salary increase, was ratified Thursday.

However, it must be approved by the federal anti-inflation board, Mr. Stanley said.

Under the terms of the new agreement, teachers' salaries will range from $6,330 to $23,850.

The old contract expires Dec. 31.

Receive Awards

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Nine helicopter pilots received awards for bravery Friday for rescuing 26 persons from the Niagara River gorge Aug. 23 after a bus overturned on a test run, killing three persons.

No Study Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Thursday he has not yet ordered a federal investigation into problems which might arise from radioactivity in the Port Hope region 70 miles east of Toronto.

However, he said in a Commons reply to Allan Lawrence (PC — Northumberland-Durham), that the Atomic Energy Control Board is proposing an investigation with the help of health department officials.

Won't Stop

OTTAWA (CP) — The 70 members of Le Mouvement C'est L'Temps won't stop campaigning for bilingual services from the Ontario government despite promises of 16 government forms in two languages by the end of the year, spokesman Alain Poirier said Friday.

cost for the moment an iboss heightening trouble spots, it boiled over in the cost of variour services. Auto insurance rates rose 4.5 per cent in November. Mortgage rates were up 1.6 per cent.

In all, the labor department's consumer price index announced Friday, showed that while the seasonally-adjusted November price increase in food had moderated and gas prices were declining, service costs took their largest jump in more than 4 years—a surprise to admiring traffic economists.

Consumer prices over-all were reported up 7-10 of a per cent in November, or 8.6 per cent on an annual basis.

New car prices also were reported up 9-10 of a per cent in November, but signs appeared in Detroit that the spiral might be slowing.

Early in the week, Ford and Chrysler announced plans to raise prices early next month. Ford's increase would average $122 on cars and light trucks, while Chrysler's would be $75 to $70 on selected models to cover safety equipment costs.

However, General Motors had made no move by week's end to increase its prices, and officials said it might reconsider the price increase if it hurt sales.

Meanwhile, Chrysler chairman John Riccardo apparently won a vow of aid with the British government over the fate of Chrysler's ailing floating British subsidiary.

Lord Treasury, Britain's governing Labor Party agreed to rescue Chrysler U.K. at a cost of about $225 million. Without the aid, Riccardo said he would liquidate the British operation, throwing 25,000 Britons out of work. Even with the rescue, 8,500 jobs will be lost.

Harried holiday travellers received some good news at the end of the week as a tentative agreement was reached between United Airlines and striking ground employees. The two-week walkout had contributed to serious snarling of airport traffic in the holiday crush.

American Telephone and Telegraph Co., with more shareholders than any U.S. corporation, reported a small decline in the quarter ended Nov. 30. Earnings per share were

Canadians Asked Not To Lose Faith in God

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians have been told not to lose faith in God or the prospects for a better world in the annual Christmas message of prominent Canadian churchmen.

"It has been well said that Christmas is a time to feel especially grateful to God "for the awakening of our sense of responsibility to our fellow men . . . for the realization that we must curb our greed and share with those who suffer hunger and deprivation.

"Most of all, I am grateful for God's continuous love and His patience as we struggle to fulfil the Christmas promise of peace."

Most Rev. E. W. Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, said the message of Christmas is not escape from the world with its terrifying possibilities, but a reminder that Christians are not alone.

"We move out to face the challenge of today and tomorrow with Him and countless others whose hearts are given to Him," he said.

Rev. Dr. R. Fred Bullen, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Federation of Canada, said Christmas is a season for everyone.

"... the season comes to all men in whatever attitude or condition they may be found," he said. "Affluence and poverty are typical superlatives. . . . Our Christmas list must include those unknown persons to whom we cannot be indifferent."

Rt. Rev. Wilfrid N. Howard, moderator of the United Church of Canada, urged Canadians to live with the spirit of Christmas throughout the year.

"The truth of the matter is that Christmas comes wherever and whenever you want it to come," he said. "It's the spirit of Christ and His love rising up renewed within you."

Rev. Earl S. Treusch, general secretary of the Lutheran Council of Canada, asked Canadians to think more seriously about the meaning of Christmas.

"So much of that with which we are confronted is really only superficial," he said. "You are surrounded with many opportunities to dig more deeply . . . Spend some time thinking of its importance for you and for all people."

Pentecostal Building Under Construction Here

A new $217,000 headquarters for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada (Eastern Ontario and Quebec District) is now rising from the ground on the western outskirts of Belleville.

District superintendent Rev. Gordon Upton revealed Wednesday plans for the district headquarters, needed because the present offices are too small.

Now with a full-time staff of five persons, the offices on King George Square have simply been "outgrown", he said.

Plans for the new single-storey structure call for a brick exterior surrounding about 6,000 square feet of floor space on a five-acre site, immediately west of the Belleville Cemetery.

The land is adjacent to a 15-acre waterfront parcel owned by Calvary Temple in Belleville.

Mr. Upton said Wednesday future plans for the headquarters site might include in future a joint senior citizens housing project with Calvary temple.

Temple pastor Rev. Charles Bess announced in mid-1974 plans for a new church and a major $3-million complex for the elderly.

But Mr. Upton said that, as yet, no serious negotiations have taken place, but a joint venture is possible because Calvary Temple is one of the Pentecostal Assembly's churches.

Money for the new district headquarters comes from three sources, said Mr. Upton. A third of the funds offered by the district's church members for world overseas missionary work is spoiled to district work.

Additionally, pastors from this district's 115 churches hand over five per cent of their yearly income. Each church also donates a sum from it's general income.

New headquarters to be completely air-conditioned are due for completion in May, 1976.

THE COMBINED JUNIOR AND SENIOR CHOIRS OF TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH will present the Frozen Vegetables Better Than Fresh

Fresh vegetables from the supermarket may not be the nutritional bargain you think they are.

Robert Stark, head of the food processing section of Agriculture Canada's Kentville, Nova Scotia research station, says that while fresh vegetables just picked from your own garden are the best vegetables you can eat, once picked, vegetables begin to lose nutrients, flavor and texture quickly.

"Unless the supermarket produce manager really gets the stuff out on the shelves fast, the vegetables lose an awful lot between the time they are harvested and when you put them in a pot to cook."

Mr. Stark says that frozen vegetables are often better tasting and have superior flavor and texture than fresh produce. He is one of a group of researchers who hopes that frozen produce will improve with the production of a new method of processing food for freezing.

Steam-blanching is the new technique, one which nutrition conscious cooks have used for years. Currently, vegetables are rushed from the field through a water blanching process and into the freezer.

"Most of the nutrients and fresh qualities are locked right in," Mr. Stark says. But the water blanching results in the loss of nutrient and flavor compounds.

The new process, being tested now at the research station, uses steam to heat vegetables which are resting on a conveyor belt. In a second stage, cool air is blown over them along with a fine spray of water, recirculated from the steam, which could put back into the vegetables some of the water they lost during steam blanching.

The experimental, process will be used with a wide range of vegetables and finally, the possibility of expanding it to commercial use will be studied.

If there's a new chicken on the menu in your household lately, you can thank pork prices.

At least that's what Eugene Whelan, minister of Agriculture, says in Outlook '76, a prediction of things to come in the field of agriculture. The department predicts a drop in pork prices near the end of next year while beef and poultry prices will remain steady, in spite of that, Canadians will increase their annual rate of beef consumption to about 100 pounds per person.

Price increases to the consumer for fresh milk will continue but should be more moderate than this year's increases. You'll probably see more milk but less butter. Stored apples and pears will be cheaper because of the huge crop this year. Maple syrup prices will go up in the spring.

The Ontario Fire Marshalls office has issued a bulletin to remind you that there's more fire danger in your home at Christmas than at any other time. Remember: no candles on any tree, no electric lights on metallic trees and be wary of plastic trees made from styrene — they are highly flammable. Water natural trees. The Fire Marshal's office says that a fire retardant chemical spray is no substitute for immersion in water and does not recommend it.

Kids' Holiday Entertainment: Pig Tales at Corby Library

Looking for holiday entertainment for your children?

Then make a point of going to Corby Public Library at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 23, to see a play especially written for children.

It's called Pig Tales, a 50-minute play about two little pigs who start on their way to "Hogtown" to be in the movies, but end up instead having a series of marvellous adventures, including a run-in with a wolf.

Written by Ernie Schwartz of Studio Lab Theatre in Toronto, the play is directed by Larry Taylor, theatre arts teacher at Prince Edward Collegiate. The actors are theatre arts students, all members of the school's drama club.

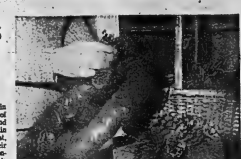
Mr. Taylor says the play is suitable for children from age three to 12, and "very entertaining for adults too! Parents will enjoy themselves if they bring their children."

Pig Tales features some audience participation, including a dance routine taught to 10 children by the actors.

The cast includes Robert Holleti as Dumpy, Sharon DeVries as Daisie, David Sherwin as the Sheriff, Nancy Powers as Miss Pickles, and Donald Elson and Fred Lester sharing the role of the Wolf.

The production of Pig Tales in Belleville is sponsored by the Belleville and District Branch of the Canadian Federation of University Women. The play will be held in the library's upstairs gallery, and is free.

Pine Cones Make Wreaths



A wire coat hanger makes a frame.

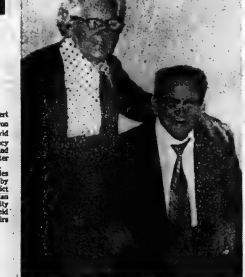
A large outdoor wreath can be made.



Mr. and Mrs. Peck

Coat hangers and garbage bags are two of the household items Daina Honeyman transforms into sophisticated Christmas wreaths suitable for indoor or outdoor use.

Mrs. Honeyman, who is widely known for her dried flower arrangements, each fall collects combat baskets of cones from many kinds of pine trees. The cones, with the coat hangers and green plastic and pagshum moss, the wreaths are easily made.

A coat hanger is bent in a circle and wrapped with pagshum moss from the florist. Mrs. Honeyman says some authorities recommend the use of wet moss but she prefers to use dry moss. Green garbage bag are cut in strips about five inches wide and wrapped around the moss to make a thick circular form.

She begins the wreath, which will eventually include about 70 cones of varying sizes, by wiring cones for the inner and outer edges of the circular form. The thin flexible wire is purchased in 15 inch lengths from a florist or hobby shop. Each cone is wrapped with wire and then closely attached to the frame. When the inner and outer edges are filled with cones, she wraps the form lightly once more with green plastic strips to conceal most of the wiring.

Next, using little green wooden sticks with pieces of wire attached, Mrs. Honeyman wires the cones for the centre of the wreath. The sticks, which are purchased from a florist, are simply slid under the layer of plastic.

A special touch is cone flowers, which Mrs. Honeyman makes by cutting pine cones with pruning scissors. Husband Stuart drills nuts and acorns to add to the wreaths.

The wreaths are hardy indoors or out and Daina Honeyman's first wreath, now 10 years old, still decorates their Crawview Drive home each Christmas.

Sudbury Wedding Held

Grace Smith, who for 40 years lived in the Albury community in Prince Edward County, was married recently to Charles Sandberg in her new home, a nursing home near Sudbury, Ont.

Mrs. Sandberg, 87, moved to the Sudbury area two years ago to be near her granddaughter, Wendy Hatfield. A widow for 19 years, Mrs. Sandberg was married to Ed Smith, a Prince Edward farmer. Before her first marriage, Mrs. Sandberg, who was born in Bristol, England, worked at Sir James Whitney, then the Ontario School for the Deaf. Mr. Sandberg is a native of the Sudbury area.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandberg will reside at the nursing home.

People and Events

LADIES' AUXILIARY HASTINGS MANOR

The final meeting of 1975 was a pot luck luncheon for the members of the Hastings Manor Ladies' Auxiliary.

Following the lunch, Marguerite Wessels, president, took charge of the business meeting.

Three self-propelled wheel chairs were on view, gifts from the auxiliary to the manor.

The slate of officers for the coming year is as follows: Marguerite Wessels, past president; Daisy Bongard, president; Lil Hathaway, recording secretary; Kay Hall, corresponding secretary; Helen MacLaren, treasurer; Dorothy MacLean, tuck and coffee shop; Margaret Skinner, social; Maude Ray, flowers; Flea Bland, phoning; Clarence Parry, visiting; Jean Kilburn, press; Dot Davidson, historian; Annis Dickson, pictures.

Pearl Holmes conducted the election and Ruby Bertrand installed the officers. At the conclusion of the meeting, gifts were presented to all residents.

QUINTE DANCE CENTRE VISITED BY SANTA

Santa Claus came to the Quinte Dance Centre Sunday, December 14, with candy and gifts for all the ballet students. The party was sponsored by the school's administrative committee.

The Chinese pas de deux from the Nutcracker Suite was performed by Peter Locke and Drew Strickland, and films and carol singing completed the program.

BELLEVILLE WRITERS' GUILD

The second meeting of the Belleville Writers' Guild took place Wednesday at the Corby Library. The guild recently began to give local writers a chance to discuss their writing, features individual readings at each meeting.

Barry Grills read one of his short stories and John Grieve read her poetry to the group, who then offered criticism and opinion.

Area writers, published or not, are invited to join the group. For more information, call Donna Whalen at 968-3050

QUINTE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A Christmas party was held by members of the Quinte Women's Institute recently. A turkey dinner was attended by 35 members of the group.

Pearl Holmes spoke on agriculture and Eileen Darling reported on the Area convention. Erma Lloyd, Phyllis Fraser and Lillian Dearden conducted a Christmas program. Others participating in the program were Evelyn Wood, Mary Davis, Bessie Keene, and Helen McLaren.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary presented Christmas gifts to more than 100 extended care patients and 50 children in the pediatrics ward Wednesday at the annual Christmas party. Santa Claus visited the patients and many hospital volunteers were on hand to help in the festivities which included refreshments.

Short Work Day for Parents Proposed

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — More than half of Swedish women with pre-school age children are working mothers—and the government is planning to invest heavily on expanding its day-care program.

The opinion is divided on the effects on young children of day-care centres.

A working mother who sends her three-year-old son to a centre says youngsters there are well-adjusted and learn to communicate better.

... mother who prefers to stay at home with her two young children says youngsters who spend their days in centres are often love-starved.

Among the programs that Sweden, one of the world's most advanced countries in social services, is considering is a six-hour working day for parents of pre-school age children.

At a typical day-care centre in Stockholm, the children spend the day at play, in organized discussions, baking cakes, watching television, and helping the adult staff to clean up.

Many children in centres are unhappy, it is claimed.

Inger Rindsjo, 27, lives with her husband Johan and her three-year-old son Kalle on the Kalle has attended a day-care centre since he was five months old.

"Kalle lives his own life at the day-care centre," said Mrs. Rindsjo. "He's proud of it.

She said: "Many parents Johan both work full-time, and socialists of Stockholm. She and can't deny my child his right to a life of his own. Kalle can't choose his parents, but by having the chance to establish close psychology in her free time, relationships with other people he has a free choice."

She is critical of women who choose to stay at home with their children. "They build up a whole world around the home—nothing is allowed to intrude."

But not all mothers believe in day-care centres.

Marianne Rocklind, 29, is a housewife with two small children at home in a village near Stockholm and she studies child love-starved—they cannot possibly establish good contact with adults if there are two staff and 17 children as is often the case."

Mrs. Rockland said she did not want to work outside the home.

The ministry of health and social welfare estimates that publicly-subsidized child care, including the planned centres, will cost Sweden about 17 billion crowns (about $4.5b.) a year.

Prime Minister Olof Palme says his government favors reducing the work day for parents of pre-school children by one hour. He added that if technical problems could be solved, the reform might go into effect by 1978.

More Pollution, Less Caviar

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Caviar lovers of the world, eat up while you can still afford it. Your fancy black fish eggs will cost about twice as much by next year.

And the trend after that will continue as industrial pollution has killed off sturgeon so fast that the Caspian Sea is the only important fishing belt for caviar-producing breeds.

Iran's fisheries department sells high-quality beluga caviar in the United States for $28.00 a pound.

Importers add shipping costs and their profit, make the delicacy an upper-crust luxury by the time it reaches the delicatessen shelf.

Things weren't always as bad for caviar consumers. Time was when a person could taste it on a free lunch counter at the corner saloon, where he then paid five cents a beer.

In those days sturgeon were abundant in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and many big rivers of the world.

But that's all over now. People who want to impress a date generally with caviar escapes have to compete for a limited catch from the Caspian, bordered by Iran and the Soviet Union.

The small Black Sea production by Soviets and Rumanians is largely consumed within those countries, with the Soviets importing from Romania.

Iran has purposely controlled its export at about 270 tons a year, half the world's supply. It ships 35 tons to the United States, another 50 to Europe and dabbles up 30-40 tons at home. But even it has a small serving in a modest restaurant cost about $6.50.

The remaining 85 tons of Iran's catch go to the Soviet Union, there big caviar appetites can't be satisfied by home production because industrial pollution on the north end of the Caspian has driven fish toward Iranian shores.

'Older Person Has Much Going for Him'

By DORIS CLARK, M.S.W.

Our ever-hal-century-mark Canadian fare is not going for them. What, for instance?

They are — have 50 years or more of life on this earth to draw on for ideas and knowledge of how to cope. We have developed skills along the lines of our work. We have learned a few key patterns of how to get along with people, how to organize our days and weeks, how to be successful.

We have learned a lot about psychology and coping with younger and older generations. Whether we use all we know or not, we do have some ideas about what works, when it comes to organizing a home or an office association. We have learned something about child behavior: something about basic needs of the world around us. We have come up against enough of the surprises of life, well to the joys of life, to know what we can take.

These are the things that give us the poise which is so painfully earned by our young people.

Teen-age years are supposed — in some quarters — to be the happiest of our lives. Take it from me, they are not. It just isn't easy to grow up, and the luckiest of teen-agers are those who have loving, understanding parents — the kind that give them confidence as well as teaching them self-discipline.

From "zero" one a human being begins spreading his wings. Those early years are largely shaped by the examples of maturity that he see, around him. During the teens he is trying his wings and by 20 with encouragement he manages; with discouragement he flounders. In either case there are times when he turns we are back at what we started with — a concern as to what the older person has going for him.

Let me tell you about some of the current stories reported to me by over-fifties:

One man, 72, serves as consultant with several large firms, being called in when they have particularly tricky problems. His key is wisdom which sees the pitfalls and the opportunities in a given situation — a wisdom born of many years of going through the mill and finding solutions.

A woman of 62 is having the best time of her life, according to her own report, in an organized program of volunteer visiting. She is meeting others, helping with people within her own age group, and bringing joy to shut-ins.

A retired doctor, a woman who has been executive in her own hospital setting, is learning to speak Italian and visiting in Italy regularly. She takes others with her and a whole new part of the world is opening up for her. Then she comes home and shares it.

I could go on and on. Yet how many Canadians look at that date of retirement with fear! For some, it seems to be the end of the world. For others, it looks like an ideal time to have an irresponsible idiliv: "To fish all summer and snowmobile all winter."

Neither attitude brings happiness. It's the things that keep us alive, and rejoicing in being alive, is to keep expanding in meaningful activities which we find worth while. A man or woman who gets a general sense of usefulness in retirement has a reaction throughout his whole system which all too often leads to early death.

In this country there seems a prevalent attitude that once you retire you get out of the ongoing stream of lively activity. There are exceptions — second-class citizen. Strangely enough this does not apply to politicians or doctors. But where it does apply, all too often the retired industrial worker, office worker, or executive is inclined toward a depression which affects him mentally, physically and emotionally to the point of illness and far-too-early death.

We stereotype people. Youth is just great; middle age — well — it depends on when you sit how you look at it. But if you get to be over 60, and certainly when you get to be over 70, you are classified as on the downgrade.

With addition to a lack of things to do, you experience loneliness and boredom, you are likely to be like a third-class citizen, which is even worse. If you are unlucky enough to need nursing home care, you may suffer a devastating isolation. Not fair!

What we need — and are working at getting — is a whole new look at our growing-up-and-growing-old — population; we need to replace pessimism with what Norman Vincent Peale calls a tough-minded optimism.

And we need a complete change of attitude towards our older citizens on the part of all Canadians.

Interfering Grandparents 'Spoiled Kids Rotten'

Dear Ann: I am writing in pain and desperation. If I wait till I "cool off" I'll never mail this letter.

We have two teenage daughters (16 and 18) and a son (9). The girls are a handful and the boy acts like a 10-year-old. My parents live two blocks away. They have always spoiled our children rotten—insisted it was their privilege.

When the kids were small they ran away to grandma's after every scolding or spanking. She would bring them home and take their side against us. I know it should have been stopped then, but I didn't want any family arguments.

Now when we try to discipline our children they tell us, "Grandma and Granpa say you should stay out of our lives." The boy is a hopeless case. When we suggest he move out and get a place of his own he says, "I can't afford it."

Today I went to my dad and told my mother everything that has been on my mind for the last 10 years (16 and 18) and a son at nine. She was taken to the hospital a few hours ago with a "possible heart attack." I know I'll be blamed.

My children hate me and my husband is mad at me.

How do I clean up this mess? Is it too late?—Beside Myself.

Dear Friend: You need more help than I can give you. I suggest a therapist if you can afford it. If not, call the county or state association for mental health. Someone will tell you what facilities are available.

It may not be too late to salvage your children if you get some counselling on how to deal with them and can summon the strength to do it.

As for your mother, if she did have a heart attack, you didn't cause it. But you do need professional help to rid yourself of the guilt. Get going.

Dear Ann Landers: What should a neighbor do when he comes upon a dog or cat, or squirrel or possum who has been hit by a car and is in terrible pain?

My father says it's an act of mercy to club the animal to death. Right or wrong.—Ease Unire, Wis.

Dear E.C.: Wrong. Call the Humane Society and ask them to come and get the animal. And keep your distance. An injured animal can bite.

Older Person Has Much Going for Him

By DORIS CLARK, M.S.W.

Our ever-hal-century-mark Canadian fare is not going for them. What, for instance?

They are — have 50 years or more of life on this earth to draw on for ideas and knowledge of how to cope. We have developed skills along the lines of our work. We have learned a few key patterns of how to get along with people, how to organize our days and weeks, how to be successful.

We have learned a lot about psychology and coping with younger and older generations. Whether we use all we know or not, we do have some ideas about what works, when it comes to organizing a home or an office association. We have learned something about child behavior: something about basic needs of the world around us. We have come up against enough of the surprises of life, well to the joys of life, to know what we can take.

These are the things that give us the poise which is so painfully earned by our young people.

Teen-age years are supposed — in some quarters — to be the happiest of our lives. Take it from me, they are not. It just isn't easy to grow up, and the luckiest of teen-agers are those who have loving, understanding parents — the kind that give them confidence as well as teaching them self-discipline.

From "zero" one a human being begins spreading his wings. Those early years are largely shaped by the examples of maturity that he

Christmas Has Irresistible Charm

Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

Of all the seasons there is none more fascinating than Christmas. We are at once wearied of it, yet rested. We are disturbed by it, yet delighted. We are critical of its commerce and crowds, yet captivated by its carols and color.

There is an irresistible "something" about Christmas. That "something" is charm!

Christmas is a story of creativeness. It began in the mind of God at the dawn of time. It reached its "hallelujah chorus" in the birth of Jesus.

His birth occurred in an unlikely place, at an unlikely time, in order that unlikely men might have life abundantly.

Christmas is not only a song of creativeness, it is a story of selflessness. Note how this theme runs through the narrative of the nativity.

Joseph, perplexed by events that he could not grasp, unselfishly stood by as the protector and guide of Mary. The shepherds, excited by strange news, hurried to see an infant who would become the Good Shepherd. (They might have lost their jobs!).

And the Magi, at the cost of relatives and friends, ease and luxury, encountering all the obstacles of first century travel, journeyed by the light of a star to Bethlehem to present their gifts to One destined to be the light of the world.

To read the story of selflessness—and then to live it yourself—is to capture the charm of Christmas.

Moreover, Christmas is a portent of better things to come. The announcement was clear and definite, "To you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:11).

A beggar sat daily in a street across from the studio of an artist. The artist painted the beggar's portrait and eventually called the beggar in to see it.

"Who is it?" he kept asking. As recognition dawned, he inquired dubiously, "Is it me? Can it be me?"

"Well, that's the man as I see him", replied the artist with a smile. Then the beggar, with an act of faith, responded, "If that's the man you see, that's the man I'll be."

Herein is a parable. God is the artist. Mankind is the beggar. Christ is God's portrait of the ideal person—creative, selfless, and filled with the promise of eternal life.

To breathe a prayer, "If that's the potential you see, that's the individual I'll strive to be,"—to do this is to capture the full charm of Christmas!

Former Pastor Honored

BATAWA — Rev. W. H. Dunphy, recently retired pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, will be honored by initiation of a scholarship in his name for students of two school boys: Sacred Heart and Batawa Public.

Mr. Dunphy became pastor of Sacred Heart Parish in 1959 after retirement from R.C.A.F. as Wing Commander. He was forced to retire due to illness and is now convalescing at Trent Valley Lodge.

Those wishing to contribute to the scholarship fund are asked to send cheques payable to Father Dunphy Scholarship Fund to the manager of Batawa Bank of Montreal.

Cranberries Anyone?

PORTLAND, Ore (AP) — Oregon's production of cranberries this year has increased by three per cent, from last year to 85,000 barrels, the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says. The cranberries are of good quality but were slow to color and ripen, the service said.

Little Things Ruin

VIENNA, Austria (CP) — Franz and Johanna Neumann's marriage ended because of old garden gnomes. The 40-year-old salesman had filled their home in this city with his collection of the tiny reptiles and even took some to bed. Finally Mrs. Neumann sued for divorce and had her husband and the gnomes thrown out.

Resolution Made

ASHFORD, England (CP) — A friend of Mrs. M. Maidstone of this town told her his New Year resolution was to drink and smoke. The man said he had abandoned both habits last Jan. 1, and had never spent such a miserable year in his life.

Commuting No Fun For Many Asians

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — Millions of Asian commuters disprove the old adage that getting there is half the fun.

They are, pushed into trains in Tokyo and taxied in Singapore, ride jeeps in Manila and motorised rickshaws in Bangkok and somehow, usually, manage to get to work.

But their daily struggle with poor bus services, hitch farts, narrow streets and endless traffic jams sends tempers soaring.

Some streets seem more suitable for escarts than high-speed buses, and good roads are often clogged with cars—so much so that in Singapore car-driving commuters are taxed if their car is not full.

Some big cities are planning or considering underground or above-ground commuter rail services which will cost millions.

The biggest and most efficient of existing services, in Tokyo, is heavily overloaded.

The 45-year-old underground system and the 19-year-old monorail are the envy of many Asian Capitals. But plans for new surface trains have hit objections by residents who fear noise from ground-level trains and fear of high it tracks are elevated.

Only one transport has survived in Tokyo, where the car reigns supreme on the roads.

In Singapore commuter pressure became so great that the government was forced to commandeer school buses to help during rush hours.

Private cars and taxis wishing to enter the capital's business area must carry at least four people or face fines of 20 Singapore dollars ($20 U.S.). Alternatively they can buy licences costing $1.30 (U.S.) a day.

Though the new measures have forced many motorists on to buses, traffic flow remains sluggish. The government has warned that if there is no improvement it will legislate higher road taxes and increase restrictions in business areas.

On Hong Kong island and mainland Kowloon, some million commuters daily brave, trams, minibuses, trains and ferries while statistics show there are 200 motor vehicles for every mile of road.

Mushrooming parking lots are altering the character of the old sector of the British colony with its narrow streets.

The government has approved a nearly 10-mile underground railway linking the island with the mainland. It is expected to carry more than a million passengers daily when in partial operation by 1980.

In Manila, apart from the usual means of transport, there are the jeepneys, open buses whose owners vie with each other on psychedelic paint jobs and pungent slogans.

A Japanese public works team has recommended an underground rail scheme but the Philippine government has not decided when construction should begin. Until then the jeepneys will remain kings of the road.

Getting around the Thai capital of Bangkok is a nightmare if you are in a hurry. There is an inadequate bus service, which usually means the rich go by car and the poor by foot.

Of course you can bargain with one of the 8,500 drivers of the three-wheeled motorised rickshaws called sah-lors. But fares are higher for foreigners and even for Thais who wear a tie.

In Jakarta, confusion reaches a climax during rush hours with the four million citizens battling to work on a jumble of private buses plying roads planned for half the present population.

There are three-wheeled pedicabs whose slavery pedaliers can grind the Jakarta traffic to a halt, though most of the 5,000 bones give way to nothing.

Jakarta Governor Ali Sadikin has returned from Holland enthusiastic about underground rail systems, but in the short term is thinking of redistributing trans hanoed in the 1800s as road hazards.

The South Korean capital, Seoul, boasts the only underground railway system in eastern Asia outside Tokyo built from a $35-million Japanese loan and designed to carry 600,000 commuters a day.

The Korean planners hoped to cut their 3,600 buses to 1,000 but the people of Seoul appear to prefer the buses and only 250,000 use the underground daily.

Christmas

'One Solitary Life'

Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years He was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office.

He never owned a home. He never set foot inside a big city. He never travelled two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He had no credentials but Himself.

He had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves.

His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying — and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centrepiece of the human race and the leader of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the Kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as that One Solitary Life.

Judge Lane Finds Prisoner Transportation Costs Inequitable

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Discontent with provincial government funding of transporting prisoners to regional detention centres was expressed Friday by a Belleville police commissioner.

Judge W.S. Lane, of Picton, called government payments "inequitable" compared to the costs incurred by local police departments for such service.

His critical comments came as the commission received its latest provincial grant for transporting persons in custody to and from the provincial detention centre at Napanee.

The $27,500 grant, based on a new payment formula, was about $7,000 higher than last year's payment — which set Police Chief Douglas Crosbie pondering such a "substantial increase."

The Napanee centre replaced local jails in 1971. For Belleville it meant purchase of a van and extra manpower to convey persons to and from court. Belleville transport also is used by Trenton police department which pays for the service from its own grant.

To date this year, cost of the operation has been $54,480 said Chief Crosbie. He wondered if the grant increase might include Trenton police costs.

But said Judge Lane, the provincial payments are "completely inequitable" in light of the promises made when the province built that centre. They were supposed to pay all of the cost."

The judge also said Trenton police department was getting "an awful runaround" because there was no court office in the town. This meant additional transport costs to have charges processed in Belleville.

The new grant formula is based on $1.50 for each mile travelled by the police van in conveying prisoners. This year, the provincial funding was based on 364 trips to and from the detention centre at Napanee.

Area Ambulance Staffs To Begin Cutting Back

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Quinte area ambulance staff will have to be cut in an effort to meet with Ontario ministry of health cost cutting recommendations, a spokesman for area ambulance operators said Friday.

Belleville lawyer Ian Brady, representing the 4 operators at a meeting Friday with the regional co-ordinator of ambulance services branch of the ministry of health, said "gradual staff reductions will be necessary beginning early in 1976."

Mr. Brady said following the meeting at Belleville General Hospital he would not specify how many staff members would be laid off. The meeting was closed to the public.

"The ambulance operators obtained a commitment from the ministry that every effort will be made by the ministry to place staff required to be laid off into other arts in Ontario's health delivery field," said Mr. Brady.

Jerry Blair, regional co-ordinator of the ambulance branch of the ministry of health said in a press release: "I am very pleased with the high level of co-operation among the Quinte area ambulance operators."

The co-ordinator based in Ottawa, said he is especially pleased with the report proposal submitted by the operators.

"It not only complies with the recommendations of our operational review but keeps Quinte area ambulance service at a high level of efficiency both functionally and economically," said Mr. Blair.

Mr. Brady said operators would not comment on how cutting staff would affect existing services. "The operators have to take the direction from the province. You can't blame them if this thing doesn't work out."

The ministry is to reply to the operators' staff-cutting, cost-saving, counter-proposal in a meeting to be held Jan. 6 in Belleville.

During past weeks ambulance operators have been studying a government proposal that would reduce the cost of service in the area. About a year ago, ministry officials said the unsupervised ambulance services termed Belleville a high cost area and began a study that would recommend areas that could be trimmed.

Although the complete study has not yet been made public the ministry has already acted on one of its recommendations calling for a reduction in the patch of 41 area ambulances.

Unofficial sources from a meeting last week with the province said if the government's proposal is accepted completely staffing in the area would be reduced by 36 per cent.

Union Wants 'No Board' From Labor Ministry

TRENTON — In a press release Friday the negotiation committee for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, representing 227 workers at the Canadian General Electric plant here, has asked for a No Board Report to be handed down from the Ontario ministry of labor.

A No Board Report, says President of Local 509 Gordon Young, would allow a 14-day period once the report has been approved before the union could call a strike.

In negotiation since the middle of October, Mr. Young said the company has not made any offers to the union. The present two-year contract is set for renewal Dec. 30.

Mr. Young said the union is negotiating for a one-year contract with a $1.30 per hour increase, the elimination of regional wage disparities, which range from 8 cents to 26 cents per hour in different areas), and the elimination of the discrepancies between male and female wages, which is over 30 cents an hour in the majority of cases.

He said he expects the No Board Report will be handed down in about a week to 10 days. This would place the date of a possible strike in January. A strike would be decided by the rank and file of the union in a secret ballot.

Wage parity with Canadian General Electric plants in Peterborough and Toronto is also local issue of this contract, said Mr. Young.

The company will probably make their proposal during the 15-day period, said Mr. Young.

The Anti-inflation Board, said Mr. Young, will not enter negotiations. "The board regards the whole idea of wage controls."

"We've told the Quinte Labor Council of the union's plans and they have given full approval of what we are asking," said Mr. Young.

Ray Baldin, in charge of Union Relations for the local Canadian General Electric plant, said the company has not offered a contract because they were waiting until the government regulations were brought out Thursday. "It will be a guideline-settlement ... we'll have to comply with the law.

Mr. Baldin said the average weighted wage for a local employee is $4.50 per hour, and that a $1.30 hourly increase would represent 34 per cent, but after changes or reopen and sexes discrepancies above this figure.

He said the company is in a tight and heavy work situation with the male and female pay scales. The company pays equal or better than the community rate, he said.

Trustees' Pay Back on Agenda

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

It now appears as if the great honorarium increase issue is not over.

Hastings County Board of Education trustee Richard Williams, who originally supported the $50 increase, has given notice of motion for this Monday's meeting to open up the entire matter again. Since the decision trustees have come under considerable criticism.

The board went behind closed doors and after a heated debate voted a vote of 9-8 in favor of the increase. The increase was up from $300 to $350, a hike of 16.6 per cent.

It is unlikely any action will be taken on the matter Monday night since only notice of motion has been served. It will probably be delayed until the new year. In fact, the board must have a majority agreement to even open up the matter before any attempt to rescind the increase can be dealt with.

However, it is admirable that at least one trustee can admit the board may have been hasty in its decision and

Handicapped Considered

Needs of the handicapped should be kept in mind in any future public waterfront recreational development.

The reminder is contained in the Quinte Bayfront study, presented this week to the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Provision must be made where possible "to accommodate the needs of handicapped persons" say the document.

Special provisions could include preferred parking areas with ramped curbs for wheelchairs, ramps instead of stairs and adequate benches "so the infirm can rest."

Loan Comes For Lagoon

BRIGHTON — The Canadian Mortage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) has announced a $1.222 million loan and grant will be given to the village of Brighton for the construction of a sewage treatment centre.

The monies, $1,066,883 loan and $155,283 grant, are up toward the construction of an aerated lagoon with secondary treatment, a pumping station on Harbour St., 2,520 feet of 12-inch diameter forcemain, street collector sewers 8 to 18 inch in diameter and trunk sewers from 24 to 42 — inch diameter.

The grant is non-repayable and 25 per cent of principal and interest on the loan may be waived if the work is to the satisfaction and requirement of the CMHC.

Tow Truck In Crash

TWEED — Damage is estimated at about $1,700 following a car-truck accident at Claboone and Spring Streets here about 11.15 a.m. Friday.

A tow truck owned by Tweed Motor Car Sales, driven by Clarence Vilneoff of Tweed, was in collision with a vehicle driven by Jane Palmateer of Tweed. Damage to the truck was estimated at about $800, said Tweed police.

Apple Waste Checked As Pollution Source

By RON HUSER
Staff Correspondent

TRENTON — The contamination of several wells on the Carrying Place Road has led the ministry of environment to suspect the source to be the FBI Plant, says Gordon Thom, industrial abatement officer with the ministry.

The stock pile of apple wastes dumped behind the FBI plant which has been accumulated over the past two seasons has been considered to be the possible source of the pollution, he said. The pollution has made some water in the area "undrinkable" said Mr. Thom.

"There is no concrete evidence to blame the contamination on the FBI plant — but ever there is very little reason to suspect any other source," he said. Tests will continue at to other possible sources in the area.

Hamilton Pragasam, the FBI general manager, said the ministry has been looking into the situation for a couple of months. He said that the company research department in Montreal is searching for a possible use of the waste either for fertilizer or as animal feed. The research will probably be completed by the beginning of the next season's canning program. The new plan will stop the build-up of the apple waste he said, which is being looked at as the possible pollution source by the ministry.

Another possible source of the pollution of wells in the area, the drainage ditch where water used in stain machinery is dumped, is to be cleaned up as soon as the company contracts for the cleaning operations, said Mr. Pragasam.

George Skalin, of the ministry of environment, said he knew of three wells in the area contaminated. "We're still investigating the source," he said after the check of septic tanks, he said.

Mr. Thom said the stockpile of apple waste has been accumulating for two seasons, and there was not a problem last year, but there is now. "It is too soon to hazard a guess at the real cause," he said.

BCI Students Win Prize for Busy Typewriters

Busy fingers have banded a prize to Belleville Collegiate Institute.

It happened at the first session of the provincial typists from three Quinte counties staged at BCI.

Involved in the competition were BCI were grade nine typing students from Napanee District Secondary School, Trenton High School — a total of 30 representing Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties.

BCI entrants scored the highest total marks with Napanee and Trenton contestants second ad third.

Overall individual prize was won by Dan Turcotte, of Napanee. Jackie Hall and Sandra Hodge of BCI took a total of three trophies.

Teachers say the competition now will be an annual event.

Concern Voiced Over Driving, Drinking Ages

Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry indicated to Ontario teen-agers recently that the days of drinking at 18 and driving at 16 may soon be over.

He said he, along with members of the Legislature on Queen's Park, are concerned with the combination of drinking and driving among young people.

And that concern may turn into an increase in the minimum age for allowing a teen-ager behind the wheel of a car and behind the table at the local beer hall.

Many people are beginning to feel that the combination has proved deadlier on the province's roads than first anticipated when the minimum drinking age was lowered several years ago.

That feeling was evident among shoppers selected randomly in this city this week. Most expressed concern over the rights now given teen-agers.

GERALDINE SMITH

Geraldine Smith of RR 3 Stirling said she wants the driving age back at 21. "Then there won't be these teens about 11.15 a.m. Friday. 15 to 16."

Mrs. Smith, who doesn't worry about the driving age, complained that "when you go into a night club, they cater to the young ones instead of the older ones." She is 23.

PAUL LOMAS

Recalling his own youth, Paul Lomas, 23, of Marmora, said the current drinking age minimum "just starts them off that much younger."

He recalled, "When I was 18, I was trying to pass (in books) for 21."

Besides, he added, "There's not enough room in the hotels when the 18 year-olds get in."

JOHN WALLACE

"There's more accidental today than there ever was," said RR 3 Stirling resident, John Wallace.

"I blame a lot of it on the drinking age."

Opting for higher age minimums, he said "drink kind of goes to their (teen-agers) heads and then they get careless driving in the car."

DAVID KYLE

Marmora resident, 24-year-old David Kyle, advocated 21 and 18 respectively as minimum drinking and driving ages.

Now, kids — some as young as 15 — are proving how much they can drink in the hotels, "and then they get into their cars to drive, he said. They should be riding their bicycles till they're 18."

MARGARET MILLER

Delsidder Margaret Miller, 18, from Foxboro, says, "I don't like the stuff." She said she want's to see the minimum drinking age increased, feeling that some teen-agers can't handle it.

Driving? She said the driving age should be increased to 18. "You should feel more responsible at 18." Agreeing in part with her mother's comments on maturity.

AGNES MILLER

Foxboro resident Agnes Miller, 54, said she supports any action to move upwards both minimum ages. Addressing herself more to driving, she said, at 16, "they're not quite mature enough."

She advocated improved driver instruction, adding that "we consider them children at 16, and yet two years later we give them a car to drive — a lethal weapon."

Flames Scorch Rangers 8-3 As Coach Stewart Smoulders

By RON SUDLOW
The Canadian Press

New York Rangers proved once again they are not ready to move out of the National Hockey League's Patrick Division cellar as they were scorched 8-3 Friday night by Atlanta Flames while coach Ron Stewart smouldered.

"We didn't hit anybody, we didn't touch anybody," grunted Stewart as the Blueshirts took their third straight loss and fell five points behind the third-place Flames.

"They ran around where they wanted to. Consequently, they got four goals in the second period and they kept right on going."

Campbell May Groom Successor

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League since 1946, said Friday he may be elevated to the post of chairman of the league's board of governors by next June to make room for a new man in the presidency.

Campbell, 70, indicated in an interview that league governors next month will consider changing the NHL constitution to allow him to maintain most of his present duties while grooming a successor as president.

He said internal politics of the board of governors make it impossible for a successor to free to put into effect his own policies.

"If a new man came in with the possibility of frait[illegible] power points on behalf his back, his chance of survival wouldn't be very good," Campbell said.

"So what is hoped for is that there would be an interim in which I would be, probably, the chairman of the board and act in a sort of patron or guardian so this new man until he had the opportunity of getting himself established."

He said if the governors do not agree to the amendment—consent of three-quarters of the governors is needed—his successor will be hard-pressed to carry out his duties.

Baun Has No Answers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the toughest things about coaching a losing team in any sport is finding new ways to explain your defeats.

Bobby Baun was getting short of explanations Friday night after his Toronto Toros dropped a 5-3 decision to Calgary Cowboys in a World Hockey Association game.

"You can't really say anything about it at all," said Baun. "I'm sure you guys are tired of coming in here and asking the same old questions and not getting any new answers."

Baun's assessments of the game had a familiar ring to them.

"The effort just wasn't there tonight," he said.

The Toros' loss was especially frustrating for Toro supporters after their strong showing in Tuesday's 4-3 loss to Winnipeg Jets.

"It's hard to believe this is the same team," said Baun.

In Tuesday's other WHA games, New England Whalers dropped Edmonton Oilers 4-2, Indianapolis Racers edged Cleveland Crusaders 5-4 in overtime and Denver Spurs topped San Diego Mariners 8-3.

Peter Driscoll and Ron Chipperfield scored two goals each for the Cowboys to move them two points in front of fourth-place Edmonton.

The idle Cincinnati Stingers tumbled from first to third place in the tight Eastern Division race, thanks to victories by New England and Indianapolis.

A pair of goals by Tom Webster helped the Whalers move into top spot before a Hartford crowd of 7,947. New England has 28 points, Indianapolis' 28 and Cincinnati 27.

Webster's teammates, Larry Pleau and Rosaire Paiement, got the other goals for the Whalers, who extended their unbeaten string to four games. Pleau's goal was the 100th of his WHA career.

"The Webster - Pleau - Paiement line did a great job tonight," said Whalers' coach and general manager Jack Kelley. "They're moving the puck around well and seem to put a lot of pressure on the opposition whenever they come up the ice."

Bob Fitchner shot the puck into the open side of the Cleveland net after Bob Sicinski pulled Crusader goalie Gerry Cheevers out of position to give the Racers their overtime win.

A Denver crowd of 2,269 fans saw Jim Sherrit and Ralph Backstrom score two goals each for the Spurs in the final period. The win left the improving Den-in Atlanta, Claude St. Sauveur scored three of the Flames' four goals as the winners picked up their eighth victory in 11 games.

St. Sauveur, who ran his goal production to 13 for the season, also had two assists while Billard Graves had a goal and four assists.

Rod Gilbert figured in all the Rangers' goals, scoring one and adding two assists.

In Vancouver, Lalonde, the 5-3 fireplug forward who came to Quebec with Tulsa Oilers of the Central League, scored one goal and set up two others.

Lalonde, Mike Robitaille and rookie Rick Blight scored in a span of one minute, 47 seconds in the middle period to help move the Canucks into second place, two points ahead of St. Louis Blues and within six of Chicago in the Smythe Division.

"It's good to be back," said Lalonde, who played four games for Tulsa. "I played pretty good down in Tulsa and there's no doubt I got my confidence back."

Lalonde, who got his fourth goal of the season, also set up Gerry O'Flaherty and Dennis Ververgaert, who scored his fifth, in the first period to give the Canucks an early lead.

Rick Kehoe's eighth goal of the season—the only score of the third period—ended the Colonial bid by Canucks' Ken Lockett.

Tame Bobcats Have Enough To Get By Etobicoke Squad

The Belleville Bobcats to the surprise of one, came out on top of the Etobicoke Selects at the Memorial Friday night in Metro Junior B hockey play. Belleville tripped the visitors, who occupy second last place in the Central Division, by a 5-2 score.

The game was similar to the one that took place between the Cats and North York Rangers here December 12. Belleville played very bit as poorly as the opposition at times, except in the goaltending department, where Bob Moore made some excellent saves to hold the Cats in the game.

Grant Coegan continued to raise his point total last night picking up a pair of goals and adding an assist.

Coach Meehan Bonnar of the Cats was happy with the two points but found nothing else to please him.

"We fail asleep out there and they score a couple of quick goals and are right back in the game," said Bonnar.

At the end of the first period of play Cats were on top of the situation by a 3-1 score with neither team having a clear cut advantage. Rick Langstaff tallied the first Belleville goal and only 18 seconds later Alf Colquhoun picked up his first of two goals for Etobicoke.

Coegan notched his first goal to give the locals a lead that they never relinquished.

In a sleepy second period, Belleville only managed to tally a single marker, while keeping the Selects scoreless.

Paul Johnston, Eric Powell and Coegan's second of the night rounded out the scoring for Belleville. Colquhoun's second goal midway through the third period finished up the Selects' scoring for the evening.

Only 29 minutes 16 to Belleville were in penalties handed out by referee Keith MacDonald.

Moore, in goal for the club's fourth straight win, faced a total of 31 shots over the three periods while his counterpart, at the other end of the ice faced the same number of shots.

The Cats will go right back at it again Sunday when they travel to Toronto to take on the St. Michel's Buzzers in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Summary

Panthers Surprise Huskies

FRANKFORD (Special) — With a lineup dotted with callups from the minor league ranks, Port Hope Panthers continued to show signs of stirring themselves out of the Central Ontario Junior C Hockey League basement here, Friday night.

Panthers stretched their unbeaten streak to three by holding Frankford Huskies to a 6-6 draw. And many of the Panther supporters said Lanes received prior warning. Attendance at the game was low, almost at a level with the club's performance.

Panthers, marked by the three-goal effort of Chris Bullen, overcame an early 3-0 deficit on the way to the split in points. Barry Ray shot two for the visitors and Warren Sweeting rounded out the Port Hope production.

Gene Nevins had another big night for the home side, connecting for three goals. Doc Newman Jeff Reeves tied his first counter of the season to go with 34 assists. Robbie Arbuckle and Harold Roberts also scored for Huskies.

Frankford's six-1 home game in December 28. Locale time has been moved up to 2 p.m.

Grant Goegan, Belleville Bobcats' top sniper of the season, has trouble with bouncing puck on this close-in try on Etobicoke Selects' goalie Kirk Nesbitt. Goegan scored two goals and added an assist to bring his totals to 21-28, as Cats picked up 5-2 win, at Memorial Arena, Friday night. Belleville club is in Toronto, Sunday for game with Central Division St. Michael's.

Comebacks Order of the Day

Comeback wins marked the action in the Bantam Minor section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's house league, Wednesday as Whitley Rentals' Defence Senior Selects, Doug Jones Jewellers, Ed's Texa and McInroy-Maines had to battle from behind to earn two points in the standings.

Whitley's got by Red Shark 6-4 on goals by Allen Derry, Dave Lefebvre, Stephen Cleary, Brian Cronkwright, Dave Mortensen and Craig Saxby. Steve Burley, Jim Gibbs with two, and John Mouldstock scored for Red Shark.

Doug Jones Jewellers squeezed past Kiwanis 4-3 with goals by Brian Shorey, Dan McCrudy, Gerry Lalchbard and Ken Kent. Jim Gooding, John Reeve and David Barlow connected for the losers.

Ed's Dairy took Roy's Auto Body 6-2. Doug Austin led the charge with three goals while singles went to Mike Weatherstone, Mike Vani and Glen Bennett. Lloyd Owen shot two for Bob's. Gary Jennings rounded out the losers' scoring.

Craig Munroe sparked McInroy-Maines to its second win of the season with two goals in a 6-4 decision over Y's Men's Club. Ian Paterson, Mike Miller, Steve Hurst and David Begley had the other counters. Reaping for the losers were Gord Ludwig, Tom Hamilton, Tim Ryan and Brynn Pace.

Blake Kerr Esso nipped Legion 1-0 in a goalie's battle between the winners' Jim Cook and Legion's Danny Hurlwood. The only goal of the game came with 16 minutes gone in the final period. John Dect was the marksman.

MIDGET

Canadian Legion rallied in the goals to knock off AAAP Dukes 10-6, led by Bernie Trumpour who counted four goals and earned four assists. Mike Kimball notched two while singles were supplied by Jeff Donald, Mike Sutton, Mike Mulroney and Jim Norris. Steve Pearce was tops for Dukes with four goals. Doug Fargey and Wayne Nault bit for one each.

Robbie Baragar and Gary Frederick each scored twice to go with one each from John Whelan and Randy Cox in a 6-3 Tim Horton Donuts win over Sun Luck Gardens. Chris Risley had two and Gerry Lorrion one in defeat.

Uptown Billiards rolled past Ross Royals 6-1 as Ron Doornbos clicked for two goals and one each was fired by Glen Donaldson, Mike Lamirande, Tom Coulson and Chris Rizzo. Andy Lupenetz replied for Royals.

Demark Construction and Belleville Yardmen failed to prove anything when they played to a 4-4 tie. Danny Jaques scored twice for Yardmen with the other goals going to Sean McKinney and Robert Cooke. Mike Bonar, Chris Morden, Robert Vail and Lee Boulton connected for Demark goals.

Lucence Leisure World Bantam Major Selects fell to Sterling Sheet Metal 4-2. The winners' goals went to Bob Cousins, Chris Comstock, Bob Bishop and Mike Burke. Brad Campbell and Al Semark looked after the Licence goals.

The Original Knight SOLINAR TABLES Where To Pick 'Em Or How

By Mrs. Richard Alden Knight

The schedule of Solinar Periods as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solinar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good fortune or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The Eastern Standard Time.

December 20 - 28.

Saints Facing 90-day Deadline

ST. PAUL, Minn. AP — Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association have lost $4.9 million in just over three hockey seasons and were forced to borrow $200,000 to meet their last two payrolls, papers filed with the Minnesota commerce department show.

The securities division of the commerce department has given the Saints 90 days to raise at least $300,000, along with approval of a plan to try to raise $2.5 million through the sale of partnership units to its players, coaches and the public.

The sale will be halted, and any money raised will be returned to investors, if the 90-day deadline is not met.

The prospectus says the team had to have the $300,000 loan guaranteed by outside sources, and failure to meet a twice-a-month payroll would result in the Saints' being taken over by the league.

The prospectus warns that if the recent loans are called before the partnership offering is completed, "it is likely that the partnership would be placed in bankruptcy and cease operating for hockey franchise."

It also advises that the team has "a number of creditors whose liabilities have not been paid as they become due".

Abbreviated Blue-Gray Game Won by North

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)— A touchdown by Bill Siegler of Stanford gave the North a 14-13 comeback win over the South in a Blue-Grey football game marred by sleet and snow.

The first quarter ran only 12 minutes instead of the customary 15. Blue-Gray officials could offer no explanation, but the timekeeper on the field said the time was cut short at the request of an independent television network which broadcast the game.

There was no explanation either from the network.

Despite the North's victory, South quarterback Scott Gardner of Virginia was voted most valuable player because of his effective ball control for most of the game and his mixture of passing and running plays that kept the Northerners off guard.

It was the third victory in a row for the South squad and brought the series record to 20-16 for the South.

Rookie Fires Winner for Sudbury Wolves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Dan McCarthy's third-period goal gave Sudbury Wolves a 3-2 victory over London Knights in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action Friday

The win strengthens Sudbury's hold on first place in the Leyden Division.

In other action, Hamilton Pinguins downed Kingston Canadiens 11-6, Kitchener Rangers defeated St. Catharines Black Hawks 9-4 and Ottawa 67s edged Toronto Marlboros 4-3.

At London Hec Marini and Ken Pierce scored the other Sudbury goals. Vern Stenlund and Tom Rowe replied for the Knights.

Stenlund tied the game 1-1 in the first period and Rowe's goal put London ahead 2-1 early in the second.

Sudbury outshot the Knights 35-25 before a crowd of 3,043.

League play resumes today with London at Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie at Peterborough.

On Sunday, the Sault visits Oshawa, Ottawa is at Toronto and Windsor at St. Catharines.

Flamingo 11 Canadians 4

The win stretched Hamilton's winning streak to eight games, during which they have scored 70 goals.

The Emms Division leaders were ahead 7-6 after the second period and put the game out of reach with four unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes.

Hamilton captain Dale McCourt added to his league scoring lead with three goals and one assist. He now has 33 goals for the season.

Mike Keating and Joe Koval each scored twice for the Flamingos. Joe Cantell, Ric Seiling, Willy Huber and Ted Lang added one goal apiece.

Ken Linseman had three goals for the Canadians. Mike Simurda, Marc Soner and Richie Dunn completed the scoring.

The visitors outshot Kingston 47-37 before a crowd of 1,262.

Halifax Swimmer Tops Poll

Nancy Garapick Is Youngest Female Athlete of the Year

By MEL SUFRIN
CP Sports Editor

Nancy Garapick, the slender, blonde swimmer from Halifax who burst from anonymity in April to set a world record in the 200-metre backstroke at the U.S. Canada-Latin female athlete of the year for 1975.

Now 16 and ranked No. 1 in the world in her specialty after winning a silver medal in the world championships, Miss Garapick was a solid choice in the annual year-end poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted by The Canadian Press.

She is the youngest person to win the award, Elaine Tanner, a swimmer from Vancouver, was 15 when she won it in 1968.

And she is the second Maritimer to capture the honor. It was inaugurated in 1932. Sydney Wooder, daughter of Halifax was the 1935 winner.

Runner-up is Lynn Nightingale of Ottawa, the Canadian archer women's figure skating champion, who narrowly edged Diane Jones of Saskatoon, Canadian record-holder and Pan-American Games gold medal winner in the pentathlon.

Miss Garapick first attracted international attention when she shaved three seconds off the U.S. 200-yard backstroke record in Montreal April 8. But that was only the start of what was coming.

At the Eastern Canada champion.ships in Brantford, Ont., April 27 she swam the 200 metre in 2:18.23 to break the world mark of 2:17.3 set in 1974 by Ulrike Richter of East Germany.

That record lasted 40 days until Birgit Treiber of East Germany broke it by 13-100ths of a second. That set the stage for the world championships in Cali, Colombia, in July where Miss Garapick won a bronze medal in the 100 metres and then pushed Miss Treiber to a world record in the 200.

In that race, rated by many as the most exciting in the world in 1975, Nancy led until the last five metres when Miss Treiber, one of the fastest finishers in women's swimming edged ahead.

The East German girl's time was 2:15.46 and Miss Chrapiek also broke the old mark with a time of 2:16.09, again just 23 100ths of a second behind.

Nancy also holds the Canadian 100-metre record of 1:06.36 set in the spring nationals in Winnipeg May 16 when she beat defending champion Wendy Cook of Vancouver, the female athlete of the year in 1974.

"I wasn't going for the record," Miss Garapick said at the time. "I was going out to win, to beat Wendy, because I knew she would be a good opponent. I knew if she did that I'd have a good time."

The three-foot-three swimmer, whose slim build is ideal for a backstroker because it offers a minimum of resistance to the water, has been described as a technically excellent competitor.

"The American coaches consented to me how impressed they were with her stroke," said coach Nigel Kemp after Nancy had won her U.S. Amateur Athletic Union title. "They thought she was the epitome of what a good backstroker should be doing in the water."

Despite her age, Nancy is remarkably composed before and during races. Her maturity should be an asset in combatting the pressure of competing before a primarily Canadian audience in the Olympics next summer.

Miss Garapick received 154 points in the annual CP poll—47 first-place votes, 18 seconds and eight thirds based on a 3-2-1 point vote for Miss Nightingale received 97 points on 13 firsts, 19 seconds and 13 thirds and Miss Jones 89 points on 16 firsts, 15 seconds and 11 thirds.

Fourth with 47 points was runner Joyce Yakubowich of Victoria who won two gold medals at the Pan-American Games in Mexico City, taking the 400 metres and anchoring the Canadian team in the 4x400 relay.

Susan Fairrcas of Edmonton, world champion trapshooter, was fifth with 40 and swimmer Lise Chevarel of Quebec City, winner of the 100-metre backstroke at the Pan-American Games, sixth with 36. Miss Garapick did not add to the Pan-Am Games.

Others who received first-place votes included Janet Nutter of Toronto, Pakistan picture diving champion; runner Joan Wenzel of Waterloo, Ont., who had to give up the bronze medal she won in Mexico because tests showed a trace of banned drug from a cold tablet; golfers Dale Shaw of Sidney, B.C., and Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., and judo competitor Michele Boileau of Toronto.

Wilky Is Improving with Age

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Lancaster was setting records, but Tom Wilkinson proved again in 1975 that he's the top passer in Canada.

Wilkinson directed Edmonton Eskimos to the Grey Cup final for the third straight year, establishing himself as one of the outstanding tradesmen in the Canadian Football League by leading in three of the six categories on which pass ratings are based.

The 32-yearold quarterback who has spent six full seasons and parts of three others in the league with Toronto Argonauts, British Columbia Lions and the Eskimos, believes he's getting better with age.

"I think both physically (throwing) and mentally I'm a better quarterback than ever," claims Wilkinson. "A quarterback has to improve to keep up with the defences. They do quite . . . so well now, especially the secondaries."

The two-letter man from Wyoming (he also played varsity basketball) , who came to Canada first with Toronto Rifles of the Continental League, topped the circuit in percentage of completions (.638) for the fourth successive year.

He also led the league in highest average gain per throw (8.4 yards) and the best ratio of touchdown passes (one every 16 passes).

It marked the first time Wilkinson had thrown the ball more than 300 times in a season and saw him set personal highs for completions (264), yardage gained (2,259) and touchdown passes (19).

But he's not averse to giving credit where it's due.

"It always helps to have great receivers like I have," says Wilkinson. "But it's every bit as helpful to have the best pass protection . . . giving me time to throw."

Lancaster topped the nine-team CFL with most completions (220) and most yardage gained passing (2,543) while Jack Kelley, traded to Toronto by Winnipeg Blue Bombers late in the year, had the lowest yield of intercepted passes (one in every 33).

Lancaster, the durable Saskatchewan Roughrider quarterback, set six career records in 1975, in each case increasing records he had already established.

Lancaster, 36, now has thrown 4,999 passes and completed 2,827 for 40,916 yards. He has forced 279 touchdown passes and had 224 intercepted while playing in 242 CFL games.

Canadian Is First

Commons Sitting Today To Complete UIC Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons is holding a rare Saturday sitting today to complete consideration of bills that raises unemployment insurance premiums Jan. 1 and increase pensions to MPs and a wide range of public servants.

MPs pushed through the government's new housing program Friday and the Liberals brushed off opposition amendments to the unemployment insurance bill. But the Commons failed to complete all business in time for Christmas adjournment.

The Senate met late into Friday evening to approve the housing bill.

Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp said that the government made the progress he had hoped and the pensions and unemployment insurance bills would be finished today.

The New Democratic Party refused the required unanimous consent Friday that would have allowed the final reading and referral to the Senate of the controversial jobless benefit amendments.

The government wants the bill passed before the holiday adjournment, because the new premiums are to go into effect Jan. 1.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras said earlier that the premium rate for workers will rise to $1.65 for every $100 of insurable earnings a week from $1.40. The employer rate will climb to $2.31 from the present $1.96 for every $100 of insurable earnings paid out.

Maximum employee premium a week will be $3.30, while the top employer payment per worker will be $4.62.

In the Commons Friday, the Liberals fended off opposition amendments designed to strike out government proposals that would change the unemployment insurance financing formula and eliminate the agent from the program.

Both government proposals were vigorously opposed by the Progressive Conservatives, the NDP and Social Credit. Liberal Herb Breau (Gloucester) split with his party on the proposal to drop persons 65 and over from the program.

The government also defeated handily an NDP amendment to the government's housing bill which would have had rents for limited-dividend housing developments fixed by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) according to family income.

Developers get mortgage money at eight-per-cent interest rates in limited-dividend housing from the CMHC rather than at current rates.

After defeating the NDP proposal, MPs gave final reading to the housing bill. The Senate later approved the legislation.

Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson has said he wants the legislation—which broadens the federal assisted home ownership plan and increases rental subsidy payments—approved by Christmas.

The government also hopes to persuade private financial institutions to pump $750 million in low-interest funds into the housing market.

MPs will also continue debate today on legislation to increase pensions to MPs, and a wide range of federal employees, including the armed forces and RCMP.

The pension bill would tie retirement benefits for MPs to salaries. MPs with 25 years' service would see their maximum pension to $18,000 a year from $13,500.

Stanley Knowles, veteran Winnipeg NDP pensions critic, says the pensions are over-generous and inequitable. He said Friday he will fight the bill.

The Senate must deal with the two bills before Christmas and they must then be given routine royal assent before becoming law. Senators are also

Average PC Candidate Age Is 47.2 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The average Progressive Conservative party leadership candidate is 47.2 years old, is either a business-man, lawyer or member of Parliament.

That's a rough average based on a list of 17 people who have deposited $25 with party headquarters, part of the requirement for anyone attempting to succeed leader Robert Stanfield at a convention here Feb. 19-22.

One party official said other requirements, due by Dec. 31, may not be fulfilled, putting some of the 17 candidates out of the race before the vote Feb. 22.

The candidates must submit 100 signatures, 33 from convention delegates and 34 from party members in three provinces or territories.

Candidates must also obtain the approval of his or her constituency association and the convention committee. If these aren't filed by Dec. 31, candidates aren't eligible for information from headquarters. Incidata a list of delegates who are expected to total 2,700.

Of the 17 candidates in the race, one comes from British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, three from Ontario, seven from Quebec and four from Quebec.

Claude Wagner, a 50-year-old member of Parliament for Richelieu, is considered by party officials the leading candidate.

Mr. Wagner entered Quebec politics as a Liberal to become a justice minister in 1966. He lost a 1968 bid for the provincial Liberal leadership to Robert Bourassa, and in 1972 turned to the Conservative party, winning a seat in the federal election.

Mr. Wagner is competing against Brian Mulroney, 36, a fluently bilingual, Irish-Catholic lawyer who played a major role in persuading him to switch parties and run for the Conservatives in 1976.

Cuban Government Will Undergo Changes

HAVANA (CP) — The Cuban people probably will be told sometime this weekend what changes have been made to the Communist party that has governed them more than 18 years.

Changes, none expected to be drastic, are being discussed at the party's first congress, which began Wednesday. But the meetings have been closed since Thursday and it is unclear when the results will be known.

The party will change at least one-third of the 100 members of the Central Committee, the body that enforces the political line. Party rules require this.

There also is talk that the Politburo, the executive wing of the committee, will be expanded. At present, there are eight Politburo members, with Fidel Castro and his brother, Raul, as first and second secretaries.

The philosophies of new Politburo and Central Committee members might have an important impact on the future direction of the socialist republic.

All eight Politburo members now are Castro "commanders," comrades who fought with him in the 1959 revolution which overthrew the Batista dictatorship.

About 25 members of the central committee are "old Communists," while four are from the student revolutionary directorate.

Old Communists are those who belonged to the party before the revolution. In most cases, they are more orthodox than Castro, who has shaped the party to fit Cuban ideas.

The question is: Will the new faces be old Communists, campesinos, young people who have grown with the revolution or possibly the new breed of technocrats?

Members of each group no doubt have different ideas on how the country should operate.

The changes also will adopt a constitution that provides for the first elections since before the revolution.

Late in 1976, a national assembly will be elected and will meet twice a year for five years to approve laws.

The assembly will elect a 31-person council of state which will propose a cabinet to be selected from the assembly. The cabinet will be the highest authority in the government.

The party says the idea is to govern the country with the popular power.

Canadian Stock Markets Slumped After August

By CALLA FARN

The Canadian Press

After a strong advance in the first six months, Canadian stock markets settled into a slump and although prices remained well above their 1974 year-end levels, trading activity was slow.

Figures released by the Toronto Stock Exchange, with volume of trading estimated for the last three weeks of December, show that volume was the lowest since 1960. On the Montreal and Vancouver stock markets, trading was the slowest since 1960 and 1967 respectively.

Analysts said investor reluctance was caused by a combination of factors, including an unstable economic situation, labor unrest, rising interest rates and government interference with business, particularly through its program of selective wage and price controls.

Richard Hurlburt, president of the Canadian Business Service in Toronto, said the federal government's controls meant "the investor in Canadian equities was not able to anticipate a substantial increase in corporate earnings and dividends. Therefore, he may have looked to other markets, notably U.S. markets, for equity investment."

H. R. Netlich, director of research for Bongard, Leslie and Co. Ltd., Toronto, said trading in U.S. stocks, including options, accounts for between 25 and 30 per cent of the firm's business—more than double the 1974 figure.

However, despite the dwindling trading activity, Canadian stock prices recorded some impressive gains early this year.

Toronto's industrial index considered the best indicator of Canadian trends, advanced about 29 points in January and continued rising during the next three months, influenced by sharp declines in prime and short-term interest rates.

All major chartered banks in January lowered interest rates by 1½ to 1¾ per cent, following the Bank of Canada announcement of a ½-per-cent rate reduction.

The industrial index went from 139.86 on Jan. 2 to 196.50 on July 15, its highest level since June, 1974. At New York, the Dow Jones industrial average, which began the year at 577.44, reached a high of 881.81 also on July 15.

It mid-July, however, Canadian stock markets settled into a broad decline and, despite a few rallies, were never able to stage a major recovery.

The decline was almost continuous and the Thanksgiving Day introduction of selective wage and price controls signaled a further erosion of stock prices to their lowest levels of the year.

Analysts attributed the decline to rising interest rates which made other areas of investment more attractive than stocks and increased the cost of doing business. There was also concern about inflation, high unemployment and higher labor costs.

Markets were able to recover some losses, however, following news in October that corporate dividends would not have to be raised back under the government's anti-inflation program.

By mid-December, the Toronto industrial index stood at the 179 level and the Dow Jones average fell below 830.

Canadian markets also in the last few months of this year tended to respond to some sharp declines at New York before the market fluctuated.

Uncertainty about the financial situation of New York City and the possible economic effects of a city default affected the New York market.

Oil shares staged a significant recovery following the federal government's budget in June and subsequently, Alberta's decision to reduce oil and gas royalties in the province. Analysts said additional tax concessions to oil companies would continue to stimulate interest in the shares in 1976.

Gold shares tumbled to their lowest levels since 1973. Toronto's index of gold shares closed Dec. 9 at 228.71, its lowest level since March 26, 1973, after reaching a high for the year at 427.00 on Feb. 19.

C. D. R. James, analyst for Richardson Securities of Canada in Winnipeg, said gold's apparently diminishing role in the international monetary system would make it less attractive as a hedge against inflation.

"It is difficult to see any substantial buying pressure in gold markets over the near term," he said.

Ceasefire Did Little To Stop Bloodshed

LONDON (CP)—The fighting factions of Ulster start the new year standing on the graves of a bloodstained ceasefire and a collapsed constitution.

The ceasefire, declared last February by the provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), has done nothing to stop murders by both Roman Catholic and Protestant terrorists.

More than 140 people have been assassinated in 1975. Despite the truce, that is far more than the 93 killed in 1974.

The ceasefire has long been buried as a practical presence in Northern Ireland, although both the IRA and the government insist it survives in theory.

Meantime, the uncompromising Protestant politicians of Ulster—acting as a majority in a constitutional convention elected last spring—produced a proposal for a new political system that was immediately declared dead by the British government.

The convention majority insisted that Ulster's Catholic minority have no place in a proposed government.

But the British government says agreement on power-sharing between the two religious communities is needed before an Ulster administration can take over rule from London.

KILLINGS continue

The Ulster killings continue, alongside a vicious IRA bombing campaign in the London area that has left several people dead and scores more injured.

A recent feature of the Ulster violence has been internecine warfare between the provisional IRA and its Marxist but less violent official wing.

Nevertheless, hopes still flicker for a new attempt at a political settlement that would end the bloody conflict that has wracked Ulster since 1968.

Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees is to hold talks with both sides aimed at creating some measure of compromise on a new constitution.

Both Catholic and Protestant leaders seek a return of at least partial home rule for Ulster—a kind of provincial government.

But the extremists of both sides are poles apart. Those of the Protestant majority want continued close attachment with Britain. Those of the Catholic minority want immediate severance ties with the Irish Republic to the south.

Extremists on both sides, it seems, are intent on using terrorism to sabotage any attempt at compromise.

Rees can claim to have removed at least one grievance the IRA has used to win wholesale popular support it has enjoyed in the past.

He has ended the practice of imprisoning suspected terrorists of both sides without trial and has, for months, steadily released interneees.

Internment had been exploited by the IRA as a political issue in the past. But its ultimate aim has angered Protestant leader in Ulster and has been opposed by Conservative MPs in Parliament.

Rees has argued that terrorists can be punished in the courts. But his critics say that if nearly 500 men released from internment in 1975, fewer than 12 have been re-arrested.

By carrying terrorism across the Irish Sea, the IRA has provoked another ugly issue in British public debate: Pressure from some MPs for a resumption of hanging.

The government so far has refused to reinstate the death penalty.

Renewal of the anti-terrorism law passed last year has been the limit of the government's response. That law, similar to America's War Measures Act, empowers police to arrest and hold suspects for up to five days without charge.

It also provides for expulsion of suspects to Ulster or Ireland.

Put in spite of tougher police measures, violent endless debate against Ulstermen, there is little optimism that 1976 will bring lasting peace to Northern Ireland.

Dear Customers and Friends:

On behalf of Reid's Dairy of Belleville and Riverside Dairy of Trenton, I would like to extend to you my sincere Thanks and Appreciation for your patronage and support. I would like to include a special thanks to the 90 milk shippers in this area who send their milk to our plants.

An educational film entitled "Bottled Sunshine", the story of milk from cow to consumer was widely viewed by people all across Canada. Copies of the film are now held by Various Television Stations and the Dairy Process of Ontario. It is available free of charge to schools, service clubs and any interested party upon request. Reid and Riverside Dairies have been in business since 1910, processing quality dairy products in an all Canadian operation. Reid's Dairy is now the only remaining dairy operation in Hastings and surrounding counties.

In closing I would like to extend to you on behalf of management and staff a very Merry Christmas and a Happy Prosperous New Year.

Armin Quickert, P.Eng.

PRESIDENT.

In Memoriam

MORTIMORE, Ray — In loving memory of a dear father and grandmother who was taken from us December 20, 1973.
Dad and Grandpa.
In little time to leave you.
So much to remember.
—Donna, Ron, Allison and Jeff.

MORTIMORE, Ray — In fond and loving memory of our dad who was taken from us one year ago today.
One sad year has passed and gone.
Since our dad passed away.
We often sit and wonder that night.
He was not there to say.
God gave us strength to meet it.
And courage to bear it.
But no one knows the heartache.
We have with every tear.
—Sadly missed by Mary, Ron, Allison and Jeff.

MORTIMORE, Ray — In loving memory of my dear husband, who died very tragically, taken December 20, 1973.
Though years should pass and years should roll.
Memories of you I cannot forget.
Still I think of you each day.
Of the one I loved so much.
Your memory is my keepsake.
With which I'll never part.
God took you in his arms.
I gave you one last kiss.
—Forever within my thoughts, with Mary and Ian Smith.

BOYLE — In never forgotten memory of a wonderful and loving husband, Keith Porter Boyle who left us tragically two years ago, December 20, 1973.
Our hearts are filled with pain.
And secret tears still flow.
What I shared with you dad.
No words can ever say.
We miss you more each day.
Your memory is our keepsake.
With which we'll never part.
God has you in his keeping.
We have you in our hearts.
—Forever loved, sadly missed by daughter Tammy, son Robert.

SEIBIG — In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Ethel Seibig, who passed away December 21, 1974.
Dear grandmother, you are not forgotten.
Though on earth we see you not.
In heaven you are with us.
As you always were with us.
—Audrey, Joe and family, Mary Lee, Bruce and family, Tim, Sharon.

McFARLANE — In memory of Gloria McFarlane who passed away December 21, 1974.
Sadly missed along life's way.
Memories remembered every day.
Never remembered by Aunt Dorothy.

MORTIMORE — In loving memory of a dear father and grandpa who died December 20, 1974.
Dad, you left us very suddenly.
Your memory is our keepsake.
With which we'll never part.
God has you in his keeping.
We have you in our hearts.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Karen, son-in-law Bob and grandchildren.

MORTIMORE — In loving memory of our brother Harold, who passed away December 21, 1974.
Today recalls the memory.
Of a loved one we miss so much.
And those who loved him best.
Are those who miss him most.
Days, weeks and months may pass.
But memories linger on.
Still the heart aches with the pain.
Of a loved one gone.
—Sadly missed by sister Alice, nephew Gary and Sheila Carol.

MORRISON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandma, Corrie, who passed away December 20, 1963.
We don't just remember.
On this sad day.
We remember you always.
But let us with memories.
Be your guide.
So treasure for Lord.
Is your gain dear.
—Mom, Dad, Myrtle and families.

In Memoriam

McFARLANE — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister Gloria McFarlane who passed away December 21, 1974.
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home.
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled her.
Though we miss her sore.
He still left us memories.
To cherish more and more.
—Mom, Dad, Brothers and Sisters.

WE would be happy to show you our fine selection of residential properties. If you require 5 bedrooms inquire about our latest listing, living room 19 x 20, large dining room, spacious family kitchen with range and dishwasher, ground floor family room with fireplace, 4-pc. bathroom and 2-pc. washroom. Garage 18 x 24. — Just minutes from town, (Tucker's Woods).

WISH you would call if you have a house in the Charlotte Street area that you may have considered selling. Must be able to give possession by April. Prefer bedroom, at least one on ground floor.

YOU would still have time to receive the Government grant for first time home purchasers by buying this rural ranch style bungalow, 3 bedrooms, finished recreation room, 3-car garage, fireplace, lovely view of winter wonderland. It's not a gift — but it is priced for sale.

A new duplex could be built on a convenient East Hill lot. Could this be the answer to your economic housing requirements in 1976.

MERRY times for many years could be yours — by the purchase of this custom built quality home located in one of Belleville's West side prime residential areas. Ground Hall. This home has features to please all members of a family. Call for personal inspection. Good possession.

CHRISTMAS is the time when we have the opportunity to express our sincere wishes for a Happy and Safe holiday to people everywhere and we at H. MORRISON Real Estate would especially like to thank our many friends and customers for giving us the opportunity to be of service to them.

Charlotte Whitton Had Political Wit and Ability

By R. J. ANDERSON
The Canadian Press

She was a women's libber long before the government-sponsored gal was dreamed of.

Charlotte Whitton did and said made headlines all her life. Almost everybody did and said made headlines during nearly 50 years of her strongest weapons in municipal politics.

She was Charlotte Whitton, elected mayor of Ottawa as often as ten male political opponents all but conceded defeat before they entered the lists. When she died last Jan. 25 at the age of 78 they were quick to acclaim her wit, political savvy and ability.

To Your Good Health

Doctor Advises Surgery for Feet

By George C. Thosteson, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have corns on the two small toes. I keep them down so they don't hurt when I wear shoes. I use a razor blade.

Also, I have problem with the nails of my big toes. They dig into the adjacent tes, and this is painful. I hope you have a suggestion for me. I am 74, and all of this is bothersome for me. C.H.

Let's take the corns first. A corn is a localized thickening of flesh that occurs in a bony area, the toe joints being prime sites. It does rather resemble a corn kernel, hence the name. The narrowed portion of the "kernel" usually points inward into the flesh, causing pain.

Surgical procedures are usually effective in dealing with the "hard" corns. These are the growths which usually occur on the outer portion of the little toe or on the upper portions of other toes. I would not use a razor blade; it is best to leave any paring to your doctor. Other applications of local preparations, as a salicylic acid solution, can be helpful.

The so-called "soft corns" usually occur between the toes and, as the name implies, these corns appear as more "soggy" masses. For these, a soft fetting can be inserted over the area with the toes separated gently by wedges of cotton.

Almost always, the cause of corns of either type is tight shoes. At 74, you should be, if you aren't already, wearing sensible, sufficiently wide shoes.

Proper trimming of your toenails should end your other problem. Don't cut them in a curve. Trim them straight across and even with the end of the toe. Then gently file the corners just a bit. Again, improper shoes could worsen this problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to have varicose veins while pregnant? If so, what are the signs?

While pregnant with my first baby I was sick a lot with morning sickness. I took pills prescribed by my doctor and felt very tired the last two months.

Could this have been anemia as I had?—Mrs. R.E.S.

Anemia in pregnancy is not only possible, it is quite common, very nearly a normal situation. But it must be watched carefully.

I say normal in the sense that the very basic demands pregnancy makes on the normal body can easily lead to it. The blood is in a real sense "working for two." It is carrying the necessary food, oxygen and waste products for both the mother and the dependent fetus. This places a greater work load on the circulatory system. The need for greater volume of blood can lead to a dilution of the blood and fewer hemoglobin red blood cells—anemia.

Your morning sickness, if accompanied by severe vomiting, could have been an additional factor in your case. Tiredness and pallor are classic symptoms of iron-deficiency anemia (which is what we are speaking of here) and the condition is readily verified by blood tests.

The condition is quickly alleviated in the pregnant woman by use of iron supplements, which doctors often prescribe after the third or fourth month of pregnancy.

Untreated, severe anemia in pregnancy can lead to birth of an anemic child.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. A.—The sexual drive of your "fireball" husband will not affect his health. It usually works the other way; poor health decreases the libido. He probably is satisfying his own ego and trying to prove he has some zip left. I would not try to suppress this by medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just found out that I have diabetes and I'm taking 20 c.c. of insulin daily. But when I take the shot I get black and blue od my legs. Does this mean I'm doing something wrong? I feel fine. Please let me know. My doctor says everything is fine.—Mrs. H.H.

Try using a shorter needle, and pinch the skin before puncturing it. As to your dosage, I believe you mi:spoke yourself in your letter. You are taking 20 "units" a day, not "20 c.c.".

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

South's four-spade contract was doubtful indeed, but South gave the cards a chance and they responded nicely.

The defence started with two rounds of hearts. South was in with the king and promptly played his ace of spades and dummy's eight. When the queen dropped, South was in business. He won the next card of business, but not one in bankruptcy.

He played ace and another diamond. West was in and took a ninth. South carefully discarded a diamond from dummy. East was in with the ace and the third and last trick.

East led a third heart. South ruffed with the king and led his seven of spades. West ducked but South, who had carefully played dummy's eight of spades earlier, was able to play the six and leave his small card high. The five of spades was overtaken by dummy's six card. Dummy's jack of trumps pulled West's last trick while allowing South to chuck his high diamond and dummy was good.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader asks what the best response to a two-spade opening is when you play the Herbert convention.

The Herbert convention provides that when you respond to a forcing two bid you bid the next suit (not two notrump as the negative response). Thus, the negative response to two spades becomes three clubs. This is rather unsatisfactory and is one of the weaknesses of the Herbert convention.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Sunday, Dec. 21

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today should get better for you as time rolls on. Relax. Enjoy yourself. Play everything by ear. Keep your plans loose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A few minor domestic frustrations are likely to occur early in the day, but you can cope easily. The evening will be fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Some good news is coming your way. You'll probably receive it by late afternoon. If a reply is required, respond promptly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your prospects are very encouraging today. Follow through on any situation which develops that could increase your holdings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Forti-tude today. Lady Luck will backstop something that's impulsively done today, but remember: She isn't always this reliable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're negotiating an important matter today, let the other fellow do most of the talking. He's willing to give better terms when you think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) Though you may not feel like it early in the day, make plans to share some time with close friends. It will be very pleasant.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) This is a good day for you to get together with persons who can help your work or career. Ask favors if necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be hesitant about handling large issues today. In fact, you're likely to be far more successful with them than you'll be with little ones.

CAPRICHORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This will be a profitable day for you in a very unusual manner. One with your interests at heart is willing to share something.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You have a marvelous way about you today. It puts others completely at ease, because you're as concerned about them as yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) This can be a fortunate day for you if you work in accordance with your highest ideals. You'll not seek rewards, but they'll be there.

By Bernice Bede Osol
Monday, Dec. 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your energies today are likely to be directed toward things of a fun social nature.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day for you to try to finalize a situation where something of material value is owned to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be timid about pushing your plans, if you feel they're better than those of your associates. Chances are you're right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This could be a profitable day if you are enterprising and resourceful. Give business matters top priority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being around active people will afford you the greatest pleasure today. Avoid sick-in-the-heels or dull groups.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The results you're hoping for today can be attained, if you do what is necessary and call a thing too much attention to yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have a way of suggesting ideas today that capture the imagination of others. Especially if you're talking about a new interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Once you set your mind on a goal today you'll not easily be deterred. Just be sure you aim for something worthwhile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone important to your present needs can be swayed to your way of thinking if you present your case with verve and logic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Most of your efforts today are likely to go toward helping others get on their problems. However, I don't think you'll mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Conditions should be very harmonious for you today. Even if little disturbances do pop up you'll take them in stride.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Try to spend more time today on your pet hobby or puller with somebody else you enjoy doing. You'll find it very relaxing.

Seeks Park Guidelines

ISALIPAK (CP) — The Nova Scotia department of recreation is holding discussions with representatives of industry, parks and racewonside and ski clubs in an effort to establish guidelines for the use of woodlands for winter sport.

One of the growing sports is Nordic, or cross-country, skiing and Recreation Minister Garnet Brown said this opens tremendous opportunities for family recreation.

ODC Director Resigned Friday

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eichen, the managing director and top civil servant in the Ontario Development Corp. (ODC) resigned Friday.

Mr. Eichen said he quit voluntarily, explaining that he had wanted to go into business on his own and that Friday "was the time for me to do it."

However, Claude Bennett, minister of industry and tourism, said he had asked Mr. Eichen for his resignation because his position had been made redundant under recent amendments to the ODC Act.

The amendments make the government-appointed ODC chairman also chief executive officer of the corporation.

Mr. Bennett said that when asked for his resignation, Mr. Eichen indicated he had intended to do so anyway, likely by next June. Mr. Eichen was also offered another job in the civil service "because we had no other position to offer him."

Mr. Eichen joined the Ontario Civil service in 1963 and 10 years later became founding director of the Ontario Development Agency. He remained its director when the agency became ODC in 1967 and began providing grants in aid of fledgling industries in lieu of guaranteeing private loans.

Canadian Communist Party Still Struggles

HAVANA (CP) — The Canadian Communist party learned long ago to live with cool receptions and meagre public support.

Once banned by law and now tolerated, the party's successes in trying to convert Canadian votes have been few.

But part disappointments of three of its leaders were forgotten temporarily Friday in a Havana cigar factory.

Led by William Kashtan, general secretary of the party, the three Canadians were treated by officials and cheered loudly by about 800 workers.

Kashtan, Ontario leader Bill Stewart and Quebec Leader Jeannette Walsh—elected here for the Fest Cuban Communist party congress—appeared overcome.

They were served tomato juice by a waiter in a white jacket and Cuban rum by a worker in a black tuxedo.

Gifts of cigars and appointment books were presented and they were led among the workers who produce H. Upmann and Monterrato cigars by hand and machine.

Later, the workers assembled before a stage where the Canadians were welcomed to "revolution and solidarity."

Kashtan cheered several times, told the workers his father had been fired at a Montreal tobacco plant for attempting to organize a union.

Through a translator, he said Canada is a rich country in which everyone should be a millionaire.

Peron Under Pressure To Resign Her Post

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Isabel Peron was under increased pressure to step aside today as air force rebellion seeking to overthrow the Argentina government entered its third day.

The three armed forces commanders are reported to have told Mrs. Peron the rebellion may spread unless she leaves office. The report was neither confirmed nor denied.

Opposition Senate leaders told Interior Minister Angel Federico Robledo that the way to solve the crisis is for Mrs. Peron to take a leave of absence.

Tension was at its highest when four single-engine propeller-driven planes and an F-86 Sabre jet flown by rebel pilots bombed Government House and the air force headquarters in the heart of the city.

OSSTF Urges Teachers to Reject Latest Contract Offer

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) said during the weekend that negotiators will recommend that Metropolitan Toronto's 5,000 striking teachers reject a new contract offer by the Metro Toronto board of education when they vote on Jan. 7.

Negotiators for Toronto's six boards of education announced Saturday that the Metro Toronto board had presented a new contract proposal to OSSTF negotiators.

The OSSTF spokesman said the contract will not be presented to teachers until Jan. 5 to the striking teachers can enjoy the Christmas holiday without interruption.

A spokesman for the Metro Toronto board said no date has been set for a vote by trustees on the proposal.

News of the talks will continue to lie withheld until the teachers vote.

The strike, which has disrupted classes for 140,000 students in 125 schools, began Nov. 12, two days after negotiations broke off.

Stanley Hartt, one of the three provincially - appointed mediators who entered the contract dispute in the first week of December, said the new offer does not resemble the last board offer of 29.5-per-cent increase which the teachers turned down.

The federal anti-inflation board announced on Nov. 28 that the 29.5-per-cent-increase was in excess of the guidelines controls.

The teachers were seeking a salary range between $13,356 and $22,224 and up to $38,598 for principals with full cost-of-living protection in each year of the two-year contract.

The board was offering salaries ranging from $11,525 to $21,820 and up to $35,118 for principals with partial cost-of-living protection in the second year.

Present salaries are between $7,826 and $18,900 and up to $27,000 for principals.

During the five-week strike, about 80 teachers have crossed picket lines to remain in school. Last week, teachers strike pay was reduced to 30 per cent from 40 per cent, of their regular salary.

Algeria Accepts Plane

Terrorists Retain 2 Arab Oil Leaders

ALGIERS (CP) — Guerrillas today released all hostages they brought with them from Vienna aboard an Austrian airliner except the heads of Arab delegations to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), the Algerian news agency reported.

The guerrillas released delegates from Nigeria, Gabon, Ecuador, Indonesia and Venezuela, the news agency said.

After agreeing on the release, the leader of the guerrillas waited "from a negotiation" room at Algiers airport with Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, smiling and waving his arms.

Three aides said in the plane include Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani and Iranian Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar, the president of OPEC.

There were some reports that the DC-9, which flew the guerrillas and hostages here under agreement with the Austrian government, would be taking off for another, unspecified Arab capital.

The pro-Palestinian terrorists seized the 20-hour occupation of the Vienna OPEC headquarters early today and flew to Algiers with 10 oil ministers and 31 other hostages.

In Vienna, at least two persons were killed and a number of others injured as the terrorists invaded the OPEC meeting. Austrian police said six guerrillas and 70 hostages were on the plane when it left Vienna.

Three ambulances lined up behind the DC-9 when it landed here. One of the guerrillas, who was carried aboard the plane with a gunshot wound in the stomach, was taken off the jet here and rushed to hospital. He was accompanied by a nurse who had flown with him in the plane.

The jet's engines were still running two hours after the plane landed.

Shortly after the plane landed at 11:35 a.m., the Algerian foreign minister began negotiating with one of the terrorists in the VIP lounge. Officials gave no indication what the terrorist wanted.

Among the first to leave the plane was Algerian Oil Minister Belaid Abdesselam and one of his aides.

The Canadian Embassy has officies on the fourth and fifth floors of the building, but embassy spokesmen in Ottawa said all personnel have been accounted for.

"Should we have stormed the OPEC building without taking into account how many dead this would mean? Up. This you cannot expect from me."

The chancellor said he refused to adopt Israel's "very hard method of responding to terrorist attacks, which in fact results in more people being killed in retaliation."

The terrorists—five men and a woman—said they were members of the Arm of Arab Revolution, an organization not previously heard of. They issued a communique in ungrammatical French demanding that the Arab world wage a "total liberation war" against Israel.

The communique also denounced "reactionary" Arab regimes who have allied themselves with "American imperialism," meaning Saudi Arabia and Iran. It called for nationalization of all Arab oil and demanded that the countries combatting Israel join the "pan-Islamic resistance" be given first priority in the allocation of the oil revenues.

Kreisky said the Saudi Arabian and Iranian ministers were on the top of the raiders' list for retribution if their demands after Organization (PLO) demands were not met.

Le Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) denounced the raid and said it was an attempt to sabotage the Palestinian cause in the UN Security Council debates on the Middle East next month.

Questioned about security at the OPEC headquarters, Kreisky said the Arab-dominated oil cartel "was the one organization that nobody suspected could be endangered in any way."

There was no reason to believe it posed a special security risk.

The chancellor said there was no confirmation of reports that the leader of the raiders was a Venezuelan named Ilich Ramirez Sanchez.

Gunmen Kills Mother Of Eight

BELFAST (Reuter) — A gunman shot dead a Roman Catholic mother of eight at point blank range Sunday night after bursting into her home as she was putting up Christmas decorations.

Police said the 43-year-old woman lived on a mixed Protestant-Catholic estate here.

The killing came as the British government tried to halt a serious outbreak of sectarian violence by ordering some 300 members of the part-time Ulster Defence RDM to reinforce security forces in South Armagh, a stronghold of the Provisional Irish Republican Army.

Militant Protestants, who have long been angered by the Provisionals' campaign of terror in this area, launched an offensive against the republican guerrillas last Friday, killing four persons in bombing raids on two border bars.

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister James Richardson says the purpose of increasing defence outputs "is the achievement of international stability. That is really what we're trying to do."

"We are trying to participate in the achievement of international stability, or you can call it peace in the world," Mr. Richardson said in an interview taped for broadcast Sunday on the CTV television program Question Period.

Cuba Approves Plan

HAVANA (CP) A five-year plan calling for automation of the sugar industry, a nuclear reactor and expanded steel-making industry, was approved Sunday by the Communist party of Cuba. The plan, estimated to cost $15 billion and covering the years 1976 through 1980, sets ambitious goals for improving every sector of the island's economy.

Minimum Wage Increases

TORONTO (CP) — The minimum wage in Ontario will rise to $2.65 an hour in general and $2.90 in the construction industry beginning March 15, Labor Minister Bette Stephenson announced today. The province's current minimum wage is $2.40 an hour in general and $2.65 in the construction industry. Dr. Stephenson said a major reason for the increase is to protect minimum wage earners against increases in living costs.

Ellis Supports Wagner In PC Leadership Race

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Jack Ellis is supporting Claude Wagner's bid for the Progressive Conservative national leadership.

The Hastings MP confirmed his choice of his party's leading Quebec political personality Sunday.

As a result, Mr. Ellis has resigned as an organizing official of Kresky's campaign so he may devote time to the Wagner campaign.

A main reason for his choice is the Wagner political philosophy—tight on centre with emphasis on conservative policy now acceptable to the party, said Mr. Ellis.

The Wagner political stance is needed to "counteract the socialistic measures of Trudeau," said the Hastings MP.

He said he made his choice shortly after Robert Stanfield announced he would step down as Conservative leader early next year.

The growing rapier of confederation have had not changed his mind.

Mr. Ellis said he had "looked the field over very, very carefully" and still believes that Wagner "is the man we have to serve."

The Ellis-Wagner connection publicly developed last year in federal election.

At the 1972 Maple convention which nominated him as Conservative candidate in Hastings Mr. Ellis had Mr. Wagner as the keynote speaker.

In that convention, Mr. Ellis said Sunday, more than 700 attending voters and party workers from Hastings seemed very impressed with the Quebec MP.

If Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed has endured the leadership race he might have had to rethink his decision. Mr. Ellis admitted.

Mr. Ellis—who said he attended the Wagner campaign kickoff in the Chateau de Ch. Ayuste the rioting secret; wrote age—gave no reason for his choice.

He cited three Wagner attitudes:

A strong stand on law and order. As a former Quebec justice minister and later a judge, Mr. Wagner made a reputation as a tough upholder of law.

A broad attitude on bilingualism. Mr. Wagner has said "he is not prepared to force French on the west of Canada—a pretty strong statement—and he does believe in this province."

In contrasts with Prime Minister Trudeau's stand which is "dividing the country, I don't believe the bilingualism policy is one of the French people but a matter of Trudeau's policy," said Mr. Ellis.

Shelter Valley Farms

1976 Poinsettias Already Under Cultivation Here

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Christmas comes Thursday but for some, preparations for Christmas—1976 already are under way.

They're the people who grow poinsettias—the popular plants of the rich red and green hues identified as Christmas colors.

It takes 12 months to produce a full-blown poinsettia from a plant cutting. Therefore, the production process has to start in November for the following year's Christmas market, says Mary Lloyst, of Shelter Valley Farms on Highway 14 near Mountain View.

Large cuttings—known as jiffy starters—take a couple of months less. But the Lloysts already have a batch of the 13-month variety underway while selling this season's batch of bright-green plants.

The Lloysts have been selling produce at Belleville's farmers' market for 30 years. They started including flowers and plants about eight years ago.

MORE
take 2

The poinsettia has bloomed in popularity over that time.

Ten years ago they weren't so much in demand—since flowers generally to that time were the purchase of the more affluent, says Mrs. Lloyst.

Now, they're in common demand, and the change can be marked by price. A decade ago a Christmas poinsettia could have cost up to $12. Today, even the inflated market they bring around $6 "for the very best," she estimates.

Volume is the explanation. The first year the Lloyst family began producing they sold about 50 plants. This Christmas they've grown 300—sufficient to meet demand on the market and at the farm greenhouse. "The farm doesn't wholesale.

Meantime between this Christmas and next there's another festival—Easter.

Alongside the poinsettia sprouts in the greenhouse they grow other blooms being cultivated at Christmas: Easter Lilies.

MPs Approve Pension Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Saturday passed a bill increasing pension benefits for members of Parliament by up to one-third in line with salary increases earlier this year.

Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) leading NDP spokesman in the bill, said it is over-generous inequitable and provides a poor political example set in a time of restraint.

Norbert Parenteau (PC—Dartmouth-Halifax East) joined Mr. Knowles in objecting to provisions of the bill by only the NDP voted against it on third and final reading.

It was passed 165 to 40. The Senate later approved the bill.

The legislation also increases pension benefits for a wide range of public servants, servicemen and judges.

One last-minute change by the Senate removed amendment what Lloyd Francis (Ottawa West) parliamentary secretary to Treasury Board President Jean Chretien, described as an "anomaly." Under the law, a retired mp would get a bigger pension than he worked up to other few months.

That's not because by retiring now they would be eligible for an 11.2-per-cent escalator increase in pensions Jan. 1, but would get if they retired after that.

The amendment wipes out loss of the increase for those who retire before the New Year rather than retire now.

Mr. Knowles said senior civil servants retired early last year to get the indexed increase. He stated there was no need to act on the amount their pensions may rise in 1976.

Three Escapees Sought

Police today are still seeking three escapees from Millhaven penitentiary — two of whom stole a van in Belleville early Sunday morning.

The three men — described as dangerous — were serving long-term sentences when they escaped during a snowstorm Saturday night.

They were identified as Brian Copeland, 28, of Toronto; Valentine Lescheneks, 24, Sutton, Que.; and Thomas Smith, 27, of London, Ont.

The three, wearing several layers of white sheets, "escaped by cutting through a barred window and passing between guards under cover of blowing snow.

A heavy duty file and wire cutters were found later after a search of the area.

Police say Lescheneks and Copeland went to a trailer park in Millhaven where Smith, they believe, headed east.

At the trailer park, the two apparently forced the Belleville man, and his girl friend to drive them first to Kingston and later to Napanee.

Provincial police at Napanee did not release the Belleville man's name.

At Belleville, a van was taken from the South John St. maintenance shop of Northern and Central Gas. Police then drove up Camelton Rd. and headed west toward Tweed, said police.

The three apparently escaped about 7 p.m.

Belleville Police Chief Doug Crosbie said city police were informed about the escape was about 4 a.m. after the crook had been reported by the man to provincial police at Napanee.

Copeland was serving 30 years for armed robbery and theft; Lescheneks was in jail for 25 years and Smith for 25 years for armed robbery and robbery.

MP Expense Exemption Angers Tory

Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, said Progressive Conservatives reacted with disbelief when they discovered last weekend that Commons' members will get a $90 tax-free increase in income despite a freeze on parliamentary pay.

The increase results from a government decision to exclude the tax-free expense allowance for MPs from the income tax freeze announced last Thursday.

"We just couldn't believe it," said Mr. Ellis, new home for Christmas after parliament recessed Saturday — on a note of rancour caused by the allowance exemption from the freeze.

Such a move, charged Mr. Ellis, only further hurts the government's credibility in its anti-inflation program.

Hospital Budget, Staff Cuts Worry Officials at BGH

Belleville General Hospital's administration heads into the Christmas season pondering the possible local implications of new across-the-province budget cuts by Queen's Park.

BGH officials won't know until sometime in January what the austerity move may signify for the hospital, board chairman Carl Bateman says.

Mr Bateman was among hospital officials called to Toronto Friday to hear Ontario Health Minister Frank Miller announce $50 million will be cut from hospital budgets next year by eliminating up to 3,000 beds, and reducing staff by about 5.0%.

Mr. Miller said he would be writing hospitals in January, said Mr. Bateman.

Mr. Miller said he plans to meet 13 cities to discuss cuts. Details will not be revealed until boards of the affected hospitals have been informed.

"So we're not going to know too much for a while," said Mr. Bateman. "We just hope our hospital isn't one of them."

He said he believed BGH had "suffered enough" by a recent ministry decision not to renew the Queen's Self-care Unit when its lease runs out next year.

BGH authorities are contemplating moving the self-care project — a government pilot program — to smaller quarters in hospital property.

Mr. Bateman said a ministry guideline set the number of beds at four per 1,000 population in its area.

But how that ratio would apply to BGH is difficult to determine since its service area can only be loosely defined, said the board chairman.

BGH is classed as a 296-bed hospital — most of them active treatment beds.

Mr. Bateman said a major concern is the reduction in jobs.

"That's a big worry — 1,500 jobs is a heck of a lot in this province," he added.

BGH, with about 1,700 on its payroll, is one of the Quinte district's biggest employers.

However, Mr. Bateman said he believes the ministry would find move against larger urban centres where the number of hospitals could reveal overlapping of facilities.

Meantime, hospital administrative staff will be assembling data on BGH operations — to have a case ready should the institution be among those affected by the cuts, he said.

Shannonville Centre Hive of Activity

SHANNONVILLE — They're still working at an idea here that became solid reality in the shape of a community centre exactly two years ago.

Despite its success as a result of what local initiatives can create in a community, its origination story they are still not satisfied they've achieved the optimum results.

That's why work is continuing on improving the Tyendinaga Community Centre.

If it looks slightly familiar on the outside the impression is correct. It was once a country schoolhouse. Inside though, its appearance now is in the final phase of alteration.

That started almost three years ago — when local inhabitants were first startled to hear the school was being closed and the student complement being moved to a newer bigger school a mile north of here.

Instead of a last-ditch fight over the Hastings County school board's decision, a group persuasively argued the situation could be turned to community advantage.

That's when the Tyendinaga Community Association was formed. It took over the solid brick building on a nominal $1 lease — with an option to purchase — from the board.

The association, headed by Don Ellis, rallied volunteer labor and began the conversion. A games room and dance area for area youths was installed.

Last winter, the project won a $12,000 Local Initiatives Program grant to upgrade the interior, install extra exits. Shortly after, the local senior citizens — their club organization made possible by the facility — were awarded a $5,000 federal New Horizons grant and installed a kitchen, bought panelling and other items for the centre.

By this year its three rooms and basement were a hive of activity — the first centre of its kind in Tyendinaga Township. All manner of local groups meet there — from political organizations to farm associations. There are the local girl guides and brownies. The township too over one room to install its first public library, open four times a week. New Loyalist College has fine arts and crafts classes three nights a week there.

Meantime, the association runs bingos, euchre parties and other special events. The money goes into a reserve fund for expenses — and to use against the day the building can be bought outright.

The association, says Mr. Ellis, already is working on that — negotiating with the township to have the centre become an official part of the municipality's services. This will entitle it to senior government grants.

The way it is organized it operates at no cost to the taxpayers," says the president.

Meantime, while awaiting the outcome of negotiations, the association won a two-year lease extension — and has decided to finish off remodelling the interior. Plans called for taking out dividing walls and turning two former classrooms into a big hall.

To achieve that the association again struck it lucky. It applied for, while awaiting and was awarded — another LIP grant, this time for $19,000.

Economy in Early Stages of Recovery as Controls Belatedly Take Shape

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs
Analyst
Thomson News Service

Since the anti-inflation program was announced on restraint will have to be taken seriously.

The still doesn't mean that the federal government can count on broad public support. Individual interests are less divergent for that.

Not even one of the provincial governments has yet committed itself in writing to support the curbing program. Generally, is setting up its own, while Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta have balked at Ottawa's decision that its controls must be enforced for more than three years.

If the prime minister had been as determined in mid-October (when he announced the broad outline of the anti-inflation program) as he was in mid-December with the announcement of the regulations and new federal spending restraints, then a good deal of the anguish of the past two months might have been avoided.

Instead, the loophole of "historical relationship" has been broad enough to appeal to almost any labor or professional group that happened to be negotiating a new contract this fall.

It doesn't take much imagination to relate one's own income to that of someone who's better off.

The result has been a flood of initial public attention on the controversial question of "fair play," and to obscure the necessity for action on the other three prongs of what was to be a four-pronged attack on inflation.

Little if anything was heard about fiscal and monetary policy changes, government spending restraints, or structural changes in the economy, during October and November.

Now the government has at last committed itself to decisive action in areas where there is danger of being forgotten.

It's regrettable that the prime minister couldn't have promised his actual reduction in the amount of government spending—but inflation continues to drive up its costs of doing business, as well as everyone else's.

A closing rate of increase is the next best thing. Before he sets any additional spending cutbacks, the federal budget has been heading for a record deficit in 1976 to 1976 of $7.7 billion (by one method of estimating it) and as much as $10 billion the following year.

Even so, history remains plenty of high-cost programs, such as the planned expansion of bilingualism and the "indexing" of civil service pensions, that will continue to exert strong upward pressure on federal spending.

The new restraints to government spending will inevitably be criticized on the ground that they will slow down the pace of the economy.

It is likely, though, that any such effect would be offset by an upswing in consumer and business spending as the public regains some confidence in the economy and the stability of the dollar.

Besides, the timing is right. All indications are that the Canadian economy is in the early stages of a recovery from a recession that, as the Conference Board in Canada has just reported to be one of the worst since the 1930's.

The momentum of that recovery, which economists have been under way since mid-summer, should be enough to withstand Mr. Trudeau's pseudo-ferocious spending restraints.

Troubled Youth

Three Youths in Court on Theft Charge . . . Employee Robbed . . . Revolver Stolen.

These are headings from a recent issue of The Intelligencer. They provide more than just a hint of the growing pains of a medium-sized Ontario city such as our own.

Belleville thus far is luckier than most perhaps in being relatively free of crimes of violence. But how long can this last? Police Chief Douglas Crosbie, for instance, has expressed concern over the theft of a revolver, and this is understandable.

A caller on an open line radio program voiced another related concern of these pre-Christmas days recently. She was worried about youngsters as free as ours in this latter-day open society and especially by the fact parents in many instances neither know nor care where they are or what they are doing. She drew attention to the questionable impact of today's magazine stands on impressionable youngsters and the fact many are drawn to such material. It's a point that is well taken. If we can legislate against hockey violence for instance, what about the violent and salacious literary offerings to which the young are exposed these days?

If we are to see any glimmerings of a better world at all in the new year these are the kind of matters to which citizens should be addressing themselves. There was a time when various interests tried to provide drop-in centres and the like. Maybe there is less need for them today, there being more outlets of one kind or another, on the commercial scene alone, than there used to be. And yet, to judge from the break-ins and thefts and sundry other difficulties of modern youth, there may well be room for other initiatives toward the preservation of law and order, and channelling youthful energies into better paths.

The Power Of Music

The kind of song and dance movies that spanned the years from the Depression on through the years of the last war, were of the kind people turned to as a counter to difficult times.

Music and the bond provided by Christmas Day is recalled by first war veterans as elements which united Allied and German soldiers in the singing of Silent Night.

How vital is music to the human mind and to its cultivation in the minds of the young. The discipline and pleasure gained from learning to play an instrument can stand many a youngster in good stead all his days.

Don't discount either the music from the jukebox. Says a New York executive of a firm manufacturing these ubiquitous machines: "It is a depression-proof business," and "when times are bad, people seem to want music."

Music indeed "hath charms!"

CYC To Be Axed

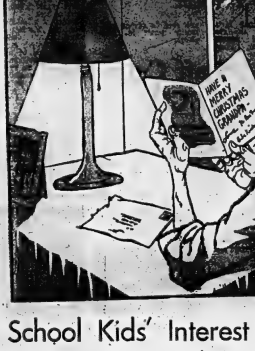
If the federal government had acted to control inflation five years ago, in the same manner as it is exhibiting now, there would have been good reason to chop the Company of Young Canadians.

At that time the CYC was under fire for a number of reasons. Its handling of the funds entrusted to it for one thing was causing concern, but principally there was criticism that the organization was becoming politicized.

Since then, however, there has been scarcely a murmur. Other than a brochure two or three years ago outlining its activities, the CYC has been conspicuous by its very lack of publicity. — and controversy. A statement released in the wake of Ottawa's announced intention of ending the CYC operation, for economy reasons, affirms this. "There has been no adverse publicity," it says.

Furthermore, it points to the many projects under way, its work with people the CYC are helping toward a greater degree of self-reliance, and the fact its 350 volunteers and 100 staff members each less on the average than unemployment insurance benefits.

There may well be reasons today for looking more kindly upon the Company of Young Canadians. Nevertheless, the PrimeMinister, while expressing his . . . ld, says the CYC must go. Whether it survives beyond this, with alternative funding, is questionable. It is nevertheless an organization that does seem to have matured and to have acquired real social value. Once it is dropped, the future of a lot of people may be affected adversely.



School Kids' Interest in Animals

The following is the text of a letter addressed to Hastings County Board of Education administrator Eric Hannaford.

The Board of Education and the School System have been instrumental in providing the involvement for a very pleasant experience.

The ingredients are very simple — our youngsters — their pets — and Christmas.

I am returning to working with the children of Christ Church Public School and the Junior Kindergarten Class, but mostly from Harry J. Clarke School in order to produce the Christmas Show "It's A Dogs World."

This particular program is a good example of a mere thought being projected through the different phases of the mental processes until it becomes a reality.

The youngsters especially on such short notice — had a great deal of effort in grasping and developing this program. They all deserve a great deal of credit.

The reason for their keen interest in animals can be attributed to one person — their teacher, Miss Terry Marsan — who has a genuine understanding for the need of a mixture of children and pets even in the classroom.

As this is the festive season and Christmas is a time for peace and Christian love amidst all creatures, what greater reward than being able to actually witness these beautiful periods of life at work amongst our own children and in our own school system.

A. MANJURES.

Concert At Wm. R. Kirk

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I was so impressed with the concert held at the William R. Kirk School for the retarded last night that I feel compelled to write and say so.

After seeing their program I can only think of what wonderful work they do. Such a bright future for a retarded child has now to the drab existence he faced so few years ago.

The patience, love and hard work by teachers, staff and students only point out that such goals could never be too high.

Any parent or student should be proud to be part of such an organization and respected for what it is.

C. RENDALL.

Bible Digest

by E. B. Dunn

"These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him: A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, and an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren." Proverbs 6:16-19

Here are some things the Lord God hates. Therefore we can't seem to make any progress in our Christian walk, when we measure ourselves against this check list.

We have heard that some teachers find there it is too late for these students unless there is a one to one teaching situation. Perhaps this is but a system which produces the problem should have the reapportioning is attempting to rectify it.

We as well financiers but we believe that our school board could find the money to help these students before they become disasters. The most cumbersome method of course could be to set up a special school for them, thus gathering and isolating youngsters with problems subjected to three hours a day of psychological analysis than other students. Many are sent to psychologists but still remain problems.

Has the education system designated a way anyway to help these students? From our viewpoint this seems true. Students attending a regular grade seven class or a non-reader gets no special help with their disability. They are prime participators in all school activities which take the children out of the classroom but their reading deficiency looms over their head like gathering thunderclouds.

Hydro Curbs Generating Capacity

Brantford Expositor

With significant unanimity, provincial hydro - electric authorities in Labrador, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and B.C. have begun to slow their expansion of generating capacity.

For the first time no strong reasons: the cost of long-term capital borrowing has become too expensive, and the always tricky business of estimating demand for power years ahead is now subject to an unusual degree of uncertainty.

Over the next 10 years capital projects worth at least $ billion are to be delayed by a year or more, although industry authorities still warn of power shortages if demand increases return to the "normal growth rates of recent years.

In the first nine months of 1975, electricity consumption in Canada was very slightly more that of the same period of 1974, but exports to the U.S. dropped by 26 per cent.

Ontario Hydro is delaying projects worth about $4 billion: the $2.3 Gull River development in Labrador has been set back by at least a year; Hydro Quebec is cutting back by about one million, half of it on the huge James Bay project, and Manitoba has put off for two years the completion target for its 600-million Limestone generating project. B.C. Hydro is restudying its $4.5-billion Peace River plan, with a view to reducing its need for borrowed capital.

Last year the Ontario Energy Board urged Hydro to take steps to "promote reasonable measures to dampen demand for electricity." But there is no sign of Hydro's intending to halt the means of spinning out the supply from its present capacity.

Conservation Of Energy

Brockville Recorder and Times

Brockville's Public Utilities Commission was prepared a brief for presentation to the Royal Commission on Electrical Power, that places greater emphasis on conservation of other types of energy. It is a point well taken, one the government should second and be willing to act upon with the threat of depletion of both oil and gas seen as a possibility in the next 59 years.

If the forecast of oil and natural gas shortages have substance, the Ontario government, and the federal government too, should be more concerned about continued promotion of the use of these two types of energy. It would seem that a concentrated effort should be made to conserve both resources for applications for which they are uniquely suited. This could include manufacturing such as that at the Brockville Chemical Industries plant here which produces much needed fertilizer. Food supply is just as great a concern in the world today as energy depletion and only with the availability of fertilizers can the developing nations be expected to keep abreast the needs of their own peoples and also to provide some aid to underdeveloped nations.

While the PUC brief concerns itself with many points, the matter of conservation is important if for no other reason than to emphasize that it is an important concern at the grass roots level of government. Usage of all forms of energy in the country seem to be ignoring the pleas of concerned groups to restrict consumption. Further federal shortages will have to occur before there is any concerted effort to conserve on the part of the general public. Information programs which have been launched over the message across are almost completely ignored. It will take a crisis, likely, before people cut back on the use of electricity, gasoline, oil and natural gas. How many people turn the thermostat down about 5 degrees though they are constantly urged to do so.

One of the puzzling aspects of federal energy usage that destroys the credibility of a pending gas shortage, is the fact that the federal government is leasing and other large projects with natural gas as the source for heating. Why not electrical power? It is likely to be around for a much longer time.

People with Reading Ability Could Help Students Upgrade Skills

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

From a casual survey taken among friends and acquaintances we find that many feet the school system is dangling to some students. The present educational system seems to be geared to creative and practical learning expression however, the actual learning process is fully dependent on the ability to read. A certain percentage of intelligent students reach Grade 7 or 8 with a disability to read which leaves them psychologically and mentally disturbed. Have these students been abandoned? How did they get this far without being able to read?

Students who have endured education for four, five or eight years without the ability to read have certainly learned other lessons in apathy, discord, tragedy, aggression and all that relates to an inactive mind. These students seem to have a very similar background. Their reading problems were detected in Grades 1 and 2 where they were being taught to read by sight or memory without learning the basic phonetics. At the age of six years they suddenly become disciplinary problems.

Has the education system designated a way anyway to help these students? From our viewpoint this seems true. Students attending a regular grade seven class or a non-reader gets no special help with their disability. They are prime participators in all school activities which take the children out of the classroom but their reading deficiency looms over their head like gathering thunderclouds.

DENIED IN THE CLASSROOM

Denied in the classrooms due to their misbehaviour.

If these students cannot be given a positive approach to education we can only assume that they are perpetuating along the road to personality and social problems which may be more costly to society in the long run than if some of our education tax dollars were used for their present benefit.

Controversial Art Show Ends

BY SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff reporter

The first Belleville Biennial Art Show closed its doors Sunday on what may have been the most controversial art display held in Belleville.

The show, sponsored by local artist Dave Brockelsby, opened Dec. 4 in the upper and lower galleries of Corby Public Library.

Originally, more than 30 interdisciplinary and nationally known artists were included in the show that featured pen and ink sketches, oil paintings, ceramics and pottery.

The controversy began opening night and continued through the first week. Five Quinte area potters withdrew their work - more than 30 pieces of pottery as a protest against lack of proper displays. Harlan House, Peter and Lis Coviello and Gordon and Audrey Davies removed their work.

Their protest was followed by the withdrawl of paintings by Belleville artist Lindsay Ellham, who said she removed her work because it was not being in either gallery.

Despite difficulties, Mr. Brockelsby said he considers the show a success.

The show had an identity all its own, he said. "The art formed, a total environment that was."

Mr. Brockelsby estimated more than 1,000 people visited the three-week show.

The drawing card was internationally known abstract painter Elyse Rouzie, who had five works of art on display-three of them large murals.

Mr. Brockelsby said there would not be another Biennial Art Show unless "Belleville shows an increase in interest in art."

He added he was disappointed in some of the response from people.

Hundreds Enjoy Candlelight Service

Christmas carols, one of the oldest traditions of the Christmas season, were united in a candlelight carol service at Bridge Street United Church Sunday.

The church's junior and senior choirs, carrying candles in a long procession, told the Christmas story in scripture and song.

Solos were performed by Hazelanne Reid, Anne Osbourne, Bonnie Steele, Janet Loynes, Mary Beth Cook and Robert Horne.

The hour-long program was directed by Robert H. Reid with organist S. Alec Gordon.

More than 250 people attended the annual service.

Christmas in Song

The junior choir of Bridge Street United Church led the candlelight choir procession Sunday night when the choirs saluted Christmas in song. More than 250 people attended the annual service.

Arts Fest Planning Under Way

Plans for Arts Fest '76, an annual project of the Quinte Arts Council (QAC) now are under way.

The month-long festival, to take place in April, will include a program similar to the 1975 festival co-ordinated by Chester Hall, a QAC vice-president.

The festivities, a tradition of the QAC since its organization in 1967, will include more than just Belleville-based out-fronts. For the first time a group from Prince Edward County will participate.

The Prince Edward Youth Theatre, a project directed by teacher Leroy Taylor, will stage a performance for children at Centennial Secondary School.

The festival will begin on April 5 with an opera-La Travia followed by the official kick-off April 9 with a wine and cheese party at the opening of the visual arts exhibition at the library.

The Quinte Dance Centre is scheduled to perform on April 11 at Centennial Secondary School.

Mr. Hall said preparations are also underay for the Concert Brass Band and the Troubadours, a barbershop singing group, to perform at Centennial on April 16.

Belleville Theatre Guild will present The Subject Was Roses, directed by guild member Lis Marshall, at Pinnacle Playhouse on April 23-24 and April 30-May 1.

The Arts fest will end with a performance by the Eastern Ontario Orchestra also at Centennial Secondary School.

MINISTRY of HOUSING
Ontario Rent Review Program

The Ontario Rent Review Program has been established under the Residential Premises Rent Review Act to monitor rental levels for residential premises throughout the Province and to adjudicate disputes between landlords and tenants arising from increases in rents. The reviews will be carried out by local rent review officers whose decisions may be appealed to the Residential Premises Rent Review Board. The following executive, administrative and technical positions are now available in the Rent Review Program Division of the Ministry, the Secretariat of the Rent Review Board, or in local rent review offices. These are contract positions and are all located in Toronto.

Director, Program Operational Support: $23,400 - $32,500
Responsible for a comprehensive technical, professional and administrative Province-wide support service for the program. This will involve planning and co-ordinating legal, financial, audit, information and staff training support services to ensure that the delivery objectives of the program can be met.
File MH-2000

Director, Regional Operations (3): $23,400 - $32,500
Reporting to the Executive Director, you will primarily be responsible for the effective delivery of the program for a specific region of the Province and for ensuring the effective application of the Rent Review Program. More specifically, your duties will include liaising and consulting with senior Ministry officials, reviewing and appraising established techniques and procedures and recommending changes required to ensure the effectiveness of the program.
File MH-2001

Co-ordinator, Program Planning and Development: $20,900 - $26,400
Reporting to the Executive Director, to be responsible for monitoring the program, researching its effects and socio-economic implications and making recommendations for improvements. This will involve continual liaison with Rent Review staff regarding the progress and administration of the program, interpretation of policy and identification and resolution of problems.
File MH-2002

Manager, Technical Support: $23,400 - $24,500
Responsible for planning, co-ordinating and supervising the activities of a team of professional technical, financial and property management staff engaged in providing advice and technical assistance to rent review officers.
File MH-2004

Co-ordinator, Systems Development: $20,500 - $25,700
Responsible for assessing the systems requirements of the program, advising and recommending alternatives and co-ordinating the development and implementation of new or revised systems. This position is the liaison between the management systems staff of the Ministry and the staff of the Rent Review Program.
File MH-2003

General Qualifications: Applicants for these positions will have had considerable experience at the senior management level and/or in an administrative position, as well as a strong background in one or other of the following fields; finance, law, property management, economics and personnel administration.

Registrar, Residential Premises Rent Review Board: $20,000 - $25,000
Reporting to the Chairman, Residential Premises Rent Review Board, you will be required to exercise considerable initiative and judgement in co-ordinating appeals to the board and in providing a wide range of administrative and technical assistance and expertise to the Chairman and board members.
File MH-2009

Legal Advisor: $19,200 - $24,300
Responsible for providing legal advice and expertise to personnel involved in all areas of the program. This will include analyzing and researching specific problems, studying their legal implications and advising regarding appropriate legal procedures. In addition, considerable liaison with internal and external solicitors will be required.
File MH-2007

Audit Advisor: $16,500 - $20,200
Working in consultation with the Audit Branch of the Ministry, you will be initially responsible for the establishment of auditing standards and procedures for the program. Additional duties will include the review and appraisal of the management controls, operating procedures and accounting practices employed throughout the program and to report any weaknesses with appropriate recommendations.
File MH-2008

Manager, Staff Training: $15,900 - $19,200
In this position you will research, recommend, implement and administer staff training and development for Rent Review Program staff in all areas of the Province. This will necessitate liaison with staff at all levels to assess and advise regarding training needs, arranging for and where necessary, designing programs to meet these needs and monitoring their success.
File MH-2005

Staffing Control Officer: $13,600 - $16,000
As liaison between the Ministry Personnel Branch and the Rent Review Program staff, you will become involved in a variety of personnel related activities including counselling and salary and benefits administration. You will also be responsible for monitoring staff allocations and ensuring that adequate staff is available for all areas of the Program.
File MH-2010

Manager, Administrative Support Services: $12,800 - $15,000
Assume overall responsibility for the planning, organization and administration of the following support areas: budget control, payroll and office services. This will require identifying specific needs in each of these fields, developing appropriate methodology and implementing effective procedures to satisfy these requirements.
File MH-2006

Please submit resumes immediately, indicating appropriate file number to: Personnel Branch, Ministry of Housing, 3rd Floor, 60 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario. For additional information call toll-free 1-800-261-7095. In the Toronto area 923-2997.

These positions are open equally to men and women.

Ann Landers

Light-fingered Old Lady May Have Suffered Stroke

Dear Ann Landers: How can a person tell the difference between a deliberate thief and a kleptomaniac?

The woman I'm referring to is 85 years of age and nevertheless a church service. She is intelligent and her manner is friendly. Most folks who meet her for the first time think she is charming but after awhile her sugary sweetness gets on a person's nerves.

This woman was once my good friend but when I noticed my best embroidered hand towels hanging in her home I became suspicious. It wasn't long before I recognized knick-knacks on her shelf that belonged to me.

The day I saw her slip a can of tuna into a shopping bag when I turned my back in the kitchen, I decided to cool our friendship.

She phones often and wants to "get together." I am running out of excuses. Do you think I am being too hard on her?—Fooled in Green Bay

Dear G. B.: It's possible this woman is neither a thief nor a kleptomaniac.

She may have suffered some small strokes. Her age suggests this is a very real possibility.

When you recognized your towels and knick-knacks in her home you should have said "you were pleased to see she had enjoyed them." Or awhile and then taken them home with you. Restore the friendship and keep your eyes open.

Dear Ann Landers: Having been out of school for 30 years I decided to enrol in the local community college several months ago. I expected many things to have changed but I wasn't prepared for what I am about to describe. My 5'x7' college dorm room was the accepted practice in all colleges had it robbed me the wrong way and I'd appreciate your opinion.

After three or four weeks the students were asked to complete a detailed questionnaire evaluating their teachers. Judging by some of the verbal comments made by some students, I decided the questionnaires could be used as a device to blackmail any teacher they didn't like.

The kind teacher I ever had would not have won any popularity contests but to my certainly knew how to put across their subject.

Care to comment?—Learning More At 54

Dear Learning: I checked with the University of Chicago, Loyola University, Northwestern University and Mundelein College in Chicago. These evaluation questionnaires are optional, not widely used and were designed to help improve communication between teachers and students. I'm sorry to hear that they could be used to blackmail unpopular teachers is a figment of someone's imagination. Forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman 50 years old who looks like 80. Will facial exercises help? What about an operation to sand down my horrible wrinkles? Please advise.—Depressed

Facial exercises will NOT help remove wrinkles. The sanding operation is called "dermabrasion." It has proven highly successful when properly done by a specialist.

The quality of a woman's skin depends mainly on what she inherited. There is, however, one thing all women can do to preserve good skin. STAY OUT OF THE SUN.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a secretary who complained about having to type personal letters for the boss's wife. Well, this letter is from a boss's wife who is complaining about a secretary who does too many personal things for the boss. I wish she'd cut it out.

Last week was my husband's birthday. His secretary brought a birthday cake to the office. She proudly announced she had made it "from scratch." The woman must have stayed up all night, decorating it. According to my husband's description, it was very fancy.

That night I had guests for dinner and brought out the birthday cake I had made—also "from scratch." It was anticlimactic, to say the least, all he could talk about was his secretary's cake. What can I do about this sort of thing?—Scooped Again.

Dear Scooped: Nothing. Be sweet as frosting. Urge the doll to try for the Pillsbury Bake-Off. And don't knock her or you may create a problem where none exists.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the happily married mother of two beautiful children. My relationship with my parents is stilted and strained. I do my best to be pleasant and avoid confrontations but it isn't easy.

My father professes to love children. He continually tickles, pinches and strangle-holds the kids. His playful antics always end up with them screaming and crying.

If I tell my father how I feel about his "friendly romps" he'll deny everything, become enraged and we'll have a real fallout.

My relationship is not based on truth. What shall I do?—South Sider

Dear S.S.: Are you mature and strong enough to stand up to your father? If not, I hope you will get some counseling so you can reason that point. When you tell him you've had enough-housing, the kids always end up in tears," it will be a sign of personal growth. (P.S. Your counselor will explain to you why he does this to the children—if you don't already know.)

Ruth and Tom Potter's children, Jeff, 7, and Jill, 5, love to help make Christmas goodies, and they have a good time painting these cookies bright colors. Mrs. Potter, who is taking the evening course in Loyalist College's Early Childhood Education program, is also active in the parental assistance program at Queen Victoria Public School. In her spare time she does macrame.

Children's Christmas Cookies

COOKIES

2¼ cups all-purpose flour
one tsp. baking powder
one tsp. salt
one cup granulated sugar
½ cup shortening
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
two eggs
one tsp. vanilla or lemon extract

EGG YOLK PAINT

In a cup, with a fork, beat one egg yolk and enough food coloring of whatever color you choose until the color is well blended and of the desired intensity. A few drops of water can be added to thin the "paint" if necessary.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

In a large bowl mix sugar, shortening, butter, eggs and vanilla, until creamy. Stir in flour, baking powder, and salt. Refrigerate for two hours.

Roll out ¼ of the dough about ¼ inch thick. Keep the rest of the dough refrigerated.

Use cookie cutters to cut the dough into Christmas shapes such as bells and stars. With a small paintbrush, brush the egg yolk paint onto the unbaked cookies.

Bake cookies for six to eight minutes, until they are but not brown. Cool on racks.

Patti Culp gives puppet Mother Rabbit a hand as she scolds her silly son, Peter Rabbit, hero of the puppet show held Friday evening at the Tyendinaga Township Library. At right, Birkin Culp, 3, watches his parents' performance with interest, waiting with his chums to hill the puppets to sleep with a rendition of Jingle Bells.

Christmas Party

Peter Rabbit Steals Show at Tyendinaga Library

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Peter Rabbit was the star of the evening at the Tyendinaga Township Library's puppet show and Christmas party on Friday.

The saucy little hand puppet lisped his way through a series of adventures while an audience of children and adults cheered him along.

Librarian Patti Culp narrated the show, as well as performing the role of Mother Rabbit. She was assisted by her husband Bill Culp, who played the part of Peter, Floppy, Mopsy, Cottontail, the sly kitten Dapper and the mean Mr. McGregor.

Mrs. Culp has been librarian since May, 1974 when the library first opened in the Community Centre in Shannonville. When she took the job she'd had no training in library work, but her enthusiasm for the project has led her since to take a summer course at the School of Library and Information Science at the University of Western Ontario.

"I've had a lot of help from the staff at Corby Public Library," says Mrs. Culp, giving credit especially to chief librarian Olive Delaney. She also work closely with Jean Williams of the Children's Library, from where she obtains new books on exchange each month for her young readers.

The Corby Library sends 30 books every two months so that there is a constant flow of new books for adults too. The rest of the library's small but growing supply of books — currently under 2,000 titles — comes from the Regional Library in Kingston.

"We check out approximately 300 books a month," says Mrs. Culp, who is anxious to increase public awareness of the library's existence. She has visited schools and Women's Institutes in the area to inform them of the library services, and also conducts a steady poster campaign to notify children of special events, such as film programs and story hours.

Although there was some debate at the time the library opened about "whether or not it was really necessary, so close to Belleville" Mrs. Culp believes that having books readily available is very important, especially for young people.

"A number of kids are becoming familiar with books just by coming in here to see what's going on," she says.

The library is small enough that Mrs. Culp is getting to know the tastes of regular readers, and can pass on recommendations about good books. She also makes a point of following up suggestions for subscriptions to periodicals.

Assisted by Sheila Bates, a student at Quinte Secondary School, Mrs. Culp operates the library Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 8.30 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Service Surviving

WINNIPEG (CP) — The city's two-year-old Pregnancy Distress Service is struggling on a $22,000 annual budget, with 25 volunteers and one-room quarters supplied free by the Manitoba Metis Federation. Refused United Way assistance earlier this year because it wouldn't counsel women on abortions, the service receives its funds from private donations. So far this year about 300 women have been helped by the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Fletcher

Fletcher — Druce

St. Mark's Church, Kingston, was the scene of the fall wedding of Pauline Louise Druce, Verona, and Terrence John Fletcher, Regina, Sask., a student of Royal Military College, Kingston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Druce; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred J. Fletcher, Regina, Sask.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pearl de vale gown appliqued with lace and seed pearls. She wore an opal necklace and filigree earrings which were a wedding present from the groom. She carried orange roses, white carnations, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Ellen de Grandpre, Kingston, was matron of honor in an orange silk jersey gown. She carried orange carnations, butterscotch daisies and baby mums. Irene Kirkpatrick, Verona, and Elaine Oderre, Kingston, were bridesmaids. Renald Debience, Estevan, Sask., was groomsman assisted by Michael and Douglas Fletcher, the groom's brothers, of Regina.

A reception, including a dinner and dance, was held at the Martello Club, Kingston.

The couple took up residence in Verona following a wedding trip to Ottawa.

Wrap Little Gifts Inside This Santa

There are still a few days before Christmas in which to make decorations to brighten up your home. This Santa Claus, standing about 15 inches high, makes a nice table ornament, or an extra special wrapping on gifts that will fit inside two plastic ice cream or sherbet containers.

The containers, placed top to top, form the body of this Santa, giving him the required wide girth at his waist. Covered with bright red paper fastened with tape or glue, the body is completed with a belt of black felt or paper with a gold foil buckle.

An oval of pink paper makes his face on which paper cut-out features are pasted. His hat is a cone of red paper, with stiffer paper underneath to stiffen it if necessary.

All around the hat's brim, and around all the edges of Santa's face, glue cotton swabs as close together as you can. Break one in half to make each eyebrow, and bend another to make the moustache.

And there you have it! A most distinctive wrapping for any gift!

This Santa was made by Connie Morrison.

Two plastic containers form the body of this charming Santa Claus, and cotton swabs make his beard and trim his hat.

Aching Feet Gone

LONDON (CP) — There is a remedy for tired and aching feet on the market now. It is derived from an early 19th-century allfi-room recipe and contains camphor which stimulates blood circulation around the surface area, mint which is cooling and almond oil to soften painful hard skin. The remedy is Meadow Herbs Herbal Foot Balm.

REDNERSVILLE WI

The Redneriville Women's Institute Christmas party was held December 16 when members and many of their husbands went to the Ponderosa Restaurant for a steak dinner.

The group then moved to the Redneriville Church Hall, where a short business meeting was held. Edith Cairns, president, welcomed the husbands. She also reported on the recent 4H project, "Let's Bake Bread", a successful venture for all the girls.

Mrs. Cairns reminded the group that February 23 is the summary day for the needlepoint project.

The rest of the evening was devoted to progressive euchre.

Poor Weather Reduces Attendance at Museum

PICTON — A Sunday open house held at the Prince Edward County Museum will be repeated next weekend, says museum curator James Gooding.

Mr. Gooding said Sunday poor weather coupled with activities of the holiday season contributed to a poor attendance during the initial open house.

A special display of gifts pre-cented to the museum during 1975 is on exhibit in addition to regular displays.

The curator noted that few visitors have stopped at the museum this winter although it has been open daily except Sundays.

"It is just too cold for visitors," he added, in explanation of the poor attendance.

Although the winter months at the museum have been quiet ones Mr. Gooding said he feels that 1975 has been as active and rewarding year.

The museum prepared four major exhibits among them a display of chairs titled Seats in the County and a Queen Victoria display that will be repeated next summer.

The highlight of the 1975 season at the museum was a visit by John Diefenbaker who dedicated the chancel area of the museum in memory of Picton's late mayor H.J. McFarland.

The County as a Classroom, a community education program held two sessions at the museum this year, one at Macaulay House, the old Anglican church rectory now under renovation.

Mr. Gooding commented that restoration of Macaulay House began in 1975 will continue next spring with the re-erecting of the building.

In early January, the Friends of the Museum will begin to strip paint on the rooms in Macaulay House in preparation for other renovations.

Mr. Gooding said there is no target date for completion of the renovations, but it is expected that it will be from five to seven years before the house is completely restored.

Mr. Gooding said the sales desk at the museum has proven profitable this year and in 1976 should become the responsibility of the Friends of the Museum.

Wide Variety

Jill Hancock, owner of Knits and Knots, a new wool and related crafts shop, which has stock of wools. The new shop, located on Main Street in Picton, opened Friday. Mrs. Hancock said a growing interest in needlecraft prompted her to open the store.

New Picton Wool Shop Caters to Hobbyists

PICTON — Colorful yarns hit Main Street recently with the official opening of Knits and Knots, a supply centre for knitting and needlepoint enthusiasts.

Shop owner Jill Hancock says the store reflects her interest in knitting and crochet work and represents her first business venture.

Mrs. Hancock says the popularity of these handicrafts is increasing and the need for a supply outlet here prompted her to open her shop.

The store features a large assortment of yarns, needlepoint, quick point and crewel packs, cushion kits, rug packs, crochet cotton and embroidery cotton as well as many other supplies.

Mrs. Hancock says many of the kits contain all the material needed to create distinctive pieces of handiwork and are ideal for beginners.

Knits and Knots also carries macrame supplies and Mrs. Hancock says a wider variety may be added if there is sufficient demand.

The shop also has a full line of tapestry wools, pattern books and turkey rug packs.

The rug packs contain rug frames, latch hooks, rug hookers, gauges for cutting at the proper lengths and needles.

Knits and Knots is located at 198 Main Street at the former location of Derocles Sports World.

$500 Window Smashed

City police are investigating an overnight incident in which $500 damage was done to a window at Victoria and Grey Trust Co. on Front St.

A constable on morning patrol discovered a shattered window at 1:01 a.m. Police say that although it was shattered, the window remained intact.

CP News Roundup

Munro Won't Appeal Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro said Saturday that he would not ask the anti-inflation board to reconsider its decision to reject a proposed settlement between striking pulp and paper co. Ltd. Bill Kempling (PC — Halton-Wentworth) in the Commons that it would not be appropriate for him to do so. But he added that he would be meeting union officials on the matter this week.

House as Prize

TORONTO (CP) — A $60,000 Toronto home is the prize in a province-wide lottery sponsored by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, Dennis Whitaker, chairman of the lottery committee, said Saturday. Proceeds from the $2 tickets, which are sold at Wintario outlets and affiliated service clubs, will help finance research into new devices to help the crippled, he said. The draw will be held Feb. 2.

Gains Freedom

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — A tough raccoon regained his freedom but almost killed two Plymouth residents, police said. They said the ringtailed creature took up residence in the chimney of the home of Steve and Sue Smith on Friday. The Smiths were overcome by fumes and rushed to a hospital where they were revived, police said. The racoon was taken from the chimney to the country and released, authorities said.

Holds Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (Reuter) The United States conducted an underground nuclear test Saturday with a yield of between 20 and 200 kilotons at the Nevada test site, the Energy Research and Development Administration announced. The test was the 13th announced by the United States this year.

Form Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Ross Perrin, director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, said Saturday that 11 organizations concerned about eye health in Canada and developing countries have formed a committee aimed at preventing blindness. Mr. Perrin, who will head the Canadian coordinating committee for blindness prevention, said the group will concentrate this year on preventing special eye problems.

Hits Less Wealthy

SZOGALLIA, Italy (AP) — Italy's kidnap wave, responsible for 37 known abductions this year, is reaching down to hit the less wealthy. A 16-year-old girl kidnapped in this eastern coast town two days ago was freed free Saturday after her carpenter father raised $7,500 to pay her ransom — far cry from the multimillion dollar ransoms frequently paid by the families of wealthier victims. Her father said the kidnappers initially demanded a ransom of $150,000, way beyond the reach of his $700-a-month salary.

Provides Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford signed a bill Saturday providing U.S. government insurance up to $250 million for certain art and artifacts exhibits involved in cultural exchange tours. Fundamental items would be covered while on exhibit within the United States or elsewhere in the case of exchange of exhibits. Bill is aimed at getting reciprocal treatment from foreign countries for exchange visits there.

Rejects Suggestion

OTTAWA (CP) — Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp rejected on Saturday a suggestion that the government scrap or postpone its promised waterfront park in Toronto. The decision to acquire the property along the harbor front will in times to come be recognized as one of the most forward-looking steps taken by the federal government," Mr. Sharp told Otto Jelinek (PC — High Park-Humber Valley) in the Commons. Mr. Jelinek suggested the "trouble-plagued" election goody" might be stopped at least for a while to reduce government spending.

Presumed Drowned

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Eight men are presumed drowned after a schooner on which they were traveling exploded and sank Friday in choppy seas off Trinidad's northern coast, officials said Saturday. Skipper Daniel Hackett, 38, and another member of the 18-man crew were rescued by the U.S. Coast Guard five hours later. Hackett said an explosion in the engine room ripped the 59-ton 65-foot boat apart, throwing the entire crew into the sea.

Attica Investigation Unfair Says Special Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's investigation of the 1971 Attica prison uprising was unbalanced and unfair to prisoners, and state police made "important omissions" in gathering evidence, says a special investigator's report made public Sunday.

But the report, compiled by investigator Bernard S. Meyer, said there was no intentional cover-up of possible crimes committed by authorities during the recapture of a section of the prison seized by prisoners. Forty-three prisoners and employees were killed during the four-day uprising which began Sept. 9, 1971—as of them on the final day when troopers stormed the building.

Meyer's report was made public by Gov. Hugh Carey, who said he was following out of its primary recommendations by appointing another special prosecutor—Alfred J. Scotti, former chief assistant attorney in Manhattan District—to conclude the investigation "fairly" and, determine whether further indictments should be sought.

The Meyer report concluded that brutality was used in suppressing the uprising, recommended against granting blanket amnesty for alleged crimes committed by either prisoners or authorities and criticized former deputy attorney-general who headed the original Attica investigation, for not pressing hard enough for a larger staff and for relying too long on state police as investigators.

It also concluded that then-Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's remarks about the superb job state police did in recapturing the prison were inappropriate and may have prejudiced the investigation.

Meyer, a former state Supreme Court justice, completed a three-volume report. Only the first volume, 136 pages long, was made public Sunday.

Blossoming forth with holiday greetings and good wishes that grow and grow! It is with pleasure that we say thanks.

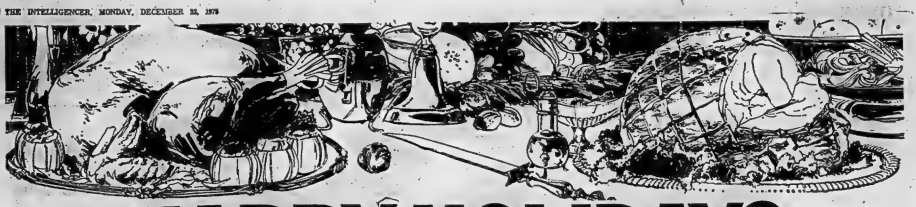
SEASON'S GREETINGS



HAPPY HOLIDAYS BEGIN AT DOMINION.

It's that happy time of year again. A time for family. A time for friends. And, of course, a time for entertaining. And nothing makes holiday entertaining quite so festive as holiday foods from Dominion. Like plump, full-breasted turkeys. Delicately flavoured hams. A host of fresh, fancy fruit. Bright flowers for your table and much, much more. Remember, your happy holiday begins when you begin by shopping at Dominion.

Manitoba's Opposition Faces Major Challenges

WINNIPEG (CP) — The leaders of Manitoba's two opposition parties face major challenges in 1976 and—for the first time in seventy—neither can use the legislature as a forum.

Sterling Lyon, who replaced Sidney Spivak as leader of the Progressive Conservative party in December, has not been a member of the house since 1969 and has no guarantee of a seat prior to the next general election.

And although he enjoys widespread support within his caucus, the leadership race has left deep wounds in the party that will take time to heal.

Liberal leader Charles Huband, chosen in March as a successor to Izzy Asper, has to fight to establish his party as more than a token force in Manitoba politics.

The Liberals have three seats in the 57-member legislature, compared with 31 New Democrats and 23 Conservatives.

Mr. Huband lost his bid for a seat in Crescentwood constituency, one of two Winnipeg ridings won by the Tories in June elections.

For the NDP, 1976 will likely be a year of few new initiatives. Any major surprises are apt to be saved for the 1977 legislative session, the likely prelude to a general election call later that year.

Many of the government's initiatives concerns centre on the federal anti-inflation program.

Premier Ed Schreyer spent much of the early part of 1975 the session, expected to begin in talking about the need for leadership in the battle against the wave and price increases. Yet he has offered only qualified support for Ottawa's program.

The premier has said provincial controls on rents and incomes of government employees will be imposed retroactive to Oct. 14 at the next session, but no details of the proposed legislation have been made public.

Other government plans for early February, include legislation covering disclosure of interest by public officials, greater protection for workers in private pension plans and controls on land use and ownership.

All were discussed during the 1975 session and referred to special legislative committees for further study.

Several major NDP policies were contained in bills approved last year, but they have yet to have much public impact. Dental-care programs for children were to begin in the fall of 1976, revenue-sharing arrangements with Manitoba municipalities were just going into effect and a major urban-renewal program in the core area of Winnipeg was obviously a long-term commitment.

Changes in the Manitoba Development Corp. have set skyrocketing opposition critics of government loans or investments involving private firms.

The province was in the process of writing off Saunders Aircraft Corp., Ltd. of Gimli at the end of the year, after committing about $37 million to the aircraft manufacturing company. Flyer Industries Ltd. of Winnipeg, the bus and trolley company now almost wholly owned by the Crown, had an accumulated deficit of $30.4 million in 1974.

The 1975 session saw a succession of clashes with Ottawa and with private groups as varied as doctors, cattle producers and university employees.

An increasingly bitter dispute developed with the federal government over plans by Manitoba, and Saskatchewan to have Skywest Ltd., a company formed by the two governments, operate a regional air service between Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

However, the year saw some progress in resolving a controversy with the United States over the Garrison Diversion in North Dakota.

WELCOME THEM WARMLY
A friendly call is always welcomed by new residents in the neighborhood. They'll be happy to meet you. Later, they'll want to know you better.
But right now, they need something more—directions to the nearest schools and shopping facilities and all the other information you need on arriving in a strange city.
So make your welcome a little warmer with the help of a Welcome Wagon hostess. She'll provide all this and gifts as well.
When new neighbors move in, call Welcome Wagon. You'll be glad you did . . . and they will, too.

christmas garnishes

On Christmas day, have your dinner look as attractive as it is tasty. One way is to add garnishes, prepared early in the day, chilled and added for that "final touch" just before eating. If you haven't made garnishes before, start off with these simple ideas:

- make a lemon cartwheel by cutting small notches around the edge of a lemon slice;
- top a vegetable casserole with sliced cheese triangles arranged in the shape of a star;
- excite a molded jelled salad with a ruffly lettuce collar and nestle radish pompoms in the ruffle (make a radish pompom by slicing a trimmed radish one way, almost to the stem, then crosswise and placing in ice water to open);
- finally, decorate your table with a beautiful and edible "snowy" centrepiece. Wash and dry apples, oranges, pears, lemons, limes, purple and green grapes. Brush with egg white, then sprinkle with sugar. Later assemble on a three-tiered stand. (Small-sized snowy fruits can also be used individually to garnish dessert items on your menu.)

Wishing you a very Merry Christmas!

Commons Approves UIC Amendments

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gave final approval Saturday to unemployment insurance amendments that will raise premiums paid by employees and employers Jan. 1.

The controversial changes, which also cut persons 65 and over from the program and reduces the special benefit paid to jobless persons with dependents, were approved by a vote of 98 to 45 after prolonged debate that delayed the start of Christmas holidays for MPs.

The Progressive Conservative Party and Social Credit joined to oppose passage of the bill. Herb. Breau (L—Gloucester) was in the Commons but did not vote.

Standing in the 264-seat Commons—140 Liberals, 95 Conservatives, 16 NDP, 11 Social Credit, one independent and one vacant. Just over half of the MPs attended the unusual Saturday sitting.

The Commons spent 12 days debating the bill, plus several hearings in committee, with the opposition particularly criticizing amendments that place a greater share of benefit costs on employees and employers and the sections which cut the aged from the program.

Employees will see their premium rate per $100 of insurable earnings rise to $1.65 a week from the present $1.40.

With the maximum insurable earnings at about $200 weekly in 1976, this means the maximum premium will go to $3.30 weekly Jan. 1 from the current $2.80—a rise of about 17 per cent.

Employers will see their premium rate go to $2.31 for every $100 of insurable earnings paid to workers, or to a maximum of $4.62 from the present $3.92.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras says the change will mean a net reduction in the government share of 1976 benefit payments of $660 million, while the increase in employer-employee costs will be $490 million.

During third-reading debate on the bill Saturday, NDP leader Ed Broadbent said the government had shown itself to be heartless by chopping pensioners from the program.

Three Escape from Millhaven

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Three prisoners described as dangerous escaped from Millhaven institution during a snowstorm Saturday night while wearing reveal layers of white sheets, director John Dowsett said Sunday.

Mr. Dowsett said in an interview the prisoners are Brian J. Copeland, 29, of Toronto, Valentine Leschenko, 34, of Sutton, Que., and Thomas Smith, 37, of London, Ont.

Copeland was serving 30 years in the nearby maximum-security facility for armed robbery and theft. Leschenko, 22 years for robbery and armed robbery, and Smith 25 years for armed robbery and robbery. Police are conducting a province-wide search for the three.

Mr. Dowsett said all three have a record of previous escapes from prison.

The men apparently escaped about 7 p.m. EST by cutting through a barred window, the director said. Provincial police later found a heavy file and heavy-duty wire cutters after searching the area.

Once outside, the men apparently passed between two ground-level guardposts under cover of snow whipped by wind.

Mr. Dowsett said the escapement found by police was not of the type used in the prison.

Prison guards with tracking dogs and area OPP followed a trail from the prison to a trailer camp in the nearby village of Millhaven.

Police said a car reported stolen in the village about the time of the escape was found abandoned early Sunday in Kingston.

Restraints Won't Hurt Proposed Incomes

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's spending restraints will not affect the establishment of a proposed income supplement and income support program, Health Minister Marc Lalonde said in the Commons Saturday.

Mr. Lalonde said he will be meeting with the provinces to work out a formula for the income plan. But it would still be two or three years before any plan can go into action.

To All Our Friends in the Quinte Area...
At this season, all across our country and around the world, people are renewing their faith and trust in the mission and message of the first Christmas – to bring us back to everlasting peace–
Christmas is so deverse . . . one can see and feel and sense it in the exchanging of greetings of families and friends; the turning homeward, the happy expectation of children; the wonderful idea of doing something for someone – Yes, part of the diversity of Christmas, that seems to add to the mystery of the season, is the loneliness for those who are far away – or for those whose life is lonely – the idea of belonging – of the warmth and welcome – the opening of hearts for the whole human family. That's the spirit of Christmas.
So let us give thanks for Christmas and for the gift of faith in the things that remain hidden but which are stronger than that which we can see, touch and hear.
May this Christmas Season renew our trust in its meaning so we may find its peace within us, each day of the New Year.
A HAPPY HOLIDAY SEASON FROM THE MANAGEMENT AND STAFF
McINTOSH BROS. STORES LTD.

Faith will restore the true meaning of Christmas.

Amid all the colored lights and tinsel excitement of the holiday preparations, let us keep in mind the purpose of this joyful occasion and give some thought to the One whose birthday we are preparing to celebrate. Remember that although He lived a very short life span, in an obscure manner, in a sparsely populated area. He did more than all the great rulers of the world combined to change the course of its history. Honor the birthday of the Son of God by attending Christmas services of the Church of your choice.

Merry Christmas

'Tis not the weight of jewel or plate,
Or the fondle of silk and fur;
'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich,
As the gifts of the wise ones were;
And we are not told whose gift was gold
Or whose was the gift of myrrh.

Intelligencer Sports

Belleville Bobcats' Tony Meagher watches eagerly as the puck heads by the outstretched glove hand of St. Michael's goalie, Rick Wilson and into the net. It was Meagher's second goal of the night. Cats earned tie in Toronto Sunday.

Bobcats Settle for 5-5 Tie

TORONTO — The Belleville Bobcats came within a whisker Sunday night of making the St. Michael's Buzzers the victims in Metro Junior B hockey for their fifth straight win League play. The only mistake the Cats made in the final two periods cost them as Frank McCarthy blasted a shot by Belleville netminder, Jeff Merrill.

The goal came with a little better than two minutes remaining in the game and gave the Buzzers a 5-5 tie with Belleville. The Cats had rallied in a strong second period to overcome a 4-2 deficit.

Belleville came on strong in the middle frame and tallied its way to 5-4 lead by the end of the second. Hard hitting tactics by the Cats proved to be their edge, one that was too sharp for the Buzzers to handle.

Three of the Belleville goals came while the St. Michael's team was playing shorthanded. Grant Coegan figured in on four of the Cats' points, netting a goal and three assists.

Tony Meagher also had a productive night for the Cats, firing a pair of markers and adding an assist.

Philie Rogerdon, Ken Matwey, Tim Vince and Ray Keenan each scored once in the first period for the Buzzers with Coegan and Meagher replying for Belleville.

Belleville kept the home club off the scoreboard in the second period with their fast skating, hard hitting style of play. Meagher, Andy Ricketts and Steve Leedham rounded out the scoring for Belleville in the middle frame.

A total of 45 minutes in penalties was handed out by the referee.

Th Cats are now undefeated in their last five games, earning three points on the weekend with a victory Friday night over the Etobicoke Selects. Belleville will be looking for a belated Christmas present Friday, when the Brantford Blues, leaders of the Central Division will be on hand at the Memorial Arena for a 9 p.m. contest.

Summary

FIRST PERIOD

1. St. Michael's — Rogerdon (5:3-), Matwey 2:27.
2. Belleville — Meagher (Palmer) 7:35.
3. St. Michael's — Vince (Matwey) 11:45.
4. Belleville — Coegan (Ricketts) 15:25.

5. Belleville — Meagher (Tilley, Coegan) 11:31.
6. St. Michael's — Stephens (Angelopoulos, Rogerdon) 17:13.
7. Belleville — Keenan (Turner (even checking) 5:56, Ayotte (unassisted) 1:46, Leedham (Ogilvie) 13:19, Crawford (Hopper) 16:46.
St. Michael's — Rogerdon (Matwey) 2:45, Vince (Matwey) 13:39, Carew (Hocking) 19:22.

SECOND PERIOD

7. Belleville — Meagher (Tilley, Coegan) 2:36.
8. Belleville — Ricketts (Coegan) 4:38.
9. Belleville — Leedham (Meagher, Thompson) 16:45.

Bob (Bubba) Thompson of the Belleville Bobcats is in the right spot but unfortunately it isn't the right time as far as St. Michael's goalie, Rick Wilson is concerned. Wilson receives a little bit of clearing help in the form of defenceman Scott Burkart (left) and Frank McCarthy (far right.) The St. Michael's club tied Cats 5-5 in Toronto, Sunday night.

Old Stars Score Exhibition Win

Ceremonies Mark Arena Opening

MARMORA — In spite of Saturday's unfavorable weather, some 500 spectators helped dignitaries make the official re-opening ceremonies for the arena here a very successful occasion.

Clarke Rollins, Hastings-Peterborough MPP turned the switch to illuminate the recreational facilities and later presented a $100 cheque to assist a fund for the installation of a new cement floor in the building.

Referring to the fact that renovations had been carried out instead of building a new arena, Warden Bill McRae commented, "when you can't afford a Cadillac, a Ford will do."

He observed that the plan to reserve existing facilities meant the taxpayers would not be burdened with a large debt.

Chairman of the arena board Gord Bennett expressed satisfaction at the success of the ceremonies which included an exhibition hockey game between Ottawa Old Stars and Marmora-Trent Valley Oldtimers.

The Ottawa club scored an 8-4 victory, led by Jim Oliver's four goals. Rudy Costantini had two goals for the winners who got one each from Andy Rochon and George Green.

Home club marksmen were Doug Rattan, Tom Parsonnik, Jack Kirkland and Jim Rosengren.

The Marmora-Trent Valley team will be taking part in the National Oldtimers Tournament in Lethbridge, Alberta in February.

Keith Brown, of Keith Brown Chrysler, Peterborough was on hand, Saturday to present the team with 75 sweaters and a $300 donation.

Place in Top Ten Means Work For Bay of Quinte Golfer

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Although the snow on the ground does not exactly encourage thoughts of golf, the Ontario Golf Association has issued the official 1975 Junior and Amateur Golf Ratings.

Tenth in the Junior rankings is a name which has become familiar to golf buffs around the Quinte area, Peter Serafimoff. Golfing out of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, Serafimoff was impressive in just about every tourney he participated in.

Winner of the Golden Hawk Junior Golf Tournament, Serafimoff placed third in the CFB Open over the past summer.

However, it was in Windsor that the 15-year-old golfer made a name for himself, coming in second at the Ontario Junior Golf Championships. Serafimoff came in just behind Gerry Sickle (eighth ranked) losing to him in a playoff round. He was ahead of Jeff Harriman, who is ranked number one in Ontario.

It was Serafimoff's father, Guy, who got him started in golfing eight years ago. The elder Serafimoff is quite a golfer, and it seems to have rubbed off.

The second place finish at the Ontario Junior Championships put Serafimoff on the Ontario team, which won the Canadian Junior Championships in Victoria, British Columbia.

"I made the cut, but I don't feel I golfed all that well" said Serafimoff.

According to Serafimoff he wouldn't be anywhere without the help of local golf pros, George Balzan, Bob Halvorsen and Wayne Oates.

"All of them gave me a hand, along with Dr. Hipkin, who helped make it possible to go to the Canadian Championships" Serafimoff added.

The Carruthers-Cialr Tournament in Kingston was Serafimoff's only other tournament action over the summer. He placed fifth there.

"I don't practise as much as I should, and I don't really participate in enough tournaments" he admits.

Next year he moves up to Amateur play, where Gary Cowan of Westmount is the top man in the field. Serafimoff hopes to complete his Grade 13 here in Belleville, and get a golf scholarship from one of the Universities in the United States.

More practice is one of the things Serafimoff plans for next year.

Napanee Falls To Combines

Though Napanee was the opposition Sunday, Belleville Combines didn't really have their minds on the game. They were thinking ahead to their first contest of the new year, when they take on league leading Stirling.

A win January 4, would give the Belleville crew a share of first place. However, they weren't thinking so far ahead that they got behind Sunday and, despite a week's break from regular action, the Combines edged the visitors 3-1.

Sue Morton topped the locals attack with a goal and two assists. She opened the game's scoring in the second period on a play with Judy Nappad and Sue Fobert.

Napanee tied the game up early in the third when Brenda Farrell connected on a play with Pat Wood.

With just under five minutes to go, Rappell tallied what proved to be the winner and 30 seconds later, Fobert potted the insurance marcker.

STIRLING 4, PICTON 0

Jane Bailey put in another two goal performance, but had to take a back seat to Junior goalie Maryanne Fleeter under the spotlight as she earned the shutout.

Other Stirling scorers were Sharon Leonard, Sandra Flemming, Joan Bailey and Sherry Farrell.

QUINTE LADIES HOCKEY LEAGUE STANDINGS

	GP	W	L	T	Pts.

Dukes Bounce Jets

WELLINGTON (Special) — Treating their fans to a top notch effort, Wellington Dukes thrashed off first place Beaucroft Jets 5-1 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior D play here, Sunday.

Dukes got a strong performance from goalie Terry Harrison and a two-goal display by Rick Selman on the way to the impressive win. Mike Lavender was the other marksman for Wellington.

Former Belleville Bobcat Scott Samis was the lone marksman for Jets who got a chance to avenge the defeat when they play host to Dukes, Friday night.

Oshawa Can't Match Jim's

"Better late than never" is the adage used by many sports fans, and it could well have applied to Sunday night's OMHA encounter between Jim's Juveniles and Oshawa. The Oshawa squad was the 45 minutes late for the contest, which Belleville beat by a 3-1 score.

All of the local scoring came in the first period, as Marty Lowry put the puck between Oshawa goalie Terry Greenleg and the goal post. The goal was set up by Tony Bennett as Oshawa's defence appeared to be slack on the play.

The winning goal came at 9:2 of the first period, as Gord Male, scored on a pass from Jeff Clarke, while Scotty Skelly also gained an assist on the play.

The only Oshawa goal came from Ian Cullen, at 12:46 of the third period.

Hard hitting was the highlight of the game, as both teams were taking runs at each other. Impressive also the boards were Gary Thompson of Belleville and Bob Sklar of Oshawa.

The win for Belleville was its third straight over Oshawa, as the team prepares for the New Year's Day encounter with the Swedes, at the Memorial Arena.

Priming for Tourney

Belleville Mcinroy-Maines appear well prepared for the Kingston Township Minor Bantam Tournament on Tuesday. The local club dumped the visiting 70 team, best club for the event, 7-3 in Quinte Minor hockey Association action Sunday.

Belleville scorched a 4-0 lead before Kingston got on the scoreboard. John Broder led the charge with two goals and two assists. Jamie Robertson scored once and collected three assists and Steve Slaughter scored twice. Greg Horwood and Tony Parks added singles.

The local club faces Kingston City Council at 8 a.m. Tuesday. Their second game, pending victory, is at 1:30 p.m. or 12:40 p.m. and the two championship teams are slated for 6:40 p.m. (A) and 5:30 p.m. (B).

Kingston city fell prey to the high flying Belleville Dicks Loos on Sunday. Dicks' Marcel Bonneville tripled a pair of goals to lead the local minor peewee team to a 3-1 victory. Russ Gilmore, Jim Ussa, Bob Kearney and David Cook each had assists.

For Belleville Dicks Major Midgets, the OMHA trail was cool soar. After getting off to their best start ever, the Lions dropped a pair of weekend encounters with Peterborough, 6-1 and 5-2.

Paul Celebrates Return to Action

John Paul made a deep impression, not only with his own play, but with the help he was on the weekend as he returned to Belleville Recreational League action. Golden Mile's leading goal scorer last season, Paul made his debut a smash as he potted the only goal of the game and the Paul Insurant crew nipped first place A and B Drive-In Insurant.

In other BRL games, Belleville Radiator Service blanked Bancroft Sports Centre 5-0 and Northern Electric handed Belleville Yardmen a 1-0 setback.

Paul's goal came late in the second half on a breakaway and was just enough to give Gary Loves the shutout victory. The Golden Mile netminder hasn't been scored upon in the goalies race with a 1.1 goals against average.

The win moved Golden Mile two points back of A and J's, now tied with Belleville Radiator Service. The two first place teams are tied with 15 points and identical 7-3-1 records.

Paul's marker not only gave Golden Mile the win, but gave BRS the opportunity to catch A and J's in the standings.

Alex Dundas scored his second place in the league's scoring race with two goals and an assist to lead the Radiator Team. Andy Priddles also tallied twice and Richard Belch added the fifth. Joel Tredrea scored the other.

Belleville Yardmen suffered their second consecutive 1-0 defeat. Kevin Kirby scored the game's only goal and Bob Stewart was between Northern's pipes to collect the shutout.

Caps Give Sabres New Life

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

There's nothing like an evening with Washington Capitals to restore the health of a struggling National Hockey League team.

Buffalo Sabres have been floundering after opening the season with eight wins in a row but the woeful Washington defeat was just the tonic they needed.

The Sabres humiliated the Capitals 14-2 Sunday night, selling one NHL and one team record and tying two other league records in the process. They put 28 assists together with their club-record 14 goals for 66 points, eclipsing the 57 produced by Detroit Red Wings in 1944 and Toronto Maple Leafs in 1947.

Their eight goals and 23 points in the third period gave them a share of two league records. Four other teams have scored that many goals in a single period but only the 1971-72 New York Rangers have managed that many points in a period.

"I feel sorry for Washington, having to take our frustrations on them, but it's nice to see when your club is firing," said Buffalo coach Floyd Smith.

The Sabres, who had only two wins and three ties to show for their last 10 games before Sunday night, broke a tie with Boston Bruins for the Adams Division lead by beating the Capitals.

In Sunday's other NHL games, Philadelphia Flyers bounced St. Louis Blues 8-2, New York Rangers blanked Minnesota North Stars 7-0, Chicago Black Hawks stopped New York Islanders 5-2, Atlanta Flames edged Boston 3-1 and Montreal Canadiens shaded California Golden Seals 7-1.

On Saturday, Pittsburgh Penguins tripped Los Angeles Kings 5-1, New York Islanders swamped St. Louis 7-1, Montreal tied Vancouver Canucks 3-3, Minnesota stopped Detroit Red Wings 5-3, Toronto Maple Leafs beat Kansas City Scouts 5-1 and Boston defeated Buffalo 5-3.

What playing Washington did for the Sabres, pitching Wilgus seems to have done for Buffalo's Rick Martin.

Martin scored four goals with five shots and assisted on another goal against Washington to bring his totals in the three games since he moved from left to right wing to seven goals and four assists.

"I can see the whole play open up, the ice, he says. "My head tells me the board side now, and not too many guys come at you from the boards."

Fred Stanfield had three goals and two assists, Danny Gare a goal and four assists and Gilles Perreault and Don Luce two goals and two assists each as the Sabres outshot the Capitals 59-18.

Bill Barber got two goals and three assists in the Flyers' victory over the Blues, but Philadelphia coach Fred Shero wasn't satisfied.

"He had a good night, because we had a talk with him," Shero said. "He could be even better."

Reggie Leach added two goals and two assists for the Flyers, bringing his goal total to 23 for the season and 14 for Philadelphia's last dozen games.

The win increased the Flyers lead over the Islanders to seven points in the Patrick Division standings.

Goalie John Davidson stopped 19 shots as the Rangers beat the Stars on goals by Steve Vickers and Billy Fairbairn to snap a three-game losing streak.

HAWKS ON SPREE

The Black Hawks had a third-period scoring spree of their own, scoring five times in overcome 2-0 Islander lead.

Fighting Saints Stop Jets Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Fighting Saints forced Winnipeg Jets out of coach Bobby Kromm's game plan and it paid off in a 3-1 victory in one of four World Hockey Association games Sunday.

The Saints forechecked the Jets strongly, forcing them into the costly Pipes of errors that Kromm had been working to eliminate. At the same time the Saints cut the Jets' scoring chances to one of their lowest points of the season to hand Winnipeg its latest consecutive loss.

In other games Sunday, Edmonton Oilers played give-away and handed Toronto Toros a 4-2 verdict, San Diego Mariners defeated Houston Aeros 3-1 and Cincinnati Stingers outfinessed Quebec Nordiques 11-7. The Phoenix at Indianapolis game was postponed because the Roadrunners' equipment failed to arrive in time.

Saturday night Minnesota handed Winnipeg its worse loss of the season, 6-3, Quebec Nordiques outscored Calgary Cowboys 8-7, Cincinnati Stingers edged New England Whalers 4-3, Cleveland Crusaders defeated Indianapolis Racers 5-3 and Houston beat Phoenix 4-3.

In tonight's only scheduled game, New England is at Cleveland.

"They forced us in our own zone, as they did last night, and forced us to make mistakes in our end," Winnipeg goaltender Joe Daley said after the Minnesota victory. "They got some pretty good scoring chances and they eliminated some of ours.

Dave Keon scored twice for the Fighting Saints and Fran Huck got the other. Bobby Hull got Winnipeg's only goal to give them a brief 1-1 tie in the first period.

The Jets managed only 20 shots on goal, one of their lowest totals this season and Kromm said it could partly be blamed on the schedule.

"We didn't dump the puck in and go after it," he said. "But when you're tired it's tough to keep going after it.

"I'm not taking anything away from the Saints but they've been sitting at home for six or seven games. If we had done that we'd come out flying but we've had a brutal schedule."

It was the Jets' fifth game in seven days, the first four on the road.

As the same time, the Jets' coach was critical of the officiating in the game that became roughly and at one point threatened to erupt into a stick-swinging episode between Minnesota's Bill Butters and the fans.

Kromm said the officials have been letting the Saints get away with too many "cheap penalties" in the last two nights. The most-penalized team in the WHA with more than 600 minutes in penalties, the Saints added 46 minutes Sunday, 23 in the opening period.

"It shouldn't be 600 minutes, it should be 1,000" Kromm said of the Minnesota total.

The loss left Winnipeg with a one-point edge on Quebec and the Canadian division.

In Edmonton, 8,285 fans watched in disbelief as the Oilers controlled the game for 30 minutes but blew at least a dozen good scoring chances and found themselves holding a narrow 3-1 lead on goals by Bruce MacGregor and Mike Rogers.

Then came the collapse as goaltender Chris Worthy allowed two easy goals. defenseman Kerry Ketter gave away the puck for a third Toronto goal and Edmonton capital Al Hamilton was caught looking at the clock as the Toros struck for their fourth goal with eight seconds left in the second period.

The Toronto goals were scored by Gavin Kirk, Richard Lemieux, Bill Nahrgang and Gary Jacques.

The Oilers were no threat in the final period as the Toros took command and forced Worthy to make a number of outstanding saves to keep the score down.

Toronto was playing without coach Bobby Baun behind the bench. Baun has apparently taken a leave of absence from the team. Former coach Billy Harris took a leave of absence from the Toros last season and never returned.

Toronto outshot Edmonton 36-28 and moved to within nine points of the fourth-place Oilers.

The Nordiques were prevented by moving into first place in the Canadian division when they lost a shooting match in Cincinnati. Playing in their second high-scoring contest in as many nights, the Nordiques ran out of steam as the Stingers blasted seven goals in the second period and three more in the third past goaltenders Richard Brodeur and Michel Deguise.

Bryan Campbell had two goals and four assists, all but two assists coming during the record breaking 10-goal second period. The previous WHA one-period goal-scoring record was nine goals.

Newcomer Murray Myers had three goals for Cincinnati, the first Stinger to score three times in a game. Pierre Guite and Ron Plumb scoring two each. Rick Dudley and Claude Larose added the final two goals.

"I'm on cloud nine," said Myers who has played in only 11 games. "I don't know how else to say it."

Quebec goals were scored by Chris Bordeleau and Renald Leclerc with two each. Michel Parizeau, Real Cloutier and Marc Tardif, with his 33rd of the season.

"We simply played poor defence," said Quebec coach Jean Guy Gendron. "There was no reason at all I guess we just didn't have it tonight."

Jan Dlugo gave up the opening goal of the game to Andre Hinse in the second period but came back with three straight before 5,357 fans. Norm Ferguson tied the score six minutes later. Hicks' goal and Don Blasgess made it 3-1 more the period ended.

Jim Norris scored the only goal in the third period.

San Diego outshot Houston 36-29 and each club took two minutes penalties in the steadily played, wide-open contest.

SCORES 2,000th POINT

OAKLAND (AP) — George Blanda, 48-year-old place kicker for Oakland Raiders, scored the 2,000th point of his professional football career Sunday when he kicked a second-quarter extra point against Kansas City Chiefs. Blanda, who broke into the National Football League 25 years ago became the first player in pro football history to reach 2,000 points. No other player is within 600 points of him.

Platers Unbeaten In 14

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Platers scored three unanswered third-period goals to defeat Welland Jokers 5-3 in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League action Sunday.

In another league game, Niagara Falls Flyers defeated Owen Sound Greys 5-4. The Flyers and the Marrons played to a 3-3 tie Saturday in Chatham. Guelph is at Hamilton tonight.

At Welland on Sunday, the Jokers were tied for after the first period but the Sabres built a 3-1 edge going into the third.

Terry Gregory, Dan McCaffrey, Mike Yonarack, Kevin Ralahan and Xens Fortin scored for Guelph, another two for Welland.

Terry Thompson, John Harris and Mark Tuyonnet replied for Welland before the game.

The win extended Guelph's unbeaten streak to 14 games.

At Owen Sound, the Flyers rallied for three unanswered goals in the final 18 minutes of play to defeat the Greys.

It was the win of the season for the last-place Flyers.

The teams tied 1-1 at the end of the first period but the Greys got a 3-2 lead at the end of the second.

Mark Mosley scored the winning goal on a power play at 17:33 of the third period. Barry McCourt, Gary Sadelfo, Larry Loudon and Graham Snyder added one goal apiece for Niagara Falls.

Ross Smith, Brad Underwood, Mike Hassen and Terry Agnew scored for Owen Sound.

Cinderella Colts Make It

By BRUCE LOWITT
The Associated Press

Of all the teams in the American Football Conference East, the best likely to finish first this year was Baltimore Colts.

After all, a team that finished the previous season tied for the National Football League's worst record at 2-12 should have to go through a lot of rebuilding.

Instead, the Colts pulled themselves together in a hurry.

With rookie coach Ted Marchibroda in charge, they proceeded to hammer apart everything in sight, reeling off nine successive victories, to climax an amazing season that saw them the East Division title and a berth in the NFL playoffs.

"It's a good feeling to know that you've come all the way from last to first," said Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones after the Colts capped their surprising season Sunday afternoon by trouncing the New England Patriots 34-21.

"That's what I'll remember about this year—and the fact that it brought 53 men very close together."

The Colts came from behind three times to beat the stubborn Patriots, taking the lead for good as an 11-yard touchdown run by Lydell Mitchell with 6:19 to play.

They added the clincher 46 seconds later on Nelson Munsey's 39-yard touchdown run with one of Baltimore's five interceptions of the game, one of those touchdowns and ran for another.

In Sunday's other key game, Cincinnati Bengals stomped San Diego Chargers 47-17 to clinch the AFC wild-card as the conference's fourth playoff team.

In Sunday's other games, St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit Lions 26-13, Dallas Cowboys downed New York Jets 31-21, Oakland Raiders defeated Kansas City Chiefs 28-20, Philadelphia Eagles upset Washington Redskins 28-3, Green Bay Packers beat Atlanta Falcons 23-13, Houston Oilers whipped Cleveland Cavaliers 31-20, Chicago Bears crushed New Orleans Saints 42-17 and New York Giants nosed out San Francisco 49ers 26-23.

On Saturday, Miami Dolphins edged Denver Broncos 14-13, Minnesota Vikings mauled Buffalo Bills 35-13 and Los Angeles Rams beat Pittsburgh Steelers 18-3.

With the AFC East title in the bag, the Colts host Miami Dolphins next Saturday to play the powerful Steelers, last season's Super Bowl champions.

Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson passed for three touchdowns and ran for one as he got the Bengals off to an insurmountable 41-16 first-half lead against the Chargers.

The Bengals open their playoffs Sunday in Oakland against the Raiders champions of the West Division.

Robert Newhouse rushed for 121 yards and a touchdown as Dallas, the NFC wild-card club, prepared for its playoff opener next Sunday in Minnesota against the Vikings, champions of the Central Division.

Pete Banaszak ran for touchdowns of one, three and five yards and George Blanda added his career scoring total to 2,002 points as the Raiders whipped Kansas City.

Quarterback Joe Lavender's 36-yard interception return for a touchdown and linebacker Frank LeMaster's 89-yard scoring run with another theft carried Philadelphia over the Redskins.

Epic Tarkenton a five-yard touchdown run following a 61-yard interception return by Jerry Smith lifted the Packers into the lead in the second quarter and sparked them past Atlanta.

Dan Pastorini's 79-yard touchdown bomb to Ken Burrough and two-yard scoring runs by Hardeman and Ronnie Coleman led the Oilers. 10-6, over Cleveland for their best season since 1967.

Rookie quarterback Bob Avellini ran for one touchdown and passed to Greg Latta for three more covering 13, five and 20 yards as Chicago routed the Saints.

Larry Watkins' one-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter following a pass interference call against Sam Price gave cornerback Nat Allen gave the Giants their victory.

Earl Morrall came off the bench to lead two second-half touchdown drives that carried Miami past Denver. Despite the victory, the Dolphins fell out of the playoffs for the first time in five years.

Fran Tarkenton threw his 280th and 281st career touchdown passes to surpass John Unitas' NFL record and Chuck Foreman scored four touchdowns—two on the passes and two on short runs—to lead Minnesota over the Bills.

Foreman's four touchdowns gave him 22 for the year—tied Buffalo's O.J. Simpson yet to make it 23 on the season, shattering Gale Sayers' NFL record.

Reserve quarterback Ron Jaworski's five-yard run for a fourth-period touchdown gave Los Angeles its victory and snapped Pittsburgh's 11-game winning streak.

JOHNSON RETIRES

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson of Denver Broncos announced Saturday his retirement as a player, ending a 15-year National Football League career. Johnson said he plans to remain associated with professional football, beginning early next year as a scout for the Broncos. Johnson completed 1,737 passes for 24,629 yards and 176 touchdowns in his pro career.

Liverpool in Front

LONDON (Reuter) — Liverpool climbed Queen's Park Rangers atop the First Division standings by beating Rangers 3-0 Saturday in an English League soccer game.

Liverpool, with 30 points, has a goal-average advantage over Manchester United and Derby County, with Queen's Park, Leeds United and West Ham United at 28 points each.

The last soccer Saturday before Christmas was a bad one for both division leaders and referees.

In addition to Queen's Park Rangers, Sunderland, the Second Division leaders, and Crystal Palace, the long-time Third Division leaders, were also beaten.

Sunderland was left with only a goal-average lead over Bolton Wanderers after a 1-0 loss at Chelsea.

Crystal Palace was beaten away from home for the first time this season, losing 3-1 to Millwall. They still have a six-point edge over Hereford United and Peterborough United.

Two referees were unable to finish their games. Ray Tinkler was carried off with a leg injury after 55 minutes of a Manchester-Orient match and the senior linesmen took charge.

In a Third Division game between Brighton & Hove Albion and Peterborough United, referee Donald Biddle limped off with leg trouble in the sixth minute of a 2-1 tie.

At Portsmouth linesman Gerry Culver was taken ill and had to be replaced during a Second Division game with York.

Three players were sent off—defender John McAlle of Wolverhampton Wanderers in a First Division game at Manchester City's ground, and defender Clive Wigginton of Scunthorpe and forward Ian Lawther of Stockport in a Fourth Division match at Southampton.

Liverpool, which managed only two points in its three previous away games, got goals from John Toshack and Phil Neal against the Rangers. Neal scored from the penalty spot.

A goal in injury time by Gordon Hill gave Manchester United a 1-0 win over Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Derby County struggled to defeat last-place Sheffield United 3-2. Derby missed a first-minute penalty and Sheffield stayed in the game in the last 30 minutes on a pair of long-range goals by Tony Woodward.

Allan Clarke scored his 100th league goal for Leeds United in a 1-0 win over Aston Villa. Billy Bonds's 66 all West Ham United's scoring in a 3-1 win over Stoke City.

Paul Bayer scored twice in five minutes to give Norwich City a 2-0 victory over Wolverhampton City, which had been unbeaten in 10 games.

John Radford, back with Arsenal for the first time in three months, got a goal in the 88th minute for a 1-0 win over Sheffield United before 18,428 spectators, smallest crowd of the season for Arsenal.

Ian Britton got Chelsea's goal against Sunderland, but teammate Ron Harris was booked for his 80th league appearance and Wednesday's goal in the 80th minute gave Bolton a 4-3-2 win over Bristol City.

In the Premier Division of the Scottish League, Celtic took the lead with 23 points by beating Hibernian 3-1 on goals by Dixie Deans, Johnstone, Edvaldsson and Jackie McNamara.

Celtic now has a two-point lead over Hibernian and Rangers, who edged Motherwell 4-3-2-1 with the help of two goals from Derek Johnstone.

Bears Move Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two wins by Scuttle Falls Bears during the weekend brought them first two points behind second-place Gloucester Rangers who don't manage to pick up a point in two games.

The Bears beat the league leading Rockland Nationals 5-1 Friday and edged Nepean 4-3 Sunday.

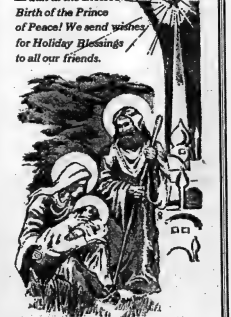
Gloucester lost to Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-1 Friday and were trounced by the Nationals Sunday.

The Nationals now are in first place by 18 points.

Brockville Warriors edged ahead of Nepean to fourth place in the standings. Brockville tied Nepean 1-1 Friday and tied Pembroke 4-4 Sunday.

The wide-open game Sunday between the Nationals and the Gloucester Rangers saw five Rockland players—Steve Washington, Norm Brcebois, Bill Orr, Randy Burman and Jean Thibodeau—score two goals apiece.

The Rangers' high-flying Louis Lortie picked up two in that game.



Exult at the Blessed. Birth of the Prince of Peace! We send wishes for Holiday Blessings to all our friends.

Reserve Clause Under Pressure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pitcher Andy Messersmith of baseball's Los Angeles Dodgers will be declared a free agent early next week in his arbitration appeal, the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reported in its late Sunday edition.

Messersmith won 19 games last season while playing without a contract under the renewal clause invoked by the Dodgers.

A ruling in Messersmith's favor by Peter Seitz, the neutral arbitrator who heard the case early this month, would strike a big blow against baseball's reserve clause. Baseball management has long regarded the clause as the foundation of the game.

Messersmith and his adviser, Herb Osmond, said Lee National League pitcher became a free agent at the end of this season, while baseball and the Dodgers said that he could again be retained under the renewal clause.

Seitz was the arbitrator who declared former Oakland A's pitcher Catfish Hunter a free agent last winter. But Messersmith's case is entirely different since the ruling in Hunter's case was based on the failure of A's owner Charlie Finley to live up to a clause in Hunter's contract concerning deferred payments.

Dodger vice-president in charge of public relations Fred Claire said the club had no comment on the Herald-Examiner.

In New York, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, said:

"I can only tell you that the arbitration panel will be meeting Tuesday in New York.

"Officially, we have taken no action."

CASE TAKES TITLE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Ross Case scored 9-3, 9-1 victory Sunday over John Marks, a fellow Australian, in the final of the New South Wales tennis championship. Evonne Goolagong captured the women's singles final, beating Sue Barker of Britain 6-3, 6-4.

RECORD LIFT

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Hristo Plechkov of Bulgaria bettered his own world record of 422.80 pounds by snatching 425.40 pounds in the over 242-pound category at a local weightlifting competition Saturday at Sevlievo, Bulgaria, the BTA news agency reported.

Borg Leads Swedes to Davis Cup

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Bjorn Borg was the toast of Sweden today after the Swedes won their first Davis Cup in history.

Borg, who gave Sweden a 3-2 victory over Czechoslovakia on Sunday, is the world's most successful tennis player this year, but the 19-year-old will not be ranked No. 1 in 1975.

Most experts will probably put Arthur Ashe of the United States, Ashe won at Wimbledon and took the World Championship of Tennis (WCT) title in Dallas.

Borg won only one major individual event—the French Open crown in Paris for the second successive year. But he compiled a record in other big tournaments that no other star could match this year.

The young Swede was runner-up at the WCT playoffs and the Masters, reached the quarterfinals in both the Italian Championships and Wimbledon, the semi-finals in the U.S. Open and then finally helped Sweden to become only the sixth nation to win the Davis Cup—the symbol of international team tennis supremacy.

His Rumanian, Romania's Masters winner and coach of the Swedish Davis Cup team, says he rates Ashe the year's top player.

So does Jan Kodes, the former Wimbledon champ and two-time U.S. Open finalist, who was crushed by Borg, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, Sunday giving Sweden an unbeatable 3-1 lead over the Czechs in the 5rd world final.

For Borg, it was the first major success in his former home town. He now lives in Monte Carlo.

"But my big goals are Wimbledon and the U.S. Open," he said. "I said, 'I'd like to win at least three tournaments next year.'

Other members of the winning Swedish Davis Cup team were Ove Bengtson, Birger Andersson and Ralf Norberg.

In all, Borg has played 26 Davis Cup singles matches and won 23, including a record 12 successive wins this year.

"This was the greatest moment in my life," he said. "I have always dreamt of winning one of these tournaments next year."

Flyers Blank Napanee 4-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Barrie Flyers scored two unanswered goals in both the first and third periods Sunday to defeat Napanee Canucks 4-0 in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action.

Barrie goaltender Grant Cole returned to regular league play after starring for Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Major Junior A series in their 5-3 exhibition victory over Moscow Selects on Thursday.

In other weekend action, Thunder Bay Twins picked up eight points by winning both games of their weekend road trip. The Twins downed Orillia Terriers 9-5 on Sunday and edged Whitby Warriers 5-4 on Saturday.

The only other game scheduled for Saturday—Lindsay at Cambridge—was postponed due to bad weather.

At Napanee, Don Pasquali, Jack Smith, Doug Acomb and Gary Lyte scored for the Flyers, who outshot the Comets 25-7 Sunday before 425 spectators.

Barrie's Bob Monteith was ejected from the game in the third period for spearing John Hartwick of Napanee.

League play resumes tonight with Orillia at Lindsay.

Things Look Up For Canadians

SCHLADMING, Austria (CP) — The Canadian men's ski team bowed home during the weekend for a Christmas break, buoyed by a second downhill victory that has stamped it as a genuine contender in World Cup and Olympic competition.

"This has to be the most beautiful day of my life," said Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., after he won Saturday's downhill race by almost two seconds over Austrian Klaus Eberhard with downhill champion Franz Klammer of Austria placing fourth.

It was the first win ever for Irwin, 25, in his third season of World Cup competition. And it was only the second win ever by a Canadian man in this level of competition, Ken Read of Calgary scored the first win two weeks ago in the first downhill of the season at Val D'Isere, France.

"I told you that the Canadian team would win more races," said Irwin. "It is only the beginning."

"Right now I'm very anxious to be back in Canada with my family and rest for a few days."

Back home in Thunder Bay, where his father owns a ski resort and where Dave started skiing at the age of three, he will prepare for the next leg of World Cup competition which starts with a downhill Jan. 4 at Germany.

Also in the minds of Irwin and his teammates is the prospect of a gold medal at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck next February, a prospect that appears much brighter since the victories by Read and Irwin.

"Innsbruck is a big goal for me," said David Murray of Montreal, B.C., who finished seventh in Saturday's downhill with a time of 2:02.06, 5th best result so far in World Cup.

"My turn will come one day," said Murray.

The Canadian skiers, who've been concentrating on the downhill, passed up Sunday's slalom race won by Hans Hinterseer of Austria.

Babies Die

LONDON (Reuter) — More British babies die of winter ailments because of poverty and inadequate heating than infants in other northern European countries, says a report published today.

"These countries have higher quality health care services for young children," child health experts Margaret and Arthur Wynn said in the report.

Britain's infant mortality rate, one of the world's lowest stood at 18.3 per thousand in 1973, mainly because of seasonal deaths of babies. This compared with the Finnish rate of 10 per thousand and the French rate of 14.8, both for 1973.

Mechanics Ratify Contract

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Striking United Airlines mechanics overwhelmingly ratified a new contract Sunday to end their two-week strike, clearing the way for the United States' largest domestic air carrier to recruit full service, a union spokesman said.

Monty Chavez, secretary of District 141, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said the national vote was 79 per cent in favor of the contract.

The final vote tally was not immediately available, but the vote from Chavez' district—the union's largest with about 7,500 of the union's 17,000 members—was 2,353 to 1,832 in favor of ratification.

Chavez said about 2,000 mechanics in Chicago voted to approve the pact by a 75-per-cent majority.

United said last week that if the contract were ratified Sunday, 75 per cent of the airline's flights could be resumed today and 92 per cent by Tuesday. The full schedule would be restored by Wednesday.

There was no immediate word from the airline.

Answer Is Yes

JERUSALEM (AP) — Must an Orthodox Jew listen to a woman singing on the radio? The answer is yes, but only if he does not know her personally, says Israel's chief rabbi. Some religious authorities say that a woman's voice can turn one's thoughts away from spiritual. Rabbi Ovadiah Yosef said in a radio broadcast Saturday. But if a man has never met the singer, there is little danger of his being seduced.

Claims Illegal Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — Lorne Nystrom (NDP — Yorkton-Melville) said Saturday that Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has confirmed that buckwheat from the United States is being stored illegally in grain elevators in Manitoba. He said during the Commons question period that the minister sent a letter to New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent to that effect, adding that the matter has been referred to the Canadian Grain Commission and the said he had yet to receive a re transport department. However, part from the grain commis- Transport Minister Otto Lang sion.

Despite Slow Economy Snowmobiles Sell Well

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Support for snowmobiling continued to grow more than a decade later in large numbers.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicates that snowmobile sales in Canada are generally holding their own or improving despite a slow economy.

"It looks pretty good this year," said one Hamilton dealer. "There seems to be more money around."

One of the reasons for the growth in snowmobiling has been an increase in the number of trails operated by government and private organizations.

The trails have opened up large areas of the country which previously were accessable only to those willing to blaze their own trails. Often they were chased off by irate farmers whose fences they either went around or through in search of open spaces.

Another reason is racing. The calibre of snowmobile racing varies from local weekend gatherings to international events drawing professional drivers and manufacturers.

In Ontario, for instance, the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation has sanctioned six major and 14 minor races. Drivers will be competing for points that will enable them to enter the North American championship March 6-7 at Inwood, Mich., which will draw top drivers from the 18 recognized snowmobile racing associations in North America.

The first major race of the season in Ontario is the Kawartha Cup slated for Peterborough Jan. 4-5. Last year, the race attracted about 1,200 drivers and more than 100,000 fans. Purses this year total $13,000.

However, one factor that is taking some of the rosy-cheeked enthusiasm out of snowmobiling has been the increasing number of injuries and fatalities.

Snowmobile clubs and other private organizations have reacted by promoting safety programs.

Meanwhile, all provinces except Newfoundland have enacted snowmobile legislation which requires that snowmobiles be registered if they are operated on public land. Fees range from $5 to $15 annually, although in British Columbia the $5 registration fee serves for the life of the vehicle.

Other provincial regulations vary but most set a minimum age limit for snowmobile drivers ranging from 12 to 16 years. Some provinces require that drivers and passengers wear helmets while others require that vehicles be insured.

All 10 provinces have legislation banning snowmobiles from public roadways except in special circumstances.

The reason is obvious. During the 1973-74 winter season, 25 of the 32 snowmobilers killed in Ontario died on highways. Most other fatalities occurred on lakes and rivers.

Noise levels are governed by regulations set down by the federal ministry of transport. However, many communities have banned the operation of snowmobiles within their boundaries.

In Saskatchewan, snowmobiles are permitted to be operated within 100 feet of a dwelling not owned by the operator without permission of the owner between the hours of midnight and 7 a.m.

— Helen Bordeaux, 83, pulls a Volkswagen nine feet Thursday, by her teeth. Mrs. Bordeaux said she created the stunt in 1918, but had not done it in years. She was a stunt woman in Hollywood in the 1920s and had done diving stunts from a 70-foot tower in Palisades, N.J. "I didn't think I could do it," she said after today's experiment.

Officers End Revolt Against Isabel Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine air force announced early today that rightist air officers have ended their revolt against President Isabel Peron after four days.

Spokesmen for the rebels could not be reached for confirmation.

A brief air force communique said that as of 2:15 a.m. the rebels holding Moron air base, 20 miles west of here, and Buenos Aires airport have again answer to their natural commanders."

The communique named a new commander for the 7th Air Brigade at Moron.

Earlier, the rebels, led by 53-year-old Brig. Orlando Jesus Capellini, said they would not surrender until Mrs. Peron stepped "down as president. They issued a communique saying: "The air force invites the people to the burial of the corrupt government of Isabel Peron. We will not surrender."

Another rebel communique said: "Faced with the alternative of armed repression, who will our comrades repress; Her comrades of the air force who will give their lives to save the country, or the crime, the immorality and the corruption of a government that shames us before the world?"

The rebels, described as ultra-rightist Roman Catholic nationalists, demanded the appointment of the army chief, Gen. Jorge Videla, as president. Videla rejected the proposal, saying he supports the constitution. But he indicated the military would welcome a resignation by Mrs. Peron.

Political observers generally agreed that Mrs. Peron's position has been weakened still more.

The General Labor Confederation, the backbone of Peronism, called for a general strike to support the 44-year-old president.

Waves of government jets pounded the rebel-held Moron base Saturday but there were no casualties. The rebel officers threatened to bomb the government headquarters in Buenos Aires, in retaliation, but the threat was not carried out.

The revolt came after six months of increasing pressure for Mrs. Peron's resignation resulting from her government's inability to cope with the country's grave economic situation, political terrorism and dissent within the Peronist movement. Her position has been made more precarious recently by charges of corruption against both herself and some of her closest aides.

Vietnam Refugees Are Safe Now

TORONTO (CP) — The 16 members of Hai Long Phan's family will spend their first Christmas in Canada giving thanks that they are safe and together.

Last year, Mr. and Mrs. Phan, their two sons and Mrs. Phan's parents, brothers and sisters were living comfortably in two large expensive homes in Vietnam.

The Phans are among 6,000 refugees who came to Canada during the fighting in Vietnam and Cambodia.

Mr. Phan, 38, a laboratory technician at a sugar refinery in Oshawa, says he hopes that someday he will have a house and car again.

There are many different Christmas traditions in Canada, says Mrs. Phan. She says she is startled by the lavish Christmas toy displays in Toronto stores

Paperworkers Reject Return To Work Appeal by Premiers

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU) in New Brunswick have rejected the joint appeal of Premier Richard Hatfield and Nova Scotia Premier Gerald Regan for an immediate return to work.

"I'm rejecting the premiers' appeal completely," said Victor McLean, president of CPU Local 601 in Saint John.

Mr. McLean said his local is waiting to see what happens in the settlement between the CPU and Irving Pulp and Paper at Saint John. The settlement of 22.8-per-cent increase in the first year of a two-year contract was rejected Thursday by the federal anti-inflation board. The board said 12 per cent over one year would be the maximum allowable increase.

In a joint statement Friday, premiers Hatfield and Regan called on the striking pulp and paper workers and companies in their provinces to accept the decision of the anti-inflation board for a period of three months.

The premiers' joint statement said an immediate resumption of work was necessary if a serious threat to the overall economy of the region was to be avoided.

Paul Young of Fredericton, national representative of the CPU, said Saturday the union plans to appeal the anti-inflation board's ruling.

He said the Irving agreement was a fair one, which put pulp and paper workers in line with the lumber industry.

Ouellet Still Urges Sugar Case Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Annoyed by the failure of federal prosecutors to win a price-fixing conviction against three major sugar companies, Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet has renewed his call for an appeal against the judge's decision.

"Maybe we don't have a good judge," he said in the Commons on Saturday, "but that does not prevent him from making justice."

This was Mr. Ouellet's response to a demand by James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) that Prime Minister Trudeau repudiate the minister's remarks about the court's decision Friday.

Mr. Ouellet said then that it was "a complete disgrace" and "completely unacceptable."

Redpath Industries Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd., the latter charged jointly with Silver Refineries Ltd., were charged with conspiring to fix prices and restrict competition in the sugar market between 1960 and 1972.

Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay of the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench in Montreal ruled that federal prosecutors had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the companies were guilty.

The trial lasted 16 months and heard testimony from more than 60 witnesses from Europe, India, South Africa and the United States as well as Ottawa and Montreal.

After Mr. Ouellet suggested Saturday he doubted Mr. Justice Mackay's competence, Mr. McGrath asked Justice Minister Ron Basford whether he agreed the judge was "somewhat less than competent." Would Mr. Basford repudiate the "unprecedented and reprehensible attack?"

The justice minister said the judge obviously acted according to his view of the law and that the possibility of an appeal is being studied.

He said he had not intended his remarks about the court decision to be interpreted as a personal attack on Mr. Justice Mackay.

"If this is the impression that I gave . . . I regret it and I am sorry," Mr. Ouellet said. "I am pleased to see that Mr. McGrath has tried to put an interpretation on my remarks that I did not wish to give."

Stanfield Questions Liberal Austerity Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says "the great national economic party is over" and Canadians are concerned about the Liberal federal government's ability to make its austerity program work.

"This concern, to me, has two basic elements at its roots: the government's credibility and the government's sincerity," Mr. Stanfield said in a statement prepared Friday for delivery Sunday night on CBC-TV's program The Nation's Business.

Mr. Stanfield said he, Canadians and the auditor-general all know the government is guilty of wasteful and inefficient spending.

"When the government's own house is in that kind of shape . . . when the government won't even acknowledge that its operations are in that kind of shape . . . and at the same time it says that one of the few places it can save a substantial amount of money is in family allowances, I think it undermines its credibility and makes a mockery of sincerity," Mr. Stanfield said.

Wagner Suffers Nervous Shock

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Progressive Conservative leadership candidate Claude Wagner will rest a few days after an automobile accident Saturday which left him in nervous shock and with cuts to the face.

Mr. Wagner spent the night in Ste. Marie Hospital in Trois-Rivieres after the front end of the Lincoln Continental in which he was a passenger was crushed in a collision with a light truck.

Both drivers and Andre Bellefeuille, secretary to Mr. Wagner, suffered minor injuries in the accident in nearby Acton Vale, 50 miles east of Montreal.

Although Mr. Wagner kept a speaking engagement with Trois-Rivieres leadership convention delegates Saturday afternoon, he cancelled a Sunday appointment with Baie Comeau delegates. He had been unable to meet the delegates last week because of bad weather.

After doctors said his injuries included a minor concussion, Mr. Wagner decided to take a rest before pursuing his campaign to replace outgoing chief Robert Stanfield at a February party convention.

Workers Offered 30.5 Per Cent

THOROLD, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Paper Co. Ltd. offered its 900 workers—most members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU)—a contract settlement Saturday which would increase wages by 30.5 per cent in a three-year agreement, a company spokesman said Sunday.

Robert Prince, company vice-president, said the same offer is being made in negotiations which continue today in Quebec between CPU officials and four companies which make up the Eastern Canadian Newsprint Group.

A CPU representative said the union's decision on the offer will be made public today in Montreal, adding that negotiators probably will recommend that workers reject the proposal.

About 30,000 pulp and paper workers have been on strike since mid-July in Eastern Canada. Last week, the federal anti-inflation review board rejected an offer by Irving Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. of St. John, N.B., which would have increased salaries for its striking workers by 23.8 per cent in a one-year contract.

The Ontario Paper Co. offer provides for a 16-per-cent increase in the base pay of $4.82 an hour in the first year, an 8.5-per-cent increase in the second year and an eight-per-cent increase in the third.

Compounded, the offer would bring the base pay to about $6.45 an hour in 1977 and the average pay to $7.60, a total increase of about 34 per cent.

Mr. Prince said the company thinks the offer will be acceptable to the anti-inflation review board, which said last week that it would consider increases in the 16-per-cent range for workers at Irving.

He said a vote on the offer by workers at Ontario Paper Co. may be delayed until the CPU decides whether it will appeal to the federal cabinet on the review board's ruling on Irving. Four locals of three unions are on strike at the Thorold mill—two of the CPU and one each of the Canadian Union of Operating Engineers and the International Longshoremen's Association.

Companies which have made the same offer in Quebec include Quebec-North Shore Paper Co.—Ontario Paper's affiliate at Baie Comeau—the Dolbeau mill of Domtar Ltd., of Montreal, James McLaren Co. Ltd. of Buckingham and the Quebec mill of Reed Paper Ltd., Toronto.

In Memoriam

BURRETT — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, who passed away Dec. 22, 1973.
Two years have passed since then
Two million hours we pray,
But you have not been forgotten,
Nor will you be, they say.
Sadly missed by wife Ruth, daughter Barbara and family.

BURRETT — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, who passed away Dec. 22, 1973.
Time rolls on and I am reminded,
Of a day my heart was crushed,
Of a day my heart was crushed,
When you left me for heaven above,
To be with the angels above.
In the arms of mercy you fell asleep,
Dear husband, father, we loved you so dearly,
But God in his wisdom has called you away.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by your loving wife Ruth.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to my friends, relatives and neighbors for their kindness, cards and flowers during my recent illness. Thank you to Dr. Cornell and the nurses at Belleville General Hospital. To the wonderful ladies of the Trinity U.C.W. for their visits and prayers. To the ambulance attendants and to Rev. Cook, Sherlock and Hall for their visits.
Mrs. Evelyn Reid.

We would like to thank our many customers for the lovely flowers and Christmas cards we received from Hilton, Ontario, and wish them success for the newly opened. The Centennial Florist staff and owners also wished to make our wedding a happy one.
Mr. Richard, and Sue Fox.

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Cor Bradshaw, Hillside, will be "At Home" to their relatives and friends on the occasion of their 50th Wedding Anniversary, to be held on Saturday, Dec. 27th, 1975 at the Quinte Masonic Temple, 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Please no gifts. Just good cheer.

NOTICE

The Corporation of the City of Belleville
THE EXPROPRIATIONS ACT
R.S.O. 1970, Chapter 154

IN THE MATTER of an application by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for approval to expropriate lands in the City of Belleville.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF obtaining the land necessary to enable the construction of the extension of Pinnacle Street to connect with North Front Street; Both of which are situated in the City of Belleville.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the lands described in the Schedule hereto.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonable having regard to the relevant of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority by delivering

(a) in be case of a registered owner served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice or he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

THE APPROVING AUTHORITY IS

The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
EARL M. DUNFORD, A.M.C.T.
CITY CLERK

NOTES :

1. The Expropriation Act provides that,
   (a) where an inquiry is required it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General ;
   (b) the inquiry officer,
      (i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and
      (ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $300, and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.
2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows:

   "owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;

   "registered owner" means in case of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper registry, land titles or sheriff's office, the person named therein as the owner of land on the last revised assessment roll.
3. The approving authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of lands intended to be expropriated and any tenant added as a party to the proceedings by the inquiry.

SCHEDULE

All right, title and interest in the following lands:

1. POOLE, England (Reuter) — Fishermen at this south coastal English town are complaining that soviet trawlers have ruined their net lives—not by carrying away wetnet, but fish.

The men say the trawlers are scooping up their traditional supplies of sprats—the little fish they believe are an aphrodisiac (sex stimulant).

A protest about the trawlers, which fish just outside British waters, has been made to the government by the Poole Fishermen's Association.

Association chairman Sandy Wills said: "It's not doing much for our sex lives. There are no large families about any more."

And a fisherman's wife added: "I had two children, both about nine months after my husband went to the town's annual sprat supper. A good feed of sprats does a man the world of good."

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "How will I ever know?" an elderly widow asks as she wonders which are the cremated remains of her 70-year-old sister. The ashes she buried in Virginia eight years ago or the ashes found this week in a sealed-lip bellhop box in an impounded car.

"I'm in need of a state of shock," Virginia Walker, 76, of St. Petersburg said Thursday after the confusing situation unfolded 25 miles away in Tampa. "I want to find out what's what, but I haven't any idea what to do," she said.

Mrs. Walker says she carried the urn with what she believed were her sister's ashes to Strasburg, Va., and buried the remains in the family plot next to her mother.

"It's a confused mess—a tragic situation," said police sgt. John Fairbanks.

GENEVA, Ohio (AP)—Robert C. Coy has assured the Ashtabula County juvenile court his son, Jeffery, hasn't sneaked out in the family car despite the court's notice of a traffic citation.

Coy said the court sent a letter this week telling him to appear in court with his son and his son's driver's license to answer the citation.

The trouble is, Jeffery won't be three months old until Dec. 28.

DALLAS (AP)—A 1975 senior class ring from Spence high school was pawned for $18. The initials engraved inside the ring did not correspond with the signature on the pawn slip, so police Det. James Lewis checked with the school.

School officials said Thursday the ring belonged to a coed. The girl wanted no time calling Lewis to ask what his inquiry was about.

Lewis mentioned the name on the pawn slip and asked if the young woman knew who it was.

"Of course," she replied curtly, "I gave him the ring to wear). Lewis informed her the ring was in a pawn shop.

Lewis said he then heard a gasp, followed by the telephone receiver being slammed in his ear.

SEATTLE (AP) — Actor Bob Cummings will go on trial Jan. 5 on charges he fraudulently obtained telephone service by using an illegal "blue box" device.

The 65-year-old Cummings pleaded not guilty Thursday in King County superior court to the charges.

He was arrested Tuesday when police raided a downtown apartment building in search of a blue box device and its user. The device duplicates phone company switching signals, enabling the user to obtain free long-distance service.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you want things done right today, depend on yourself. Someone who promised to help may let you down and you'll lose valuable time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may meet someone new and interesting. See to it that his dynamic personality doesn't dazzle you so you hurt a friend by ignoring him.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An ambitious plan for the home can be a success today, but only if you're wise enough to cure your mate's blessing before embarking on it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be sure to have the facts straight when you repeat something a friend told you earlier in the day. A twisted tale could cause consternation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're buying essentials for the home today, be wary of luxury items. You have a tendency to go overboard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you have a lot of things on your mind today, you'll handle most things quite capably. However, make a check list. And check it!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't curb your impulse to be generous today, though you may have doubts about the appreciation you'll receive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Early in the day you are conservative and get good value in items you shop for. Later you'll tire and settle for second-best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be more fortunate today in things in which you use your imagination. Don't fear being innovative. Pioneering is your strong suit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone distant from you will be on our mind today. Why not give him a call?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend of yours will be impulsively generous with your today. Accept, though you may be a bit embarrassed to be on the receiving end.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Have faith in your ideas today. You'll come up with a way to do something that is a departure from the norm. Nothing wasn't, nothing accomplished.

Pneumothorax Not Always Hereditary

By C.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate your writing something on spontaneous pneumothorax. What causes it, and is surgery the only cure? Could it be hereditary if two teenagers in one family have it? Mrs. T.H.F.

First, I think it would be well to describe what is involved here the pleural cavity for the benefit of readers who are not so close to this subject as you are.

The "pleura" is a membrane that covers the lung. There is a narrow space between the lung surface and the thorax, and this is called the "pleura cavity." Its purpose is to facilitate movement of the lungs in breathing.

When for one reason or another air comes into this cavity we call the condition pneumothorax. This can occur spontaneously as a result of very serious lung disturbances which allow air to escape into the cavity. Or it can result from a chest injury. Sometimes pneumothorax can occur with emphysema, due to the rupture of a bleb on the lung surface. A spell of violent coughing can cause this to happen.

Often, with rest the condition will right itself. Surgery is not usually required. Where the build-up of the air becomes great, it can be drawn out. This is done as an emergency measure on occasions of serious chest injury.

I am in doubt on the question of heredity. Usually it is not a factor. But a condition that would predispose one to lung problems generally could predispose to pneumothorax or other pulmonary problems. If more than one appeared over generations in the same family, one would suspect heredity as a factor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Through surgery it has been determined that I have diverticulosis of the large intestine. After surgery of the sigmoid colon and a cystoscope of the bladder, I was told that my persistent bladder infection is caused by the diverticulosis in the intestine. Is this possible? Mrs. J.

Bladder infection after prostatectomy is not unusual and I would suspect that is the cause. I cannot see any relationship between the diverticulosis and your bladder infection.

In diverticulitis (inflammation of the introduction of diverticulosis) the path of infection would be through the intestinal tract not the urinary.

Commons Ends Year With Angry Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons adjourned Saturday for a five-week Christmas recess after an angry last-minute uproar over MPs' income.

Prime Minister Trudeau, who announced two days earlier that MPs' pay would be frozen for 18 months, was accused of misleading the country.

Actually, the income of MPs will rise by $700 Jan. 1.

The $24,000 taxable income that MPs get is also due to increase, but not the $10,800 extra they receive as a tax-free expense allowance.

It will rise to $11,300 because of an indexing provision that adjusts allowances upward with the cost of living.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield called the MPs' pay exercise in "duplicity, stupidity and hypocrisy."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) moved a quick passage of a motion to kill the plan but the motion was outvoted by Government House Leader Allmand.

Mr. Trudeau said his Thursday television announcement made it clear that the freeze applied only to salaries, not expense allowances.

MPs voted themselves a 25% pay raise last summer, effective this year after the government first imposed a 36-per-cent increase.

The unusual Saturday sitting—after which MPs went home free on government aircraft—was held to clear up outstanding business. It also produced an attack on the 15-per-cent surtax the government announced last week on persons earning $20,000 and over annually.

NDP Leader Ed Broadbent said the tax will be almost meaningless. He calculated that a $23,000 wage-earner, with a wife and two dependent children, will pay only 35 cents in additional tax after all normal deductions are made.

He based his conclusion on figures that will apply for the 1974 tax year, when the maximum personal will be in force, Government spokesmen, however, show a larger tax bite.

The adjournment came after MPs dispersed of two bills the government wanted passed before the recess—a package of bell-tightening amendments to the unemployment insurance program and a bill to increase subsidies for farmers and a wide range of public servants.

The unemployment insurance changes effective Jan. 1, raise premiums for workers and employers, cap payments at $80 per week from participating in the program, and extend the waiting period for benefits to six weeks from three for persons who quit or are fired from their jobs.

The pay-raise bill lies pension raises to increases in pay for MPs and senators, increasing that they will get a 23½-per-cent increase on the strength of the salary bill passed earlier in the year.

Mr. Knowles, who called the bill over-generous, said it will increase maximum pension for MPs after 25 years service to $18,000 annually from $13,500.

FOCUS ON ECONOMY

Approval of the bills ended a two-month fall sitting that was dominated by economic issues.

The session opened Oct. 14 with attention focused on the government's selective wage and price controls program to combat inflation. It announced Thanksgiving Day by the prime minister.

Legislation was introduced to implement the plan into effect and to set up a federal anti-inflation board.

The bill prompted a stormy debate with opposition MPs fighting unsuccessfully for changes. It was finally passed earlier this month.

The opposition also was marred by controversy over the government's handling of the six-week postal strike.

The strike ended with workers accepting a 38-per-cent pay increase over 30 months.

The anti-inflation board was created to reflect the settlement on appeals that it exceeded limits set out in the anti-inflation program. The board was overruled by the cabinet which said the settlement should stick for the sake of overriding national interest.

Other major bills approved during the sitting included the Canada Development Corporation, which outlawed a series of foreign takeovers as against the national interest, and a bill to inject $200 million into the Canada Development Corporation to help finance purchases of Canadian resource industries.

Left unpassed were a string of bills including a body-defined proposal to settle advertisers in the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest of their current right to deduct advertising costs as business tax purposes.

It is expected to come up again for debate when Parliament reconvenes Jan. 28.

Bylaw Changes

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — City pedestrians have approved canine control fee structures and bylaw changes which will impose $15 penalties on owners of unlicensed dogs, dogs running at large and unspayed dogs. Discounts will be given for rabies vaccination and early licensing.

West pulls uppercut for set

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: The name "Uppercut" is given to these trump-promotion plays in which a defender plays a moderately high trump to force declarer to use a higher trump and thereby develop an extra trump trick for the defence."

Jim: "West wins the first two tricks with the king and queen of clubs. He sees no hope in a trump, diamond or heart lead. He decides his best chance to get two more tricks is to promote his 10 of trumps. So he leads a club to dummy's ace and leads his five of spades."

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader says, "Here in Milwaukee most of the better players will open a four-card major suit. I can find no such rule in my limited bridge literature. What is your advice on this?"

Our advice is to bid as the Jacobys bid. We try to avoid opening a four-card major, but would rarely open one heart with:

♠ K 5 ♥ K Q J 9 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ Q 5.

On the other hand we open one as do so practically all good players with:

♠ K 5 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 4 3 ♣ A K 6.

New Restraints May Hurt Liberal Credibility

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal spending restraints announced last Thursday, after close examination, appear likely to add to the credibility woes of the government's anti-inflation program, rather than to reassure people.

What started as an effort to convince people that the government means business could result in resentment for the whole anti-inflation effort.

Promises to hold down the rise in federal spending—held up until shortly before Parliament was to adjourn for a five-week holiday—are short on detail.

First, the $1.3-billion of savings in the financial year starting next April 1976 not explained. The government never gave the total from which the amount was cut, nor the result.

Even conservative estimates put federal spending at about $37 billion next year, up about 14 per cent from about $32 billion this year. Selected wages and price controls introduced Oct. 13 hold wage rises to generally 10 per cent in the first year of new contracts.

But there are other more damaging confusions in the restraints program. Included are:

—The revelation that MPs get $7,000 raises in tax-free income Jan. 1, despite a government pay freeze presented as part of the anti-inflation program. Senators get $300.

—The discovery that judges in the Supreme and Federal courts as well as provincial superior court judges, whose salaries were "frozen" for 15 months, were not due for pay raises anyway.

—The 10-per-cent cut in Prime Minister Trudeau's personal staff means only reducing it to 82 persons from 88 and may mean no reduction in the operation's $40,000-a-week cost.

The spending restraints were released Thursday, forming a public relations double event along with the release of rules to show how the two-month-old controls program is to be applied.

Reporters were told Thursday that $446.7 million was being cut from programs eliminated or reduced below 1975-76 levels. The remaining reductions were from planned spending—in effect, a reduction from what might have been.

The exercise was similar to when former Finance Minister John Turner said in his June 23 budget that $1 billion was being saved—reporters were told only that $1 billion less than the government might spend would actually be spent next year.

Even the $446.7-million slash from current spending programs has to be viewed with caution. Fully $221.2 million of the savings come from the decision not to allow a cost-of-living rise in mothers' allowances.

Similarly, a $13.5-million saving shown from freezing salaries of 5,500 senior civil servants earning $23K or more a week is not a real saving.

Some senior civil servants already had been given pay raises up to $6,000 annually or $120 a week this summer. They would therefore not be due for pay raises for some months.

MPs voted themselves a 33 1-3 per cent pay raise last spring to a taxable salary of $34,000 plus a $10,000 tax-free allowance along with a cost-of-living adjustment. Senators get $31,000 plus a $5,300 tax-free allowance.

Storm Hits Western Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tail end of a storm which crossed Ontario during the weekend, dropping up to 27.5 centimetres of snow—about a foot—in some communities, was expected to taper off today and bring light snow and partly sunny weather to most of the province.

Tuesday is expected to be clear and colder but a spokesman for Environment Canada said another snowstorm may hit Wednesday evening in the lower Great Lakes region and clear up on Christmas Day.

The Toronto-Hamilton-St. Catharines area and the southwestern Ontario communities of Simcoe, London and Chatham were hardest hit by the storm, which resulted in at least one death.

Santa Claus Never Ages

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Santa Claus never ages.

In fact, if you meet him at the Quinte Mall you'll find out just how contemporary the jolly gentleman is for Canadians.

He's bilingual.

Not that it's exactly a surprise when you stop and think. What with Santa's jurisdiction being the world, it's clear as a light on a Christmas tree he speaks every language.

And what he symbolizes is universal anyway. You can read it in any youngster's eyes this time of year.

His obvious fluency is just mentioned in passing by a man who shares much of Santa's confidence.

H. P. (Hap) Chartres has been Santa's closest helper at the Mall for the past five Christmases. It's a role that permits him intimate contact with the man who helps make the season merry and magical for million of muppets.

wwwwwww

Despite such astronomical numbers, youngsters are the same.

Hap marvels at the throng of young people Santa gets to see in a day.

"These children. You wonder where in the Lord they come from," says Santa's helper.

Despite the astronomical numbers of youngsters he meets around the world before Christmas — in all about one day estimates Santa can greet up to 800 a day — no merry man is red finds attitudes common to all.

The young 'uns don't change, bless 'em", he quotes Santa as telling him another day. "Girls and boys still respond the same ways, still ask for the same things.

There are modern variations. Not basically the girls want dolls and associated toys. The boys still go for hockey equipment — and guns.

For the boys this year there seems one slanted somewhat. About 10 per cent has asked for toys associated with superdinosaur Fred Flintstone, says Hap.

As expected with the uncomplicated honesty of children, there's always the request that startles.

One day, says Hap, Santa told him of the youngster — obviously as frazzled as his parent by the Christmas rush — who was climbed on his knee.

wwwwwww

When Santa asked him what he wanted for Christmas the lad confided with quiet frankness: "A gun — to kill my mother."

Then Santa asked why he asked for music.

"Sedate" said Santa. "What d'you mean sedate"? ?

"Sedate," reiterated the little one with airy pride. Sedate is grow in the ground. I come from Minden — and I'm a farmer."

But while he may be discocerted by requests, Santa has no time for anyone who dismisses a little with lightly says Hap.

"What may sound like trite questions and answers are very important to a child, says Santa," Hap quotes. "And the children think of him too — often impossibly — he is."

In his five years as the jolly gentleman of the Mall, Hap admits he's still baffled by the stamina of Santa.

He's no physical slouch himself — even at 46 — being a veteran with war combat service at; a regimental sergea.t major and retired officer.

"Why last Saturday here, I'll bet Santa saw as many children as you'd count coming through the different gates at the Canadian National Exhibition in one day," says Hap.

But then, Christmas is a time for children. And what would it be without Santa Claus?

"Exactly," says Hap. "Exactly."

Bell Rates to Increase Jan. 15

OTTAWA (CP) — Higher telephone rates sought by Bell Canada to increase company revenue by $193.3 million next year have been approved, the Canadian Transport commission announced Monday.

Increased prices for residential and business telephone services and a variety of changes in long-distance tolls and services costs are included in the new rates that go into effect Jan. 15.

The increase in home telephone service will be "somewhat less than 6.5 per cent, "the commission said, but the exact amount won't be known until the company revises its tariffs.

Figures produced by the company at a hearing earlier this month was based on a proposal to grant a 50-per-cent discount to old age pensioners receiving a guaranteed income supplement and using a party-line telephone. The proposal, which would have cost $5.2 million annually, was turned down by the commission.

Examples provided by the commission, based on a 6.5-per-cent increase, show basic monthly residential rates increasing to $7.25 from $7.10 in Toronto and Montreal and to $6.60 from $6.35 in Ottawa. The rates would be proportionately lower in smaller communities served by Bell across central and northern Canada.

The cost of business telephones will increase by the full 6.5 per cent, the commission said in its 35-page decision.

New rates in Toronto and Montreal will go to $22.10 from $20.75 and in Ottawa and Quebec City to $18.70 from $17.55.

The commission decision allowing Bell the full increase it sought followed a warning from the company at the closing days of the hearing that telephone users will have to pay more or put up with poorer service.

In its decision, the commission had sharp words for Bell over the company's decision to slash its construction program, including installation of home telephones, by $23 million following an interim rate award July 28.

Board Freezes Spending

Education Taxes Will Skyrocket

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings County Board of Education will have to make drastic spending cuts next year or taxpayers can expect minimum tax increases of between 25 and 30 per cent.

As a temporary measure the board Monday night imposed an immediate freeze on hiring, professional development funds, curriculum development, new programs, capital spending and some services.

Superintendent of business Ken Wormald told trustees that in order to maintain the current educational quality and spending required the board would have to increase its budget by 18 per cent.

Last year's budget was $31.87 million.

However, added Mr. Wormald, according to the province's guidelines on spending the board should only increase its budget by 10 per cent. Even at this rate it would mean a local tax increase of between 25 and 30 per cent. Last year's average tax increase across the county was 12 per cent.

To maintain the current quality of the educational programs in the county the board would have to increase local taxes by 18 per cent.

Last year an average assessed at $25,000 received a increase of about $26 to each household based on a 12 per cent increase in taxes.

An increase of 25 per cent in taxes means the average taxpayer would be putting out an additional $188 for education. Mr. Runacres said this kind of increase under the obvious restrictions is unacceptable.

He told trustes the board may have to slice at least $2.5 million in education spending to keep taxes below an increase of 30 per cent.

"We now revert to base-zero budgeting," said Mr. Runacres, who added there won't be one area of educational spending that is not re-evaluated in fiscal terms.

At the heart of Mr. Runacre's concern is the recent provincial announcement that grants for elementary and secondary levels will increase by only 10 per cent. By provincial formulas the board will receive an additional $80 per student in the elementary level in an effort to close the gap between the amounts spent on both levels.

The board's superintendent of business Ken Wormald explained that with other changes in the province's grant structures the actual increase in Hastings County will be 10.8 per cent for elementary and 6.9 per cent for secondary.

The ministry of education for all intents and purposes has cut off all capital grants for renovations and new construction.

The board decided to form a special committee in early January to begin the process of forming a priority list of programs for budget time in the spring. He called for complete community input into the dilemma that faces the board.

Mr. Runacres also suggested a series of public meetings with ratepayers in the county to gain input from taxpayers.

Concerning the staff cuts Mr. Runacres declined to comment except to point out that the board will be looking at every area of educational spending. Salaries, including teachers and non-teaching personnel, form about 75 per cent of the board's spending. "It will be a leaner board of trustees when we are through," he added.

Dartmouth Policeman, Cabbie Murdered in Midnight Shooting

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Police found a handgun, badge, wallet and identification which they believed belonged to Cpl. Eric Spicer, a plainclothes detective who was slain along with another man overnight Monday near the Dartmouth end of the old Halifax harbor bridge.

The articles were discovered in a patch of woods behind the Holiday Inn on a slope of land leading down under the bridge. It was only a short distance from where Cpl. Spicer and the second man, who was not identified by police, were found dead to death.

The bullet pouch was reported to have been found by a group of about 15 investigators with shovels, trowels and metal detectors.

Police and civic officials in Dartmouth expressed shock at the slayings and there were renewed calls for tougher treatment of criminals.

The two men were gunned down after midnight.

Cpl. Spicer, a 39-year-old father of two and a 14-year veteran of the Dartmouth force, was on a "surveillance assignment at the time.

Police Chief Roger Smith refused to give details on the surveillance assignment.

Pools of blood about 150 feet apart indicated the policemen died at the side of the service station. The second man, who is reported to have been a taxi driver was found near the front door of a finance company office in the back lot died shortly after he was found wounded.

Police said they were searching for at least one person in connection with the shootings.

Dartmouth Mayor Eileen Stubbs described it as "one of the most tragic situations that ever happened in Dartmouth" and said it "angers badly for the city's police force today."

Mayor Stubbs, who spoke to reporters with tears in her eyes, said murders do not always get the support they deserve.

The said penalties for such incidents must be stiffer. "If we don't have capital punishment we should have life-and-it must mean life imprisonment."

The accident revealed memories of the grisly murders Dec. 31, 1969 of two Montreal city policemen during a kidnapping investigation.

"I've been saying for years it would happen here," said Gordon Sim, executive director of the Police Association of Nova Scotia, said.

"I just can't believe it. Just the other day Cpl. Eric Spicer played Santa Claus at our Christmas party."

Mr. Sims, a retired veteran of the Halifax force, said he wonders "how young people can consider a career on the force when we have this."

Every available member of the Dartmouth force, assisted by RCMP and Halifax detectives were working on the case.

A night watchman at a Kinsmans Club Christmas tree lot near the scene of the shootings called police to the scene. He is a beard about five short.

However, patrons in the hotel and garage room appeared and heard nothing, employees of the parking lot said today.

The stone wall in front of the finance company premises where the taxi driver died showed a long scar today and as ornamental entrance light at the hotel door was smashed, but police would not say if the damage was connected with the shootings.

A police spokesman, who did not want to be named, said it appeared Cpl. Spicer was shot at close range.

Meanwhile, Chief Smith said investigators had several "very tangible ideas" about the circumstances surrounding the shootings.

Dominion Fined $40, A & P Held to Jan. 5

BY ROBIN CHASE

Dominion Stores Ltd. was fined $40 and costs 10 days to pay in provincial court here Monday after the company pleaded guilty to violating the Lord's Day Alliance Act on Nov. 16.

Ben Wicks

"Excuse me, Santa. We just caught Grandma making a toy that will last forever."

In addition Judge H.L. Clendenning remanded the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. Ltd. case to Jan. 5 when a date will be set for trial on the same charge.

The Dominion charge was the first to be processed in the Belleville's court system but indications are it will be the last.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said investigations by officers, both located in the Belleville Plaza, have also been charged with violating the act on Nov. 16 and Nov. 23 but a date for a first court appearance is unknown at present.

He said his department will continue to apply through the Crown attorney's office to the provincial attorney general for permission to lay charges until the Ontario government amends the act.

Five Charged With Smuggling Rifles, Ammunition to IRA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five men have been indicted by a grand jury on charges of conspiring illegally to purchase the arms and send them to Ireland for IRA use, the U.S. Justice department said.

All five also were charged with acting as IRA agents and four of the men were charged with sending weapons without a license.

The men all from the Philadelphia area, also attempted to buy recoil launchers, mortars and machine-guns, the justice department said.

Indicted were Neil Byrne, 42, Warrington, Pa.; Daniel Cahalan, 37, Warminster, Pa.; Daniel Duffy, 42, Drexel Hill, Pa.; Vincent Falvey, 45, and Thomas Regan 51 both former residents of Philadelphia now believed to be in Ireland.

Charges of conspiracy and acting illegally as a foreign agent were lodged against each of the men. Cahalan was charged with seven counts of transporting weapons without a license; Conlon with six counts; Byrne with three and Regan with two.

Bell Rates Here Jump 6,5 Per Cent Jan. 15

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

In Belleville come Jan. 15, Bell Canada residential customers will pay about 6.5 per cent more a month than the current $2.70 basic rate for telephone service.

The 6.5 per cent increase is part of a nationwide rise in rates approved by the Canadian Transport Commission and announced Monday.

About 42,000 residential 18,000 business customers will be affected when the rate rise, stretching from Picton to Maynooth, and Brighton to Kaladar.

Private line rates under the jurisdiction of the Belleville Bell Canada office now range from a low of $4.10 in Marmora and nearby communities, to a high of $5.55 in Trenton. Party line rates are as low as $3.05 in rural Marmora.

LCBO Bans Sale Of Fortified Wines

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — The Liquor Control Board of Ontario has banned the sale of fortified wines in 10 northwestern Ontario communities.

A board spokesman said Monday the sale of fortified wine will end when current store stocks expire in the communities of Kenora, Sioux Islands, Hunter's Point, Sioux Narrows, Sioux Lookout, Longlac, Lake Nipigon, Nakina, Ignace and Upsala.

The spokesman said a similar ban in Manitoba has shown a decrease in the number of alcohol-related problems.

About 60 brands of fortified wines containing alcohol of more than 14 per cent by volume and selling for under $3 a bottle will be removed from shelves when current stocks are exhausted.

Remaining on the list for sale will be a variety of dinner wines of about five to seven per cent alcohol by volume.

OPP Warn Shoppers

Although Christmas is a time of joy, the reality of life is still apparent as crime continues, says Insp. L. G. Bruner of the community services branch of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP).

In a news release issued this week, Insp. Bruner offered some tips "to help make sure that you do not lose in a Christmas rip-off."

He advised shoppers to "put your Christmas shopping in the trunk of your car and lock your car while you shop."

Women shoppers should "keep your purse with you all of the time" and do not let it hang open, he noted. "Do not leave it on store counters or in shopping carts where it can easily be stolen."

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 24-hours period which ended at 8 a.m. today:

Monday, Dec. 2, 2:13 a.m. — smoke damage caused by faulty furnace at 102 Japan Jeweller Ltd. at 256 Front St. and McDafe's House of Vogue at 254 Front St.

Monday, Dec. 22, 2:16 p.m. — frozen water head breaks at McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing Ltd. (Belleville Division) on Sidney St. and set off alarm at fire department.

Float Recognized

John Lewars, chairman of the Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee and his assistant Karen Wright presented the most spectacular float award to members of the Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville detachment. Constable Brian Turner, left, and Constable Don Kuzyk, organizers of the OPP float, were also awarded the Smith-Walkers-White trophy for the best public service float. This was the first year the OPP entered the Santa Claus parade, held Nov. 29.

Chamber Warns Firms Of Telephone Sales

Local businesses should be on the lookout for "dishonest" telephone selling appearing to offer supplies at a reduced rate because a customer has cancelled a large allotment which is in transit.

"This may simply be a gimmic to give the impression the purchase is at a discount price," said Mr. Sutton.

Operating such a business in Ontario, offering goods at a discount price which is actually the regular price is in contravention of unfair business practices Bill 55.

Mr. Sutton said firms in other areas of the province have received calls.

REAL ESTATE:
THE FINAL MOMENT

Avery Ltd.
J. E. McKinney
You've look at many houses and you've finally decided on a choice. You go back for a final look; a much more critical look than the others. Don't be timid. Check everything you think is important with a critical eye. No house will be perfect, but you should know about any defects before making a final decision.
And when the time comes, let the REALTOR handle the actual price negotiations. This is always the toughest and most sensitive part of any house purchase. He's an expert in this type of negotiation. He knows both parties' financial positions, and can usually come out with a better arrangement than via personal confrontation between principals. One party will usually be at a disadvantage. Just be afraid or gullible. For homes sell at the asking price — but don't ask him to do the impossible.
And, be sure you know the answers to all the dollars and cents questions, such as, taxes, operating expenses, closing costs, fees, etc. If you don't know — ask!

Two Express Interest In County Warden Post

PICTON — The new warden of Prince Edward County will be elected Jan. 6, 1976 during a special meeting at Shire Hall and two members of county council this week have stated that they are interested in the office.

Sophiasburg deputy reeve Jack Spragge said Monday that in the past 75 years only three Prince Edward County wardens have been representatives of his municipality.

He said he is interested in becoming the fourth Sophiasburg Township councillor to hold the warden's office.

Hillier reeve Allan Petilgill stated Monday that he is "definitely considering" the warden's post and intends to let his name stand.

Deputy-reeve Spragge, a farmer who lives at R.R. No. 1, Demorestville now is completing his second term on county council as is Reeve Petilgill who is a salesman with Gery Horsbeck Realty Limited.

First elected to county council in 1973 as deputy-reeve of Hillier Mr. Petilgill was re-elected in 1974 after defeating incumbent Lewis Wight.

"We received a positive response from the town and we hope that the total money raised this year, more than $2,000, will be increased at next year's event," said Mr. Whitley.

More than half of the skaters were from minor hockey and 50 per cent of the proceeds will be given to the organization, said Mr. Whitley.

Skate-a-thon Nets $2,000

TRENTON — More than 125 skaters participated in the Trenton Rotary's first annual skate-a-thon Monday to raise money for minor sports at the Community Gardens.

Douglas Whitley, spokesman for the group, said the first time affair went well and was a good learning experience for the club members and organizers.

Display Shows All Toys Not Made of Plastic

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — For harried parents struggling to assemble plastic toys for Santa's pack the Prince Edward County museum this Christmas offers a glimpse of a turn-of-the-century toyland.

As a holiday greeting to all county residents museum curator James Gooding and his staff have prepared a special exhibit of all items donated in the past year. This display opened Dec. 15.

Among the donations is a two-storey doll's house built circa 1900 in 1910.

The cozy family home is hand-made and features gaily papered walls, small lights that operate and a chimney just right for Santa's upcoming visit.

Museum curator James Gooding says the doll's house is a favorite with children and adults alike and the grown-ups often spend long periods of time studying its hand-crafted furnishings.

A common observation is, "There's nothing made of plastic."

The doll's house was donated to the museum by Jeanne Mishkinick and a collection of old-fashioned children's toys is also on display through the courtesy of Mrs. Jessie Hayes, James Musgrove and Elmer Young, all of Prince Edward County.

The toy chest includes a horse-drawn fire truck, a circus lion in a cage pulled by two wild bears, a sandy model farm machinery and a touring car.

Mr. Gooding says the toys probably were owned by most youngsters in the early 1900's and many of them were hand-made.

In addition to the doll's house and the toy collection the museum's Christmas exhibit includes several high fashion outfits.

Among the clothing donated in the past year is a striking Paisley shawl contributed by Blanche Van Dusen of Tamworth, a former Prince Edward resident.

The special Christmas exhibit is on the second floor of the museum and a number of display items contributed during the past year may be seen integrated with ground floor displays.

In addition to the Christmas exhibit, community residents are invited to share a few of the holidays' items selected for the old church.

Pay Hike Tabled

TRENTON — Council here Monday tabled a motion to increase the salaries of the town's non-union management staff by 10 per cent for 1976.

Mayor Robert Patrick asked the council members present at the afternoon session to table the motion until Treasurer Brian Fagan, who was ill, can comment on how the Anti-Inflation Board guidelines would affect the raise.

The increase would raise the salary of town clerk Aubrey Emery to $26,300; Deputy Clerk Arden Royce to $17,966; Commissioner of Public Works Aris Hoornweg to $21,656; public works foreman Charles Scaletta to $16,210; and tax collector Allan Weaver to $14,944.

Cutting a Cool Figure

More than 125 skaters participated in the Trenton Rotary's first annual skate-a-thon Monday and raised $2,000 for minor sports. Douglas Whitley, spokesman for the group says he hopes this year's positive response from Trentonians will be duplicated for next years skate-a-thon. Here, Gerald Bibby takes Robbie Clement, 5, for a skate.

Christmas Holds Special Meaning At Prince Edward Heights Centre

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Perhaps there is "no place like home for the holidays" but for mentally handicapped residents of the Prince Edward Heights here who must spend Christmas at the centre, festivities have hold special meaning.

Administrator Robert MacKenzie said that of the 63 residents housed by the private all government facility for the mentally retarded a total of 41 has no next of kin or legal guardians.

Some residents may spend the holidays at home but many will remain at the centre to enjoy the festivities planned there.

The main idea is to make Christmas Christmas," asserts Mr. MacKenzie who is greeted by residents in the halls with a cheerful "hi" or "hi, Mac".

"We try to make Christmas a religious time, not a handout time," he adds.

Of course, there is gift-giving at the centre with preparations beginning just before the holiday with shopping excursions.

Mr. MacKenzie says residents are encouraged to buy Christmas presents for friends and family in Picton stores or in shops visited during special bus trips to Belleville and Kingston.

The administrator adds that in addition to providing residents with pleasure the shopping trips offer experience in selecting gifts and spending money.

Residents also learn by gift-wrapping their purchases and preparing them for mailing.

The halls and recreation areas of Prince Edward Heights' buildings are decorated with colorful streamers, lighted trees and all the Christmas trimmings.

Christmas concerts also are planned and family and friends are invited to these pageants held near Christmas Day.

A highlight of the festivities is a tree trimming competition among the houses in the complex.

Mr. MacKenzie says on Christmas Day some staff members will take residents to their homes to share in family festivities.

Residents who remain at Prince Edward Heights join in a celebration similar to that of their friends who are spending the holiday elsewhere.

There is a Christmas dinner and, of course, a visit from Santa who brings gifts for all.

Special church services are held during the holiday and groups of carol singers from Picton and Prince Edward often visit to provide Christmas music.

This year members of the Prince Edward Heights workshop had reason to celebrate early when the float they entered in the Picton Santa Claus parade won the trophy for best community effort.

Kiwanians Meet

PICTON — The Picton Kiwanis Club will hold its next meeting Monday, Dec. 29 at Prince Edward Yacht Club at 6:15 p.m.

A light meal will be served during the discussion.

Museum Plans Open House

PICTON — An open house will be held at the Prince Edward County museum on Sunday, Dec. 28 from one to three p.m.

Seasonal music will provide the background for a special display of new donations to the museum says curator James Gooding.

Students Raise $2,100

PICTON — Prince Edward Youth for the Mentally Retarded (PEYMR) this month donated a cheque for $2,100 to the Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded.

The money was raised this year by Prince Edward Collegiate Institute students during their annual walk-a-thon.

Trip to Toyland

Children and adults are invited to visit a special Christmas exhibit at the Prince Edward County museum this month where a hand-made doll's house and its hard-of-the-century furnishings are displayed. Museum curator James Gooding is adding the finishing touches to this unusual exhibit where nothing is plastic.

Theatre Reopens

PICTON — The Regent Theatre, Picton's only movie house which closed about two years ago, will re-open on Boxing Day for a week's run of the film W.W. and The Dixie Dance Kings.

Owner of the theatre, Miss Louise Cook of Picton says the theatre will be open on weekends only during the month of January.

She added that she is reopening The Regent in response to public requests and noted that the theatre may also will be used for several live performances.

If there is sufficient community support the theatre will remain open for movies and live shows, she said.

Uncontrolled Inflation: Canada Should Take Heed of Drift in Argentina

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

In the 1930s, two countries in the western hemisphere were considered to be parallels to each other. They were Canada and Argentina.

And at that time, the comparison made sense both economically and demographically.

Both nations were still filling up major wheat producers during the boom years of the twenties.

Population growth was about the same in both as was the difference in racial origins.

Immigration from Italy in the 1920s, mainly to escape Fascism, often meant a decision between Canada and Argentina where earlier and still small Italian communities had been established.

Even today there are Italian families in Canada who keep in touch with other members who decided to settle in Argentina.

The 1930s also saw the growth in both countries of great railroads, a nationwide telephone system and stable elected governments. Long after the phase of communism had disappeared Argentina were still saying French in our own.

that Canada was the country closest to them in physical shape and racial make-up.

This usually centred on the racial structure, calling their country "la mas blanca" that is the state with the largest white population in the western hemisphere except for Canada.

Between Argentina and our selves, a great deal about the same as that between central Canada and Peking, were and are the many national communities of Latin America which have large Indian and Negro racial groups than white ones. Hence the bitterly anti-racist Argentine comment.

And then in 1930 Argentina drifted away from that pattern of similarity with ourselves. A military coup ended the long tradition of elected presidents.

The nation never recovered from this. By the end of successive military interventions (notably by the scourge of Juan Domingo Peron and his penniless, parochial nervous breakdown of the right with mixed elements of Euro-east Fascism and Marxism.

Peron and his second wife, Eva Duarte, left Argentine society and the economy into a turmoil by paying for country's wealth into massive welfare and social assistance programs, inflating wages without the productivity to go with salary increases.

When Peron was overthrown in 1955, he had created a permanent but shorted revolutionary movement with thousands of Argentines yearning for a return of a regime like his which would guarantee them jobs, pensions and a sense of destiny.

Instead between that date and 1973 when Peron returned again, the land was filled with with his third wife, Isabel, Argentina staggered under successive and ineffectual civilian and military regimes.

And now with Peron dead, Isabel as President tries to cope with a nation disintegrating internally, wracked not only by left and right-wing terrorists, but by the old problem of skyhigh inflation and economic give-away doctrines had brought about.

I am thinking especially of Argentina's staggering inflation estimating at a growth rate 18 times our present 10 per cent, however and more destructive than the Canadian.

In fact I see a lingering similarity between ourselves and Argentina, if we ever failed to control Canada's frightful effects on our economy.

Canadians are an apathetic lot. While all manner of alarming developments flare up at home and abroad, we pursue our unconcerned — and even docile — path toward an uncharted but potentially dangerous future.

Consider the postal strike. It's now history, but there is no guarantee it will not be repeated. And still there are disquieting events in its wake . . . in particular actions by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers that are highly questionable and contrary to any sense of fair play that might be claimed for Canada as a nation.

That is, the disciplinary measures which the CUPW has imposed on the 11 members who returned to work during the strike and any which are contemplated at the local level.

The Ottawa local has suspended 196 postal workers until they pay into its coffers the money they earned after crossing un ion picket lines during the strike. A total of 11 workers in Belleville and Brighton have been suspended from union activities, although they continue to pay union dues.

What a mockery of individual rights in a so-called democratic society. What a mockery of this traditional season of peace and goodwill. And the post office in Belleville, it may be noted, is displaying a large Christmas tree in its concourse. A Christmas tree and presumably, all that it signifies of Christian brotherhood, of love in the background the knives are being sharpened.

Citizens should be shocked, but will anyone do anything about it? We have had some appropriate comments from the public on matters of union policy of late — the reported ostracism of CUPW members who went back to work, for example. Is anyone else prepared to say what should be said? In the wake of these latest developments?
